Upon the Few Weeks

Remaining until convention, June 23, which isn't so far away, after all.

Whether one comes to convention for the first time, or whether she is a veteran of many conventions, it will be a delightful, exciting adventure. Our first convention was one of the greatest investments in friendship we ever made. At the last convention we were still collecting dividends. But that's just what can happen to anyone.

Because we're "sold" on Kappa conventions, we want every Kappa to benefit from this "share the wealth" program—the wealth of Kappa personalities, Kappa accomplishments and Kappa friendliness—by coming to convention, too.

In Canada, at the Seigniory club on the Ottawa river, June 23-30, 1936!

Upon the Sorrow

With which the whole world learned of the death of King George V last January.

As recently as the December 1935 KEY Margaret Moseley's article from London on the Silver Jubilee had referred to His Majesty as "a lovable, kindly man devoted to his Empire," and to the loyal affection of his people for their sovereign.

Telegrams of sympathy were immediately wired from central office to the four Canadian chapters, conveying word that Kappa Kappa Gamma joined in the universal sorrow. Supplementing that message THE KEY now adds its homage to the memory of the late King.

The King is dead!

Long live the King!

Upon the Substance

Of Helen Snyder Andres' radio address last January, "The New Seriousness of the College Girl," which appears in this KEY with a story of the broadcast.

It makes us confident that the seniors of 1936 are prepared to go into the world and exercise what the distinguished architect, Ralph Adams Cram, calls "the creative energies of redemption," which the world assuredly needs.

From Mr. Cram's recent book My Life in Architecture, we would like to give those seniors, particularly, and all

Kappas, the paragraph with which he concludes the chapter on his first tour in Europe:

"At the age of twenty-three, with behind me only an America where the evidences of art and their manifestations were few, rudimentary, and, in addition, disappearing fast, such a journey was not only apprenticeship, but revelation. Never afterward was I able to isolate one art from another, or these from life. It was then, I think, that I came to believe that beauty was a definite thing, immutable and everlasting in its essence, and the best test and measure of value that man has at his disposal. I knew then, and I hold now, that the unbeautiful or ugly thing is the thing of the wrong and evil shape, whether in art or religion, philosophy, government, or the social fabric."

In that last sentence is the secret of a way of life.

Upon "Hell Week"

As a phase of fraternity life which presents a problem only to the men; even if we have just read in The New York Times that after 10 years freshman hazing has again reared its ugly head at Wellesley!

Are co-eds so constituted temperamentally that they won't stand for a lot of involved, and sometimes dangerous, nonsense just to prove that they're good fellows and can "take it?" Is their innate dignity greater? Whatever the reasons, it is nice to know that Panhellenic doesn't have to proclaim, as the Interfraternity conference did (again?) at its meeting last fall, that "Hell week must go."

However, the women have not been entirely guiltless of going to an extreme of their own, to an extent which has led Panhellenic to remind them that rushing costs should be lowered.

It is a thoroughly feminine characteristic to like lovely parties, to take pleasure in attractive decorations, and to do everything possible to entertain guests as handsomely as may be. But one thing so easily leads to another and the cost of a party can mount up, unless thought, ingenuity and work are substituted for the mere expenditure of money.

During the coming summer chapters will be planning fall rushing parties. We hope Kappas will coöperate with Panhellenic by keeping down the cost of their entertainments, at the same time proving to their respective campuses that the quality of a Kappa party is not necessarily in proportion to the amount of money spent on it.

We understand that there is a possibility of having a Kappa Mothers' club round table at convention for Kappas who are also Kappa mothers and members of Kappa Mothers' clubs. This reminds us that we hope those Chi chapter fathers have kept alive that organization with the splendid name of "Poppa Poppa Gimme!"

In the N.B.C. studio for Helen Snyder Andres' broadcast were Kappas from New York and the nearby associations of Westchester, Beta Sigma, Essex and Northern New Jersey.

We hear tell that one of the visitors was mightily impressed at seeing "all those Kappas together for half an hour and all keeping perfectly still."

"... There is no reason to disparage the results of contact with the great art of the past, or of such as had been mercifully preserved to us out of the wreckage of war and fanaticism and complacent ignorance; none to discount the subconscious results of book-reading. Both have their place and do their work; but I am firmly persuaded that for the stimulating of inner potential, for the building up of any sort of personal entity, it is the association with dynamic personalities, the interplay of

"Let's Talk It Over"

That was the title of the program in which Helen Snyder Andres went on the air at Radio City, January 27. This is how she looked when she did.

The Big Broadcast . . . a la Kappa

By HELEN SNYDER ANDRES, Grand President

I WALKED gingerly into the mammoth Radio City building at 49 West 49th street, New York city, the afternoon of January 27, with the bulging eyes of a curious greenhorn, and looked for an elevator leading to Studio 3D of the National Broadcasting company.

Once on the right floor, I was engulfed in a swarm of assorted samples of humanity, who were making the air hum with subdued voices. I began to feel a bit self-conscious, perhaps because I was lugging a suitcase and a brief case, having come direct from the Boston train in a wild taxi ride over New York's icy streets to the studio. (Myra McNaboe, our grand vice-president, had charitably hoped to relieve me of said baggage, but I had missed her by a split second at the station.)

I felt somewhat like a refugee who had wandered into a strange land. Everywhere were people who seemed to know what it was all about, who moved quietly and quickly, frequently looking at their watches, for the radio world is run absolutely by the second.

For the first time in my life I was early for an appointment, so I had time to sit quietly by, and observe the excitement around me. I thought back over the past two weeks, during which I had been happily anticipating this day. Margaret Cuthbert's wire, which followed me around Canada before catching up with me, asking me to give a little talk on the "Let's Talk It Over" program concerning the new seriousness of the college girl, had caused the cold little shivers to dance merrily up and down my spine, and I had been more than eager to do it. Now that I was really in the studio, I was wondering if the dire predictions of some of my well-meaning friends, that those most accustomed to speaking are the scariest before the microphone, were going to be true.

All these thoughts were happily put to an end when Mrs. Westermann and Janet Greer came walking in, the first of the large Kappa delegation of lookers-on to arrive.

Margaret Cuthbert soon arrived on the scene, tall, attractive, with a business-like air about her. She is a Cornell Kappa of whom we are proud, and is women's director for NBC as you read in the October 1935 KEY. (Perhaps some of you remember the book, A Modern Columbus, by Mais, which was written about a sightseeing trip the author took around the United States with Margaret Cuthbert as chief guide—he is a prominent figure in the British broadcasting activities.) She and Betty Stewart Goodwin, an Idaho Kappa whom I knew when we were undergraduates at Washington, were taking a big chance in asking an untried person to be the guest speaker on their broadcast that afternoon.

The rehearsal in the studio with its black and silver touches, glassed-in balconies on either end, and several microphones around, was the next happening. Emily Post was there, and charming, indeed, she is; not nearly as forbidding as you might expect such an authority on etiquette to be. I enjoyed meeting and talking to her very much. Mary Merker, a Kappa from Butler, with a lovely voice, was to sing on the program, and she was most pleasant to meet. She had her crocheting along to fill in the spare minutes. She has been singing on the radio for two years, so was an old hand at it. I went over my talk for timing, and volume of my voice, and then sat by for the clock to get around to 4:30.

Kappas were beginning to gather in the balconies, and the overflow had to sit inside the studio. They told me that Radio City was swarming with Kappa keys that afternoon. I saw Rheva Shryock, our director of provinces, there in the balcony—she is spending this winter in New York,—and noticed Frances Galliher, Beta province vice-president; Dr. Mary Crawford of Cornell, Dorothy Musgrave Nelson and Elizabeth Hess Hoeland from Beta Pi, along with a number of others whom I know—wish I could list them all. But on with the broadcast.

As the hour neared, Emily Post and I sat across the table from each other, with a microphone between us suspended in the air. The program started off with a group of college songs by a men's quartet, then Emily Post gave an introductory talk, and my part came next.

It seemed perfectly natural to be there, in fact it was the easiest talk I ever gave, for it was written out before hand, which I never do for a talk otherwise. The subject was one which vitally interests me, and it seemed such a grand chance to tell a little larger world that our college girls do very worthwhile things; have serious cultural interests which are growing rapidly. I didn't feel at all nervous, and got a great thrill out of realizing that my family in Seattle, and friends around the country might be listening in.

news commentator, gave a good talk; Emily Post had interesting advice to give; and at 5 o'clock on the dot, the program was over.

Greeting the Kappas who were there, having a talk with Mary Crawford and several of the others, rushing up to the photographic studio, were all subsequent happenings in rapid succession.

The evening was climaxed by a lovely dinner with the New York Kappas at the Women's Republican club across the street from Radio City, and it seemed as if a hundred Kappas were there. It was delightfully informal, with lots of time for visiting and really enjoying people. At the speaker's table were Mrs. McNaboe, Mrs. Westermann, Mrs. Hepburn, Mrs. A. Merrick Smith, and Mrs. Galliher. It was heartwarming to see so many Kappas in New York.

The days since the broadcast have brought many letters from Kappas all over the country. Clara Pierce had sent out cards to all the chapters and associations announcing the broadcast, and many listened in. St. Louis had a sewing party around Marie Macnaughtan's fireplace; Tacoma Kappas got together to listen in; and many individuals have written about it. I heard from the North Shore association, from several chapters, and all in all, have felt very close to all our Kappas through the radio medium.

It was a grand experience, and I am most grateful for having been given such an opportunity to tell something about these college girls of ours who so deeply interest me.

The New Seriousness of the College Girl

(Radio Talk Given January 27, 1936, 4:30-5:00 P.M. in New York City)

By HELEN SNYDER ANDRES

I AM MOST happy to be here today, not only because it is a new adventure to talk before the microphone; not only because of the group of Kappa friends here in the studio; not only because some of my good friends are listening in; but also because the subject of my talk this afternoon is so near my heart—The New Seriousness of the College Girl.

No one who had visited most of the colleges of the country continuously for the past five years could help but be impressed with the keen interest in cultural and intellectual matters which has been growing steadily over this period. There is real encouragement of fine scholarship and genuine appreciation of cultural values. Many of you can recall as vividly as I the college days of 1929, full of social activity—so much so that many girls came to college expressly for that reason—with expensive cars, expensive parties; social butterflies who wouldn't have let on they were intelligent if they had possessed a Phi Beta Kappa key! Surely the years since then, with all the discomforts and tragedy of flattened purses, have borne much fruit in turning the minds of our college girls to more serious thinking.

I hope you will permit me to use the women's fraternity to illustrate some of my points—in many schools the dormitory or club units are doing the same things—but the women's fraternity has been my special field of activity in working with college girls, and I consider the trends there as typical of college thinking. Let us now imagine ourselves in the chapter house.

Notice how healthy and wholesome the girls look. No talk of diets as there used to be. Don't be surprised at the simplicity of the sport clothes the girls wear—they are enthusiastic devotees of all outdoor and indoor sports, and play them well. Now look at the bookshelves in their living room or sitting rooms. Six years ago those shelves were rather pathetic with their outmoded text-books, and a few stray hand-me-downs of juvenile rating. Today they have dozens of tempting biographies, travel books, novels of worth—and all of these books are eagerly read. They probably have a book fund to increase their library, and have a handy list of books they desire, in case an interested alumna or graduating senior wants to give the chapter a gift. Don't be surprised to see a New York paper two thousand miles afield, and other newspapers in easy reach. Those who believe that only movie and fashion magazines hold attractions for the college girl, would be surprised to see the stimulating and meaty collection of magazines they have around them—and they look well-worn and used, too.

Last night the dean of women gave the girls a splendid talk on the new plan for orienting freshmen to the campus, and next week the head of the English department is going to talk on his recent trip to the Scott and Shakespeare country. They have a whole program of interesting faculty and townspeople to come to them at intervals to lead discussions and talk with them.

On Saturday afternoons you often come and bring your knitting to join the group around the radio listening to the opera, or to the symphony on Sundays. Of course the girls enjoy the good dance orchestras, but not to the exclusion of the fine programs of a more serious nature.

The pictures on their bedroom walls are most apt to be etchings, small prints or paintings. A list of the art offerings for the week may be tucked in the mirror. A whole group of the girls may have a bloc of tickets for the symphony concerts, the good plays and lectures. Sometimes one of their members talks on some performance she has enjoyed, or performs musically, or talks on some talent or hobby she has. They are genuinely envious of your Phi Beta Kappa key, especially if you are an interesting, all-round person.

There is a lively interest in current events and news of the world-at-large, and you are simply out of the conversation if you aren't up on things. Don't let anyone tell you these college girls talk only of dates and clothes. They're most curious about the world and its politics, its religions and philosophies, its music, art and books full of ideas and human experiences.

It is the thing to be cultured, to look upon college as an opportunity to broaden and enrich one's thinking, as well as to prepare one for wise leadership and intelligent following—most of all, to provide the tools for living a well-rounded life.

All this new seriousness of our college girls, this interest in world affairs, in wholesome worthwhile activities, with cultural appreciations of a marked degree, will have a definite influence on the future, in the standard of citizenship and community service of well-informed and intelligent American women.

Kappa Names Are News

Time for January 27, 1936, featured Margaret Douglass (Margaret Wilson, B Ξ) in its report of "Russet Mantle," the "new play in Manhattan." Said Time, in part, "Russet Mantle" provides Margaret Douglass of Dallas with a belated triumph. An oldtime trouser whose husband is an excellent Southern-style leading man named Ben Smith, she had found Broadway so obdurate that she preferred to remain unmentioned in the program's 'Who's Who' when she was given the part of the free-and-easy young woman's mother. The rôle is that of a Southern matron whose brain is as frivolous as her dress. It is superbly written, and Texan Douglass projects it magnificently." The advertisement for "Russet Mantle" in a recent New Yorker quotes Robert Benchley: "The sisters from Kentucky, as played to absolute perfection by Margaret Douglass and Evelyn Varden, constitute two of the season's major delights." . . .

Virginia
Gildersleeve, B.E.,
Dean of Barnard

25 Years a Dean

Freaks! Unwomanly! Such comment greeted college women in the Nineties—but failed to shake Virginia Gildersleeve. Soon she was helping thousands to a higher education; and next Tuesday she will observe her 25th anniversary as Dean of Barnard by ALICE DUER MILLER, B.E.

Author of "Forgetting All Others," "Are Parents People?" Etc.

At Barnard we are fond—with a sort of unobedience not incompatible with true democracy—of talking a great deal about our early days in a bromstone house in Madison Avenue—that collection of bedrooms turned haphazardly into classrooms. That house is to us what having been a barefoot newspaper boy is to the rising politician—a creditable background of hardship to our present granite magnificence.

But I think we talk too much of the bromstone and get enough of the spirit of those days. The spirit lay not in our poverty, nor even in our smallness—the classes were eight—twelve—twenty-five—but in the fact that each one of us felt herself responsible to the world at large for the reputation of all college women.

That was specially true of my generation. The generation before us—the oral pleasers—had been concerned only with intellectual attainment. The obstacle thrown in their path was the belief that women were incapable of passing college examinations—and indeed the elementary schooling denied out to girls in these days made this as nearly true as possible.

But by the time we arrived in the halls of learning that particular argument had been answered—though I well remember a member of the Columbia faculty who had just been so ill advised as to say in print that no woman was able, honestly, to win a master's degree. I remember how darkly we scowled at him as he passed our lunchroom door on the way to the library lunch room, where, we understood, he spent his disquiet with comic anecdotes. The poor man has been dead for many years; perhaps I am the only person alive who remembers his perceptive statement, yet, in proof of the modesty of those days, I still cannot bear his name without a faint stirring of the old anger.

By the Nineties, however, most people were willing to admit that the rather simple demands of a bachelor degree were not beyond the mental capacity of a girl—if she were so abnormal as to want it. That was the new obstacle—that all college women were unwomanly—freaks—that a woman couldn't be a wife, mother, or even a dancing partner who asked for so alienating an advantage as a good education.

We were forever under observation. If we missed church, college women were atheistical; if we smoked a cigarette—and we didn't smoke many in those days—college women were immoral; if we tore a dress, college had made us shrewish. If we were cross in the home, college had made us arrogant and discontented. The result of this was that we felt an almost slavish gratitude to any of our number who did us credit, not only in college, but in the world outside. No one from our freshman year on, has ever done us more credit than the present dean of Barnard.

Virginia Gildersleeve came to Barnard from the Brearley School with a good reputation for scholarship. Like so many children of successful marriages, she had wisely selected her qualities from two very different parents. Most people who knew her then thought her most like her father—the judge. She has indeed the same balanced, friendly sense of justice that he had.

But I, who knew and loved her mother, find in her much of the character of that domestic, devoted, fiery descendant of French Huguenots. The finish and neatness in all the dean's domestic arrangements—a quality from which the college has profited so much—comes to her directly from her mother. So does the fire that occasionally breaks through her calmness, and gives an edge to an attitude that might otherwise be too bland and balanced.

Everyone knows that the dean is a good executive, a magnificent speaker, a wise woman, an intellectual—but not everyone knows that she can lose her temper over examples of stupidity and spite, and that, therefore, her fact and calm are the more to be admired since they are achieved and not wholly innate.

One of the great rewards of growing old—and not the only one, in my opinion—is that you see the whole cycle of many human lives. You see the same qualities that made people your friends in youth now making them of value to the community—perhaps to the world. There was not, I believe, a single member of the class of '90 who did not think, from our freshman year, that Virginia Gildersleeve would one day be Dean of Barnard. Even then she had all the qualities.

She was a New Yorker for an essentially metropolitan institution; she had the intellectual equipment, the poise and kindness of heart, and she had pre-eminently that attitude which has always seemed to me the essence of the Barnard spirit—the cool, rational contentment for all bulk. The present generation may think that the college owes its blessed common sense to the dean; but it doesn't. The dean, though probably born with some of it, owes its final flowering to the influence of the college, through that mysterious ability of an impersonal organization to take on some of the characteristics of a human soul.

I say that every member of the class expected her to be dean—but of course there was an exception. She herself did not expect it; nor would she, I think, have wanted it. I doubt if she would have chosen the path she is now following. I think she would have preferred a life of less executive duty, of more scholarly research and creative writing—each work as occupied her between graduation and her appointment as dean. I am sure she has always desired more leisure, for like most executives, the dean is possibly well fitted to enjoy leisure—traveling, reading, and outdoor sports.

Still, she caught her up and plunged her into this work, and taking it all in all, she must feel that her life has been useful and exciting beyond most lives, giving her great opportunities to exercise her talents, to mould a young institution and to help a vast number of young people at an age when they need help most. Looking back, I should think she would feel satisfaction and gratitude. We who love Barnard certainly feel so—looking back and looking forward.

The Thirty-Second Biennial Convention Message

I CAN HARDLY wait to welcome you all this summer at our eagerly anticipated Kappa convention at the beautiful Seignior club. It will be such a wonderful opportunity to see old friends, to welcome new convention enthusiasts who will be seeing the whole picture of Kappa for the first time, to join hands with our Canadian sisters in this eventful week. Every thought is being given to your comfort; important and outstanding guests are being invited to come; and a program has been planned to interest you all. The convention will need your finest thinking, your ideals and inspiration, your frankness and sincerity, your voices raised in song, your laughter and friendliness. I want you all at every business and discussion session, and guarantee they will be vital and interesting. There will be time to get together informally, to talk with people you want to know better, even time for a good night's sleep. There is only one program for all—delegates and visitors will join in everything, and the social and sports activities will be scheduled for everyone to enjoy. Every Kappa who comes will have a part in this convention. I know you join with me in earnestly hoping that this may be a long-remembered experience, with clear thinking to mould our future policies, with inspiration to carry on to a larger world, with precious friendships to deepen and enrich our fraternity devotion.

HELEN SNYDER ANDRES
Grand President

A Welcome from the Seigniory Club

Writing for the board of governors of the Seigniory club, the manager of the Log chateau, Mr. Cyril Chapman, and myself as secretary, I wish to convey to the members of the Kappa Kappa Gamma fraternity the hope that you may enjoy with us during June 23 to 30 next, one of the most pleasant and successful conventions in your history. I believe you will find beautiful and attractive the Laurentian country in which the club is situated; the club itself I am sure will strike you as quite unique and interesting; and the staff, I know well, is keen to do all within their power to make your visit comfortable in every respect. The Seigniory club, which has so many distinguished American families among its members, is delighted to entertain the Kappa Kappa Gamma fraternity, and it is hoped that the acquaintance they make with the club and with Canada will be renewed often in the future.

Director of Publicity, Seigniory Club, and Editor, The Seigneur

SPRING brings closer one of the most attractive prospects in the way of a national convention so far enjoyed by Kappa Kappa Gamma fraternity, and the famous Seigniory club, where the gathering takes place June 23 to 30, becomes an even more interesting spot. The club enjoys international notoriety on the strength of the well-known people who gather there in winter and summer, and its name crops up in newspapers and magazines throughout the continent. It is the scene of many successful golf and tennis tournaments and horse shows in summer, and ski-meets and curling bonspiels (if you know what they are) in winter; but it is not necessarily these that will make it amusing and refreshing to members attending the convention.

From the smartly uniformed club policeman at the entrance gate, a large affair befitting an estate that is over 100 square miles in area, to the extraordinary central chimney piece in the central rotunda of the Log chateau, the Seignior club is good theatre. The members of the club, many of whom live in charming log cabins built above the golf course overlooking the valley of the Ottawa river, take it calmly, but the visitor is blasé who does not chuckle with delight at the first impact. There are several off-stage effects worth noting: the wind talking quietly in the pine trees that surround the Log chateau and swimming pool; the birds that join in the conversation from nests within a few yards of your windows; the moon that usually times its appearances to a nicety and sails spectacularly above the waters of the Ottawa. Pray for clear skies, for that moon (which investigation reveals will only be in its first quarter at the convention) is worth watching from a rustic chair by the water's edge. The Log chateau is 100 yards behind you across a sweep of soft green lawn, the music from the dance orchestra comes fitfully through the night, and the great river sweeps past across the path of moonlight down towards Montreal and the greater St. Lawrence. Yes, its good sentimental theatre.

And the Manor house, the home of the late great Louis Joseph Papineau, a Canadian rebel who lived to be acclaimed as a patriot, see that for sure. It commands lovely vistas up and down the Ottawa, and its spacious rooms are beautifully furnished. It rightfully has a feeling of romance you will sense if you are at all susceptible.

There'll be plenty of opportunity for activity and exercise, for there are some fine tennis courts between the Log chateau and Manor house, and pitch and putt course laid out on the lawns surrounding the place, and an 18 hole course in the forest covering the Laurentian foothills a half mile to the north. You can swim in the big pool, which has a Hollywood touch, so spectacular is it; you can paddle a canoe or sail a boat; or you can take long walks through the woods or visit the little village of Montebello.

French Canada, in the western end of which the old Seigneurie which is now owned by the club is located, is a delightful part of this continent; and the discerning traveller can find much that is new and amusing. Montebello, the village where the C.P.R. station to the club is located, has its share of local color; and you might like to wander through it, call in at the church, explore the general stores and taverns, walk on into the country beyond over roads bordered by snake log fences and frequented by buggies laden with numerous habitant families. You must see the homespuns being made in the Log chateau itself by workers from the village; and you must take away, as real and useful souvenirs, some of the handicraft products available there.

The Seignior club, in the Province of Quebec, has been made available through the courtesy of the Board of Directors to Kappa Kappa Gamma Fraternity for their biennial gathering next summer. The management of the Log chateau, residential building of the club, will welcome Council, members and their friends on June twenty-third, nineteen thirty-six.

Seigniory Club Stage Is Set

By DELLA LAWRENCE BURT, Convention Marshal

YES, it is good theatre,—this Seigniory club in the Province of Quebec,—and that Kappas like good theatre is attested by the many letters to the marshal with statements similar to these:

"The Seigniory club is a perfectly delightful place and should be ideal for convention. As soon as I heard the news, I resolved to go."

"The Seigniory club in itself is a treat and this added attraction of a Kappa convention there makes a perfect combination. I shall be with you."

And some of the Canadian girls say, "We all seem to think it's a good way to see the Seigniory club! As well, of course, as enjoy convention!"

This brings the Master of Properties (just plain Della Burt, convention marshal, to you) to the point of saying that if you haven't already filled and mailed that registration blank which gives the good news that you will be with us June 23 to June 30, sit down and get it ready at once. Or, if you haven't a blank, send request for one on the slip in this number of THE KEY. Registrations are being received daily and you want to be sure that you are catalogued for everything from the sports events to the horoscope dinner. The way to be sure is to Send That Registration Blank Now.

Now that you are registered, what about transportation? Those of you who get to enjoy the Kappa special train (and I urge every one who possibly can to board it either at Chicago, Detroit, Toronto or Ottawa) will be entertained by local Kappas along the route. Note vided. Please indicate when requesting sleeping car reservation the number of people to be accommodated in space desired. Two people can be accommodated in one lower or one upper but of course single occupancy is more comfortable.

In case tickets must be validated at Montebello before you return home, a Canadian Pacific agent will be on hand to attend to this. Also return pullman reservations may be made at the Log chateau. Remember that there is a 10% Canadian revenue tax on all sleeping car tickets purchased locally in Canada.

Hand luggage will be examined by customs inspectors on the train, but special arrangements will have to be made for checked baggage. Trunks, if necessary, should be checked through to Montebello, Que., from all points. Kappas traveling on the special train from Chicago or Detroit should arrange for Customs examination at Ottawa, where a stop of two hours and twenty minutes will be made. Kappas traveling through

Montreal should apply at the baggage room Windsor station, immediately on arrival, or present their checks to the conductor of the morning train, June 23, between Montreal and Montebello if a direct connection is made at Montreal West instead of at Windsor station, in which event conductor of the train enroute to Montebello will telegraph to Lachute requesting that the Canadian Customs officer meet the train and release baggage during the stop at that station. Be prepared to send any checked baggage AT LEAST A DAY EARLY. All baggage should be marked with the Seignior club baggage tags and stickers. Look for final instructions in my letter which will be sent about May 15 to all of you who are registered.

Motorists should plan to arrive in time for lunch at the Seignior club Tuesday, June 23. There will be much of interest to all on Tuesday although business sessions will not convene officially until Wednesday morning. Garage rates at the club are $1.00 per night per car or $5.50 per week. There is open parking space near the Log chateau and for this there is no charge.

Seigniory Club Rates and Registration

Special rates for the convention will be in effect at the club. Kappas will be housed in the Log chateau according to fraternity provinces. Charges will be:

- (1) $6.50 per day, per person, American plan, 3 or 4 to room (single beds)
- (2) $7.00 per day, per person, American plan, 2 to room (single beds)
- (3) $8.00 per day, per person, American plan, 1 to room (limited number available).

All rooms are large and comfortable; and every room has its own bath.

Transfer from Montebello railroad station to the Log chateau and return will be 50 cents. Registration fee will be $5.00 which will cover tips for the week at the club, Quebec meal tax for hospitals, and your copies of the convention paper, The Hoot. Guests attending convention for the week-end only, or for three days or less, will pay registration fee of $3.50.

Equipment of the Log chateau includes beauty parlor and valet service such as you would find in any well-organized hotel. There is a telegraph office in the chateau lobby. Mail should be addressed to you at the Seigniory Club, Province of Quebec, Canada. The club has its own postoffice. If you must have a letter on arrival, better have "him" write the day before you leave home. You must not expect more speed than is possible for postal service of either the United States or Canada.

The huge pool, lighted from below and fed with clear spring water, will be the scene of much merriment when Kappas gather for a swimming party

Saguenay River

There will be a Kappa information desk in the lobby of Log chateau and over this I am asking Mary Deeves, marshal of the last Canadian convention, to preside. She and her assistants will be able to give you any information that you may need in regard to Kappa or Canada.

These sports rates apply especially for our Kappa convention.

Boats and canoes, per day	$.50
Outboard motors, per hour75
Riding, per hour	1.25
Archery, no charge.
Pitch and Putt, Log chateau grounds, no charge if own clubs and balls are used.
Swimming, no charge.
Tennis, no charge.
Golf green fees, per day	1.00
Transportation to and from Sports club (golf course), 25c per person each way.

Remember that we are counting on all of you who attend convention to help with the singing. Helen King, B N, is to be chairman of music for the convention and some special music is being planned. But there will be some singing in which the whole convention will join—so ask your chapter to help this spring by practicing with you some of the loveliest of the songs in the Kappa song book.

Post-convention plans are being made in Montreal, Boston and New York City. Watch The Hoot for additional information.

If you are interested in the European tour, read the article in this KEY and communicate with Rebecca Van Meter at the central office. If, after the strenuous week of convention, you want a boat trip but cannot afford the longer one to Europe, try the Saguenay river cruise. The $50.00 fare covers everything except tips at meals and is an exceptionally good rate offered by the Canada steamship lines.

K K G Convention Special Train

By MARIE B. MACNAUGHTAN, Chairman of Special

A TRIP ON a Kappa convention special train is an interesting experience; but to add to this, stops for sightseeing and entertaining along our international route are supplementary pleasures to which we look forward.

The Kappas in Chicago, Toronto and Ottawa will greet us as we arrive in their cities and are making plans to see that we enjoy our short stays with them.

In Chicago, where many will be arriving all day Sunday, June 21, to board our special train that night, a full day is scheduled. When you arrive, come at once to the Stevens hotel, Chicago Kappa headquarters, where there will be a suite of rooms for our use during the day. Toronto

Ottawa

By HYACINTHE LAMBART, Δ Δ

A BRIEF visit to Ottawa, the capital city of Canada, will be an extra feature of the convention trip for Kappas traveling to the Seigniory club on the special train from Chicago. The visit will be for only a little more than two hours, but Ottawa Kappas have laid plans to show convention delegates as much as possible of the capital in that short time.

Ottawa is sometimes called the "Washington of the North" and Americans will find that in some respects it does resemble their own capital city. Both are the seats of national government, with public buildings and parks, and spaciousness and dignity. But Ottawa is quite a small city compared to Washington, having only about 125,000 people. Like Washington, however, it has a river; or two of them, to be exact, and a canal as well.

The city lies on the south shore of the Ottawa river, 100 miles due west of Montreal. It is only 40 miles from the Seigniory club, which is also on the Ottawa river, and Montreal of course is at the junction of the Ottawa with the St. Lawrence river. So many cities seem to live on rivers.

At the centre of Ottawa, high on the cliffs of Parliament hill above the river, are the Parliament buildings and the Peace tower. These beautiful buildings overlook the entire city. They are the central and dominating feature to which everything else yields precedence, both in physical feature and in point of interest. Here on "the hill" are held national services of celebration or of memorial. To "the hill" drives the governor general with his retinue, to open and close the parliaments of Canada. Here gather the senators and members of the House of Commons who together form the parliament. Their respective meeting places are the Senate chamber and the chamber of the House of Commons. These are in the central or main block of the Parliament buildings, of which the well known Peace tower is a part. The two other buildings in the group, the east and west blocks, contain the offices of the governor general and the prime minister, and departmental offices. The beautiful old library of parliament, the only part of the original centre block not destroyed by fire in 1916, stands at the rear of the new building erected on the foundations of the old one. The Peace tower contains, just above the main entrance, the impressive and beautiful Memorial chamber wherein are recorded the names of 60,000 Canadian men and women who gave their lives in the Great war. Above the Memorial chamber is the carillon of 53 bells. The great clock in the tower chimes the quarter hours on the carillon, and strikes the hours with a deep-voiced bell whose booming notes can be heard for several miles on a still night. A special playing of the carillon for Kappas' will be arranged if at all possible.

Peace Tower, Ottawa

Royal Canadian Air Force photograph

From the air the dominating features of Ottawa, stately capital city of Canada, are readily discernible. At the left center are the Parliament buildings crowning Parliament hill; center foreground, the Chateau Laurier; and right center, the interprovincial bridge. Beyond the river is another province, Quebec, with Hull, one of its cities, and the Gatineau hills in the distance.

From the terrace behind the Parliament buildings, and overlooking the Ottawa river, there are magnificent views of the Province of Quebec and the Laurentian hills, into which the convention delegates will soon be entering. People who live in more southerly parts of the continent will probably feel that here at last they have reached the outer fringes of the places where civilized people live. North of Ottawa there are no more cities, nothing but the great north country with its small mining towns and lumber camps, indifferent roads and a single railway line to Quebec.

The Parliament buildings and the Peace tower are the principal and most interesting things to see in Ottawa and visiting delegates will be given time for at least a hurried visit to "the hill."

If time permitted, a long drive could be taken through parks and driveways that would undoubtedly be considered as fine as any ever seen. Next to the Parliament buildings, Ottawa takes pardonable pride in the driveways. Laid out along the banks of the rivers or the canal, they delight the eye at all seasons of the year. They will be at their best in the month of June. Even though time may be short during the Kappas' visit, it is planned that some of the principal points of interest may be seen: the residence of the governor general, who is the king's personal representative in Canada; the legation of the United States opposite Parliament hill, the legation of France, the residence of the British high commissioner, the mint where money is made—so easily, the archives where historical records are kept, and the stately home of the National Research council.

When Kappas come to Ottawa on the morning of June 23, they will be paying their visit to the nation's capital on a national holiday, for June 23 is the birthday of King Edward. Generally the king's birthday is a day of celebration, but this year this will not be so.

Relics of "New France"

Visiting delegates will be interested to find in Ottawa a considerable flavour of the French race which originally explored and settled the country, and which has since perpetuated itself in the Province of Quebec. The element of French in Ottawa will be a gentle introduction to the thoroughly French-Canadian villages near the Seignior club. Many of the names of places and things in Ottawa are of French origin, relics of the days when Canada was "New France." The name rideau, so often used in Ottawa, is a French word meaning "curtain," and Champlain gave that name to the falls of the river which he saw tumbling into the Ottawa, 300 years ago. He was the first white man to travel up the Ottawa, a pioneer in the long search for the passage to China. The Chaudière falls, in the Ottawa river and in the centre of the city, valuable source of water-power, were given that name because it was the French translation of the Indian name meaning "boiling cauldron."

It is amusing now to recollect that the first settlement on the site of Ottawa took place in 1826 when Colonel By of the Royal Engineers was sent there to build a canal from the Ottawa river to the lower end of Lake Ontario, at Kingston. The purpose of the canal was to make it possible for British gun boats to pass from Montreal into Lake Ontario without having to run that rather hazardous stretch of the St. Lawrence which belonged on its southern shore to those dangerous people the Americans.

Queen Victoria Chose It

The town that began with Colonel By's settlement was called Bytown until 1854 when, having grown considerably, it was incorporated and took the name of Ottawa, like that of the river. It was originally the name of a tribe of Indians living in these parts. In 1858 Queen Victoria chose Ottawa to be the capital and since the confederation of the provinces into the Dominion of Canada in 1867, it has been the nation's seat of government.

Not a centre of commerce like Montreal or Toronto, nor French like Quebec, nor English like Victoria, Ottawa is a residential city of the north, and as the capital of Canada combines appropriately both the French and English races which are the principal elements in the nation's life. Kappas in Ottawa are waiting to welcome convention delegates to Canada's capital city.

From Montreal to Saguenay

By JOANNA WRIGHT, Δ Δ

TO BEGIN with I should like to say that I am not writing in conjunction with the Canada Steamship Lines; because unfortunately they have not found it worth their while to pay me for what amounts to rank advertising on their behalf. However, I hope when you have all taken the Saguenay trip that you will not find my enthusiasm unfounded.

Starting from Montreal in the evening with the outstretched hands of the Madonna of the Bonsécours wishing you bon voyage, you slip down the river through the night and early the next morning waken up to see Quebec—Quebec with its beautiful gaunt sky-line, its churches and convents, its old market in the Lower town, its famous citadel whence there is a superb panoramic view of the mountains and the wide stretch of the river; Levis and Montmorency on the opposite shore and above all the shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupré.

Then you are on the boat again going on down the river, leaving the fertile green Isle d'Orléans in your wake. At Baie St. Paul with its starkly beautiful mountains you meet the salt water, and the river turns to a deep greeny blue. The boat hugs the north shore so closely that the steeply wooded mountains which sweep down to the river tower above you. The villages nestle at the bases of the mountains, and with the fisheries, quais and occasional light-houses, they enliven the shore-line.

The river which is now from 12 to 15 miles broad sweeps round rocky jutting headlands—Cap Tourment, Cap Aux Oies, Cap à l'Aigle and Pointe au Pic which hides from our sight Murray Bay, or as Champlain was pleased to christen it "La Mal baie." The quai is crowded with little boys and old men, the fishermen par excellence who have abandoned their favorite sport to help the captain land the boat. Their verbal assistance is unfortunately unheeded; so in an endearing and amazing mixture of French and English they volunteer anything to "Les Américains" whom they love, for was not Mr. Taft a visitor of many summers' standing? You will be lucky if you can go to a viellée and hear the old songs, "À la Claire Fontaine," "En Roulant Ma Boule, Roulant," and all the others. In fact you will find it difficult to tear yourself away from Murray Bay.

But do it you must, and go on down the river for 30-odd miles, past Hare island and St. Simeon, past country that is ever growing wilder and rockier, sparser and more windswept, until you come to Ste. Catherine's bay and the mouth of the Saguenay, a tremendous sight and one which you will have to see for yourself to feel the sensation caused by those swiftly-running dark waters which come straight down from the north between scarped rocky mountains. Across the bay is peaceful Tadoussac with its sandy beach, less sophisticated than Murray Bay, but boasting the oldest church on the continent.

I am not going to describe the trip up the Saguenay from Tadoussac to Ha Ha bay, because I hope that you are now all firmly convinced that the one thing to do is to take the Saguenay trip. It is something that you will not forget; the country of the "habitant of Quebec" is as haunting as the melodies of his songs, and you will want to come back if only you will come once to prove it to yourselves.

And so a bon voyage to Saguenay.

“In a Mountain Greenery” . . . the Canadian Rockies!

IN THE Canadian Rockies, according to government measurements, no less than 672 mountain peaks are above 6000 feet in height above sea level, these including only the peaks bearing names, and this number does not profess to exhaust the innumerable mountains not yet named or measured.

Of those actually listed, 150 are more than 10,000 feet in height. This immediately enables one to visualize the vast virgin territory into which trails and roads are slowly penetrating following demands by visitors who not only return, but bring their friends to enjoy vacations in this wonderland in western Canada.

When the Canadian Pacific railway was constructed through Banff, Lake Louise, etc., the company engineers immediately saw the possibility of creating tourist traffic. As a result the trans-Canada chain of hotels now owned by the company includes the magnificent hostelry at Banff, the Chateau Lake Louise, Emerald Lake chalet, the hotel on Shuswap lake at Sicamous, the Vancouver, and the Empress at Victoria, each of which is distinctive and fully serves the purpose for which it was designed.

In fact, so impressive has the growth of tourist traffic been to this part of Canada that the hotels have been supplemented by seven bungalow camps scattered throughout the mountains at those points where vacationists en route from one district to another find it most convenient to stop. The bungalow camps consist of a central dining hall and clubhouse surrounded by a cluster of cabins supplied with every convenience to be had in the mountains. Those camps which have corrals are generally located in districts where mountain ponies are used to reach the more spectacular bits of scenery and a surprising number of people visiting the Canadian Rockies have ridden for the first time to or from these camps, thus nullifying the opinion held in some quarters in the east that the horses were of the “stampede” type. It happens that the mountain ponies very rarely move beyond a walk, having been trained in trail work to that point where youngsters and elderly people have little hesitation in using them.

On arrival at Banff, which is the administrative centre of Banff national park, one finds a small town tucked away in the Bow valley with little commercial activity beyond the sale of various commodities to visitors. Crossing the Bow river the road winds up to a small plateau on which stands the Banff Springs hotel, a few years ago reconstructed and entirely fireproof. From it lead roads in every direction through the evergreens to the government hot springs, the boat house, Alpine club, etc. In the hotel itself is a hot sulphur pool. The first tee of the golf course is but a few yards from the hotel proper. Banff is also an outstanding centre and starting point for big game hunting and fishing trips, and buses leave daily on the Lariat trail route through some of the most scenic districts, returning via the Great Divide and Lake Louise to the west.

The Chateau Lake Louise, situated near the crest of the Rockies, was built for the sole purpose of enabling visitors from all parts of the world to enjoy the beauty of the scenery at Lake Louise, trails leading around the lake to Victoria glacier and up the mountain side to points of vantage, while Lake O'Hara, John Singer Sargent's favorite sketching spot, can be reached from Lake Louise by trail, a corral being maintained for those who wish to use the mountain ponies. Motor trips are also arranged and all information supplied those wishing to depart on foot for some of the bungalow camps.

The chalet at Emerald lake, seven miles north of Field on the Pacific side of the Rockies, after crossing the Great Divide, is in atmosphere the most exclusive of the mountain hotels and was for some years a bungalow camp.

In the immediate vicinity is Yoho bungalow camp, where Takakkaw falls drops 1200 feet in full sight of the camp, while Wapta, Lake O'Hara, Castle mountain, Moraine lake and Assiniboine camps in this district are easily reached, a great many visitors preferring the camp life on account of its easy informality.

Sicamous hotel on Shuswap lake was designed to accommodate those interested in the fishing in this area where the Indians were wont to paint the rocks with pictographs. It has been verified that at certain times during the season the waters in parts of Shuswap lake fairly boil while the fish are feeding.

The Vancouver hotel in Vancouver, of course, is more commercial in character and is situated a few blocks from the station. It is proud of its roof garden and its position as one of the leading hotels on the Pacific coast. Autos are available for drives to Stanley park, the home of giant cedars and firs, and from the piers the Princess steamers leave on their triangle run to Victoria and Seattle, as well as up the west coast of Vancouver island and to Alaska. Close to Vancouver is to be found excellent hunting and fishing.

Bring Yourself on a BUYING BINGE!!

By MARY DEEVES, B Ψ

WHEN YOU come to Canada for convention, give yourself some time between trains, or even stay over for a train or two, to do some shopping in Ottawa, Montreal, or Toronto. There are some excellent stores in these three cities, and you will find plenty of attractive and interesting merchandise. You will want to spend every cent of your money! You had better make sure that you have your return ticket before you start browsing about in our stores! This is just by way of warning!

Some of you American Kappas will be particularly interested in the so-called typically Canadian merchandise. We ask you to remember that Canada is not primarily a manufacturing country, and so our "typically Canadian" merchandise consists chiefly of our natural products.

Our hand-woven woollen materials, especially those made in the farmhouses in Quebec, are soft in texture, beautifully blended in colour, and "pure wool and a yard wide" in quality. They make up into good-looking skirts and suits; into bags; they can be used very successfully for covering furniture, for hangings, for bedspreads. In fact their use is legion!

You will like some of the hand-hooked rugs. Again, it is in the Province of Quebec where you will see these in great profusion. They hang over the verandah railings, and over the fences! They are piled high in dark corners in the village store! Some of them are beautiful. The work done on them is the real old-fashioned hooking. When you come upon one in which the design and colours are artistically worked, you'll not be able to pass it by. You will be buying it to add a spot of colour to your bedroom!

In Quebec, too, there are many wood artists,—men whose fingers create small wooden figures, exquisitely carved, very real in expression and in line. These small wooden carvings are among the choicest of souvenirs for you to take home with you from a Canadian convention!

Our furs are a good investment for anyone. Skins are brought down from the north country by the trappers themselves direct to the stores. They belong to the highest grade of furs. The coldness of the climate up around the north pole (1) makes the pile thick and close, gives the beautiful sheen, and gives the skins durability. Our furriers know how to use them properly . . . making these skins into coats that are not bulky, but that are moulded beautifully, and into neckpieces that are becoming to the wearer.

Then, too, you will be interested in some of the articles imported from other countries of the British Empire. This merchandise enters Canada at a much lower rate of duty than that at which it enters the United States, because of the preferential tariff.

Among the goods which come from the British Empire, English china must take the most important place. The potteries of England produce china that is the top notch of china. Such names as Josiah Wedgwood, Royal Doulton, Minton, Coalport, Royal Worcester . . . names like these mean the best bone china in the world! Linens from Ireland must be included in this group,—fit to grace any home. Scotch and English wool fabrics, and coats and suits made of them, have that certain something in sports' wear that speaks for itself. English leather bags are famous the world over; and so are Scotch wool blankets and motor rugs.

There is other merchandise in which you will be interested, we know. We have given merely the high spots,—just those articles which flash into the mind when one thinks of advising someone from another country how to spend her money in Canada! Buy any of these and you'll never regret it!

You all probably know that the law allows American tourists to take back with them, or to have sent, $100 worth of merchandise, duty free. The purchases must be declared at the border. If you are sending your purchases, any store will furnish you with an itemized invoice, which the officer at the border examines. He signs the declaration form. You return it to the store in which you made your purchases, and your purchase arrives at its destination duty free.

We know you'll enjoy your shopping binge in Canada!

After Convention Come to Kappa's Camp!

AFTER convention at Seigniorie continue your good times. Join a house party of Kappas at Camp Onanole. In the heart of the Adirondacks, overlooking upper Chateauguay lake, Camp Onanole offers surroundings of unusual beauty. Rather than a camp it is a friendly inn, combining the leisurely freedom of the woods and the comfortable appointments of a home. Less than 100 miles from Seigniorie, at Merrill, New York, it is on the direct route from New York and Boston.

Bertha Tolman, Φ, staunch Kappa, a past president of the New York alumnæ association, established Onanole in 1925. She is making special rates for Kappas and their families for the two weeks following convention. You may stop over-night, but you will want to enjoy a longer visit, a real vacation.

For Kappas (and their families) the price will be $3.50 a day, including meals, or $3.50 a night including supper and breakfast.

Mrs. Tolman will be glad to welcome you. Write her for particulars at 48 Strathmore road, Brookline, Massachusetts.

Just in Case . . .

THE SEIGNIORIE CLUB by any other name would be as good.

Still, it has a name; and to those of you who will attend the biennial convention of Kappa Kappa Gamma June 23-30 next we recommend a meeting of the family to rehearse the proper pronunciation.

Because the name is written one way and pronounced another just as though it were the name of an English peer like Cholmondeley which is pronounced Chumley, or one of our states like Arkansas, which does not rhyme with Kansas, different people are apt to pronounce the name "SEIGNIORIE" in different ways.

We have heard (or seen in writing): SINORY, SCENERY, SAYNYORY, SIGNORY, SIGNIORIE, SAYNORY, SIGINORY, SEENYERIE, SEIGNOIRY, SAGINIORIE, and best of all—SENIORITY!!

In order to settle this once and for all, the official spelling of the name is SEIGNIORIE and is pronounced

SEEN-yer-ee, with all the emphasis on SEEN.

A Southerner Writes on Canadian Hospitality

By DELLA LAWRENCE BURT, Convention Marshal

ALTHOUGH the South may be noted for its hospitality, there are other parts of North America that deserve equal fame on that score. Those of us who were fortunate enough to attend our last Canadian convention remember it not only for the gorgeous scenery and the excellent food, but especially for the marvelous hospitality of the Beta Psi Kappas. It is my good fortune that I have Mary Deeves, marshal of that convention, to assist me in planning for our 1936 meeting.

Since the 1924 convention three other chapters have been installed in Canada. Although the fraternity no longer burdens one chapter by designating it as hostess for a national convention, the Kappas of both Toronto and McGill are eagerly awaiting the last week in June when they may welcome the Kappas from other parts of Canada and the States. You will know these are not idle words when I tell you my experiences of last June.

I started from St. Louis to inspect the Seignior club as the possible site for the Kappa convention. After leaving "Sonny," aged six, with his grandparents in New York state, I arrived in Montreal at seven o'clock on a rainy June evening. The day before leaving St. Louis, I wrote a hasty note to Clara Pierce and asked that two Montreal Kappas be invited to call on me if possible. I had no addresses and, as all Kappas do, turned to the central office for quick and efficient service.

When I stepped off the train at Montreal, it did not surprise me to be met by a Canadian Pacific passenger agent, but when I saw five smiling girls at the gate, it occurred to me that they must be there to greet some of the car full of

Actions Speak Louder than Photographs*

"The 'old-timers' at convention will already know me and the younger girls, if curious, can use their chapter's bound file of THE KEY and see my most severe picture as printed in the February 1929 number, so I am sure that I do not need to add appointment with a photographer to my many duties of these pre-convention days," wrote Della Burt after THE KEY had asked for a picture of herself.

Instead, and characteristically, Della preferred to write about her last summer's experience of Canadian hospitality, to give convention-bound Kappas a foretaste of the welcome they may expect.

As a matter of fact, we can't imagine that any Kappa, old or young, does not know of Della Burt's fine record of service to the fraternity, to which "marshaling" is now added!

midshipmen who had aroused the curiosity of the passengers on the Delaware and Hudson train. I passed the girls by with a thought for the good old chapter visiting days when I would have thrown my coat back to be sure that my Kappa key was conspicuous. No need to do that this time as no one would be meeting me! Imagine my surprise and delight, a few minutes later, when I had registered at the Windsor hotel, just a block from the station, to acknowledge a knock at the door and find that those girls were members of Delta Delta chapter.

What a good chat we had! A few others joined us as we talked of the Seignior club, of Alpha province convention at Syracuse which several had attended the week before, and of many other things pertaining to Kappa, but not a word was said of beaux and parents waiting at home for evening engagements. Later Gwendolyn Russel, the Delta Delta president, was good enough to take me for a ride so that I might have at least a glimpse of McGill. Marjorie Lynch and Cynthia Bazin were with us and two Anns who must have been Anne Armstrong and Anna Dobson. Margaret Byers, whom I had known as delegate to the Yellowstone convention, was not in the city and Audrey Doble phoned that she could not be with us because of sickness.

The central office should get credit for notifying six when I asked for only two. But the girls of Delta Delta had received word only that morning that I would be there that night and had dropped everything to come to see me. That is real Canadian hospitality and the Kappas of Canada will extend the same cordiality to you when you visit the Province of Quebec this June.

The one disappointment about the Montreal visit was that Rheva Ott Shryock, director of provinces, was in the Windsor hotel at the same time that the members of Delta Delta chapter were there; but a desk clerk, who did not understand my Texas pronunciation of Mrs. Shryock's unusual name, failed to give me the information that she was registered. At the station the next morning I found her with Mr. Shryock, who preferred to stay and enjoy the famous Redpath library rather than inspect the Seignior club with three women, the third being our grand president, Helen Snyder Andres, who was transferred from the Boston train at Westmount, one of the suburban stations of Montreal.

The club quite took my breath away. It is charming in every detail and is perfectly ideal for a Kappa convention. You must see and enjoy it to know how truly I speak. Miss Hazel Tomkins, of the Canadian Pacific convention office, and Mr. Chapman, manager of the Log chateau, met us at the station in Montebello and were most gracious in showing us the facilities of the club.

The second day of our visit at the club was Sonny's birthday, and I decided to celebrate by buying a toy for him. We visited the gift shops and found them so interesting that we spent much time at the one with Mrs. Charles in charge. She is a delightful French-Canadian who has many interesting tales to tell of her work in getting the lovely homespun articles and the charming carved figures and the many other handmade objects for which the Province of Quebec is famous. She had a pair of real snow shoes that Sonny would have loved, but they were more museum pieces than a toy for a small boy and thus we went to the village store to shop for toys. I noticed there was much excitement and no direct response when I asked to see toys, but presumed it was the Quebec manner and wandered to the back of the shop where the toys were stored awaiting another Christmas season. Imagine my surprise when I learned later that the only clerk who spoke English was out of the store and a hasty S.O.S. had to be sent for him before I could be served.

From the Seignior club we went by way of Ottawa to Toronto where Mary Deeves and Thora McIlroy Mills had breakfast with us at the Royal York hotel before our grand president went on to Chicago as an advance guard for council session. Here Canadian hospitality was again tested.

We consumed most of the morning talking convention plans and kept Ralph and Thora Mills from getting an early start for their summer cottage. Mary Deeves took us for dinner to the charming home which she shares with Ruth Ratz, also a Beta Psi. In the afternoon we had a delightful visit over the tea table with Mary Rowell Jackman, who had served so ably as assistant marshal of the Bigwin inn convention. After a delicious supper with Mary and Ruth at their home and a hurried drive to the station, we were off for Chicago where the members of the council selected the Seignior club as the 1936 convention site.

Since then letters and conferences have been the order of each day and I believe that everything is working out to make this one of the best conventions we have ever had. From my memories of the one at Bigwin inn and my experiences of last summer, I can assure you that the hospitality shown by our Canadian sisters will make you look forward eagerly to the next Kappa convention in Canada.

A sophomore from Epsilon at Illinois Wesleyan is to be sent to convention by the Mothers' club of Epsilon, which has a faculty committee to select the lucky girl. We hope there will be many sophomores at convention, girls who will still be in the chapters at the end of the next biennium, to carry over the inspiration and enthusiasm of actual convention experience.

Convention to Have International Art Exposition

By BETTY NAGELVOORT, B II, Art Director

WHAT HO! Whether Chicago takes first place as presenter of expositions remains to be seen. You will all be judges—all you lucky visitors to the shores of the Ottawa.

We are to have a real exposition.

Chapters, put on your thinking caps. We're counting on you!

Customs arrangements permitting, we are to have an art gallery. Did you know that we have places in national catalogues of producing artists and artist-craftsmen? If all goes well, you will see paintings, etchings, block prints, metal work and possibly sculpture, by your artist sisters.

Come to convention!

Net Champions Across the Border

HOLDERS OF Canadian women's tennis championships are two sisters—doubly so—by birth, and in the bonds of Kappa Kappa Gamma: Helen Hope Leeming Salmond (Mrs. K. J.) and Marjorie Leeming, both alumnae of Gamma Upsilon at the University of British Columbia.

Marjorie, now teaching in Vancouver, has won Canadian titles in singles, doubles and mixed at various times. In 1932 when Hope and Marjorie were Canadian ladies' doubles winners, they were sent to represent Canada at Forest Hills. That year Marjorie was defeated in the third round by the finalist, Caroline Babcock.

In the Dominion, as well as in the States, Kappas are tennis stars. Here are Hope Leeming Salmond (Mrs. K. J.), left, and her sister, Marjorie Leeming, right, both Gamma Upsilon alumnae, and both championship winners.

At present Hope Salmond and her husband, who live at York Mills, Ontario, are eastern Canadian mixed doubles champions.

Marjorie is co-author with Dr. Dorothy Mawdsley of a text-book, Modern Composition, which was accepted last year by the department of education in British Columbia. The book, submitted in competition with several others, was the unanimous choice of the selection committee and is now used in all British Columbia high schools.

When Hope was in college, she was president of women at the University of British Columbia. In 1928 she went on tour with the Players' club of the university, as leading lady.

We'd like to refer to Hope as the "Queen Helen" of Canadian tennis (à la Kappa's Helen Wills Moody), but she doesn't use her first given name!

Be Prepared!

IT HAS ALWAYS been customary at Kappa conventions since the fraternity became international to sing both the American and English national anthems.

For reasons that have been too sadly obvious at some conventions, THE KEY proposes to jog the memory of prospective delegates and visitors from the States who will be coming to the Seignior club in June. Beneath are the words of "God Save the King!" which is sung to the same tune as "America," needless to add.

*God save our gracious King,
Long live our noble King,
God save the King!
Send him victorious,
Happy and glorious,
Long to reign over us,
God save the King!*

"Ground Work" in Aviation

By HYACINTHE LAMBART, Δ Δ

IT IS SOMETHING of a privilege to make aviation, even the "ground work" in aviation, the subject of one's everyday occupation. The fascination of flying itself is well known, and it helps to make any sort of work to do with aviation exceptionally interesting.

For the past five years I have assisted in the work of the Canadian Flying Clubs association at Ottawa, promoting civil flying training at the government subsidized flying clubs throughout Canada. Because the association is the only national air organization of its kind our work has been undertaken in its widest aspects. Besides our special devotion to private and sport flying, we have interested ourselves in everything that has had to do with encouraging air-mindedness and aviation generally. I hope you may find in what little I am able to tell you about our activities something of interest concerning the broad fields of aviation in which so much valuable and extremely interesting work remains to be done.

My course at McGill, honours in economics and political science under Dr. Stephen Leacock, was scarcely designed for aeronautical purposes. But no training, as distinct from education, is ever lost. If I have had small need for theories of political economy, the general principles have always been applicable.

While promoting civil flying training we have organized aerial tours and pageants, field days and competitions, all across the country. The first was the biggest, the Trans-Canada air pageant of 1931. Fifteen aeroplanes gave nearly 30 displays throughout Canada over a period of two months. There have been two Maritime goodwill air tours and a St. Lawrence cruise to Quebec city which brought more planes to that ancient capital than had ever before been gathered together there at one time. Throughout all these special events the progress and welfare of the clubs has been our foremost concern.

For the past four years we have published the only aeronautical magazine in Canada. Canadian Aviation has been carried through the "lean" times by the association as a service to the clubs and to aviation generally in Canada. As an associate editor my own work on it has been exceptionally interesting, and just as varied; everything from unofficial photographer to artist and ad. writer, quite apart from the proper work of an editor. Publishing a small magazine where only three or four people are concerned in its production, seems to me to provide one with a fairly liberal education.

Only Woman Delegate

Our association is the member for Canada of the Fédération Aéronautique Internationale, which is the world's governing body for sport and competitive flying. Its president is Prince George Bibesco, whose wife, Marthe Bibesco, writes sometimes in American magazines. I have had the honour of attending two of the annual conferences of the F.A.I. as representative for Canada. The first was at The Hague in 1932. I flew over from London with the British delegates, all unconscious of the precedent—or was it sacrilege that was being committed? No other woman before me had ever attended one of these conferences because most of the ancient aero clubs of Europe have only men as members. It seemed to me quite appropriate that someone from the “new world” should put a stop to this custom, because sport flying is by no means the prerogative of men. This was also the first time a British Dominion had been represented, so there was no precedent of any kind to follow. Could any delegate be in a happier position? If confessions must be made, it was a thoroughly enjoyable experience. The late Prince Consort of Holland attended some of the functions and Dr. Hugo Eckener came to receive a gold medal for his exploits.

The second conference I attended was at Washington in 1934. We flew down from Ottawa in our own plane in five hours, via Toronto and Buffalo. The National Aeronautic association of the United States was host; diplomatic and official Washington was extremely hospitable, and the President, Mr. Roosevelt, received us at the White House. At this conference the famous Louis Blériot was a delegate for France, the same Blériot who flew the Channel in 1911; von Gronau, the German who has flown the North Atlantic several times, represented Germany. He told me, almost as if in shame at having done so, that this was the first time he had come to America by boat. There were no other women delegates at this conference either, though the Americans might have appointed one as they have several women among their officers. It seems to me that in a country where women are so active in aviation, one of their representatives might well attend these conferences. She would be warmly welcomed.

Vivid Impressions

My actual flying experience is rather limited, “ground work” having kept me to the ground more than I could have wished. But I have had considerable variety in my flying, both as passenger and pilot, at home and abroad. My first flight, many years ago, was on floats, the next on wheels, and the third on skis. A perfect score!

Flying gives one many impressions, some of them very vivid, marked for all time on one’s memory. There were those few delicious moments over Stockholm, with that beautiful city far below—blue water and islands and white boats, and the whole round circle of a rainbow behind us, broken only by the tail plane. In Holland, what a ride! With Tony Fokker, the famous Dutchman who built Fokker fighters for the Germans in the Great war. That was a test flight, of a big transport plane. New York, coming up from the south, night-fall, a world of lights; and out to sea, impenetrable blackness. New York against the Empire State building—why hadn’t it pierced our wing tip as we wheeled around it—stretching down, down, down, to the murky city far below! One’s first solo, you and the plane, alone in all the sky. Flying gives one a thousand images of charm and beauty and fascination.

It is not at all necessary to be at the controls of an aeroplane dashing through the sky to have a share in the great things that aviation is doing, to help in all that is being accomplished. Flying itself is a thing of infinite pleasure and enjoyment. It seems to me that if one really likes flying one is wiser not to spoil such pleasures by making them a duty. I cannot conceive of any more interesting occupation than something to do with the “ground work” in aviation, and if one employs oneself with that, then one is taking an important part in this field of great possibilities.

the Michiganensian and advertising manager of the student directory. She is a member of Omega Upsilon, dramatic society. She is interested in horseback riding and knitting. These hobbies are supplemented by her interest in commercial art. Her position on the art committee of the Women's league is evidence of that interest. As house manager and a member of chapter standards, and province convention delegate, she has proved herself calmly responsible and vitally interested. One day her unobtrusive frankness and efficiency may result in a career as a commercial artist or executive of a travel and transport bureau.

Although she is a sophomore, Kate has been president of the first pledges of Alpha, served on the social committee, acted as social chairman, and is the newly-elected corresponding secretary. Her campus activities are: Blue and Gold, university yearbook; junior prom arrangements chairman; Ace of Clubs member.

Rebekah Smith is delegate from Gamma Xi at the University of Southern California. Initiated in 1934, she immediately became house manager.

Soon after she was elected to standards and became its chairman throughout the entire year of 1934-35. But she was not only interested in Kappa, for she soon became the vice-president of the Woman's Athletic association, and joined the Home Economics society. Then she was nominated into Tic Toc, social honorary. This year, when time for the election of officers came around, the chapter elected her its president.

Margaret Gilmore, of Mexico City, Mexico, is Gamma Zeta's delegate from the University of Arizona. She has recently been elected to Sigma Delta Pi, national Spanish honor fraternity. Initiated into Kappa last spring, her outstanding quality as a leader recommended her as the logical pledge captain this year. She attended Swarthmore before coming to Arizona.

Katherine is small, blonde and feminine. She has been marshal of the chapter and has recently been elected president for the coming year. Her hobby is knitting. She has excelled in this art, making some attractive costumes for campus wear. Katherine may be de-

Bettie Gilbert is a typical Kentucky girl and president of Beta Chi chapter at the University of Kentucky. Her quiet manner is belied by the twinkle in her blue eyes. She has been outstanding all through her years of fraternity life, both in college and in chapter work. When Bettie is given something to do, it is done and done well.

Jessie Aslakson, delegate from Chi at the University of Minnesota, is president of the chapter. A junior in college, she was second in line at the junior ball early this year. Her particular interest is dramatics. She has appeared in several plays produced by the University theater. She is a member of Masquers, the All-University council, Zeta Phi Eta, national speech fraternity, and is vice-president of W.S.G.A.

Peggy Walker, delegate from Gamma Gamma at Whitman college, is president of the chapter. Peggy's work as A.S.W.C. program chairman has been outstanding this year. For two years she has been elected "Yell Duchess." Other activities include group culture chairmanship in the Y.W.C.A. and director of the All-College revue. A year in Mexico has contributed to her wide interests and outlook. Personally, Peggy is petite, with pep and sparkle in every step; and a high scholastic rating proves her ability.

Joan Brandel, newly-elected president of Beta Eta at Leland Stanford University, has frequently distinguished herself in campus activities and athletics. In the chapter she has been pledge captain, transfer chairman and junior representative to standards. During the last rushing season she was assistant rushing chairman.

In a letter from Harold J. Bailly, chairman of the Interfraternity conference, came this spontaneous testimonial: "Beta Theta Pi, to which I belong, held its convention last summer at the Seignior club and I am certain that Kappa Kappa Gamma will be delighted with your convention there next June."

Another Chance for Kappa Fellowships

NOW THAT the college year is drawing to a close, the thoughts of the seniors are turning toward plans for the fall, and many of them will no doubt be interested in our Kappa fellowships. These, you remember, were authorized by the 1934 convention, and the first awards were made for this college year, 1935-36.

There are three fellowships, for $500 each, open not only to Kappas, but to members of other women's fraternities, and to non-fraternity girls. The applicants must have graduated from an institution where a Kappa chapter is located, but they may do their work in any college or university of satisfactory standing. It has been decided that one award be given each year to a girl specializing in work in human relationships, one to a student interested in scientific work, and one for work in some branch of the arts.

The successful applicant must be a girl who has not only ranked high in her scholastic work, but who has also been outstanding in some form of activity, and has made some real contribution to the life of her alma mater. In her application she must tell at what institution she wishes to do her graduate work, explain very definitely what that work is to be, and just what use she expects to make of her studies in the future. She must submit a letter in her own hand writing, a transcript of her college record, a health certificate from a graduate physician, and a recent photograph. She must also send recommendations from two professors concerning her qualifications for the work planned, one from the dean of women, and recommendations from two alumni or friends who are not connected with the college.

Write for application blanks to Eleanor V. V. Bennet, 2531 Benvenue avenue, Berkeley, California, and return them to her by May 15 at latest.

you may wish to spend some time at the delightful Camp Onanole on Chateaugay lake, Merrill, New York. A Kappa, Bertha F. Tolman, owns this camp and she has special rates for us. See her advertisement in this number of THE KEY and write direct to her for more information or reservation. Camp Onanole is about 100 miles from the Seigniory club, and is on one of the loveliest big highways directly on the line of traffic to New York, Vermont or Lakes George, Champlain or Placid. Accommodations are limited at Camp Onanole so you had better write in advance, although Mrs. Tolman will be with us to give more information if you want it.

For the week at the Seigniory club, we are not promising about the weather and if any of you believe that galoshes and umbrellas will drive away the rain, do, by all means, bring them along. But we do promise that we have a program that we can adapt to any weather and it is going to be a perfectly wonderful convention. Reread what I said about clothes in the February KEY and then pack what you have and come along. We shall not think too much on clothes and you may bring as little or as much as you care to. But for delegates, be sure that you have the cap and gown for business sessions. The marshal will be glad to rent these for you, if you wish. Write her for order blank, as you must have the correct length for gown and size for cap.

It is a woman's prerogative to change her mind so we may wait to read your horoscope later in the week and become international-minded on the first day of convention, June 23. In any event as that is King Edward's birthday we shall want to help our Canadian sisters commemorate the day.

The whole week is going to be one of inspiration and enjoyment, and a time never to be forgotten in Kappa history. You must be with us, and find out for yourself that the Seigniory club is indeed good theatre.

sity of Manitoba. During her attendance there she obtained four Isbister scholarships. When, in June 1930, she received her M.D., she added to her laurels the Manitoba medical alumni gold medal for the highest aggregate during her entire medical course, as well as the Charlotte Ross gold medal in obstetrics.

January 1931 found Eleanor working as a fellow in pathology in the graduate medical school of the University of Minnesota at Rochester, Minnesota, and by December 1933 she had received the degree of master of science in pathology.

In July 1935 Eleanor had completed her fellowship; but Rochester had no intention of losing her and she received an additional honor by being placed on the staff of the Mayo clinic as an assistant in the pathology department. Beside this she is an instructor in pathology in the Mayo foundation.

She is the author of several scientific contributions in the field of pathology.

December 30, 1932, Eleanor married Dr. James Kernohan, surgical pathologist in the Mayo clinic.

She is a charter member of Gamma Sigma chapter. She has two Kappa sisters: Marion Harford, also a charter member of Gamma Sigma, and now residing in Vancouver, British Columbia, and Frances Fletcher, a member of Chi chapter. Frances is at present studying medicine at the University of Minnesota.

Motor Trip After Convention

By EUGEN C. ANDRES, JR. (now head man of the Kappa subsidiary, O.A.H., Only a Husband)

NO VISIT to the eastern part of the continent would be complete without coming down into old, quaint New England. The excellent location of the convention site is admirably fitted for the starting place of a motor tour through some of the New England states to historic Boston and back to Montebello via the sea shore. It would really take an entire summer to see half of the places of interest throughout New England, but in five or six days an extremely interesting, reasonable and worthwhile trip could be made.

After the convention we will leave in the crispness of the morning in a comfortable motor coach toward the New England hills and mountains with their cool, green slopes. Driving through New England is picturesque and refreshing and interesting. In the evening we will stay at a cozy, comfortable New England inn either in Vermont or New Hampshire. We leave again in the morning for Boston and after motoring through the countryside we will, in the afternoon, leave the quiet hills for the busy, narrow streets of historic Boston.

A night's rest in back of us, we will board a small steamer in the morning for Plymouth and Provincetown on the tip of Cape Cod where we can browse about this quaint place with its fishermen and its artists' colony. We can have a glance while at Plymouth at that famous rock which is so often mentioned, and which first served as a stepping stone to early callers along this shore. In the evening back in Boston we might take in a movie or an open air concert.

It should be good weather in the morning for us to do a bit of looking about Boston and its vicinity. So we leave for Lexington and Concord and a visit to some of the leading educational institutions. We'll take a look at Harvard and M.I.T.; glance at Radcliffe and Boston university and then run out to Wellesley. While we are out that way we can see what the Wayside inn looks like and glance at the unusual collection of antiques there.

We'll stay closer to town today and make the rounds of Boston in a rubber-neck wagon, which after all is the only way to see any city.

We all know more about other cities than we do our own. We'll see everything today, King's chapel, Paul Revere's house, Bunker hill monument where there was a little shooting years ago, the Old North church where some time ago lanterns were hung, the Old State house and Faneuil hall market and many other old places.

It is time in the morning to start back to Montebello and in a different direction. Those who have tickets directly home can use them, those who have not will climb into our fancy machine and we are off. We'll go this time via the beach resorts of New Hampshire and Maine, stopping once or twice en route to see how cold that Maine water is, anyway. After a night in Maine and a Maine breakfast, where everything from doughnuts and potatoes to pie is served, we wind up that day at Montebello where the travelers climb or fall onto their train to good old home.

Don't tell us YOU'RE not coming to convention!!!

Special Treats for That Kappa Post-Convention Tour

ALL ASHORE that are going ashore, all ashore that are going ashore!" Hawsters creak and away goes the gangplank! There'll be excitement and fun aplenty, July 3, when the Duchess of York sails from Montreal with the Kappa post-convention tour party—excitement and fulfillment of your dreams to see Europe.

You read about the Kappa post-convention tour in the February issue of THE KEY, and have probably already written for the tour folder, or have signed up to go along, for inquiries and reservations have been pouring in to central office from Kappas all over the United States, Canada, and even Hawaii! Margaret Goldsmith, of the London association, has written that she expects to return from Montreal to London with the group on the Duchess. Margaret, you know, is our illustrious author of Zeppelin, and The Life of Frederick the Great. At least five seniors are receiving the trip as a surprise graduation present from their parents. Who are the lucky ones? That's our secret and we intend to keep it until the eleventh hour!

Our London association is making elaborate arrangements to entertain the tour members, July 14. Lady Palmer has invited the entire group to attend a garden party at her country estate in Surrey that afternoon. Lady Palmer, you know, is a Kappa alumna, too. London, however, is not the only place that surprises and special advantages are in store for you. There will be swimming parties at Scheveningen and Lido-Venice, and a plan is on foot at the Europe-For-You tour offices to have the party witness a special showing of fall clothes in the atelier of Madame Jean Lanvin in the rue Saint Honore, Paris.

Wait until you see the hotels where reservations have been completed for the party! Internationally famous hostelries with balconied rooms and tea dancing and dining terraces! In Venice, members of the "Extension Over the Alps" will be treated to the sensation of actually staying in an old Venetian palace on the shores of the Grand canal. You can lean your elbows on old Doge Dandolo's own windowsill at the Royal Danieli hotel, and gaze up at the Venetian moon, and down at singing gondoliers fluttering across the lagoon. Moonlight in Venice, ah me! A contrast to all this romantic elegance is the Furkablick hotel, high in a Swiss mountain pass, where we will stop for luncheon, July 24. Here you can make snowballs in midsummer, and then eat under the same roof with the Furkablick's cows. It seems that the hotel's manager won't trust them any farther than he can throw them by their tails!

So far, reservations for the 28-day

Duchess Steamship Passing Under Harbor Bridge, Montreal

tour, and for the extension tour to Switzerland, Italy, and Mediterranean ports, have been about equal. In other words, about half of the tour members will return on the great Empress of Britain from Cherbourg, and the other half will continue to Naples to come home on the Italian line's Saturnia, re-decoration of which is now being rushed to completion in a Trieste shipyard. We still have good staterooms left on the Duchess of York, Empress of Britain, and Saturnia, but you will need to act quickly in order to be accommodated. If you haven't had a copy of the folder yet, rush your request to Rebecca Van Meter, Kappa central office, by air mail or telegram, so that you won't be left waving on the pier as we threatened in the February issue of THE KEY.

Kappa House Party in New York at Beekman Tower (Panhellenic)

NEW YORK KAPPAS who cannot attend convention are preparing to show their fraternity spirit by giving all visiting Kappas on their way to or from the convention in June, a grand time in Manhattan!

With members coming from every corner of the United States to Quebec and the Seigniory in June, it is only reasonable to suppose that they will want to see something of New York en route. To this end a post-convention house party is being arranged at Beekman Tower, Panhellenic headquarters in New York, beginning July 1, with a local committee of hostesses in charge. The program will cover a period of two days and will give the visitors a comprehensive idea of the largest city in the country and its many unique sights, as well as entertainment.

The same hospitality will be accorded visiting Kappas who stop in New York on their way to the convention, prior to June 23, and a program will be arranged to suit the time and the wishes of these delegates. They will be met by members of the reception committee if they will advise them in advance of their trains and stations. It should make relatives of young delegates traveling alone to the convention feel quite safe to know that they will be in the hands of friends from the moment they arrive in New York until they leave!

The first contingent of Kappa house party guests may be expected July 1, and for them a complete program of sight-seeing and entertainment will be offered at an approximate cost of $15.00 or less. The same program and the same offer will hold good for any visiting Kappas who arrive earlier in June or later in July.

The program will include all the famed sights of Manhattan: a three-hour sightseeing tour of New York by auto; a two-and-one-half hour sail around Manhattan (to prove that it is an island!); a tour to Rockefeller Center, with its gorgeous plaza and fountains, its lofty buildings, its broadcasting stations, homes of WEF and WJZ, an evening at the great music hall in the Center; personally conducted shopping expeditions; visits to the Metropolitan and Frick museums; luncheon at a Park avenue sidewalk cafe; a complimentary tea on the roof of Beekman Tower given by the directors of the Panhellenic House association, representing 20 national fraternities; visits to Brasstown, Harlem, Chinatown, Coney Island—and for those who stay long enough, an all-day picnic at Jones beach, the most fa-

Mortar Board Urges Reform in Politics

By KATHERINE WILLS COLEMAN
National President of Mortar Board

MORTAR BOARD at its recent national convention resolved to do all in its power to combat the evil political practices prevalent on many college campuses. National Panhellenic congress graciously permitted the president of Mortar Board to present to it a report on current political problems. After discussion, national Panhellenic congress went on record as favoring "coöperation with Mortar Board in correcting the evil practices of campus politics. Each national Panhellenic congress sorority shall assume the responsibility of holding its chapters to this policy."

Mortar Board wishes to ask your coöperation as chapters of the national Panhellenic congress sororities with our active chapters in the attempts made to solve on each campus the pressing problems. Mortar Board is interested because of the unhealthful effect upon student morale and upon the activities in which women participate, because of increasing friction between social groups, because of the weak officers sometimes chosen, because of the unwholesome pressure upon students interested in activities. We are impressed by the fact that so many people lay the blame for the political system at the door of the social groups. Can those of us who are fraternity women carelessly neglect the challenge in that statement?

Each chapter on each campus may find a different approach to the problems. Familiarize yourself with conditions on your own campus so that you can work intelligently toward improvement. We particularly urge you to stand with us for an election code which protects the voter; a party system, if we have parties, not of groups but of individuals; able candidates chosen and supported on their merits; the elimination of graft.

We hope for your staunch coöperation, not only because the problem is vital to the sorority's welfare, but because we trust that once again the sororities will see a valuable contribution they may make to college life as they stand for reform in politics, just as years ago they provided social life for congenial students, then improved housing, then popularized better scholarship. Mortar Board and the national Panhellenic congress sororities should be able to gain our objectives. Let us try valiantly!

Phi Beta Kappa's New Quarterly

IN FORTHRIGHT black letters on its white cover, with the gold outline of its famous key framing the table of contents, Phi Beta Kappa's new quarterly, The Key Reporter, made its initial appearance with the winter 1936 issue.

Editor William A. Shimer, secretary of the United Chapters, states that the publication "should be able not only to dissipate the occasional mistaken impression that Phi Beta Kappa is doing nothing, but should be able also to maintain concern for Phi Beta Kappa ideals of excellence and freedom in scholarship, and of cultural breadth of interest."

"Coloring" is desired for The Key Reporter's pages which "will not be cluttered with dutiful accounts of routine activities or glowing notes on individuals or institutions which make a few readers very happy and the rest very bored."

"Coloring" for the first number included "The Phi Beta Kappa Handshake," "Bayta Battles Beeta," and "$500,000 Educational Survey."

The survey refers to a projected two-year study of public education in New York state. One of the three members of the board of regents' committee is Owen D. Young, husband of the late Josephine Edmonds Young, B. B. Mr. Young is a senator of Phi Beta Kappa, chairman of its foundation and chairman of its executive committee.

Under "Gifts to the Foundation" our bright Kappa eyes also noted a report from the New York alumnae of Phi Beta Kappa. Said the item, "The present officers, headed by Mrs. Theodore Westermann, Nebraska '96 (and Sigma of K K Γ), are considering the creation of a scholarship fund to be administered by the Foundation."

To The Key Reporter, greetings and good wishes from THE KEY!

Vocational Guidance Bureau

Two Kappa Executives of Safeway Stores, Inc.

Future Exists for Home Economists in Business; Varied Experience Is Helpful

HOW WOULD you feed a family of ten on $15 a week? Why won't the jelly jell? Can you tell us how to amuse a crowd that doesn't play bridge? And where are the pictures that were supposed to accompany this week's Family Circle copy?

On and on through the days questions such as these pour on the desk of Julia Perrin Hindley, B II, and she answers them. As director of the Safeway Stores homemakers' bureau, under the name of Julia Lee Wright, she is giving a unique and helpful service to thousands of western housewives.

For 12 years she has been in business home economics work, starting shortly before her marriage to Philip M. Hindley, Σ N, a San Francisco newspaperman. Her first work was with dairy products companies, devising and explaining new ways to serve cheese and milk products. Then for the General Electric company she conducted newspaper cooking schools throughout the west and in the Hawaiian islands.

Later, she directed the home economics department of an Oakland newspaper, and then came the opportunity to build the Safeway homemakers' bureau.

This was started from scratch. The first major activity was radio broadcasting, covering the western network, which built up a demand for the bureau's individual service to homemakers in addition to the printed recipes and periodical bulletins that were issued. So great was the mail that 12 girls were employed to take care of correspondence.

The next venture was a series of cooking schools, as many as 300 in a Kappas who read "McCall's" magazine for March 1936 should know that Julia Lee Wright, author of the second in the magazine's series of articles on wise buying, "Fish Comes to the Rescue!" is Julia Perrin Hindley (Mrs. Philip Martin), Beta Pi.

A native of California, born in Los Angeles, she has been "Julia Lee Wright" for the past five years. Under this name she is director of the Safeway homemakers' bureau, largest department of its kind in the west.

Her hobbies are the collecting of cook books, old and new; and the collecting of geese, of china, glass and wood. When Julia was a small child she had a pet goose. Now her collection of geese of all sizes and descriptions, even including a stuffed goose, numbers more than 150 items.

For Kappa's vocational guidance bureau the accompanying article has been written, detailing Mrs. Hindley's work.

season, sponsored by Safeway and newspapers. This required training of six home economists, direction of an advertising budget that reached $150,000, and months of travel through 10 western states. These schools were conducted for three successive years. In the meantime, the regular service of the bureau was maintained in the Oakland headquarters.

In the midst of this activity, Mrs. Hindley and her staff prepared and published a cook-book written especially for western women, with the produce and climatic conditions in mind.

Another feature of the homemakers' bureau is the testing kitchen, where recipes are tested under home conditions. The kitchen also serves the Safeway organization by examining products considered for purchase, making countless analyses in answer to questions of the departmental buyers.

The most recent of the bureau's manifold activities is preparation of articles for the Family Circle, the clever magazine distributed through the Safeway Stores. This requires planning for as much as six months to a year ahead, with seasonal articles and illustrations to be considered. It is one of the most satisfying parts of the work to Mrs. Hindley, and has brought her stimulating contacts with other women who work in home economics journalism on a national scale.

There is almost a Kappa monopoly in the homemakers' bureau office, for Mrs. Hindley's chief assistants are Mrs. Hazel Bragdon Noyes, Beta Pi founder, and Mrs. Mary Clarke Tullock, B II.

Mrs. Hindley has served as chairman of the San Francisco Bay section of the business women of the American Home Economics association, is a member of the Women's City club and a charter member of Presidio chapter, D.A.R.

She believes there is a definite place for trained home economists in business. The major manufacturers and distributors of food are paying increasing attention to home economics service. In her work, Mrs. Hindley has found experience in journalism, public speaking, business administration and diplomacy valuable. The rewards in this work, she believes, are adequate, surprisingly so in view of its comparative novelty. And then there is the satisfaction of giving a dependable and personal service to women throughout the west.

Knowledge of Life, Culture, Writing Is Good Basis for Advertising Career

By DELPHINE SCHMITT, Δ Z

FOR THE PAST 14 years I have been in the employ of W. N. Haraway, who started in the chain store grocery business in Colorado 16 years ago. For the past 10 years I have handled advertising for the stores under his supervision. A short biographical sketch will probably give the necessary background of this work.

I am a graduate of Colorado college, having received my A.B. degree there in 1914, with a major in Latin and Greek, and a "cum laude" diploma. I received my M.A. at Denver university in June 1934, with a major in English literature, a minor in English composition, and a thesis on "The Tradition of Platonic Mysticism in English Poetry."

After leaving Colorado college in 1914 I taught school for three years, then decided in favor of business; took a course in shorthand and typewriting, and went to work for O. H. Shoup of Colorado Springs in December 1917. I did War Savings and Liberty Loan duty until the close of the war, then was transferred to the office of the Manitou Mineral Water company. I came to Denver in 1922 to do secretarial work for W. N. Haraway, then district manager of Piggly Wiggly Stores, Inc.

After about two years of secretarial work, he decided to put me in charge of the advertising, which he had been doing himself, in order to get the "woman's point of view" into it. At first I handled this job in addition to his secretarial work. About 10 years ago I took over the advertising exclusively, doing the job entirely alone, hiring art work done on the outside. After a few years help became necessary. My department now consists of an artist, two women who type ads and do layout, and a stenographer-bookkeeper in addition to myself. I do all of the copy writing, in addition to the general superintending of all advertising, and the purchase of space for the Denver district.

The company has been reincorporated and has changed hands several times. The last purchase made us part of the Safeway Stores, Inc., and my present position is that of divisional advertising manager, Denver division; and my department services the Safeway, Piggly Wiggly, and MacMarr stores of Colorado, Northern New Mexico, and two towns in western Kansas.

As my preparation at Colorado college was not precisely technical as regards the advertising work thrust upon me, I enrolled in the Denver university school of commerce in 1925, and took their advertising course and all the writing courses they offered. Later I transferred to the city college of the arts school in order to obtain an M.A., and decided to major in poetry and modern literature, as the best obtainable background for pungent copy writing. Perhaps my choice of these subjects is not orthodox, but very few people would expect a classics major who deserted for business to make an orthodox decision.

I consider cultural background the most important thing for young women who wish to go into advertising. I do not believe the college major makes a great difference, although if I had known I was going into advertising I should certainly not have chosen Latin and Greek for a major. Perhaps English, either literature or composition, or psychology, or economics, or history. However, as much culture as possible in the background, and as much knowledge as possible about people, their likes, their dislikes, their foibles, their hobbies, and so on. Most people have no idea what sort of thing they are going to be called upon to advertise, and a short, intensive, analytical study of the product or business is a part of the advertising woman's job. Ability to read, reason, and comprehend are the necessary assets, and one can get these as easily majoring in math as in anything else!

One indispensable tool is the ability to write. Most advertising is built up from the copy end. Art work is nearly always made to fit the idea, and the idea is usually expressed in copy before the artist goes to work. There are some exceptions, but this is the rule. Therefore, learn to write. Good, readable copy, not fancy, but fresh and different. Courses in writing—short story, article, essay, poetry, all are useful. But don't think that writing ability will make a good advertising woman out of you! Broad knowledge of life is much more important. Most intelligent people can learn to write, and advertising copy is very short, after all.

Be able to type. To be able to take dictation is a mighty good wedge. My entree into advertising was through the secretarial door. But don't take a business major, because advertising requires more knowledge of the world at large than a business course will give you. Better take your shorthand and typing at a business college during vacation, and practice it taking class notes and transcribing them.

Don't be afraid of work. Overtime is like savings, it accrues to your credit. Don't be afraid to get your business experience in another line of work, always having a feeler out for an "advertising" job. Maybe you can take on the advertising for the firm with which you have done stenographic work. Maybe you can get a stenographic job in an advertising agency. In the eastern United States the advertising profession is pretty well developed. In the west, with the exception of the Pacific coast states, it is pretty much up to the individual to work out her own job.

Widening Fields in Social Work

By MARGUERITE NELSON ECHTERNACH, B M
Case Supervisor Hollywood LACRA

SINCE ONE-FIFTH of the population of the United States is receiving either public or private relief, it is easy to understand why there has been such an increased demand for social workers during the past two years.

Before the depression the private agencies and local public agencies were able to care for all those whose condition was traceable to some personal maladjustment. But the depression proved to be more or less of a national disaster, and it was necessary for the government to provide funds to care for employables who could not for the time being find a place in gainful pursuits.

This has caused a distinct change in the character of the clientele of social case work. Instead of dealing almost altogether with people who need guidance in becoming adjusted to difficulties, the social worker today is dealing with persons who are thoroughly capable under normal conditions of taking care of themselves but are temporarily forced to ask for relief because of the general lack of employment.

These constitute the "new poor" or "dispossessed." Many have unusually fine backgrounds and have been proficient and successful along their own professional lines—musicians, sculptors, lawyers, actors, business men and women, even graduates of West Point and Annapolis. The number of college people on relief is astounding.

These circumstances make social work more interesting and at the same time more difficult. Greater tact and a broader understanding is required to handle the problems of the "dispossessed." Feeding and housing are less than half the problem; keeping up the client's spirits is the challenging task.

An example taken at random from a day's work may serve to illustrate. A handsome young couple in their late twenties apply for relief. She is of Castilian descent, well-educated, speaking Spanish, English and French with equal facility. The husband is a scenario writer and an authority on certain phases of the cinema, who formerly earned as high as $10,000 a year. Both have been used to living the Bohemian life common in Hollywood motion picture circles. The problem is to fit them into a $35 a month budget until the husband can complete certain literary work which promises an income.

Another example. A widow with a 19-year-old son and 11-year-old daughter is without funds. The girl suffers from a glandular ailment. The boy, who is brilliant, wants to study medicine and become a psychiatrist. He has been offered scholarships by leading universities but cannot accept because of a lack of funds. In an attempt to provide for his mother and sister, he went to a CCC camp but was discharged because of eye trouble. Meeting the immediate physical needs of the family is comparatively easy. Keeping up their morale and helping them work their way out of their difficulty is the real problem.

Poise and Humor Needed

Most people are in social work because they love it, rather than because it provides a means of earning a living. Not everyone would be happy or successful in the work. A person needs to have poise, and to be adaptable, sincere, broadminded and reasonable. A keen sense of humor helps to relieve many tense situations. One should have a wholesome background and be able to picture himself in the situation of another. The over-sympathetic person will have difficulty in maintaining an objective point of view. A successful worker should appreciate the feelings of the client but not be overcome by them.

As the WPA and PWA programs go into effect most of the employables now under the wings of the FERA will be placed on work projects and the government's need for social workers will decrease. There will still be, however, a strong demand for trained social workers both by public and private agencies. It is difficult even for the most optimistic to see an end to the need for some kind of relief for years ahead. We may not know where changing economic conditions are leading us, but we can be certain that a multiplicity of social problems will follow in their wake.

Standards for the social worker are being raised. It is now almost as necessary for the social worker to have a degree in social work as it is for the doctor or lawyer to have a degree in his profession. And new fields are opening up for the specialized social worker, such as medical social work, psychiatric social work, and child guidance, which call for specialized knowledge.

Salary ranges vary. Private agencies of good standing give excellent training to students and a few volunteer workers. After being partially trained, workers are placed on a salary of $50 to $65 a month, and then, on gaining experience, may work up to as much as $175 a month. Most of the public agencies now start their workers at $100 a month and there is not much chance for advancement until an executive position is assumed. Some of the excellent social work executives receive as much as $400 a month, while top positions, such as the heads of a state-wide or nation-wide organization, command $7500 a year and up.

Because of the fact that the government relief agencies had to be organized almost overnight in order to care for the vast number of unemployed who were suddenly with us, many college people without previous social work training have been employed during the past two years. Some who had trained to be teachers now find they like social work better, but because of the somewhat lower salary scale of the partially trained social worker have now returned to teaching to earn money enough to enter a school of social work.

Group and Case Work

Social work divides itself into two classifications—group work and case work. Group work includes work in settlements, Scout work, Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. activity, girls and boys clubs, playground work, juvenile camps, etc. The Government maintains many group activities in its CCC and transient camps, and the opportunities are growing. College activities of all kinds will be beneficial in preparation for this work.

Case work deals with each family as a separate unit and includes family case work, medical case work, psychiatric

Delta's Cherished Portraits

IN THE living room of Delta's chapter house at Bloomington, Indiana, hang two portraits of chapter founders, Lena Adams Beck and Anna Buskirk Hill. The portraits were the work of Randolph Coates, Indiana artist, and were unveiled in December 1934.

At that time Beryl Showers Holland (Mrs. J. E. P.), president of the board of directors, presented them to the Delta association and the active chapter. Re-

February 1936 THE KEY must explain that it was necessary to hold this material over to the April KEY. The Delta News reported that "Helen Bower, editor of THE KEY, who attended the province convention, was very much impressed with the portraits, and as a result pictures of them will appear in the February issue of THE KEY."

On the subject of portraits, the January Fleur-de-Lis scooped THE KEY by being first

The pictures were unveiled by Nat Hill, grandson of Mrs. Hill, and Mrs. Robert Huncilman, granddaughter of Mrs. Beck. Relatives of the founders who were present included Philip Hill, Dr. W. N. Culmer, and Fred Back.

To readers of The Delta News for to print the information that the life-sized aquarelle portrait of Tade Hartsuff Kuhns, painted in 1916 by the late Elizabeth Gowdy Baker, A, now hangs in the arts building at Monmouth college.

Until a permanent location is determined for the portrait, it has been accepted on loan from the fraternity by Dr. T. H. McMichael, president of Monmouth college. Valued at $5000, the portrait was presented to Kappa Kappa Gamma on the fraternity's 50th anniversary in 1920.

To prove how many years Henrietta Baker Kennedy has known the joy of a Kappa garden, here is an early picture. Early, indeed; for the Kennedy youngsters bravely posed on the little foot bridge are now in high school! The iris garden itself now has a stone wall as background. An arched bridge painted Chinese red curves gracefully above the brook; and the slope has been terraced with paths between. Such a garden, and the charming article which tells about it, could only be the work of one who loves flowers—and Kappa Kappa Gamma—very much.

*"A garden is earth's hymn of praise to Heaven,
Sun every season in some changing tune,
Where chords are colors, and where odors sweet
Are tender symphonies."*

HOW FORTUNATE we are, we Kappas, living as we do from Toronto to Texas, from Vermont to California, that the adaptable iris is our fraternity flower!

I like to think that the traits which make the iris so preeminently the "orchid of the hardy garden" are characteristic of our Kappa chapters and members, wherever they may be. For this gorgeous and stately flower flour-ishes in many soils, makes itself at home in every condition and climate, resists disease, and flowers over a long period of time. It is easy to cultivate with a minimum of supervision, and has great tenacity in heat or cold.* Kappa graces both our small colleges and large universities; Kappa's flower, with its wide range of color and variety of form, lends distinction to both the cottage and the most formal garden. As one collector expresses it, "The iris has poise and breeding." And, to complete our Kappa-iris analogy, the iris, for its best development, must be divided and transplanted every four years!

* There is an iris flower on a bas-relief of the time of Thotmes III, about 1500 B.C.

"Wherever the religion of the Crescent penetrated, the beautiful white 'I. albicans' was carried by the Mohammedans, either as a sacred emblem or as a conventional ornament for their cemeteries. This iris is today found in remote parts of Mexico, and yet the Mohammedans were driven out of Spain in 1492. Fit emblem of eternity!"

You, Kappa sister, know our flower as it lends beauty to chapter house or banquet table. But do you know the thrill of raising it in your own or chapter garden? If not, may I tempt you to experiment by inviting you into my garden?

Early in the spring we shall find the dwarf or baby irises, the freshmen of the garden. Exquisitely fragrant, all charming, they come in a variety of shades. But if you choose to keep to Kappa colors, look at those clumps of light and dark blue nestling together near the yellow primrose. I am sorry I can't tell you their names, for they were given to me by a Delta Gamma mother. However, if you order from a catalog, you might try "Princess Louise" or "Azurea" for the light blue, and for the deeper, "Aphylla Osiris" or "Ultra." And do plant the yellow primrose or lacey corydalis near by. Your iris will make a more charming picture with it, even as Kappa should reveal its beauty the more in association with other worthy campus flowers.

If you come a few weeks later, we shall together examine the progress of the intermediates, my sophomores. Tried and tested, they are valuable for their associations, for with them bloom the iris of our grandmothers' gardens. "I. germanica," the "blue flag," has been known in gardens for more than 300 years. Undoubtedly this is the fleur-de-lis chosen in 1890 as our fraternity flower. In our history we find that our colors were chosen in 1881 and that later the fleur-de-lis was recommended as the flower because "the two blues are combined in the one flower." "I. germanica" is fast disappearing from the catalogs, crowded out by the many novelties born in the twentieth century. Would it not be in keeping with Kappa sentiment to preserve the iris chosen by our early members? And would you not like to hand on to your daughter or granddaughter, Kappa or actual, along with other Kappa traditions a "start" from that selfsame iris and others in your Kappa garden?

Since Iris was the goddess of the rainbow, my own garden is vari-colored. So over there is lilac iris Mrs. Alan Gray with pink Clara Butt tulips. If, for your garden, you desire blue and blue, visit an iris grower when the intermediates are in bloom and choose for yourself what best satisfies you among the newer varieties. There again is the charm of gardening. Each garden is unique, yet each exemplifies "unity in variety."

But now in May and June comes the time of the garden's greatest glory and the fulfillment of one's dream—the flowering of the tall bearded iris, "the seniors," and the grassy-leaved, smaller flowered Siberian "juniors."

It is easy to find our "blue of sky and sea," the true Kappa blues, in the Siberian* iris. Try the taller, dark blue "Emperor" behind the azure "Butterfly." In my garden Siberian iris grows on the edge of the brook, one of the "many waters" from which came the name "Walla Walla." It must have been of this iris that Longfellow wrote:

*"Thou art the Iris, fair among the fairest,
Who armed with golden rod
And winged with the celestial azure bearest
The message of some god."*

*Oh fleur-de-luce bloom on and let the river
Linger to kiss thy feet!
Oh flower of song, bloom on, and make forever
The world more fair and sweet."*

In the tall bearded iris, commonly called German,* one has a complete palette of colors in all shades and combinations from which to paint one's garden pictures. One is overwhelmed by the wealth of material in these new, large-flowered, modern beauties.

*"I. sibirica" never saw Siberia, nor did "I. germanica" come from Germany. German irises are not varieties of "I. germanica" but hybrids of many species, developed by modern plant wizards. In this connection it is an amusing yet sad commentary that during the World war the so-called German iris were often listed as "Liberty iris."

I have found that many of the combinations given by eastern growers or even those on the Pacific coast west of the Cascades do not materialize in our valley except in unusual years. So I work out my own, which also often vary from year to year. Gardening is not a static affair, but deals with live material in more senses than one.

One of my happiest garden choices last year was of a blue and blue iris with pink lupine; one of my most successful indoor pictures was arranged for the party of a Theta friend. In a huge green bowl were combined crinkled pink Oriental poppies with rose-lilac iris and the foliage of rosa spinosissima.

In an iris garden one must not overlook the Spanish and Dutch iris, which come in lovely tones of blue and blue. I had them once, planted with yellow violas. But they, like the aristocratic July-blooming Japanese (Shall we call these the alumnæ?), require especial treatment and care. So start your garden with the hardier varieties.

In a few years, as they are fast being developed, we shall have a race of fall-blooming iris. Is this not a challenge to some Kappa botanist to develop a blue and blue for the fall rush parties?

Many of the most beautiful iris are inexpensive. But were they not, we have been well advised to "Spend all you have for loveliness; Spend it, and count not the cost."

Few of us can be "Kappas Known to Fame." But many of us can find joy in creating and sharing a Kappa garden.

case work, child welfare, child guidance and probation work.

Courses in philosophy, all branches of psychology including pathological and psychiatry, sociology, social problems, labor problems and statistics are beneficial to all social workers. It should be kept in mind that in order to obtain a degree in social work, it is necessary to attend an accredited school of social work; and the future holds definitely greater promise for the worker with a degree.

So much for the factual side of social work. One of its greatest advantages is its broadening influence. In your reference contacts you deal with people from every walk of life and every type of organization—not only clients but doctors, lawyers, courts, asylums, police departments, hospitals, etc. You gain something from every contact and it is really surprising how interesting even "colorless" individuals are when as a social worker you really get to know them.

The greatest thing of all is the real joy you get out of each day's work. For the busy worker many days seem disappointing, but the cases in which you are really able to put people on their feet again make up for your many efforts which appear to be of no avail.

So Sorry!

Just to prove that editors can look at things and not see them, we submit our spectacular and senseless error, in the February KEY, in letting Beta Kappa appear as "Chartered 1870." The result of our editorial blind spot produced no complaint from Alpha. But Gertrude Stephenson Stutsman (Mrs. Carl A.), B K, called our attention to the mistake and reminded us that Beta Kappa was installed February 26, 1916, which means that the chapter is 20 years old this year. We appreciate the interest of Mrs. Stutsman in having written from Los Angeles, where her husband is a judge of the superior court.

As if that wasn't enough, the format change in the directory pages produced Eleanor "U. U." Bennet as chairman of fellowships. Eleanor, happily progressing at Berkeley, thinks the new initials must stand for "Upper" and "Under." But we will restore the V. V., which stand for "Vansickle" and "Vanderbelt"; and hope we're done with typographical errors and such.

It may comfort our victims to know that we were on the receiving end of an astounding typo in our own newspaper, that is to say the one for which we work. The announcement of a speech we were to make before a Detroit woman's club got mixed up with the announcement of an engagement, with results in one edition that made us fair game for some sensational "ribbing."

Mr. and Mrs. Buster Crabbe of the Pictures

By LUCY GUILD, Γ Ξ

SO MANY of us are inclined to credit movie stars with a life of riotous excitement. On the contrary, they are delightfully normal people and live regular, normal lives. Take Mr. and Mrs. Buster Crabbe, for instance.

Mrs. Crabbe was Virginia Held, of Gamma Xi chapter at the University of California at Los Angeles. She met Buster in Honolulu and the romance started right away—or so they tell us. When asked to tell the interviewer what her life is like and what happens, she merely said, "Oh, nothing special," and outlined the following pleasant, leisurely plan of living.

Virginia and Buster have their own little house, owned and furnished by themselves. It is delightful, informal and even a trifle futuristic. Located out towards the beach, it is in the Wilshire district of Los Angeles. Virginia has a maid, but is herself an excellent cook and a faultless housekeeper.

Breakfast is at eight promptly, for Buster has to get off to work. Then comes a morning of bustling and cleaning. Sometimes Buster is home to lunch, but more often not, as some of his pictures have settings which require long trips on location and long hours of continuous work. Virginia is off to do some of the charity work in which she is interested, but home early enough to supervise the preparation of dinner.

The Crabbes are invited out very often, even too often according to Virginia, who has an eye out for conserving Buster's strength. But parties must be forbidden during the week unless it is a vacation week. The young couple belong to a prominent beach club, where they spend as many of the summer days as is possible. Buster plays on the volleyball team, in fact he's the captain; and Virginia never misses a chance to cheer from the sidelines.

They enjoy doing the same things. Long, long swims are a favorite occupation and Buster even keeps his surf board in readiness for one of the infrequent perfect waves that boom on the Santa Monica shoreline. At a recent benefit entertainment they consented to put on an adagio dance which was really beautifully done. Tiny Virginia had to take long steps to keep up with the famous stride of her husband.

Virginia is a loyal Kappa. The story is told that on one occasion she was much worried because Buster had to play in a college picture wherein he was supposed to be in love with a Theta. It is said that the director lifted the phone one day to hear her timidly inquire, "Couldn't you change the script and let her be a Kappa?"

They're really a charming and very quiet couple. And they say very hospitably, "Won't you come and see us sometime?"

As Lucy Guild sagely observed in a letter to THE KEY, the pictures of Buster and Virginia Crabbe "are really nuggets and any newspaper or magazine would tear their hair to get them."

Thanks to Lucy's enterprise, THE KEY got both news and nuggets without a gnash of its teeth or a tear of its hair!

Other Kappas in motion pictures as noted by Lucy, are "Charlotte Russell, who won a contest and is one of Eddie Cantor's friends; Mary Anita Loos, who plays small parts and goes constantly with Francis Lederer; Betty Flournoy, who married Ralph Graves."

THE KEY may have hoped; but it didn't hint and it didn't ask. Now, from Beta Omega at the University of Oregon, has come the first picture taken in a Kappa house library. The bookish quintette includes Peggy Carper and Jean Favier on the davenport, June Brown sitting back of them, Marion Dryer choosing something to read, and Eleanor Anderson making a few reading notes. Good work, Beta Omega!

Does any other chapter have a circulating shelf of books borrowed from its college library, and renewed monthly?

"We Like to Study Here"

By GAYLE BUCHANAN, B Ω, KEY Correspondent

DEAN OF PERSONNEL Karl W. Onthank of the University of Oregon instigated a movement this year for bettering the libraries and study rooms of housed organizations on the campus. Here is a phase of fraternity planning needful of and waiting for new and constructive ideas.

Beta Omega members were happy to have their library chosen as one of the most outstanding on the campus. The room itself is conducive to good study habits, reading for pleasure, and good, quiet browsing. Bright chintz curtains, attractive furniture, and a fireplace add to its attraction on wintry afternoons. New indirect lighting fixtures make reading pleasant.

Among the magazines found on the shelves are: Time, Reader's Digest, and Scribner's. An interesting bulletin board kept alive by current articles of interest, recent book reviews, and pictures plays an important part.

Representative is Barbara Thompson, who confers with library heads to plan a constructive program. She also manages the circulating shelf of books borrowed from the university library, and refilled each month.

An attractive, active library as a place for study and pleasure adds a note of culture, of "hominess" to any living organization.

Pacific's Paradise Is Home to These Kappas

WHILE SO many of us on "the mainland" are planning for convention, in Hawaii the Kappas are hoping that other Kappas may come to the summer session at the University of Hawaii. Certainly if one can't visit the Seignior club, nothing could be nicer than going to Honolulu—unless it might be to dash from the Seignior club across the continent and half the Pacific to Honolulu.

"Many of Hawaii's Kappas are in very interesting work," writes Marjorie Flegel, B Ω, secretary of the Hawaiian association, who is on the faculty of the Mid-Pacific institute. "Just living in Hawaii forces one to mingle or work with mixed nationalities.

"Mrs. Arthur Restarick (J. Purdy, B Ω) is at the Academy of Arts, Honolulu's art center. Mary Wallace, B B, teaches at Kamehameha girls' school, a heavily endowed institution; Arah Weidman, Ω, at Queen's hospital, which is conducting a most fascinating experiment in the nutrition field; and Esther Eiffert, Γ H, and Alice Ficke, B K, are at McKinley high school, the largest public school on the islands where there is only a handful of white children. There are many Kappas whose husbands are with the army or navy and many of them live in interesting sections."

Sounds as if the heaven ("Paradise of the Pacific") which is Hawaii would be like home to Kappas!

Kappa Personalities

Betty Kibbee, Γ T, senior, has been appointed by Mrs. Nell Nichols, assistant editor of Woman's Home Companion, to the food reporters' group of the magazine. Betty is one of seven members who will write articles on recipes and preparing foods.

Elaine Updyke, Γ A, is laboratory technician at the Henry Ford hospital, Detroit.

Ruth Sturtevant Pierce (Mrs. Harold), Γ A, is supervisor of nursery schools in Vermont.

Ruth E. Baldwin Pierson (Mrs. J. C.), Γ P, whose poems have been reprinted in various issues of THE KEY, was a delegate to the convention of the Poetry Society of America, January 31, at the Hotel Biltmore, New York City. She was sent as delegate from the Rochester (New York) Poetry society and the Poets' Round Table.

Delta Province

AFTER TWO weeks of holiday cheer and sleep it seemed good to board a train and take up my trekking again and begin a four-month western swing. Kappa chapter at Hillsdale started me off, with a nice snowstorm to boot, and it was good to see so many familiar faces. The chapter has been running along smoothly this year, but we're sorry to see Dorothy Norman, their president, leave even though she is going to be married. There appears to be a great deal of pep and enthusiasm in the chapter this year. I found the girls most receptive to all my suggestions. Sorry I missed seeing the alumnae together, but it was fine to meet and visit with Ruth Mauck Walrath who has always been so interested in Kappa.

An almost private bus (I was the only passenger most of the way) brought me to Delta Gamma at Michigan State for the week-end. A busy few days they were, climaxed by a lovely tea Sunday. The chapter has a pledge class which it can be proud of, and it is very gratifying to see the whole chapter so well respected on the campus. The alumnae too are most active and a big help to the chapter.

One day divided between the South Bend and Gary associations was full of activity and fun. The South Bend group seems to have undergone quite a few mishaps, but was pepped up to turn over a new leaf before I left them. I surely enjoyed an evening with Mr. and Mrs.

Franklin Schurz. I recommend Mr. Schurz as a sightseeing guide, for he made a good job of showing me South Bend. Gary has a lot of enthusiastic Kappas, more than interested in what I had to say about Kappa. I hope you all know Gary has sand dunes—very nice ones, too, on Lake Michigan. South Bend and Gary draw Kappas from everywhere so they have a variety of interests and personalities.

Epsilon Province

Thence to Wisconsin to spend a few days with Eta chapter. They were just on the verge of examinations, but I managed to find a few minutes to spend with them between studying and all their social engagements. They are an attractive chapter and have a lovely home—I hope they are going to feel inspired to fill that newly-decorated library with good books. The Kappas took me on my first sure-enough sleigh ride. I got a big kick out of it, but question it being a "ride"—it seemed to me I ran most of the time. The alumnae happened to be having one of their big meetings at the Kappa house during my stay, so I had a fine chance to meet all of them and hear about their activities. The famously beautiful Wisconsin campus was even lovelier under a blanket of snow.

Chi at Minnesota has been progressing right along under the able leadership of Barbara Bruce. This chapter, too, has a fine pledge class. If all go to convention who think they might, Chi will take the prize again for attendance. Chi has gotten its numbers down to normal again and are appreciating how nice it is really to know each other. A low of 33.5° below zero afforded plenty of excitement. From then on I brought record-breaking weather with me. I stole time off to see "The Old Maid" and enjoyed it even if it was a bit depressing. It was encouraging to hear that the Minneapolis alumnae are reviving interest in their big association and at last are budg-eting. I got to see many alumnae and mothers at their tea and got a peek at Florence Westlake when I lunched with her and Carolyn McCarthy. Chi alumnae everywhere will be interested to hear the house debt is almost wiped out and the house restuccoed as well this year.

Next I went north to Winnipeg to visit Gamma Sigma. It was impressive to see the country in mourning for King George. The chapter put on an initiation at which I was no help at all since the cold weather had claimed my voice. An initiation banquet with several gay and clever stunts followed. It was fun to visit in Helen Upham Hall's home again and to find her daughter, Kay, a Kappa this time. I was so glad to see the chapter had gotten a chapter room, even if it is a "penthouse." The loyalty and interest of the Winnipeg alumnae are a joy to see and the chapter cannot help but prosper with them at hand. I loved meeting Anna Speers' family and lunching with them.

Still more sub-zero weather and snow down at North Dakota State. Gamma Tau always stages freak weather for me—last year it was dust! The chapter still keeps up its pep and has an unusual amount of musical and dramatic talent. My visit was a round of social engagements—lunch with the Mothers' club, pot luck with the alumnae, a lovely tea given by the actives and another pot luck with the actives. You can see how energetic and cordial they are. I'm still regretting that toboggan slide I didn't do, but 20° below is too cold for a semi-southerner. Dean Dinan was awfully generous with her time while I went shopping about for haircuts, etc.

Iota Province

A beautiful trip over the snow-covered Rockies gave me a fine introduction to Iota province. Snow and ice have accompanied me all the way, but have just added to the beauty of the country. The University of Montana, where Beta Phi chapter is located, is nestled in a valley surrounded by mountains and is a lovely spot. The students are so proud of their new Student Union building and are wondering how they ever managed without it. The university is boasting a new president and dean of women, the latter a Kappa of whom we are proud. Gradual improvements on the house are being made each year which add to its comfort and beauty. The girls were great sports during my visit, even if I arrived a day early unannounced, and they kept me busy day and night with meetings and conferences. One evening was pleasantly spent with the alumnae. It was especially nice to see Mary Rodes Leaphart, Beta Chi, an "ex" national and province officer, who has a daughter in Beta Phi now.

The Spokane alumnae were making big plans for their fashion show to be given Valentine's day when I met with them one evening. It was not only nice to see the Kappas in Spokane, but also officers of other Panhellenic fraternities at a tea at Virginia Hoxsey's home. They were making most interesting sounding plans for the northwest Panhellenic conclave to be late in February. I wish we might have more of these gatherings.

The Beta Kappas at Idaho are not only gracious hostesses, but also good nurses and helped me conquer a mean cold. This chapter loves to entertain so well that the budget consequently suffers; but they showed me how well they can do it, at a beautiful reception for faculty and students. Some pledges they have, too—all twelve of them made their initiation averages. Beta Kappa is a thoroughly fine group with much school and fraternity loyalty and enthusiasm. They appear to have an awfully good time at Idaho, too. The alumnae entertained at dinner for the upperclassmen and me at the home of Neta Miller Bailey. We hope the Moscow association will soon be numbered among our national groups.

Gamma Eta at Washington State is working hard. Although it is feeling the loss of a great number of people since school opened in the fall, it is coming along in great shape. Gamma Eta has a beautiful house which is comparatively new. It looked its best when they had a lovely dinner with such celebrities present as the president of the college, dean of women, and faculty mothers and fathers. Washington State is a growing campus. Situated as it is among the hills this affords awfully good winter sports just now, in which some of the Kappas are taking an active part. The Pullman alumnae are a plucky little group who meet regularly and are on hand when the chapter needs them. A dinner and "chat-ty" evening spent with them was most enjoyable.

It was a great satisfaction finally to visit Gamma Gamma at Walla Walla and see what that chapter was really like. I scarcely arrived before they whisked me off to a tea in their newly-decorated and attractive chapter room where I met crowds of Kappas and a sprinkling of other fraternity people. Gamma Gamma has a big chapter this year and surprised itself by getting such a large pledge class. They appear to have a good time together and are a most attractive chapter. It was quite a novel experience for me to go to the state penitentiary with the girls to sing for the convicts at their Sunday morning exercises. The girls are beautiful singers. The Walla Walla alumnae have an active and alert association, maintaining a keen interest in chapter affairs as well as fraternity ones. They, too, were talking "fashion show." One of their members said, "You should taste the food we have," and they surely outdid themselves the night I was there at the home of Henrietta Baker Kennedy, which is a real collector's haven.

A beautiful bus trip brought me to the Wenatchee Valley where I had an opportunity to see the Kappas at luncheon at Vida McKern Scea's home. There is a variety of interests in the group, but babies seem to be the common one. I hope they are going to increase their interest in the fraternity in the coming months and keep their association together.

In Memoriam

FRANCES THERESA RUSSELL, B Z, professor of English at Stanford university, February 15, 1936.

Two years ago THE KEY published an appreciation of two of her recent books, Two Poets, a Boy and a Dog, and Touring Utopia. At the same time a set of her works was presented to the Kappa central office library by the Palo Alto Alumnae association. Today colleagues, undergraduates and alumni of Stanford mourn her passing. Among her former students, in whom she took keen interest, are such writers as Bruce Bliven, editor of the New Republic; Robert Duffus, lecturer and critic; Frank Ernest Hill, of Columbia university, and Robin Lampson, author of the recent Laughter Out of the Ground.

Outside her work as a teacher she was known for her varied writings. These included articles on hazing, fraternities, poetry of the western desert and in the more academic field of critical literature. A posthumous article on "The Treatment of College Life in Modern Fiction" will appear shortly in the Phi Beta Kappa official magazine.

In addition to membership in Phi Beta Kappa she belonged to the Pacific Coast Philological association and the Modern Language association. She was also a member of a number of local honor societies.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Stephen Warren Clark of Geraldine, Montana; four nephews, Paul, Don, Warren, and Russell Clark; also a niece, Josephine Peet, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. D. C. Peet, of Great Falls, Montana.

In view of the fact that Mrs. Russell was in the midst of prolific production and was looking forward to a retirement that would permit full time for the writing she loved and for enjoying the fruits of her labors, her passing is the more to be regretted. Born Theresa Peet in Iowa 63 years ago, she attended the university of that state, where she was initiated into Kappa Kappa Gamma. At Radcliffe, where she went for advanced work, she met Dr. Frank Russell, Professor of anthropology at Harvard university. They were married, but a few years later Dr. Russell's career was cut short by death.

A little later Mrs. Russell entered Stanford as a teacher. Professor William James was lecturing at Stanford at the time. The students seemed lost in a fog of the great man's utterances. The new teacher came to the rescue, organized seminar groups and helped them find their way out. Having thus distinguished herself, she became firmly attached to the university where she has made a place for herself that will never be quite filled.

ALICE ELLEN NELSON, T A, January 16, 1936, at White Plains, New York, of pneumonia, after a week's illness.

HELEN IONE BLACKERT, B Ø, at her home in Oklahoma City November 7, 1935, after a short illness. She was a teacher of biology at Central high school.

An Oklahoma Times reporter stated "she made difficult courses popular with students." E. R. Sifert, principal, sent the following notice to the teachers and students: "I would that I could so live that my departure from this life would bring a sense of worthiness to man, that my life would demand of boys and girls a desire for unselfish service, that my God and Creator shall say, 'Well Done,' as he has said this morning of our own beloved Ione Blackert."

Helen Ione Blackert

Ione went to Central high school in 1921 as an instructor in English, but after three years her love of flowers won recognition in the science department. She contributed much to the biology and botanical laboratories of the school.

In 1917 she was graduated from the University of Oklahoma. She became a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma in 1914, the first year the fraternity was on the campus. She was an active member with a national viewpoint. For a long period she was the correspondent of the chapter. In her joys we rejoiced. She was a worthy member and always remained so. Beta Theta chapter and the Oklahoma alumnae have lost a loyal sister. We who live away are indebted to Ione for many messages of interest in Kappa Kappa Gamma and her chapter.

It was in 1925 I saw her take her master's degree. It was a great honor to be near Ione then. I'm proud to have initiated her into Kappa Kappa Gamma, to have been a college friend, to have been a fellow teacher and associate as well as roommate.

She leaves to mourn, all these boys and girls who loved her, hosts of warm and devoted friends, her father and mother, a sister Kathryn; and three married brothers and their families.

Phi Kappas are realizing how pleasant life can be in the new Panhellenic house at 131 Commonwealth avenue. Our first dance of the school year was given in the spacious first floor suite December 6, when we formally entertained our pledges.

The following afternoon a special initiation was conducted in our chapter room, which Boston Intercollegiates and Phi alumnae have furnished for us.

December 14 we gave a bridge for the purpose of raising funds to defer room expenses, and realized about $23. There is to be another Kappa bridge February 29 at 131.

Our annual pledge-active Christmas party, at which we exchanged inexpensive gifts and played games, was unusually successful this year.

Mrs. Howard LeSourd, P, gave a rush supper at her home in Newton February 14. Our grand president was there to greet us.

Our annual initiation, banquet and all, was at the Panhellenic house February 22, and was a grand success and inspiration. Judge Schofield represented Phi alumnae at the banquet and Ena Gotthelf, B B, was Intercollegiate guest. Irene Neal Railsbach was a delightful toastmistress. Marie Hoehle, active, and Hilda Joyce, initiate, gave inspiring talks. The motive for the evening was our crest.

We were honored in having Helen Snyder Andres officiate at our initiation service.

Genevieve Marston, college of business administration, was appointed to a coveted position on the dean's cabinet at mid-years. There were several dean's list Kappas.

Our spring dance is set for March 27.

The Boston Alumnae association's Christmas supper party was December 27 in the Newton home of Mrs. Clarence C. Smith (Dorothy Wellington). Thirty-eight alumnae sat down to supper at gayly decorated tables. After supper carols were sung, with Lois Swett at the piano. Then, as usual, to the great happiness of all, Louise Joyce gave two of her inimitable readings. Our chief speaker, Mrs. Eugen C. Andres, Jr., (Helen Snyder), grand president, told us of her amusing and interesting experiences in early December at the national Panhellenic congress at Biloxi, Mississippi; and later of the installation of the new chapter at the University of Louisiana at Baton Rouge.

Both alumnae of the Boston association and the Intercollegiates were active in the Panhellenic bridge party, January 25, for the benefit of the Panhellenic house, and a goodly sum was realized.

The regular January meeting was in the home Mrs. John L. Dearing (May Hinckley), Cambridge. A stimulating and inspiring talk was given by Prof. Agnes Knox Black of Boston university on "The Aristocracy of Learning."

Phi chapter's initiation was February 22, at 131 Commonwealth avenue. As in former years this took the place of our regular monthly meeting. Five girls were initiated, and the service was conducted by Mrs. Andres and Ernestine Ross. At the banquet, 50 actives, initiates, and alumnae sat down.

Mrs. Tom Williams (Marion Selee) sang at the vesper service at Phillips academy chapel at Andover Sunday afternoon, January 26. In spite of the cold weather, many Kappas journeyed there to enjoy Marion Selee's beautiful voice.

Mrs. Ernest Railsback (Irene Neal, Δ) entertained our association in January. Her assistants were Mary Jane Railsback, Δ; Mrs. J. D. MacMahon (Sally Millar, B N); Mrs. Robert Hunter (Inez Evans, Σ); and Mrs. C. M. McConnell (Grace Dimmick, P). We were delighted to have as our speaker Mrs. Eugen Andres (Helen Snyder, B II), grand president. Helen talked about national Kappa activities, emphasizing our position in the national Panhellenic organization, the new cultural developments in the chapter activities and the 32nd biennial convention at the Seignior club, Montebello, Canada, June 23-30. The vivid picture which Helen gave us of the setting of convention made each of us resolve to save our pennies and go.

In February we met at Mrs. E. Granville

Crabtree's (Edith Reese, B Γ), province vice-president, in Brookline. The assistant hostesses were Mrs. Eugene H. Kistler (Helen Smith, T); Mrs. B. W. Bingham (Jean Harris, T); Mary Isabel Simpson, Φ; and Mrs. H. M. Weddle (Esther Bales, Γ Δ). Plans for the New England spring luncheon, April 25, were discussed and Mrs. J. D. Shuster (Ruth Williams, Γ Ψ) was appointed chairman of our committee. Two members of the grand council will be present: Helen Andres, grand president, and Mrs. Richard Shryock (Rheva Ott), director of provinces.

Ways and means of raising money to complete our fund with which to send our delegate to convention are foremost in our minds at the present. Mrs. D. A. Bell (Jess McNamee, Δ) is in charge of a series of bridge parties. The parties will be given at Mrs. F. E. Duddy's (Neva Warfel, I) in Cambridge, Mrs. Crabtree's in Brookline and Mrs. Railsback's in Newton.

A play, "Lavender and Red Pepper" was presented at our last meeting by eight of our group: Mrs. C. B. Bates (Margaret White, Δ); Mrs. J. W. Beal (Irene Boyer, B Δ), chairman of dramatics; Edith Crabtree, Mrs. F. L. Fish (Harriet Myers, Γ Δ); Mrs. E. N. Griswold (Harriet Ford, B H); Mrs. Robert Kelly (Lucy Barrows, Γ K); Helen Kistler, and Esther Weddle.

Guests for the afternoon were Alice E. Bechtel, II; Mrs. E. Scott Elsea (Virginia Lentz, B N); Mrs. George Ericson, Φ, and Mrs. J. L. Dearing, Φ.

March 7 a benefit bridge is being given in the Women's building of Boston university for the Panhellenic house. During the afternoon a fashion show will be given. Helen Andres and Mary Jane Railsback will be among those who will model.

We are pleased to have six new members this year: Margaret Bates, Mrs. Thomas L. Jacobs (Ruth Fielden, Ψ); Mrs. J. B. Crane (Catherine Dickson, T); Helen Kistler, Jean Bingham and Virginia Elsea.

Rochester—Established 1907

In spite of zero weather and icy roads, 22 of the active Kappas in Rochester attended the February meeting. Three Kappas were in automobile accidents on the way to the meeting. A program by the musically talented of the group was one to call forth members in cold weather. Mrs. Henry Schiefer, Jr., (Florence Lowry, B T), sang several solo numbers. Mrs. F. W. Cowing (Lucile Dunbar, I P), played the piano and sang. Mrs. Charles W. Burt (Florence Sutton, B T), and Christina Thorpe, B T, a piano and violin duo, played numbers popular at rushing parties 20 years ago.

The March program will be a book review by Mrs. Oakley W. Norton (Mary Preston, B T). The meeting will be an open one, at which we hope to make a little money for convention.

Elizabeth Lowry, B T, is spending the winter traveling in Mexico and western parts of the United States.

Panhellenic gave a successful Valentine dance at the Oak Hill country club. A number of Kappas attended.

New Kappas seem to be pouring into Rochester at a rate hitherto unheard of. We have welcomed the following new members to our group: Mrs. Ronald Reamer (Elizabeth Ling, I P), 323 Aldine street, from Poughkeepsie, New York; Mrs. E. C. Lewis (Helen Stevens, Ψ), 52 Rutgers street, from Glen Ridge, New Jersey; Mrs. Robert V. Matthews (Margaret Johnson, B T), Rhinecliffe drive; Mrs. John Camman (Eleanor Brainard, B T), 30 Tyburn Way.

Ithaca Collegiate—Chartered 1936

Ithaca Kappa alumnae have affiliated with national as the Intercollegiate Alumnae association of Ithaca. After two years' trial, during which we had many enjoyable and successful meetings, we have emerged with 30 members and proved to ourselves that a permanent association is justified in Ithaca.

We were fortunate last fall to have Marian Handy attend a buffet supper at the home of Marion Newman. She told us many interesting tales of her visits to various chapters.

Since then there have been several meetings in the chapter house. At our next gathering we shall plan to sponsor a tea for Kappa mothers this spring.

We were unable to plan a special meeting for Clara Pierce during her visit to Ithaca, but Mary Phillips, president of Alpha province, gave a delightful tea in her honor. Most of our alumnae attended as well as representative alumnae from other fraternities.

We are all sorry to lose our president, Jeannette Brown, who has moved to Palisade Park, New Jersey.

The Easter term opened with a successful rushing. Mrs. Eugen C. Andres (Helen Snyder) visited our chapter at that time and gave us many helpful suggestions. The alumnae entertained her at a party in the home of Kathleen Bredin. The active chapter gave a luncheon in her honor at the Granite club. We all enjoyed her visit and were sorry she was unable to stay longer.

Pledging took place January 21, followed by a party at the home of Eurith Campbell in honor of our seven new pledges.

The annual Panhellenic banquet and dance was given at the Royal York hotel, February 10.

We entertained our mothers at our annual mothers' tea, February 16.

At the joint meeting of the Women's Undergraduate association and the Men's Literary society, February 19, Kappas were prominent in the skits. We were represented by Betty Robinson, Madge Shaw, Polly Shaw, Jeanne Crawford, Frederica Chapman, and Leslie Brennan.

We are hoping that several of us will be able to go to convention to help welcome our American sisters to Canada.

In January we busied ourselves helping the actives with rushing. The "Grads" were responsible for the final party of the series, a theatre party at Betty Fisher's home.

February 11 we entertained the new pledges and the initiates at our annual bridge party. Dora Fox kindly lent us her home again this year. We were pleased to have with us for the first time Mrs. Hubert Morris, K, and Mrs. John Plaxton, X, of Winnipeg. We hope they will both become members of our association.

In March we are planning to have a regular meeting at which three of our members will give book reviews.

We miss our corresponding secretary, Phyllis Plaxton Airth, who is at present in Timmins, Ontario. We hope to have her back with us in the near future.

We had a Christmas party for the poor children, and a Christmas shower for the house, the week before Christmas.

We gave a Sunday evening open house, January 26, at which Mr. Lansing Hammond, a professor in the English department, played a number of recordings from Gilbert and Sullivan operas, accompanied by an informal lecture.

Election of officers was February 3. The new officers are: Lois Bestor, president; Miriam Hodges, registrar; Ethel Brainerd, assistant registrar; Elizabeth Knox, standards chairman; Ruth Duffield, corresponding secretary; Jennie-Belle Perry, recording secretary; Winifred Duffield, marshal; Harriet Coley, pledge-mistress; Florence Hulme, KEY correspondent; Mildred Trask, treasurer; Claribel Nothnagle, assistant treasurer. Installation of officers took place the following week.

We were happy to have Mrs. Andres with us February 5-7.

Our annual formal dance was given at the Middlebury inn, February 22.

Initiation for all the pledges was February 25. They all made their sorority averages, and three of them were eligible for the dean's list.

FLORENCE HULME

Middlebury—Established 1923

Just before the holiday vacation, the active chapter entertained the alumnae at the Kappa house. Impersonations, refreshments, and a genuinely good time socially provided entertainment. Mrs. Reginald Savage (Dorothy Taylor) presented the five dollar alumnae award to Claribel Nothnagle in recognition of her scholastic standing during the second semester of last year.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Carpenter (Lucia Avery), Rena Avery, and Maude Avery were in Middlebury, December 24, to attend the wedding of Mrs. Carpenter's son, Philip, to Helen Easton in Mead Memorial chapel.

Eleanor Ross, Mrs. W. H. Upson (Marjorie Wright), Ruth Hesselgrave, Ruth Bryant, Mrs. G. H. V. Allen (Cecile Childs), Mrs. E. B. Clift (Louise Edgerton), and Mrs. A. P. Benedict (Helen Clift) were in Castleton, Vermont, December 30, to attend the funeral of Mary Higley's mother, Mrs. Alfred Higley.

The first week in February our grand president, Mrs. Eugen Andres, visited Gamma Lambda. The alumnae were happy to meet Mrs. Andres again at a tea given by Mrs. William Upson. The following day we enjoyed a luncheon at the Middlebury inn in honor of Mrs. Andres.

"Hag Haven" is the flip, alliterative name the girls of Delta Delta at McGill university have given to their week-end cabin at Piedmont in the Laurentians. The skiers in front of the cabin are Rhoda Jones, Margaret Harkness, and Mary Gregory.

This term Delta Delta has been getting a good deal of experience along a different line. We have rented a small farmhouse at Piedmont, in the Laurentians, and every Saturday a number of us take a two hour train-ride, and spend a skiing week-end at "Hag haven," as we call it. We have learned much about cooking on wood-fires and roughing it in general.

We spent an interesting evening, February 3, when our new principal, Mr. Morgan, and his wife visited us after our meeting. It was Mr. Morgan's first visit to a girl's fraternity house, and he was full of inquiries about all our activities. February 17 we had a stimulating talk by Dr. Hendel, professor of philosophy at McGill, giving us a philosophical justification for the existence of fraternities. Mrs. Vaughan, our dean of women, also spoke to us on the "Position of Women in Contemporary Literature."

Campus elections are to be early in March. Barbara Barker is running for president of the Women's union.

Among the achievements of our initiates, Jo McDanel was elected to the German club, unusual for a freshman; Beatrice Broomall, Kathryn Drury and Jeannette Rose are in the chapel choir; and Jane Davies is a member of the Allegheny Singers. Henrietta Cutter debated over station WLEU, Erie, Pennsylvania, on the question "Should we permit the international shipment of arms and munitions?"

This is the season when everyone's thoughts are turning toward dances. The college midwinter ball was last Friday; we had six girls from the house on the committee. Women's senior ball is scheduled for April 18, and the chairman, Ruth A. Doerr is also a K K Γ. As for fraternity affairs, the nearest one is the initiation banquet and dance, March 7, which although important from a social angle, is even more significant from the viewpoint of taking into our sisterhood new pledges.

Our pledges have a way of making themselves felt by their usefulness. Just recently they installed a circulating library. One pledge brings in a book and magazine each Monday and leaves it at the house for a month. The next week, the second girl in line brings in her book and magazine to become Kappa property for four weeks. So it continues until every pledge has contributed. Our pledges turned out, almost "en masse," to the try-outs for the new play presented by Bowling Green, the dramatic society, headed by Elvina Castle, a K K Γ. The actives also supported their sister-president and it looks as if a great many rôles in the forthcoming production will be enacted by Kappas.

Our chapter had elections, the results of which are: Betty Penny, president; Winifred

The Sunday after initiation, February 21, the big sisters took the initiates to breakfast and church, and had dinner together.

Jane Stoner and Mary Lou Waha are recipients of our hop rings for this semester. Jane Stoner had the highest scholastic average in the fraternity, and Mary Lou advanced from a "D" average to a "B" average, thus showing the greatest improvement.

Dorothy McDowell was initiated into the honorary romance language fraternity, Phi Sigma Iota.

Betsy Robinson and Joan Crowe have prominent parts in Andre Obey's "Noah," the current interest in our playshop.

Ruth McKibbin was appointed rushing chairman for next year.

We have been active in interfraternity sports. Athletics, however, is one of this chapter's weaker points.

We entertained the faculty at a Panhellenic tea, February 16.

O'Connell, treasurer; Elizabeth Hewlett, recording secretary; Catherine Wilson, corresponding secretary; Ruth Maloney, marshal; Dorret Herman, registrar. Installation will be March 3, shortly followed by initiation.

Janis Paine is chairman of the freshman class and Anne Mulcahey is treasurer.

Our new president has been elected to Round Table, honorary English society, and is an executive of the junior class. Janet Crear is treasurer of Fine Arts club and art editor of Fortnightly, our college paper.

We are planning to have our annual dance in the near future.

VIRGINIA HEALEY

Essex—Chartered 1935

Since our guest-tea in January, I dare say that many a Kappa in our association has been "china conscious." We had as our guest, Miss Laura Lorenson, who gave a most interesting illustrated lecture setting forth the manufacture of Spode from the crude, raw material right up to the finished product. The display of service plates would have made any hostess envious! It would not do for me to forget to mention that our tea was in the home of Mrs. Alexander Calder (Adelaide Gunnison, BB) in Montclair and that the assisting hostesses were Mrs. John H. Emery (Mary Lowden, Δ), Mrs. Ralph H. Norris (Elizabeth Muse, Ψ), Mrs. R. R. Thompson (Anna Laura Clark, Γ Θ), Mrs. H. W. Heyman (Lillian Billow, Ψ), and Mrs. Matthew J. Storey (Helen Huntsberger, BA). Mrs. Darrow Sage (Eliza D. Barcus, BN) and Mrs. Malcolm Black (Ruth Atwood, BB) poured.

Despite the snow there was a February meeting in the home of Mrs. Millard Jencks (Ruth Kimball, BB) with Mrs. E. Woodward Allen (Kathryn Campbell, Θ), Mrs. Roger R. Ringo (Elizabeth Myers, Δ), and Mrs. Herbert W. Zeiger (Dorothy Cross, BB) as assisting hostesses.

Howe S. Landers, well known in the insurance field, husband of our president (Shirley McNutt, Δ), honored us with a fine talk on industrial relations.

We are looking forward with pleasure to our joint meeting in April with the Northern New Jersey Alumnae association.

We welcome to our midst two new members: Mrs. Charles J. Haugh (Carleta Ottman, Γ Δ), 220 Mountain avenue, Summit; and Mrs. Thomas Murphy (Jessie Barclay, BB), 12 Burnside avenue, Montclair, New Jersey.

JEAN R. H. PITCHER

Gamma Epsilon—Chartered 1919

University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania

Owing to the efforts of Betty Bryson and Jane Springer the junior class won the honors in the recent interclass sing.

Gamma Epsilon claims more honorary coed captains of R.O.T.C. than any other fraternity. Betty Black is captain of the First Battalion; Carolyn Hall of Battery C; Ruth Richards of Battery F. All are members of Guidon, honorary military fraternity for women, of which Betty Black has been elected secretary. Betty Black has been elected to Quax, honorary science fraternity, and has also received a $25 prize awarded by the Pittsburgh alumnae of Kappa Kappa Gamma, for scholarship and outstanding character. Pi Lambda Theta, honorary education fraternity, has claimed Carolyn Hall and Marguerite Bogaerts as members; Agnes Dodds has been elected to Phi Alpha Theta, honorary historical fraternity.

Among the models in the Pitt News style show were Betty Black, Vivian Roberts, Myrtle Gordon, Ruth Donley, Mary Jo Kunkle, and Louise McKirdy. Louise did a fine job in her interpretation of "Candida," the title character of George Bernard Shaw's play recently presented by the Pitt Players.

Our rushing parties included a Kappa Kotton Klub, an Owl luncheon, a Key party, a breakfast (with special amateur-hour entertainment), a banquet, and a treasure hunt.

February 15, the Pittsburgh alumnae had a Valentine card party at the College club. One of the highlights of the afternoon was the singing of Mrs. Jean McCrory Newman, a Kappa from the mother chapter at Monmouth. We were thrilled with the handsome dining room suite our alumnae presented to us. It was especially nice to have new furniture in time for the rushing parties.

Our spring formal will be a dinner dance, May 15, at Longue Vue country club. We are looking forward to several instructive evenings in the midst of all this social activity, as our standards committee, headed by Ruth Richards, has arranged an interesting series of talks by some of our University of Pittsburgh professors.

AGNES DODDS

Pittsburgh—Established 1917

Once upon a time, when Gamma Epsilon girls were not yet Kappas, they had no place to give their many affairs and they always ended up by going to the home of Katherine Johnston, now Mrs. Alan Fulton, living at Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont. Katherine's mother, Mrs. Frank Orr Johnston, B Γ, was practically their fairy godmother. Years passed, the Kappas had a chapter house, and the recently graduated girls had never known Mrs. Johnston. So it was most enjoyable for all of us when she came to our last meeting, January 18, and visited with us, later talking to us about a project dear to her heart, the George Junior Republic at Grove City, Pennsylvania. That sounds like a dull topic, but it wasn't. Our laughter was close to tears as we listened, and we didn't want Mrs. Johnston to stop, for it was all so interesting.

Mrs. Frank Thornton (Kathryn Irwin, ΓΩ) has Teddy Ege, young son of Mrs. Edward F. Ege (Helena Flinn, ΓΕ), to thank for the portable radio she won in our drawing at the Valentine reunion bridge, in the College club February 15. Teddy drew her number, and I think she deserved the prize for the luncheon which she and her committee served at our January meeting. Mrs. Bartlett F. Carley (Virginia Niemann, ΓΕ) was chairman of the drawing committee. The reunion bridge is an annual affair, and the successful one this year was under the chairmanship of Mrs. Lloyd Gordon (Marian Flint, ΓΡ) and Mrs. R. E. Pfundt (Dorothy Dehne, ΓΡ).

Isn't it a grand and glorious feeling when something long contemplated and badly needed is finally accomplished, and just in time? That's the way we feel about the new dining room furniture purchased by the alumnæ for the active chapter. Everybody has heard of a chain letter, but how many know of a chain discussion? For that is what we had concerning the buying of furniture—at every meeting for simply ages we have discussed that dining room furniture. The furniture, including two tables, arrived at the house just in time for the actives to get used to it before rushing started. The house board, which did the work of getting the furniture, is composed of Mrs. Edward F. Ege (Kathryn Prenter, ΓΕ), and Mrs. S. E. Watters (Bertha Moore, Ξ).

There would be a reunion in Florida if our Pittsburgh Kappas there should meet; Mrs. Joseph Staley (Dorothy Ream, ΓΕ), Jean McIlroy, ΓΕ, Mrs. L. C. Schryver (Marion Mealy, ΓΕ), and Mrs. Holgar J. Johnson (Muriel Cole, ΓΕ).

Jean McCrory Newman, A; Mrs. Robert J. Luke (Carolyn Welch, ΓΕ), and Mrs. J. Lloyd Mahoney (Olive Wilt, ΓΕ) are quite active in the affairs of the College club. Mrs.

C. Dickson Burns (Elvira Davis, Ξ) is working on the plans for the Jane Addam's Peace center.

We are all sorry that Mrs. Thomas W. Langford (Ann Bloomgren, ΓΕ) has been in West Penn hospital, but are glad that she is home again. Ann was president of the alumnæ association several years ago, and is one of our most active members.

Virginia Braun, Ξ, is secretary and treasurer of the Pittsburgh Adrian college alumnæ.

Rho—Chartered 1880, R. 1925

Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, Ohio

Rho announces the election of its new president, Margaret Bae Stringfellow, who succeeds Margaret Morgan. Bae, whose scholarship average has been perfect throughout her college career, has recently received other special recognition, since she is the first co-ed in seven years to lead a class in general chemistry. Her position as president of Rho entitles her to the presidency of Panhellenic.

All local talent has necessarily been garnered for the composition, direction, and production of our part in the university's annual stunt night, the "Fun Fest." Four of our stars have been added to the membership of Theta Alpha Phi, dramatics honorary: Peggy Cox, Eleanor Dice, Virginia Leland, and Helen Marie Pennywitt. The annual production of this organization, "The Old Maid," included Virginia Leland as the leading lady, Eleanor Dice, Mary Harriett Brooks, Jean Herbert, and Helen Marie Pennywitt. The latter also served as scenic director, while Jean Herbert was stage manager.

Wesleyan Players now includes Ann Beasley, Jane Siller, and Dorothy Sawyer. Ann is featured in the Singers' club presentation of "Ruddigore" and has also broadcast over the Columbus school of the air in various Shakespeare selections. Jean Herbert and Peggy Cox have also had prominent parts in these radio dramas, a new type of dramatic activity for Wesleyanites.

Friday night parties in the rooms have been successfully staged by members and their dates, with Monopoly games and bridge and popcorn much in evidence. Beta Nu chapter graciously entertained Rhoers with a Sunday afternoon tea at the Kappa house in Columbus. The spring formal is scheduled for April 25, and it is hoped that all the absent members of the senior class will make a special effort to be there for one last, complete reunion before graduation.

Ann Beasley, sophomore, and Ruth Ferguson, senior, have been voted representative women of their respective classes. The latter and Eleanor Dice have been included in Wesleyan's choice for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Approaching Phi Beta Kappa initiation finds three more members of our chapter eligible for this honor: Marion Hubbard, Mary Harriett Brooks, and Ruth Ferguson.

A new Alumnae association!
January 25 everyone of the 13 Mansfield

Kappas, and one from Shelby, met for luncheon in the Woman's club.

We found that we represented 9 different chapters and classes, from 1887 to 1932, which made our exchange of reminiscences even more interesting. Everyone was more than enthusiastic about having a real Kappa organization. We hope that by the time this goes to press we will have our charter, for we got down to business right away, decided to meet every two months and elected our officers. With Ann Gotshall Hand, $\Gamma \Omega$, as our president, we expect to do great things.

We have long discussed the possibility of organizing, but it took Ginny Conners, $\Gamma \Delta$, to move into town and stir things up. For it was she who made all the preliminary arrangements and got us all together.

We are all looking forward to our next meeting in March with Jeanette Waring as hostess; and the summer to follow when we will work on our first project of entertaining the girls who are about to enter college in the fall, to introduce them to Kappa and Kappas.

We would like to extend a most cordial invitation to Kappas in neighboring towns to meet with us.

Beta Nu conducted winter initiation February 14-15. An alumnae spread was given at the chapter February 4. A blue-and-blue winter rushing tea will be February 29.

January 31 the Kappa Kappa Gamma-Kappa Alpha Theta leap year dance took place. This dance has been enjoyed so much that it has become an annual affair.

A beautiful silver cup was won in a "Collegiate Round Up" radio contest. The girls who sang and made the winning of this cup possible were Mary Lentz, Martha Lou Miller, Lucille Cox, Betsy Molsberry, and Betty Hester.

A candle light dinner followed by a dance was given at the Columbus country club February 15 with Barbara Miller as social chairman.

Beta Nu chapter will entertain Rho chapter with a tea, February 30.

Frances Wildermuth was initiated into Scholaris, freshman honorary.

The period since the February letter has been rather a dull season for the association. The Kappa Mothers' club, however, had a benefit bridge luncheon at the Governor's mansion in February. There were 450 present and the Mothers' club made approximately $300.00.

Among the new members of the association, we have a doctor, Louise Powers Ainsworth (Mrs. Marion), F I.

The association will miss Mrs. Gordon Root (Elizabeth Linton, B N) who leaves April 16 with her husband and young son for a year's travel abroad.

Our association has been glad to welcome a number of interesting new Kappa personalities to Dayton this winter.

We are trying to raise money to send a delegate to the convention. Sixteen of our members have been playing bridge every two weeks in order to help in this project. The hostess gives the party and collects a small fee from each person which goes into the treasury. We have been raising eight dollars a month in this way, which we expect to supplement with the proceeds of a large benefit bridge party February 29.

In our group we have two members on the Y.W.C.A. board of directors. Mrs. Carl D. Werner (Jane Pontius, P) has just been elected; and Mrs. Willis Bugbee, Jr. (Justine Pritchard, B A) has been an active member for two years.

Beta Rho—Chartered 1885, R. 1914

Rush activities have been comparatively dormant during the past months, although luncheons at our apartment on Fridays have attracted pledges, actives, and rushees alike.

A few money-making schemes have been under way recently, and we have added to our treasury. The sale of homemade jelly and jam has appealed greatly to the mothers and alumnae; the sale of candy at the apartment has attracted the girls who spend their spare hours there. A rummage sale, February 8, not only was one of great profit but also afforded the members of Beta Rho chapter a great deal of amusement and fun.

We have contributed a fine team to the inter-sorority basketball competition. Ruth Shannon, Martha Jane Rush, Betty Owen, Virginia Pownall, Emily Pribe, Marion Kohl and Estelle Eichert are diligently practicing for this event.

Our Christmas formal at Kenwood country club January 3 was a delightful affair, more so because of the presence of representatives from other sororities. This holiday festivity was preceded by our New Year's day tea, an open house from four to six in the home of our president, Ruth Cullen.

Many of our freshmen as well as upper-classmen have recently been elected to various campus honors. Florian Applegate is the female comedy lead in the annual musical comedy; Ruth Shannon is head of properties. Betty Owen, Gladys Fearnought, and Martha Jane Rush are the Kappa representatives in the dance routines. Estelle Eichert, Martha Jane Rush and Evelyn Ogg were installed in the Y.W.C.A. council February 19. Betty Owen is our candidate for junior prom queen.

Our initiation services followed by the customary banquet are to be February 29. The banquet this year is being given at the Cincinnati club under the management of our alumnae chapter. The initiation services are to be preceded by the fireside service February 28 in the home of Emily Pribe.

Marion Kohl is back in school with us, resuming her place in our chapter after a hospital siege of several weeks.

Chapter social activities have been quite numerous since New Year's. Tea dances have proved popular, the first dance just preceding exams and the second given by the pledges for the active chapter. The annual Panhellenic dance was February 15. The pledges are now busy planning their pledge formal, always a high spot in pledge training; for the actives cook and serve the meal and wash the dishes afterwards. March 8 the chapter will give a faculty tea.

Betty Pollock and Helen Darrow are sharing the opal scholarship key this semester. We were so happy to receive some interesting English newspapers from Mrs. Mosley (Margaret Chaffee, Γ Ω, 1904) of London, England, written about the death of King George and the accession of King Edward to the throne. They are a valuable addition to our new library.

Kappas are always active in campus organizations. Sally Marr, senior, has one of the leads in the next Masquers' production, "Dover Road." Mary Louise Marlow, Agnes and Helen Darrow are Orchesis members chosen to dance in the opera, "The Bartered Bride," February 28 and 29. Mary Lou Pugsley is singing in it. Neil Cartter is a member of the varsity debate team.

Denison is having two interesting conventions this spring. Ruth Ford, Sally Marr, Betty Bowman, Frances Portmann, Irene Howell, and Betty Barnes are taking active part in the plans for a mock Republican nominating convention. For the second, the college is also fortunate in being host to the Inter-collegiate Association of Women Students' conference, April 16-18. Mary Louise Marlow is chairman of hospitality and of transportation, and other Kappas are working on various committees. The chapter is eagerly looking forward to entertaining Kappas from other colleges at this time.

The morning before Christmas vacation began, we had our annual ceremony with the tree and the passing out of gifts. Then we all adjourned to a hearty breakfast where we said our last goodbyes before the last few hours of classes began. But by January 6 we were greeting each other just as heartily. There was only time for us to find dates and buy corsages before the Gold Diggers' ball in honor of leap year. Then we settled down to studying for finals. The results were excellent. The house grades were extremely good, and 22 out of 25 pledges are to be initiated February 29.

The Kappas were awarded the cup for 100 per cent membership in the Association of Women Students. The Tri Deltis will share it with us, each house holding the cup for half the year. In the second of the series of swimming meets, the Kappas won first place.

Our dessert bridge, December 28, at Mrs. Maynard Kay's home was delightful. We enjoyed having with us the actives, pledges, and many out-of-town alumnae. Ten dollars was received in a silver offering for the Rose McGill fund. The committee in charge was Mrs. Maynard Kay (Leona Spielman), Mrs. E. P. Beta Delta—Chartered 1890

University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan

Our new semester started out with a visit from Clara O. Pierce. Beside enlightening us in many respects in regard to central office and on functions of Kappas in the business world, she stimulated us so much on the subject of convention that it is now a perpetual topic of conversation around here. We entertained the alumnae at dinner while she was here.

The onslaught of exams has brought on a counter-attack of interest in activities. Our seniors, undaunted by their approaching grand finale, are staging a grand climax along that line. Lavinia Howells, the new activities chairman, who replaced Josephine Scott, is also vice-president of Oral Interpretation society. Josephine and Lavinia are both members of the business staff of the Gargoyle, as well as members of the league social committee. Lola Campbell has had charge of the undergraduate league teas. Barbara Lutts is vice-president of Athena; secretary-treasurer of Delta Sigma Rho, speech society, and chairman of the theater and arts committee. She is also a member of the women's debate team. Ruth Loeb is in play production. Kathryn Rietdyk is a member of Panhellenic board. Elizabeth Long is on the merit system for campus activities at the women's league.

Eleanor French, secretary of the freshman class, and Marjorie Link, member of freshman executive council, are our shining lights in class activities among the pledges.

Eleanor Heckathorne, '38, is chairman of the music committee for sophomore prom. Nelson Persons is a member of Zeta Phi Eta, speech sorority. Virginia Hunt is a member of Stanley chorus and a lead in sophomore cabaret. Virginia Smith, '37, has been appointed assistant women's editor of the Gargoyle. Virginia Spray is rushing secretary for Panhellenic.

Twelve pledges are to be initiated March 7, with installation March 16.

Alice SLINGLUFF

Detroit—Established 1901

Detroit Kappa alumnae have met twice since the last KEY letter. January 18 we had a delightful afternoon at the Scarab club with Mrs. Max Colter (Elsa Haag, B Δ), Mrs. H. M. Vernier (Anna VanHalderan, ΔT) and Helen Bower as hostesses. We were thrice blessed with first, a view of the exhibition of the Detroit Society of Women Painters and Sculptors in which were two pictures by Margaret Jewell Bradfield, B Δ ; second, a gallery talk by Katherine Conover, one of the exhibitors; and third, tea served from the artistic Scarab club tea cups.

February 15 Mrs. Clarke McColl (Amanda McKinney, B Δ) assisted by Mrs. Emmett Kull (Harriet Ackley, B Δ) entertained the association at a dessert meeting, notable for the presence of Clara Pierce as guest. In spite of the fact that she was here unofficially she gave us an interesting talk on the Student Aid fund and convention plans.

Mrs. Lewis H. Haskins (Ruth Hutzel, B Δ) reported the progress which the University Women's council on volunteer service is making, having placed 287 college women in positions of helpfulness in the last year.

Kappas as usual are doing worthwhile things in Detroit. Mrs. Forest G. Fillman (Erma Tuohy, I) is active in P.T.A. work. Mrs. Lloyd Withrow (Dorothy Reynolds, K) has been singing for the Tuesday Musicale and acting as soloist for the Schubert choir. Mrs. Edward D. Maire (Marguerite Chapin, B Δ) was recently elected second vice-president of the Visiting Nurse association.

We are looking forward to March 25 when Clarita Martin (Clara Trueblood, B Δ) appears on a Town hall program with Dorothy Chapman of the Chicago Civic Opera company in a costume recital of Spanish songs and dances. Clara has made an international reputation for herself as a Spanish dancer.

In private life she is Mrs. Mellen C. Martin of Winnetka, Illinois.

Kappa husbands are coming to the fore, too. William B. Cudlip, whose wife is Lynwood Bope, B Δ , has announced himself as Republican candidate for United States senator from Michigan in opposition to Senator James Couzens.

Among the Kappa holiday travelers were Mrs. Ralph L. Skinner (Caroline Reichert, II) who spent Christmas in California; Lisa Sundstrom, B Δ , who went to Syracuse, New York; and Blanche and Bertha Barney, Beta Deltas, who visited in Indianapolis, Indiana.

The south and west are claiming their usual winter quota with Mrs. Kenneth Vance (Honor Gaines, B Δ) in Biloxi, Mississippi, Mrs. John Veech (Louise Briggs, B Δ) in Miami, Florida, and Amanda McColl in Fresno, California. While Mrs. Francis M. Dewey (Ruth Sturmer, B Δ) herself is not in Hollywood she is well represented, for we were interested to hear that her young daughter Barbara, who is out there with her grandparents, has been enjoying Shirley Temple's society.

We welcome to our midst the following Kappas: Mrs. L. W. Penniman (Mary Bruner, T), 5902 Lakewood avenue, Detroit; Mrs. Charles E. Smith (Marian Wilson, B N), 250 Merton road, Detroit; and Mrs. T. F. Wilson (Coramabel Short, T E), 25855 Elba avenue, Brightmoor P.O., Detroit.

Our newly elected scholarship adviser is Marguerite Paine, former president, now working in Lansing.

We were grieved by the death of Janet Carlton Beck, February 3. Although Janet had not been active in our group for a number of years, we all feel the loss of a true friend and loyal Kappa.

New officers, installed February 24, are: Frieda Brondstetter, president; Louise Doherty, corresponding secretary; Ruth Hardy, recording secretary; Barbara Tranter, treasurer; Jane Niven, registrar; Mary Welles, marshal; Louise Maystrick, standards chairman; Ursula Walters, social chairman.

We started the new year right with a tea at the chapter house for Kappas and their friends. At the President's birthday ball Jerry Merchant, senior, was the Kappa lady-in-waiting to the queen of the occasion. At our January pledge-active meeting Mr. Anson, of the piano department of the school of music, played and talked to us on modern music. February 5 we had a rush spread at the house, after which we all attended the Wesleyan-Eureka game. February 9 we gave a rushing tea.

Helen Stuart Purvines was elected head of a chapter financial committee whose one duty is to think of ways and means to secure funds.

Our pledges seem to have their own financial committee. They wished to give a dance for the pledges of the other sororities and fraternities on the campus and solved their financial difficulty by serving a waffle supper to the alumnae at their regular meeting.

The chapter turned out in a body to attend Alice Ruth Marquis' junior recital. Alice is a cellist. Her accompaniment was played by Mary Barr.

Martha Nierstheimer entertained the actives and pledges at a dinner in her home before the Wesleyan-Normal game.

Charlotte FitzHenry is the new secretary of the student union.

Bloomington—Established 1895

During the Christmas holidays, a benefit bridge was given under the chairmanship of Marjorie Simmons. The proceeds went to the house fund. A rummage sale, under the direction of Mrs. Clara DeMotte Munce, was given for the same purpose.

January 9 a Boston baked bean supper, a specialty of one of our members, Mrs. Len Jones (Margaret Hunter), was given in the chapter house. At the home of Mrs. Ralph Peairs (Myra Sinclair), we enjoyed a social afternoon, January 23.

February 6 we had a supper meeting in the chapter house. James Melliush related his experiences in Labrador last summer. We enjoyed an afternoon meeting February 20 in the home of Marian Hiltabrand. Mrs. Wayne Myers (Katherine Garrettson), of London, England, told about the Kappa alumnae association there. Margaret Workman, Ө, was also a guest.

Among visitors in Bloomington since the last KEY letter have been Mrs. David Miller (Elizabeth Austin), of Atlanta, Georgia, and Lillian Mecherle, of New York City.

Mrs. Sumner Goodfellow (Ruth Kies) has one of the three feminine roles in the Community Players' production, "Ceiling Zero."

Monmouth—Chartered 1934

The "good old-fashioned winter," which will all be a bad dream by the time this letter appears, has somewhat curtailed our enthusiasms and activities. However, we managed to have a rummage sale to raise convention funds, and have other money-making plans in contemplation.

Early in January we sent out cards requesting information regarding correct address, alumnae affiliation, etc., with the hope of making our files at least 99 44/100 per cent accurate. To date only 45 of the 95 have been returned, and we asked for 24 hour service! Please see if you are "among the missing."

February 6 the alumnae entertained the actives and pledges with a buffet supper in the home of Cordelia Buck, Upsilon. It was a scholarship recognition service, for the alumnae awarded prizes to the active having the highest average for the semester, to the active having made the greatest improvement scholastically over the previous semester, and to the pledge with the highest average. It is our plan to make these awards at the conclusion of each semester.

Following the honoring of our scholars we had a business meeting, electing the following officers: Mrs. Hardin McCoy (Mabel Martin), president; Mrs. Joseph Dixon (Elizabeth Howard), vice-president; Mrs. John C. Allen, Jr. (Florence McKee), recording secretary; Roberta Tresham, corresponding secretary; and Louise Duncan, treasurer. These officers will not be installed until the March meeting, but will be given a month to get acquainted with the duties of their office, plan committees, etc.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles P. Blair (Blanche Wilson) left January 27 for a cruise of the West Indies. They expect to be gone about a month.

Margaret Merillat has gone with her family to Tucson, Arizona, for a several months' stay.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Dittenbaugh (Mary Louise Giltner) and J. D. Dittenbaugh left January 10, for an overland vacation trip to California. They will be gone until about March 1.

Dr. Marie Turnbull (Marie Giltner) has disposed of her practice, and is going to take the work necessary to become a licensed embalmer, to replace Mrs. David Turnbull, who is retiring.

Marriages

Of highest interest to Eta chapter was Marian Handy's recent visit. One night we all went on a sleigh-ride to celebrate her visit. The next noon our guest was entertained at a luncheon given by the actives and the alumnae.

Elections were February 17. Our new president is Janet Harris and our new president of standards is Esther Bliss.

Madison—Established 1914

Kappa's 65th and Eta's 60th anniversaries were celebrated October 11, with a Founders' day dinner at the chapter house given by the alumnae and actives. Over 100 attended. Mrs. Otto Kowalke (Winnifred Titus, H) presided as toastmistress and spoke on "The Founders, The History and Growth of the Fraternity"; Lois Montgomery, president of the active chapter, greeted the alumnae; and Mrs. Ralph McCanse spoke on "Our National Fraternity."

The unique feature of the event was the presentation of a Kappa style show, modeling ball gowns worn by Kappas from 1875 over a period of 60 years to the present time. Between courses there was singing of old Kappa songs, after which Mrs. Kowalke read Mrs. Frederick Davis's (Edith Swenson, H) new Kappa poem, "My Blue Song." Roll call was also taken of other Kappa chapters represented in Madison.

Our activities in October included a rummage sale under the chairmanship of Mrs. O. T. Nelson (Marie Ramsey, B Z), which netted us over $60. We plan to have another sale in the spring.

The November luncheon meeting was at the home of Mrs. Leonard Eager (Eloise Seavert, H) in Evansville, Wisconsin. At this meeting, Mrs. E. W. Morphy (Lydia Main, H) gave a report of Epsilon province convention at Urbana, Illinois. Mrs. Morphy and four actives attended.

My Blue Song

My "song of the blues" is the blue of the skies,
And the beautiful blue of my baby's eyes—
The blue of the cornflower so free and so brave
The blue of Mendota wave upon wave:
'Tis the blue of the twilight
when sweet evening falls—
Of blue birds' quick wings when their lone nestling calls;
'Tis the blue of the spruce trees shading to grey,
When the sun glows upon them at closing of day
'Tis the blue of still pools where fair lilies rest
Dark blue and light blue upon the pool's breast—
'Tis the blue of the sky and the blue of the sea,
It is heaven and earth and that's Kappa, to me.

EDITH SWENSON DAVIS, H

The Madison alumnae were fortunate in having as a guest at their January meeting, Marian Handy, field secretary, who was visiting the active chapter for a few days en route to the Pacific coast. About 80 alumnae, actives, and pledges were present at the luncheon at the chapter house, after which we had the pleasure of an informal chat with her. She told us about the installation of the new Kappa chapter at Louisiana State university, and many interesting facts about Kappas from everywhere. She suggested that we might establish a library for the actives by giving a few good books every year as part of our work. Mrs. Copland (Margaret Thompson, I K) was especially pleased to see Marian again and renew old acquaintances, as she and her two sisters were from the same chapter and were classmates.

Our February meeting was a dinner in the home of Josephine Ferguson. At this meeting, the Madison alumnae voted to give $50 to the University of Wisconsin scholarship fund as a gift for needy students. We hope to give this amount or more annually if possible. Later we listened to an interesting talk by Mary Frances Byard and Josephine Ferguson (both Etas) on their recent trip to Mexico. While in Mexico City, the girls were entertained by Mrs. Jack Carthy (Lula Saul, H), who is living there.

Chi—Chartered 1880

University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minnesota

We were glad to welcome Marian Handy, January 21. Despite the unusually cold weather, we were comforted by the fact that our city was not the coldest one on her itinerary. Winnipeg, her next stop, was boasting even lower temperatures, according to weather reports.

January 21 a tea was given at the house by the alumnae in honor of Marian Handy and the mothers. Tuesday evening, January 22, some of the girls took Marion to see "The Old Maid."

Ten girls were initiated into Chi chapter February 1. They were guests at a formal dinner following the initiation ceremony.

As a feature of our cultural program, we had as guest speaker at the house February 10, Mr. Hall of the German department at the university. He discussed various aspects of his experiences as a student in Munich.

According to a recent announcement, Chi chapter placed fourth in scholarship among the sororities on the campus for the fall quarter. We are planning a scholarship banquet for March 3, arranged by Margaret Deems, scholarship chairman.

In the annual song fest, sponsored by Panhellenic, our chapter placed third. Louise Geist, music chairman, conducted our songs.

New officers elected February 24 are: Jessie Aslakson, president; Jean Adams, recording secretary; Lavinia Alder, pledge trainer and vice-president; Elizabeth Donovan, treasurer; Ann Volk, corresponding secretary; Margaret Deems, scholarship chairman; Alice Barney, social chairman; Betty Fugina, registrar; Adeline Salmon, activities chairman; Evelyn Tingdale, marshal; and Mary Elizabeth Sheldon, music chairman. Ruth Kelly has been appointed the new rushing chairman.

LISELOTTE HAGER

Minnesota—Established 1892

At our business meeting in the chapter house January 20, the budget was read and accepted. Each group, of which there will be eight at the beginning of next year (July 1), will be responsible to the association for $32. This in no way excludes the alumnae from their dues, in that the groups contribute between 25 to 50 cents at their individual meetings, in addition to dues.

Cleora Wheeler gave some suggestions for convention which were read and accepted. She was made chairman of the committee and all suggestions are to be given to her by the March meeting.

Marian Handy gave an interesting talk about the installation of Delta Iota, Panhellenic congress and the coming convention. After the meeting the alumnae gave a tea for Marian. We all thought her charming, and she is so interested in her work that she made it interesting to us.

We are to have election of officers and the annual reports at our next meeting March 9, to be followed by a spread with the active chapter. This is an annual custom and one which is always enjoyed.

With Eloise Chase as our new rushing chairman, we finished the winter season February 20 by pledging three girls.

Newly appointed to senior commission are Carolyn Barr, Eleanor Culver, and Janice Hall. Janice is also on senior dance board.

We feel certain that Esquire's Petty, one of the judges, will approve of our choice for Syllabus beauty queen, Rosemary Willis.

Gail Kimball is the new head of soccer, and Shirley Ann Johnson of golf. In intramurals Kappa leads basketball so far. Muriel Reynolds, head of intramurals, has gone with her mother to Florida for the rest of the winter.

We made a fine showing on the WaaMu committees. WaaMu is the annual school production, usually a musical comedy type of thing. Those from Kappa on the committees are Gail Kimball and Jean McIntosh, production assistants; Jane Gray, Elizabeth Tomlinson and Lillian Townsend, make-up; Eloise Chase, press; Phyllis Bradshaw, showbook; and Janice Hall and Lois Nelson, tickets. Those in the dancing and singing units are Katherine Mayrand, Josephine Balhatchet, Eloise Chase, Jean Keene, Elizabeth Tomlinson, Jean McIntosh, Jane McIntosh, Joann Wakeman, Mariette Martin, and Shirley Ann Johnson.

Jean McIntosh was pledged to Zeta Phi Eta, honorary speech sorority and Joann Wakeman to Theta Sigma Pi, honorary journalism sorority.

The Christmas tea for Upsilon actives and pledges was December 18 at the Kappa house. We were entertained by the excellent new active chapter glee club. They sang Kappa songs and Christmas carols for us and we certainly enjoyed meeting and seeing all the girls. Cora Kling and her committee were in charge of the tea.

January 15 we had our next meeting, also at the Kappa house, with Mrs. John Manley (Mabel Perrin) and the committee in charge serving us luncheon. Mrs. Thomas Singleton, our president, took charge of the business meeting, after which we were entertained by two girls from the active chapter. Muriel Reynolds and Dorothy Morrill did some eccentric tap dancing for us in costume.

The third in our series of book reviews came Wednesday, February 5, and, though it was cold, we had a good audience. Mrs. Faxon reviewed If I Have Four Apples by Josephine Lawrence, and everyone was most enthusiastic about her interpretation of it. Our final review will come the first Wednesday morning in March. We had a luncheon meeting February 19 in the home of Cora Kling in Evanston. Mrs. William Stahl (Marian Blessing) and her committee took charge of the luncheon. It was followed by a brief business meeting.

We have had word from Mrs. Jerome Cerny (June Welch) that Gretchen Graefe, who came to Upsilon as a transfer, has become Mrs. Harry Martin and that she and her husband are living at 1390 Pleasant avenue, Des Moines, Iowa. June also told us about her youngest sister, Betty Welch, eloping at Thanksgiving time from Tucson, Arizona. She was pledged Kappa at Upsilon, repledged and was initiated at Arizona. Her husband is James Brown Maloney, a Phi Delta Theta from Arizona, and they are living at 635 Belmont avenue, Fresno, California.

Beta Lambda—Chartered 1899University of Illinois, Urbana, Illinois

Initiation for Beta Lambda is March 5, with the usual return of alumnae and anxious whisperings beforehand. The week before Kathryn Franks was awarded a pearl key as the best all-round freshman, and Hortense Barthalow received an identification bracelet for the highest grades in the pledge class.

Emily Franks represented Beta Lambda in a contest of "prettiest freshman girls" at the annual freshman frolic. Barbara Bischoff has been photographed by a newspaper syndicate as one of the best-dressed girls on campus. Lillian Moss is the Kappa candidate in the student union popularity contest, the prize being a trip to the Mardi Gras at New Orleans. Barbara Cutter is co-chairman of the leap year dance given February 29 by the union.

Loramee Wiese is in the singing chorus of the annual Woman's league show, "Of Thee I Sing," February 21 and 22. Clarabelle McKinlay is head of the ticket committee for the show, with Lillian and Mary Helen Moss as helpers. Dorothy Clark is making costumes for it. Mary Helen Moss is also sub-chairman of a committee in Orange and Blue Feathers—freshman Woman's league honorary. Jean Wilson made the Illustrators' club. . . . Many girls have left school for warmer climes so we are having two rushing parties in February.

Champaign-Urbana—Established 1918

The December meeting of our association was in the home of Mrs. Wesley P. Garrigus (Helen Robbins, B A), at which there was a large attendance in spite of the sub-zero weather. After dinner served by the hostess, there was a short business meeting, followed by a social hour in charge of Mrs. Ethan A. Norton (Marguerite Niehaus, E). We were happy to welcome three new Kappas who have just moved to Champaign-Urbana: Mrs. G. L. Porter (Janice O'Brien, Σ), Mrs. William C. Kneale (Grace Sowler, B M), and Dr. Nancy C. Shields, Δ Θ.

March 4 there was a regular meeting in the Hi-Hat tea room, with Mary Ellen McKee, Marjory McKee and Barbara Strauch as hostesses. Following dinner and business meeting, Mary Ellen McKee discussed the problem of rushing and the part alumnae can play in it. It is our hope to be of some assistance in rushing at Beta Lambda next summer and fall.

At the present time we are starting a fund to raise money for the purchase of a book plate for Beta Lambda's steadily-growing library, to which many worthwhile books have been added this year.

Mrs. L. T. Gregory (Isabel Culver, II), Epsilon province president, has just returned from a trip to California, where she visited her brother.

Mrs. Harold L. Haworth (Mary Robbins, B A) has moved from Davenport, Iowa, to 219 Eighth avenue, Huntington, West Virginia, where Mr. Haworth is associated with the U. S. Engineers' corps.

Ruth Capron Thomas, B A, and infant son, of Toronto, Canada, were guests in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hazen Capron of Champaign, during the holidays.

Helen Harmon, B A, of the class of 1935, has returned to Champaign, where she is employed in the Resettlement administration.

MERYL SANDERS WILLIAMSON

Springfield—Established 1923

December 17 the members of our alumnae association met in the home of our president, Mrs. C. J. Coyle, for an evening meeting. Two Kappas who have recently come to Springfield were welcomed: Marian Hiltabrand, E, who is in the gift department of the John Bressmer store, and Mrs. C. H. Radeke (Pearl Holz, B A), who moved here with her husband last September from Champaign, Illinois. They are living at 1025 West Grand avenue, south. January 29 there was an afternoon tea meeting in the home of Virginia S. Catron, with Martha Eden Odiorne and Mary Blatt as assistant hostesses.

There are 25 Kappas living in or near Springfield, 17 of whom are members of this association this year.

February 20 Dorothy Bundy, B A, attended the annual convention of the National Association of Deans of Women at the Hotel Statler in St. Louis.

University of Manitoba, Winnipeg, Manitoba

Since our February KEY letter much has happened in Gamma Sigma chapter. Up here in the far north we have been busy breaking all records for cold weather, and I am afraid that hereafter Marian Handy will shiver at the mere mention of Winnipeg. We spent a busy week-end while she was here. We conducted initiation January 24, with the initiation banquet afterwards; and Marian Handy's talk on the international sisterhood of Kappa made the occasion especially memorable.

Our annual spring formal, February 12, was a grand party.

The election of chapter officers is just over; Grace McCurdy was our choice for president. She has been in the chapter only a year this January but has already proved herself invaluable. She is succeeding Roberta Lee, president during the past year.

Next to spring examinations every one is worrying most about ways and means to get to convention. A number of us are hoping to accompany our delegate down there because this convention seems too good to be missed.

MURIEL BETH GOURLEY

Winnipeg—Chartered 1928

Our January meeting was a buffet supper in the home of Helen Clare Shepard. After supper Edith Pitblado, Γ Σ, gave a most interesting talk on her trip to England last summer.

We are at present having a rather unfortunate experience with the university social committee. For the past five years we have given an "After Exam. dance" in the spring, the proceeds having gone towards the ward we are supporting at the Children's hospital. The university social committee has lost money on two of its dances this year, so they first tried to take our date away from us, and have now agreed to let us have the date if we go 50-50 on the dance and do the decorating. We have had to agree, but are fearful that next year our date will be taken from us entirely when the committee changes.

We had a helpful visit from Marian Handy, January 24-27, when we had an initiation and banquet and a representative tea so that members of other sororities could meet her.

For the past few weeks the alumnae advisers with one or two other alumnae have been having two or three actives at a time to tea. We have felt that in this way the alumnae and actives would become better acquainted.

Our February meeting was in the home of Jean Nutter. Mr. Morrill of Birks-Dingwalls jewelry store spoke to us on china and how it is made. We hope to have a talk on Mexico at our next meeting.

North Dakota State College, Fargo, North Dakota

Jane Schulz has been elected chapter president for the ensuing year. Other officers are: Georgia Cook, recording secretary; Marjorie Danielson, corresponding secretary; Frances Probst, treasurer; Beth Oliver, registrar; Jean May, Key correspondent; Marjorie Arnold, rushing captain and pledge trainer; Ann Bolley, marshal.

B-r-r-r! 35 degrees below zero, but Gamma Tau is still an active working chapter despite the sub-zero weather. Just ask Marian Handy. Even she thought we might be snow-bound. We did so enjoy her visit, but we were sorry the weather did not permit even a to-boggan party.

Fathers' day does not come in cold January, but we had a special day for our fathers, January 18, when we entertained them at a buffet supper before a basketball game with Iowa state college. Many proud daughters and Kappa fathers arrived at the Physical Education building in a body and sat in a reserved section previously arranged.

Each term the 10 women in each class having the highest scholastic averages are placed on the Senior Staff (similar to Mortar Board) honor roll. We have five girls represented on this list.

Our latest trophy, on which is inscribed "Little International Livestock Show," would leave no doubt in anyone's mind that ours is an agricultural college. This annual event draws much attention from the female sex by the milking contest. Frances Cooper, our milkmaid of last year, put over a sweeping ticket sale and won the silver cup for us. The sorority winning the cup could name a girl to be mistress of ceremonies, so Pledge Alice Piers made a charming one.

For raising her average the most number of points, the scholarship bracelet this term went to Marjorie Arnold.

Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity on the campus, sponsors the annual interfraternity sing contest in May, and preliminary to the sing, Greek letter groups on the campus are joining talents in putting on a half-hour radio program each Sunday over a local station. Gamma Tau chapter and Epsilon Delta chapter of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity were to have put on a program together, but with the temperature hitting a new low of 40 degrees, even the taxicabs were not out or running. Our broadcast will be at a later date.

February 8 pledges were hostesses to the active chapter at a "night club" party. The temperature was only 38 degrees below that night, so we only had Mr. and Mrs. Paul Zerby (Gwendolyn Gregg) for "chaperons."

Our culture meetings have been different and interesting this term. Dr. C. S. Putnam, musical director on the campus, spoke to us on music, and Dean Alba Bales, Gamma Tau alumna, dean of home economics, spoke on social relationships, a topic which we thoroughly enjoyed.

Panhellenic's charity ball was a huge success this year. Gamma Tau twin and president, Jane Bristol, was in the receiving line along with other senior representatives to Panhellenic.

February 23 the faculty came to tea in our chapter rooms. Betty Bristol, social chairman, was in general charge.

MARJORIE ARNOLD

North Dakota (Fargo)—Chartered 1926

At the January meeting hostesses were Mrs. L. W. Roen (Gunhild Gilbertson), Mrs. W. C. Nichols (Geraldine Thompson), Metta Cleveland, and Pearl Dinan. We had a genuinely good buffet supper, and in spite of 30 below zero weather had an excellent turnout. Marian Handy was our guest, and the weather was forgotten in our enthusiasm over talking about the possibility of a college Panhellenic house and planning ways and means of raising money for sending a delegate to convention. If Louise Fuller, E, proves to be a good auctioneer at our March meeting, and we know she will, our problem will be solved. Marian brought us interesting reports from central office and from the national Panhellenic congress; and, of course, she gave us a glowing picture of the forthcoming convention. We all enjoyed her immensely, but hope next time she finds milder weather here.

Erlys Hill, Γ T, has gone back to New York where she has a position in one of the ready-to-wear shops at Lord and Taylor's.

We shall probably have Mrs. Cloyce K. Huston (Elene Weeks, Γ T) as guest at our April meeting, for she and Mr. Huston ($\Sigma \Phi E$, University of Iowa), and little daughter, Elizabeth, are expected in Fargo the middle of March for a two months' visit. They are returning from Tirana, Albania, where Mr. Huston has been secretary of legation; and they will go in the early summer to Bucharest, Rumania, where Mr. Huston will be third secretary of legation, and consul.

We had also hoped to have Mrs. Leslie F. Narum (Edith Skurdahl, Γ T) here for our April meeting, but word comes that she and Lt. Narum and their baby daughter, Leslie Louise, will go by way of the Panama canal from San Francisco to New York. They are returning from Ching Wang Too and will go to Quantico, Virginia, where Lt. Narum will be stationed after April 20.

Marriage

Theta—Chartered 1875

University of Missouri, Columbia, Missouri

The Kappas at the University of Missouri have said their fond farewells to finals and mid-semester registering for another 18 weeks. We've been busy electing officers and adjusting ourselves to new classes.

The new officers of Theta chapter are as follows: Betty Meier, president; Helen Nichols, pledge captain; Dorothy Ann Nowell, recording secretary; Henrietta Moore, corresponding secretary; Mary Meier, treasurer; Mary Olive Machemer, assistant treasurer; Frances Morris, registrar; Jane Elfred, assistant registrar; Emily Ann Price, marshal; Mary Kay Fenimore, KEY correspondent; Pamela Switzler, librarian; Kitty Pratt, house president; Joan Howe, social chairman; Betty Barr, assistant social chairman; Ruth Paul, efficiency chairman; Henrietta Moore, scholarship chairman; Marjorie Mann, rush captain.

The necessity for an adequate study hall was answered by redecorating the old recreation room. Desks have been built around the room, which lends an air of study and quiet. The pledges are pleased and find it much easier to concentrate. We've also made plans for remodeling the chapter room, turning it into a combination recreation and reading room. There will be built-in book shelves; new books will be added to our library by contributions from the seniors.

Dorothy Ann Nowell, Mary Olive Machemer, and Jane Elfred were elected to the freshman commission.

The Kappa alumnae entertained with a buffet supper, inviting four girls from each class.

Mary Meier, Betty Meier, Barbara Simpson, and Louise Lyons were initiated into Delta Phi Delta, honorary art fraternity.

Margaret Allee was initiated into Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalism fraternity.

Helen Nichols is on the annual horse show committee.

University of Iowa, Iowa City, Iowa

Nancy Rendleman was elected vice-president of the senior commerce class, and Gretchen Kuever was chosen chairman of the entire freshman orientation program for 1936-37.

On the freshman party committee we were represented by Helen MacEwen.

Many of our chapter secured places for themselves on the staff of the Hawkeye, university yearbook: Alice Denny is assistant editor and Margaret Miller, the art editor; other members of the editorial staff are Gretchen Kuever, Helen MacEwen, Mary Stuart Bagley, and Martha Hamilton. The business staff includes Helen Van Epps, Elizabeth Ruddick, Kathleen Kloster, Katherine Kraft, and Betty Terrill.

Jane Fifer has a part in Maxwell Anderson's play, "Valley Forge," to be presented February 27.

This year the custom of having an all-university singing contest has been revived. Beta Zeta chapter was one of the first organizations to offer its support to this project and has now reached the finals of the contest.

ALICE DENNY

Iowa City—Established 1921

Iowa City has had two meetings since the first of the year—one a luncheon, the other a dinner at the chapter house with the Beta Zeta actives and pledges.

Mary Martin, F Θ, and Anne Root, B Z, are doing secretarial work in Chicago.

Louise Coast, B Z, is assistant to the head of relief work for Keokuk county and is located at Sigourney, Iowa.

Mrs. Hugo Schmidt (Carolyn Newcomb, B Z), of Newton, was an Iowa City visitor during the holidays.

Mrs. Carl G. Seashore, Jr. (Helen C. Payne, M), has recently moved to Evanston, Illinois. She will be greatly missed in Kappa and musical circles here.

FLORENCE PAYNE PERKINS

Cedar Rapids—Established 1919

A group of alumnae met in the home of Mrs. Horace G. Hedges (Coleen Johnson) February 21 to sew on initiation robes for Beta Zeta chapter at the University of Iowa. The robes will be finished at the regular March meeting.

An innovation in Kappa social events was the picnic supper and evening party at which alumnae entertained their husbands and friends February 15 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Trewin (Muriel Arthur). Margaret Larimer, president, was in charge of arrangements.

The last regular luncheon meeting was in the home of Mrs. Robert P. Bell (Margaret Hill), with Margaret Larimer assisting.

The February meeting of our association was in the home of Mrs. F. E. Neir, Moline, Illinois. A report was made concerning the sale of Christmas cards from which $35 were realized. We plan to use at least a part of this money for rushing purposes during the summer.

Our next meeting will be a dinner, as it is our plan to alternate luncheons and dinners to give the employed members an opportunity to attend as often as possible.

Omega has as its new president Olive Adele Krehbiel. Katherine Hurd is the new rush captain.

The freshmen had a lower scholastic rating than the actives this last semester, so they must give a party for the upperclassmen. However, Bernice Burns of the pledge class made 16 hours of A.

Helen Deer won first place in the sophomore beauty contest. Lucille Bottom was one of the 15 candidates.

Initiation services will be the week of February 28.

Betty Winnie, Betty Tholen, Elizabeth LaRue, and Olive Adele Krehbiel, all members of Delta Phi Delta, helped sponsor the first Beaux Arts ball.

Kansas City—Established 1900

The November meeting of the Kansas City Alumnae association was in the home of Mrs. Louis Duff (Cyra Sweet, Ω). Mrs. Carr Eubank (Helen Wilkins, Θ) reviewed Ann Lindbergh's North to the Orient. The December meeting was in the home of Mrs. Barns Williams (Katherine Barns, Θ). An interesting story of Hawaii was told by Mary Latshaw, F P, who lived there several years. Her mother was born in Hawaii, so while there they renewed many friendships.

In January we were entertained in the home of Mrs. Wm. Harrison (Dorothea Stodder, Ω). Winifred Stillwell, Ω, who has been on the stage and traveling for a several years, reviewed "Saturday's Children."

In February we met with Mrs. Francis Wilhelm (Marguerite Smith, Ω). Miss Louise Hodges gave an interesting talk on interior decorating.

Wichita—Chartered 1926

By the months of silence from this association, 'most anyone would suppose that we had been blown away and lost by our now famous dust storms of last spring.

To tell the truth, this great silence has been brought on by our profound concentration on the ways and means of raising money. Old ideas did seem so old—and new ideas so hard to get. But now we present our brain-child, an idea so good that the Pi Phis say that they are going to copy us.

Various members, in groups of two, three, and four, are sponsoring afternoons of tea and bridge in their own homes, making a small charge per person, and graciously giving them, we hope, their money's worth. Other members are going independent and inspirational on us, with our coming meetings bringing forth many surprises.

Then, too, we are continuing our "rushing-throughout-the-year" plan, which we find quite successful. To our monthly meetings we invite a rushee or two, or perhaps a rushee and her mother, to come as our luncheon guests. In this way all of us get a chance to meet them, and to become acquainted, better, we think, than at a large party.

Kay Hendy was appointed to head the conference committee, and Marie Kotouc to head the Young Citizens committee of the Y.W.C.A. board. Jean Walt was made a member of the junior-senior prom committee. She also has charge of the Co-ed Follies, an annual event sponsored by A.W.S. Recent ap-

Our January luncheon in the home of Mrs. Taylor Hynes (Mildred Taylor), and our February dinner in the home of Mrs. Frank Randall (Stella Elizabeth Lyford) were both well attended in spite of the sub-zero weather. We regret the absence of our president, Mrs. Gale Davis (Margaret Lavelle), who has spent the last two months in St. Louis where Mr. Davis was transferred temporarily; but we hope to have her back again soon.

A Kappa visitor of the past month was Mrs. Howard Cogswell (Mary Jane Pinkerton), of Indianapolis.

Gamma Alpha—Chartered 1916Kansas State College, Manhattan, Kansas

After our initiation February 29, golden keys were proudly worn by 14 girls. In the group are three girls having Kappa relatives.

At the Kansas State military ball in February, two of the four honorary officers were Gamma Alpha Kappas. Louise Rust, convention delegate, is honorary major of the second battalion of the R.O.T.C., and Wilma Lee Matherly, right, is honorary major of the first battalion.

Betty K. Morgan is a Kappa daughter; Sara Emrich, a sister; and Mary Jane Foulston, a Kappa niece.

At the 1936 Royal Purple beauty ball at Kansas State, December 6, Louise Rust was one of the five beauties chosen.

women's rifle team, as are Helen Beth Coats and Elizabeth Allbee, freshmen.

Paula McDaniel had a part in "Noah," a recent Little theater production. Pauline Compton had the lead in "Take Two From One," presented by the Manhattan theater, March 20 and 21.

The military ball, February 8, marked the opening of the university formal season. The Kappas had two out of four of the honorary officers, Louise Rust and Wilma Lee Matherly.

In intramurals on the campus Kappas are high with 190 points, the nearest competitive team following with 170. By keeping on with our present record we hope to retain the intramural plaque won by the house last year.

For "Ag Orpheum," to be presented March 6 and 7, the chapter has been working hard on an unusually clever stunt, "Silk, Satin, Calico, and Rags." Gloria Bingesser is the director and manager.

January 11 was Kappa night at Younker's tearoom and a floor show was given by members of the chapter. The pledges entertained the actives at a Valentine dance, February 15.

Kappa nominees in the Quax beauty contest were Marjorie Crawford, Betty Ann Palmer, Mary Ellen Thompson, Lillian Landsberg, Eleene Boomhower, and Caroline Heins.

The school of radio has for the first time appointed a student radio staff. Murrow McCurnin was named program director and Mary Ellen Thompson assistant program director.

Mary Dau was selected stage manager for "Journey's End." Mary Brammer had charge of lights; Pauline Bailey, hand and trim properties; and Mary Ellen Thompson, costumes. Martha Hyde and Marion Sherman also worked on crews.

chosen as second most popular freshman and honorary military captain. Pat Schrader was selected as one of the three best-dressed coeds, and Lois Stauffer as freshman with the most perfect posture. Sally Sullivan is one of the five candidates for engineer's queen.

The pledges gave a luncheon for actives in the "Jug" of the Coronado hotel at the end of the semester. Other social activities included a dinner-dance at Algonquin country club and open house following the inter-sorority sing.

Rozene Johnson had the lead in "Post Road," a campus production, and also the lead in "Captain Brassbound's Conversion" by G. B. Shaw, given at the Little theater. Her fine acting in the latter caused city-wide comment.

Rehearsals are being held for the chapter's skit in Coed Vodvil. Marifrances Rosenstein has a specialty dance in the Quad club show. Louise Krause and Ethel Jane Ellis will be members of the dancing chorus, and Rosemary Datz, Jane Conzleman, Mary Stevens, and Nancy Williams have been chosen for the singing chorus.

MARIAN R. JACK

St. Louis—Established 1903

The St. Louis Alumnae association is busy with "get rich quick" ideas. Our Kappa bridge groups are working successfully so far. February 3 the Hotel Jefferson, a downtown hotel, is giving the Alumnae association all the cover charges for that night and Kappas all over the city are quite enthusiastic about a "dancing night" for Kappas and their friends. The active chapter, Gamma Iota, is cooperating with the alumnae chapter in making this an impressive social event for Kappas.

Our January meeting was in the home of Mrs. Don McDonald (Mary Campbell Sanford) for luncheon. The business meeting was brief, for this January meeting was to be a bridge party. The prizes for the winners were tickets to the Panhellenic luncheon in St. Louis February 1.

Our St. Louis Kappas are loyal to the Monday sewing circle. On this day we join together at one of our Kappa homes and sew for the Needlework Guild which places these articles in needy institutions. January 27 the circle met in the home of Mrs. James Macnaughtan and many of our members turned out to complete 40 garments with the temperature at 10 below zero. This was a real example of loyalty to Kappa and her projects.

Beta Mu—Chartered 1901

Colorado University, Boulder, Colorado

Winter quarter for Beta Mu commenced with the sad news that our president, Gretchen Weiland, could not stay in school any longer because of her health. It was too bad that she could no longer direct the choruses of the campus rhythm circus as she had done for the past two years. After Gretchen's departure, Jane Ewart and Kirby Dalziel, freshmen, took charge of two choruses and made a success of them. Sixteen other talented Kappas danced in the production, so we were well represented.

Our new president is Elizabeth Ingley, a junior and prominent in her own field of fine art. She is a member of the honorary for art majors, Delta Phi Delta. We also have a pledge to this same fraternity in Lenore DeBey, sophomore. Some others of our sisters have been recently honored: Betsy Ross has been pledged to Players club; Margaret Poliard was recently selected for the business honorary, Phi Chi Theta; Sara Ann Fowler is now a member of Kappa Delta Pi, honorary education; Julie Trelease is a pledge to the French honorary, Sigma Iota Phi; and Mary Ann Moyar is newly initiated into the science honorary, Alpha Epsilon Delta.

The most important function to date was the brothers' and sons' dinner for relatives of Beta Mu Kappas. It was lots of fun as we made a Valentine supper and tea-dance out of it. Right now we are all looking forward to our dance, which will be the climax of this winter quarter, purposely set to come just before that most dreadful week of all, final exam. week!

The Alpha and the Beta alumnae met together in Dorothy Knox's home December 28 for lunch, and afterwards Mrs. Horace Bennett gave us an interesting talk on her trip abroad last summer. January 18 the Alpha group had lunch together at Mrs. John M. Cunningham, Jr.'s (Katherine Knisell) home, and the Beta group met at Delphine Schmitt's. At our last meeting, at Mrs. Frank Kemp's (Estelle Kyle) home, the Alpha and Beta alumnae again met together February 15, and after lunch Ernest F. Hall, travelog lecturer, entertained us with an illustrated talk on Alaska.

Gamma Beta—Chartered 1918

University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, New Mexico

The first real news story of the second term broke when 20 new Kappas braved stormy weather to throw open their coats and show their shining new keys.

At the buffet supper given by the alumnae staff, THE KEY reporter hurriedly jotted down notes about the tearful and happy faces of the new staff members.

Another thing the reporter listened to eagerly was Editor Marie Jenson's report in assembly of the N.S.F.A. convention which she attended. New ideas from the convention led to other things. Kappa will smooth out Panhellenic relations with a luncheon in the chapter house, March 8, when they will introduce a round table discussion on scholarship. Campus politics will be the subject for a forum discussion with 40 prominent campus students at a dinner the second Sunday in March.

A member of the dramatic corps of Kappa, Dorothea Berry, carries the lead in the new Dramatic club play "Dover Road." Theta Alpha Phi broke into print when they initiated our Jane Baldwin.

New officers have just been elected to the staff: Betty Huning, president; Katherine Milner, treasurer; Marion Foss, corresponding secretary; Jane Covert, recording secretary; Jane Baldwin, registrar; Jane Iden, marshal; Dorothy Cox, pledge captain; Genevieve Mollands, house president.

The society staff announces our informal dance the last of March and the spring dinner dance May 1. Another innovation was the inviting of professors to dinner to give talks on such subjects as poetry and music appreciation.

February 17 we elected officers for the coming year: Mary Elaine Bever, president; Margaret Farlien, recording secretary; Jo MacDonald, rush captain; Phyllis Knebel, pledge captain; Constance Sloss, treasurer; Emma Pedri, registrar; and Eleanor Hibbard, corresponding secretary.

The alumnae gave a tea for the pledges and actives at Mrs. Althea Witte's (Σ) home February 17. A dinner party was given honoring our housemother, Mrs. Westby, February 20, her friends being invited as guests. Janet Bare, Miriam Crowley, and Helen Mae Walker have played in several musicales in the last month. They have played solos and in ensembles. Our basketball team has been successful, and we are now in the semi-finals.

Our winter dance, a midnight fliers' party, was given February 28. The room represented a cabaret, and the entertainment and decorations were novel. Our local Founders' day banquet was February 25.

In spite of the numerous social events, our scholastic efforts have not been slighted, and we now stand second in scholarship.

With winter quarter comes basketball, and we have a fine team that practices enthusiastically. January 17 we were awarded first place by Spur organization for presenting the most original and suitable yell at a game with Colorado Mines.

Jean Balenseifer and Margaret Lemley have the two leads in Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler," and Jo MacDonald has a leading rôle in "The Three Bears." Elizabeth Miller has been nominated to have her biography listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. Eleanor Slane has accepted a position teaching in the high school in Shawnee, Wyoming.

January 17 was pledge day and initiation was January 25. A banquet was given after the ceremony.

The Cheyenne Alumnae association was invited to meet with us February 3. Our regular schedule was changed to have dinner at the house, followed by the meeting. Unfortunately snow and zero weather descended upon us just at that time which made it impossible for them to come. We regretted it very much.

Our rummage sale is to be March 7. We have this annually, so if any Kappas in the land have any old clothes to spare at any time we will gladly accept them. Send to Mrs. Esther Pugh, 314 S. Eleventh street, Laramie, Wyoming.

Sunday, February 16, we gave a Valentine tea for the pledges and actives.

Later we shall entertain for the patronesses.

February 15 we gave a book review tea in the Plains hotel tearoom which was well attended, and netted our association approximately $40. Mrs. John Loomis (Ruth Harrington) reviewed The Last Puritan by George Santayana.

Nearly all Cheyenne Kappas have donated old clothing for the rummage sale which the Laramie Alumnae association expects to have in the near future.

We regret losing one of our members, Mrs. William Lane (Myrtle Yoder), who has moved to Denver, Colorado.

Delta Zeta—Chartered 1930

Initiation for Delta Zeta, February 22, was a victorious time. For the second consecutive year we were able to initiate the entire pledge class. Among our neophytes, Rita McCormick was awarded $50 by the college for the next to highest scholastic average in the freshman class.

With a semester average of B+ the chapter was given the intersorority scholastic award which we have held since the year we were installed.

Valentine's day the chapter gave an informal bridge party at which the girls exchanged original and hand-made Valentines.

Another of our initiates, Marjorie Combes, has been given the leading rôle in the annual road show of Koshare, as well as the lead in the latest production, "Scarlet Scarab."

Our officers for the year 1936 are: Mary Gilmore, president; Barbara Kripner, recording secretary; Margaret Simpson, corresponding secretary; Luzella Eubank, registrar; Catherine Brown, assistant registrar; Claire Procter, pledge trainer; Ruth Harrison, assistant pledge trainer; Katherine Renfro, treasurer; Letitia Wann, marshal; Hildegarde Neill, assistant marshal.

Several of the alumnae attended the initiation banquet for 23 Delta Zeta pledges, February 22. Isabelle Conroy, Martha Murray, Dorothy Smith Pomeroy, Helen Gilmore, and Lorna Dorlac Dairy assisted in the initiation ceremonies.

The Waco Alumnae association, recently granted its charter, met for the first time in December. At this meeting, officers were elected and plans made for the coming year.

It was decided that the monthly meetings would take place in the homes of various members, and that these meetings were to be teas.

A Christmas luncheon, to welcome our pledges and entertain some rushees, was given during the holidays.

The Alumnae association of Austin graciously invited the Waco Alumnae association, and the San Antonio association to have luncheon with them and the active chapter at the Kappa house in Austin January 11. A number of us drove down for this affair, and it was a beautiful day for everyone. Old friendships were renewed, as well as new ones made. Many ideas were exchanged, and many helpful suggestions made. Plans for systematic rushing were discussed, and new rules were explained.

This meeting gave us new enthusiasm and made us all pledge ourselves anew to work for Kappa Kappa Gamma during the coming year.

Our association is $100 ahead after the style show given for one of the larger department stores here during the Christmas vacation period. The girls who participated insist they put forth very little effort toward the style show, and we plan to earn money for the association every year by this method.

The rush captain here surprised the group at the last meeting [which, by the way started with a buffet supper in the new home of Mrs. Luther Bohanon (Marie Swatek, B Θ)] by passing stationery, envelopes, and fountain pens and then asking each of us to write a rush letter. She furnished the name and address and suggested the basic part of the letter. We did the "dirty work." The girls were quite enthusiastic about writing the letters and we had a lot of fun together as we wrote them.

Mrs. John F. Langenberg (Alice Chaplin, ΓI), a bride of a month, joined the association here in February. Mrs. C. E. Magoon (Elizabeth Richey, ΓI) missed that meeting and didn't learn about Alice for a week or two, but understand they have since seen one another.

Having heard that money talks, our members have raised $80 for rushing, which we hope will speak persuasively to our rushees this summer and fall. We are planning to follow the plan we adopted last year of giving several small parties and one large one.

In spite of snow and sleet we gave a Christmas tea for the rushees and their mothers in the home of Mrs. Richard Lloyd-Jones (Georgia Hayden, H).

At our last meeting we elected a delegate to the convention and three alternates. We are arranging for a book review tea to make money for the delegates' expenses. Mrs. John B. Old (Helen Shields, Ω) is chairman of the tea committee.

Feverish cramming for examination is no more. The lull in social activities is breaking, and we are happily anticipating our spring formal, March 14. Even more thrilling than the prospect of our formal is the fact that we made the best grades of any organization on the campus.

The beauty contest sponsored by the Razorback staff has created a furor of interest over the campus. Our candidates for beauty queen are Connie Powell and Lena Mills Newton. Speaking of candidates, Mariana

First girl in the history of the University of Arkansas to become a member of the university's "Razorback" band is Earlene Upchurch, Γ N. The accompanying picture appeared in a newspaper in Forth Smith, where Earlene was formerly a member of the high school band. With the Razorbacks, she plays the bell lyre, a form of the glockenspiel, and the only bell instrument that can successfully be carried on a march. Even so, it weighs 16 pounds! It is supported by a strap similar to that worn by a flag-bearer.

Butts has been nominated for regimental sponsor.

The Kappas are not the only ones who miss Wanda Milhoan since her graduation at mid-term. Wanda was well-known and well liked all over the campus. Besides being our president last year, she was a member of the Octagon club (eight outstanding senior women), belonged to "Rootin' Rubes," was a member of Sigma Alpha Iota, belonged to W.A.A. and Women's league and was president of Y.W.C.A. last year.

One of the most outstanding winter quarter events was the bridge tea the Mothers' club gave early in February at the chapter house. This was both a social and a financial success.

The theater party sponsored by Beta Pi alumnæ at the University of Washington's Penthouse theater attracted a large audience. Valerie Ellis, our prominent drama major, was the leading lady in "Accent on Youth."

For the entertainment of their Kappa mothers, the freshmen served a dinner at the chapter house February 6.

February 4 we of Beta Pi welcomed into our circle 12 of our pledges. Initiation in the late afternoon at the chapter house was followed by the Founders' day banquet in the Washington Athletic club. The banquet room filled with alumnæ from this and other chapters was a festive setting for the annual reunion of Kappa sisters. Our province president, Mrs. Beatrice Gerlinger, spoke a few words of greeting to our initiates.

It has been our pleasure to have as our guest for a few days Marian Handy, field secretary.

At present we are making plans for the winter formal, March 7 at the Seattle Golf club.

Marian Handy's visit to Beta Phi was one of the outstanding events of the winter quarter. She gave us many helpful suggestions which we are putting into practice. Following a series of committee meetings, she was guest of honor at an active-alumnæ dinner.

Our act "Crossing the Bar" won first place in Varsity Vodvil, all-college revue, February 21. Another cup for the mantel, and $50!

Beta Phi's quartette, composed of Dorothy Ann Bailly, Colleen Shaw, Helen Myrtis Flint, and Helen Halloran, will sing in the finals of the sorority song contest. Our opponents are the Alpha Chis and Thetas.

According to custom our pledges are entertaining the actives at a pledge formal in the gold room of the Student Union building March 13.

Mrs. Sid Coffee (Marguerite Hubbard, M), our alumnae president, entertained our group with a Christmas party in her home December 27. Informal games amused the guests until late in the evening when refreshments were served. Many of our alumnae who have moved from Missoula or whose business is in some other part of the state were in town for the vacations, so the party proved to be quite a reunion.

Mrs. Lester Graham (Marian Schroeder, B Φ), of Spokane, Washington, spent the Christmas vacation in Missoula with her parents.

Mrs. M. B. Wilson (Brenda Farrell) and Elvira Hawkins were hostesses for our January meeting in Mrs. Wilson's home.

In honor of Marian Handy, who visited us early in February, the active chapter entertained the alumnae and pledges with a dinner at the chapter house. After dinner the alumnae met with Marian and were inspired by her suggestions and ideas. Donna Hoover, '33, was here from Spokane for the occasion.

Mrs. B. W. Fort (Edwina Pasmore, K) has come with her husband from Chicago to be in Missoula until some time in June. We are happy to have her with us.

Several of the Kappas had the pleasure of meeting Mrs. Herbert Hoover, who stopped in Eugene February 19 on her recent visit to the northwest.

The entire pledge class made their grades with flying colors; with the greatest of pride Beta Kappa announces their initiation.

At mid-semester we were sorry to lose Dorothy Hanzel, Margrethe Kjosness, Katherine Lane, and Lorraine Smedley.

In February we enjoyed a visit from Marian Hardy, field secretary. While she was here she made suggestions by which we have profited a great deal. We gave a formal reception for her, to which only faculty members and students were invited. The Moscow alumnae planned and served refreshments for us.

February 15 the upperclassmen gave their annual formal dinner-dance. The house was decorated with red and white: candles, carnations, and crêpe paper in honor of Saint Valentine.

Katherine Cady was elected secretary of the freshman class; and Sarah Walker, Ann LaRue, and Ruth Runyon won berths on the rifle team.

For many years it has been the custom during the Christmas holiday season in Boise for the several alumnae associations to unite their efforts in sponsoring a dance. This year the committee in charge of refreshments was composed of members of Kappa Kappa Gamma, headed by Mrs. Maurice Greene (Louise Nagel), assisted by Harriet Hitchcock and Annabel Laidlaw.

Singing of Kappa songs has become an important part of each meeting of the association since the members have decided to learn a number of new Kappa songs. The song sung to the music of Sylvia seems to be one of the favorites of the fireplace groups.

During the Christmas holiday season the members of our alumnæ association, with the active girls home for vacation, met for luncheon at the Owyhee hotel. Mrs. Ralph Bre-shears (Mary Finnegan) and Mrs. John D. Whitney (Mary Beymer) acted as hostesses for the affair.

Handy. She had no sooner stepped off a late bus than we rushed her to the chapter room for a tea at which the pledges entertained in her honor. Early Sunday morning she went to the "Pen" with us.

New officers include: Peggy Walker, president and convention delegate; and Elizabeth Storie, secretary.

Winning the overwhelming vote of the audience in the annual choral contest, the Kappa group placed a close second in competition for the cup.

Busy making music wherever they go are the Kappa trio: Roberta Hughett, violin; Barbara Kidder, piano; and Jean McRae, piano; they have been widely starred on campus and town musical programs.

A Kappa feature of Leap week, traditional days during which coeds decree "turnabout is fair play" and invite the men to all festivities, was the hotel dinner-dance at which we assumed the men's rôles for an evening. Pity the girl who forgot to seat her guest at the table!

"The McBean Family," radio dramatization of this pioneer family's adventures in settling the west brings the voices of Dorothy Fiala and Jean Morgan to listeners during the Whitman hour.

In the search for typical campus hands the award for the most beautiful went to Carol Hill, Mortar Board president, selected by an all-fraternity committee.

Honors for being the only freshman to break the barriers of tradition by being selected for varsity debate go to Georganne Baber.

We recently welcomed three affiliates from Gamma Gamma: Erma Minnick, Christine Huckin, and Kathleen McCabe.

In the home economics style show to be given in Spokane, Kathryn Hunner, Audrey Owen, and Eleanor Peterson will model their own clothes. They will also model in the Advertising club style show.

Elizabeth Ward is chairman of the high school conference committee, and Helen Privett and Nancy Sampson will work with her.

Our pledges seem to be journalistically inclined; Betty Frisch, Ruth Wilson, Genevieve Hamilton, and Helen Privett have prominent places on the college newspaper.

Marian Handy was the honor guest of our February meeting in the home of Mrs. Earl Kennedy, with Merridy Reaser, Mrs. Ralph Smethurst (Dorothy Chandler), and Mrs. Earl Kennedy (Henrietta Baker) as hostesses. A six o'clock supper cleverly carried out a dark and light blue color scheme to make it a true Kappa occasion. Then we snugly gathered around an open fireplace to travel with Marian to many distant Kappa chapters. Surely her ears must burn, for everyone is saying complimentary things about her.

Gamma Upsilon—Chartered 1929

February's red-letter day was the day of our successful spring formal, in the Spanish grill of the Hotel Vancouver. For the first time in several years there were no visitors from the Washington chapter, which we hope was as disappointing to Beta Pi as it was to us.

All energies during February were bent on the mass student campaign for a Union building, for which each sorority and fraternity offered to raise a quota. The Greek-letter organizations undertook, in proportion to their numbers, a great deal more than did the independents; it was felt that such an effort would do much to justify the existence of fraternities on the campus. Kappa made a remarkably good showing with the coöperation of the alumnae and the Mothers' club, and was active in introducing a college carnival, inspired by a function which our delegates attended at the province convention last spring. This carnival was handled entirely by the fraternity group and was a huge success, financially and otherwise.

We enjoyed a visit from our field secretary at the end of February.

The chapter is bubbling with plans for convention this year; being in Canada, it seems as though it should be right next door, though according to all the accepted maps it is some little distance. Transportation schemes vary from special buses to bicycles. Some will probably dissolve in financial difficulties, even if the would-be delegates swear to live on hotdogs and dill pickles all the way across the continent.

DARREL GOMERY

British Columbia—Chartered 1929

Along with the active chapter, the British Columbia association is in the throes of a financial campaign. For years at the university, we have had a dream of building a Women's union. Spasmodic attempts have been made from time to time to raise the money and, during several years, the women students have accumulated a considerable sum to go towards the furnishings. This year, with the overcrowded conditions at the university and the desire of both undergraduates and graduates to perpetuate in some tangible form the memory of a dearly loved dean and his wife, who lost their lives in a tragic accident last summer, a new impetus has been given to the project. We are hoping when we celebrate the 21st birthday of the university in May of this year to have in the bank the funds to build the Brock Memorial building, which is to serve as a union for both men and women. Needless to say, if we are to realize our desire, we will be kept busy raising our allotment.

The city of Vancouver is celebrating its Golden Jubilee this summer and we would suggest to those who are not following the convention with a trip to Europe that they return home by way of Vancouver. We promise them a hearty welcome.

We are looking forward to Marian Handy's visit this month, and only regret that she has chosen the time when our president, Alice Morrow, is sojourning in Honolulu.

Eugene—Established 1921

At the January alumnae meeting the association voted to give a $20 scholarship to a deserving university student; a five dollar contribution to the Rose McGill fund; and a $15 gift to the browsing room of the new library at the University of Oregon. We also decided to give a year's subscription to The Saturday Review of Literature to Beta Omega chapter as a birthday gift.

Mrs. Eric Allen (Sally Elliott) gave an entertaining report of her recent visit to Mexico. She is leaving March 17 to spend six months in Europe, so we are looking forward to more interesting discussions.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover visited the local Girl Scout organization February 19, and all Kappas received a special invitation to the tea and dinner given in her honor. A large number of our group had the pleasure of meeting her.

We are looking forward to a visit from Marian Handy next week and hope to have her attend our meeting March 5.

Birth

Pi—Chartered 1898

University of California, Berkeley, California

Busy this year is U.C.'s spring semester. Leap year brings the traditional "Big C Sirkus," with tremendous circus tent, concessions, and dance. In the grand parade of floats will be the Pi chapter tally-ho, drawn by four horses, manned by girls in pink coats—an idea not so subtly connected with leap year.

Nine pledges will be initiated March 7.

Soon to arrive are acceptances from faculty members for dinner here, March 18.

Set for March 25 is the Fathers' dinner. The night of April 3 will see Pi chapter at its spring formal.

Names in the News

Asked to become a member of Torch and Shield, campus social organization, was Alison Thomson.

New house officers after elections were: Alison Thomson, president; Augusta Dabney, standards chairman; and Elizabeth Currier, scholarship chairman.

Shortly after winter quarter rushing, the San Francisco Bay Alumnae association sponsored its annual fashion show at the Hotel Mark Hopkins. The models included active members and pledges of Beta Eta and Pi chapters.

February was an eventful and triumphant month, for at the all-university elections Mary Belford was elected to Women's council. Cap and Gown selected Jean Albertson, our president; Jeanne Keesling, Panhellenic president; and Phyllis Boothe, a junior. Our pledges also rose to glory when two of them, Jean Reynolds and Carol Morris, were elected president and vice-president, respectively, of Roble hall, the freshman women's dormitory.

Later in the month we had an exchange dinner with the Thetas and entertained members of the faculty and their wives at a faculty dinner.

MARGARET RITTER

Palo Alto—Chartered 1924

In order to raise money for our philanthropic funds, the Palo Alto Alumnæ association gave a benefit bridge tea St. Valentine's day in the Beta Eta chapter house. Out of doors, California sunshine was noticeably absent, but those who had decorated the house with fruit blossoms, white stock, primroses and callas from Kappa gardens, had brought spring within most charmingly. The pledges served tea and the alumnæ who saw this class for the first time felt they would uphold all the traditions.

Also in February we gave a tea for the 19 Kappa transfers at Stanford. This was in the home of Mrs. J. C. Breckinridge, a Beta Omicron Kappa who is living in Palo Alto, while her husband, Brigadier-General Breckinridge, is in command of the Pacific division of the Marine Corps. Among our alumnæ members present that day we had representatives from 12 chapters. The transfers include members from eight chapters.

As an association, we have suffered a great loss in the death of one of our most beloved members, Frances Theresa Russell (Theresa Peet, B Z). She has been a member of the faculty at Stanford since 1906. Brilliant but modest, she had an understanding of young people that endeared her to those who came under her influence. Many well known young writers have benefited by her advice and teaching, and countless others by her example and life.

Our February meeting was the first of its kind and proved to be a happy and informal occasion, affording an excellent opportunity for getting better acquainted. A committee of five prepared and served a simple luncheon in the home of Mrs. George T. McCoy (Edith Wilson, I F). Serving with Mrs. McCoy on the committee were Mrs. Ray Dean (Grace V. Burgett, I F), Mrs. John B. Matthew (Marjorie Hubbell, Z), Mrs. Herbert McDuffee (Mildred Mekeel, X), and Mrs. Albert Edward Smith (Mary Shaw, II). We were happy to receive a second invitation from Mrs. M. C. C. VanLoben Sels (Helen Adelaide Ellsworth, Ψ), to have luncheon at her ranch home near Walnut Grove. This meeting will be April 4.

One of our members, Mrs. L. M. Jeffers (Zola Green, E), is the owner of a Kappa songbook. Copies of five songs are being made, so that we may better enjoy our next songfest under the leadership of our music chairman, Mrs. Arnold R. Raybur (Marjorie Stanton, II).

We are appreciative of the copies of the Fleur-de-Lis, which we have received.

January 27 several of our members enjoyed the broadcast of Helen Snyder Andres.

We have one new member to report: Mrs. Melvyn E. Sheibley (Frances McBride, II), was recently married.

In front of a brilliantly lighted fireplace and Christmas tree Betty Jean Bowman, dressed as Santa Claus, passed out presents to each girl in the house, a jingle accompanying each gift. We received lovely presents from our Phoenix alumnæ, our Mothers' club, and Mother Ackley.

Two girls were recently initiated into Wranglers, honorary women's literary society: Betty Jane Vincent and Jane Vibert.

Florence Kehl, transfer from Omega chapter, has registered in the university for the spring semester. We have been happy to have her living with us here in the chapter house.

Among the three candidates selected for desert queen by the men students, two were Kappas: Betty Sue Welch (Mrs. James Brown Maloney) and Elizabeth Adams. The girl who is judged the most beautiful by the photography staff of Vogue magazine will be our future desert queen.

Jacqueline Soans again has a feminine lead in the University Players' "Beggars on Horseback."

Tucson—Established 1923

January 21 we met in the home of Mrs. J. E. Keim (Mildred Moore, I B) for a buffet supper and regular monthly meeting. We were happy to have as our guest Mrs. Paul Stevens (Agnes Gertrude Talbott, B T).

We enjoyed a Spanish supper in the home of Mrs. W. F. Tolley (Ethel Mary Brown, B Z), February 25. Our regular business meeting followed. We are enthusiastically making plans for a style show in March. Mrs. H. S. Newsom (Martha Elizabeth Barrett, B N) was a welcome guest at this meeting.

Ethel Fisher and Florence Hornberger, both of Phoenix, Arizona, and from Gamma Zeta chapter, are new members of our association this year.

We are looking forward to the visit in March of Gertrude Murphy, Kappa province vice-president.

Gamma Xi—Chartered 1925

After a short vacation following our final examinations, we returned to school to bring to a conclusion a successful rush week. The pledges will be formally presented to the campus at an open house March 5.

But we were not to be satisfied with taking the cream of the entering class; our former pledges were so desirous of becoming members that 16 of them made their grades.

We have been having a gay social life as well as a scholastic one. Our pledges honored us with a dance early in January. The alumnae gave a benefit party at Santa Anita, and many of us went. Before long we are planning to give our annual barn dance. Last year we decided against it, but were forced to change our minds because of popular demand!

We are proud to announce the initiation of Florence Ortman and Betty Morgan into Tic Toc, social honorary. Katherine Alden was elected into the psychology honorary, Psi Chi. We'll all see you all at the convention!

ELEANOR L. COLLEBRAN

Los Angeles—Established 1904

Last year was one of travel for many of our alumnae. Mrs. I. J. Boothe, our president, had an enjoyable trip to Honolulu with Mrs. Waddell and their respective daughters, Florence and Phyllis. Josephine Alderman, one of the intellectual leaders of Los Angeles, and also one of our young Gamma Xi alumnae, spent the summer in Honolulu. She attended courses at the University of Hawaii, and greatly enjoyed the company of the late Harry Carr, a well-known columnist of the Los Angeles Times. Mrs. F. S. Albertson and her daughters Barbara and Jean enjoyed a delightful trip to the Orient.

Many of our alumnae have headed eastward in their travels, despite the prevailing belief that all Californians go west. Mrs. Dodge Dunning, our past province president, and her husband combined business and pleasure during a few months in London. Lula Mae Lloyd, Kate Ridgeway, and Janet Crump, all of them Gamma Xi alumnae, can relate many fascinating experiences pertaining to their delightful trip through Europe and the British Isles. Helen Galbreth and her sister Betty had a grand trip through the Panama canal, motored through New England and along the eastern coast, and spent a couple of months in New York. Betty and Virginia Janss, also of Gamma Xi, went east by train, visited in North Carolina, and then came home through the canal. Emelie Childs and her brother have just returned from a cruise to the canal and back. Frances Winters has just left for a trip around South America.

This year we have decided to venture forth with a benefit dance instead of the customary bridge benefit. We are giving a dinner dance at the Santa Anita inn February 7. The party is being managed by Mrs. Donald Becker. The financial returns from this benefit are for scholarship and philanthropic funds.

Our alumnae association is growing by leaps and bounds. This year we have over 100 members, the largest membership we have ever had. We had a record-breaking luncheon and meeting in the home of Mrs. F. S. Albertson in January.

HELEN LOUISE GALBRETH

Long Beach—Chartered 1926

Our last two meetings have been quite eventful for us. Our January meeting, a delightful bridge tea in the home of our vice-president, Mrs. Charles Sexton (Norma Brazee, T Z) with Grace Furlong (A Z) assisting, was visited by Gertrude Murphy, province vice-president. She gave us an interesting account of her visits to other associations. Since we have so little contact with other alumnae groups we found it most interesting to hear about their activities. We hope Miss Murphy will find time to visit us soon again.

Our February meeting was another outstanding occasion. We were entertained with a buffet luncheon in the home of Mrs. Dean Godwin (Myrtle White, B A). Instead of the customary bridge Mrs. Godwin had planned an interesting program for us. Mrs. George Taubman (Elizabeth Clare, B X) gave us an informal talk on the development of the furnishings in early American homes from the crude pioneer days through the revolutionary period. Antiques are Mrs. Taubman's hobby. Mrs. Fred Cox (Betty Penney, S) who is particularly interested in modern art gave us a talk on Cézanne from the book Apples and Madonnas by C. F. Bulliet. Another of our talented members, Mrs. A. W. Vasey, who reviews books professionally, gave us a chatty sketch of present day books. Included in the list were books of travel, books of foreign countries, biographies, and books which discussed war and peace. We were grateful to Mrs. Godwin for her efforts in giving us a different type of social program. We hope it will be possible to have similar meetings every year.

CLAIRE ALLABACH

Hawaiian—Chartered 1924

If all the alumnae associations would realize just how much interest a group picture would cause among old school friends, THE KEY would find itself besieged with photographs. The Hawaiian association members have received many letters since our December issue, beginning, "I saw your picture in THE KEY and you haven't changed a bit."

We still meet monthly in the homes of our members and each meeting brings several new Kappas. We were happy to have Helen Sheldon, Γ X, Mrs. Charles D. Williams, Jr. (Catherine M. Beck, I), and Mrs. William A.

Costello (Helen Murchie, Γ Σ) with us at our January meeting in the home of Mrs. Rollo Thomas (Ruth Reeves, Δ).

A new departure from our meetings of the past months was inaugurated in February. All of those members desiring to play bridge arrived much earlier than usual and played until three-thirty when the bridge tables disappeared and all joined for the business meeting and tea. By such an arrangement we expect the malihinis (new arrivals) to become better acquainted with the kamiinahs (old timers).

Mary Frances Gibbs was elected the new president. For the first time the chapter named a vice-president, Alice Louise Kelly. Roberta Armstrong was chosen chairman of standards.

Other officers are: Ann Dudley, recording secretary; Virginia Pierce, corresponding secretary; Martha Bishop, treasurer; Margaret Stemple, registrar; Marie Hedges, assistant registrar; Sara Bushong, marshal; Mary Thompson, KEY correspondent.

Betty Lee Bord was appointed rushing captain for next year and Mary Elizabeth Chapman, scholarship chairman. Installation of officers was February 25.

Initiation was March 7 at the Morgantown Masonic temple. Following the rites a formal banquet was given in honor of the initiates at the Hotel Morgan.

Our Spring formal dance was given in the ballroom of the Hotel Morgan, March 14.

MARY V. THOMPSON

Huntington—Chartered 1932

Activities for the year were begun in September when our new president, Mrs. Edmund A. Marshall (Mahrea Goucher, B T) gave the first of our regular monthly tea meetings in her home. All members were present, including one who is living temporarily in Morgantown, West Virginia, Mrs. Dale Wilson (Anne Scott, B N), national scholarship chairman. Also honored was a visitor, Mrs. George Clarence Stipe (Kathryn Hutchinson, B T), of Houghton, Michigan.

We all regret the loss to our association of Mrs. Bruce Savage (Marabeth Thomas, M), who moved to Indianapolis last spring.

We also miss a loyal member, Mrs. Maude Foster (Maude Conley, Σ), who is wintering in Florida.

The association extends sympathy to our province vice-president, Harriet French B T, in the recent loss of her father.

Three Kappas have moved to Huntington in the past few months and we welcome them. They are: Mrs. H. L. Haworth (Mary Robbins, B Δ), Mrs. F. F. Frech (Margaret Alcott, B A), and Mrs. Joseph M. Ferguson (Margaret McAlister, B X).

MARY BURNSIDE REYNOLDS

Charleston—Chartered 1935

Our January meeting was a bridge tea in the home of Mrs. Ernest Merrill, which, in spite of the snow and cold weather, was well attended and delightful.

Our February meeting will be a luncheon at the Tallyho, with Isabel Kimmell, Mrs. Elmer Borchardt (Dorothy Kimmell) and Mrs. Ed Hutchinson (Mary Guiher) as hostesses.

We are delighted that Mrs. Ernest Merrill is to be our delegate to convention this summer. Her daughter, Frances, is the delegate from Duke, and we think it splendid that mother and daughter are both representatives.

Our only member active in civic affairs at present is Mrs. Rummel Anderson. She is co-producer of a children's play sponsored by the Junior League.

The sympathy of the chapter is extended to Harriet French, our province vice-president, in the death of her father, and to Jean Miller and Mrs. W. H. Billings (Daisy Mae Miller) in the loss of their mother.

Gamma Kappa—Chartered 1923

Thirteen Gamma Kappas received the distinction of being on the dean's list for this semester, a privilege which grants them optional attendance at classes.

Marietta Butler, Jean Gordon, and Beverly Bridge are members of the choir; Beverly, who was recently initiated into the art club, has a part in the Gilbert-Sullivan operetta, "Patience," to be presented this spring.

February 17 the Gamma Kappas gave the Kappa Alpha Thetas a miniature Monte Carlo party. For three years, the Thetas and Kappas have been getting together twice a year. These informal parties have been a source of enjoyment, and have enabled the girls in both fraternities to become better acquainted.

Basketball season is here, and the chapter is really taking the game seriously. We have played and won four games. If we maintain our record unbroken the chapter will be presented with the cup given each year to the winning sorority's team. Minnie Franck, who was awarded her manager's monogram last fall, is the intramural basketball manager.

At the beginning of the year, the chapter decided to post an activities chart to be checked once a month. It has been helpful in creating more interest in campus activities.

New names and old names combine to fill up the shiny new slate of the chapter honor roll, which bears the names of: Katherine Ahalt, our new president; Kathleen Bulow, pledge trainer; Emma Lou Danielson, chairman of standards; Ann Hill, treasurer; Raechel Cooley, recording secretary; Alice Klopstad, corresponding secretary; Beulah Kosters, registrar; Frances Brainard, marshal; Ruth Brewer, rush chairman; Dorothy Roudabush, scholarship chairman; Gussie Mae Hanley, social and music chairman, and Nancy Gordon, KEY correspondent.

February 17 the annual "goat-show" was presented by the pledges. After sitting through two hours of hilarious and clever entertainment, the active chapter realized that we had unwittingly pledged many future rivals of those famous names of Cornell, Hayes and Fontanne. One of the cleverest presentations was the portrayal of early Kappa history. We were all surprised and enlightened by learning that Kappa history dated back to Eve.

In the annual beauty contest sponsored by the year book, the Cherry Tree, Beulah Kosters has been chosen to represent Kappa in competition with the other campus sororities.

February 29 will be the date of initiation. At that time 12 new gold keys will be seen on the campus. Initiation is to be followed by a banquet at the Parrot inn.

Kappa has again scored by winning the intramural volley-ball championship. Marjorie Sehorn, our president, has been awarded first place in rifle matches, being closely followed by Ruth Brewer, who claimed second place.

In the near future Gamma Chi is planning to present the campus with a leap year dance in which vengeance shall be wreaked and justice done.

Members of Gamma Chi were our hostesses January 13 at the student's club room building on the George Washington university campus. We welcomed the opportunity to become better acquainted with the actives and enjoyed the model chapter meeting.

The afternoon bridge parties still go on, with Monopoly an added attraction. Mrs. Torrence Wolford (Perla Backham, $B\Xi$) was hostess for the group, January 22, and Mrs. Seiforde M. Stellwagon (Elinor Lynch, X) entertained February 25.

In spite of much snow and ice there was a fine turnout for the February supper meeting in the home of Mrs. Rollin A. Hunter (Ruth Dickinson, BZ). Miss Isabel DuBois, librarian of ships and stations, Navy department, was our guest speaker. Miss DuBois was a delegate last year to the International Congress of Bibliographers and Librarians at Madrid, Spain. We were delighted with her talk on "Recent Books." Mary Funk Ahroon, $B\Delta$; Ruth Hart, $B\Delta$; Norma Foster Ellis, K ; Katy Bolté, M , and Mavis Allen, BZ , were introduced and welcomed by the association.

January 17—

The night of Gamma Psi's annual spinsters' skip! Corsages of carrots and pansies; a long line of pledge "stags"; girls cutting in made the dance one of the most delightful affairs of the social season. This dance is becoming a traditional high spot of the school year.

January 28—

Midyear exams are a thing of the past. With a glint of pride we read that eight Kappas have received three point averages.

February 12—

Our new house president, Jean Patterson.

February 15—

All-university night—a panorama of school activities. Kappas predominated in the prominent rôles. Geraldine Schuh portrayed the character of "Annie Oakley" in a novel manner.

February 20—

June and Jean Barnsley, Gamma Psi's twins, organized the Terrapins, girls basketball team entered in the A.A.U. tournament in Washington.

February 21—

Gamma Psi has an accurate method of checking on its activities. An activity chart has been set up in the chapter house with so many points going to the girl who is in the most activities. With this method the fraternity can also keep a record of its position in the university activities.

February 22—

George Washington's birthday will be featured by a tea dance at the chapter house. A pledge dance is coming in the near future.

Delta Beta—Chartered 1930

Duke University, Durham, North Carolina

Shortly after the initiation services, February 29, initiates were honored with a banquet at the Washington Duke hotel. Ellen Witwer was toastmistress and short talks were made by Dorothy Davis, Anna Wagner, Anne Hollmeyer, and Nancy Roberson. Dorothy Fisher was presented the best-all-around pledge ring, while Barbara Jenkins was awarded the ring for the largest number of pledge points. Anne Hollmeyer received a bracelet for the highest scholarship among the pledges.

June Langfitt, Ruth Phillips, and Katheryn Whitmyre were selected in a campus election to be members of the May court. Marie Pelgrim and Katheryn Whitmyre have recently been asked to join Kappa Delta Pi, national honorary education fraternity. Three of our initiates, Mary Magraw, Dorothy Fisher, and Clarinda Jackson have been made members of the sophomore commission.

February 19 we had a tea in the Panhellenic house for the non-sorority women of our campus. Jean Ann Pippen was in charge of this affair. Nancy Roberson has had several groups of actives and pledges for coffee at her home. We enjoy meeting in this informal way.

We are looking forward to the visit which Dr. and Mrs. Henry Crane (Δ) are going to make here early in the spring. We have planned a tea for them.

Bess Laing attended the initiation conducted by Gamma Pi chapter at Alabama. She spent several days visiting with them and we were interested in her reports.

ISOBEL CRAVEN

Durham—Chartered 1931

This winter the Durham Alumnae association has enjoyed the privilege of holding its meetings in the Delta Beta chapter room, in the new Panhellenic house on the woman's college campus of Duke university. The chapter room is quite lovely, and we appreciate Delta Beta's kindness in letting us use it.

Mary Avon Motlow and Jane Minor, two seniors of Delta Beta who finished the requirements for their degrees in the first semester, were our guests. At this meeting we began work on our benefit quilt, and as this letter goes to THE KEY, the quilt is being put together. The benefit quilt last spring went to Mrs. Harold W. Johnson (Katherine Markham, ΔB), of Fuquay Springs, North Carolina. We gave all North Carolina Kappas an opportunity to participate in this benefit and will do the same this year.

As a new project, the Durham Alumnae association is working on plans for an association of Delta Beta alumnae. We hope in this way to help unify the old and new members of Delta Beta throughout the years.

We are making plans to participate in Delta Beta's spring initiation and will give a ring to the best-all-round pledge being initiated.

Delta Theta—Chartered 1933

Goucher College, Baltimore, Maryland

This has been an extremely busy term for all of us. The Glee club, of which Elizabeth Knipp is president, gave its annual dance, January 11; Sing-Song, with Betty Bennet, junior leader, and Elizabeth Hunt, freshman chairman, was a big event of the month. Intramural basketball has also been strongly upheld by Delta Theta. We have a Kappa team entered which those of us who do not play have been busy cheering.

We boomed off into the month of February with initiation, February 1. The banquet was given at 101 University parkway. Elizabeth Hunt presided as toastmistress. Talks on various phases of Kappa ideals were given by Betty Bennet, Alvie Nye, Ruth Hocker (our province president), Elisabeth Bartlett, president of the Baltimore alumnae; and Miss Rutherford of the Goucher Faculty. Elizabeth Hunt was awarded a plain key as the best pledge, and Jean Hunt a prize for the highest scholarship among the freshmen.

February 7 the annual Panhellenic dance was given at the Maryland Casualty club. The following day we gave a tea dance at the chapter rooms, Miss Rutherford and Miss Bartlett presiding over the tea table.

February 12 our freshmen gave us a lovely party, including a supper followed by skits and songs.

A fashion show was given in the Kappa rooms February 18. Some of the Kappas modeled for members and their friends.

A tea for Delta Theta chapter was given February 23 by Dr. and Mrs. Winslow at their home in Roland Park. We certainly did appreciate this interest on the part of our faculty sponsors, and we had a lovely time.

March 13 sighs of relief were heard. The second term was over and the not unwelcome spring holidays had come.

With final exams a thing of the past and the promise of spring before us, Beta Chi begins a new semester. True, we feel the loss of our five mid-year graduates, but initiation will add 17 new names to the chapter roll.

Founder's day banquet, celebrated February 21, was a gay affair. Skits were presented by the pledges and actives. Dorothy Clements was named as the best pledge.

We have resumed our plan of having members of the faculty and their wives for dinner at the house once a week.

Anne Wilson received a high honor, not only by being the only girl pledged to Beta Gamma Sigma, honorary commerce fraternity, but also by having the highest standing of any of those pledged. Anne Payne Perry was recently elected president of the Women's Administrative council. Mary Eleanor Clay, a pledge, appeared in a series of "Musical Comedy Gems" presented by the university over WHAS broadcasting station.

The officers for the coming year are Bettie Gilbert, president; Julia Brown, corresponding secretary; Dorothy McCammish, recording secretary; Anne Phelps, treasurer; Mildred Wheeler, marshal, and Ann Law Lyons, rush captain.

The highlight of the social season will be our Kappa Blue ball, March 14. The decorations, programs, and favors will be in the two shades of Kappa's blues.

Since W.A.A. announced its intention to give a cup to the sorority attaining the most points, the Kappas have become "athletic conscious" in the hope of winning this cup as we did the last.

Birmingham—Chartered 1927

In spite of the fact that Birmingham has had its share of cold weather, with a week of snow which was almost unprecedented, we had a record attendance at our February meeting, down town at Mary Beard's tea room. Roberta Sterrett, B O, one of our Panhellenic representatives, announced the annual script dance, February 12.

Valentine's day four alumnae: Mrs. Bruce Gibson (Lillian Pence, A), Mrs. Roy Hickman (Dorothy Dunkerley, Γ B), Mrs. Robert Greer (Frank Smith, B Θ), and Mrs. David Miller (Elizabeth Austin, E), went to Tuscaloosa to spend the day with the girls of Gamma Pi chapter. They were hospitably received in true southern style by the actives; Mrs. Jones, the housemother; and by Mrs.

J. N. Masters (Estella Keith, I II). In fact, they had such a good time that they made the trip the following Wednesday, February 19, in order to attend the initiation of 11 pledges, and the banquet which followed.

Mrs. Francis Cochrell (Marian Brown, B O) has arrived from New York to visit her mother in Mountain Brook.

We regret to announce the loss from our association of Dorothy Curtis, I II, who is returning to her home in Monticello, Florida, to take a position in her father's office.

Delta Epsilon—Chartered 1932

Rollins College, Winter Park, Florida

The chapter certainly went for buffet suppers this term! January 20 we gave one at the house in honor of Nancy Cushman and LaGeorgia Newall, visiting graduates of last year. Then, February 4, the pledges gave us one, plus the added attraction of seeing "Rose Marie."

LaGeorgia Newall returned to her home after a brief visit. We are glad, however, that Nancy Cushman is still with us. She is working in the college office and will until June. Another visitor this month was Mary Diehl, who was with us during initiation.

The annual alumnae tea for the actives was given in the home of Mrs. Oesterling, February 20.

February 15 we initiated eight girls. A terrible thunderstorm literally rocked the house all afternoon, but fortunately cleared for our banquet that evening in Orlando.

At present all of Rollins is in mourning. Mrs. Hamilton Holt, wife of President Holt, died February 19, of pneumonia; and Mrs. Edwin Grover, wife of the professor of books, February 20, from injuries in an automobile accident. As the two husbands were closely connected with the Animated Magazine, it and most of the Founders' week program was called off. It has indeed been a sad time for Rollins, considering, too, the death of Miss Annie Russell in January.

Tampa Bay—Chartered 1935

By the end of this year, members of the Tampa Bay association will be experts on Florida geography and highways. January 8 we met with Marion Banks in St. Petersburg, where we told of our different Kappa chapters and our colleges, and February 19 most of us were back in Tampa for the meeting at Mrs. Wishart's (Edna Wells) where Rollins college and the coming convention in Canada inspired some lively conversation. Then in April we shall be back in St. Petersburg, and after all over at Clearwater beach for a picnic. But our really fanciest piece of traveling will be the journey over to Winter Park next month, where the Delta Epsilon chapter and the Winter Park alumnae association have asked us to meet with them.

In the meantime we are being busy in Tampa. Some of us assisted at the scholarship fund benefit of the A.A.U.W. in January. Violet Whittaker, Aurora McKay, and Eleanor Upmeyer spent an industrious afternoon there, and helped our treasury, too, by selling a great many bottles of Coca Cola. As an extra surprise in March we are planning a Spanish dinner at "Las Novadades" in Ybor City. Betty Dickinson Kelly, Violet Whittaker, and Edna Wishart are working hard in the newly-formed Junior Women's club.

Bandits must beware, in Miami at least. Elizabeth Ballard DuPuis, P, (Mrs. John G., Jr.) never misses. She shot herself to state championship of women skeet shooters, in a national meet here this week.

Best wishes for a bigger and better convention, from Miami.

Newcomb—Established 1922

Our last meeting, February 3, at Jean Martin's, followed a delightful buffet supper.

We are looking forward with unusual enthusiasm this year to convention in Montebello, since we are planning to send a delegate. In order to raise the money necessary for the trip we are going to give a benefit card party and tea in the early spring.

At the suggestion of our standards adviser, Jean Martin, the association voted to give our active chapter a two-year's subscription to the Reader's Digest, as a mental stimulant.

Atlanta—Chartered 1931

In February, Mrs. William Warren Owens (Alice Officer, X) entertained us with an evening party which took the place of our regular meeting. Mrs. Owens was assisted by Mrs. Joseph Shea (Loretta May Jones, Δ). Some of the guests played Monopoly while others played bridge. One of the high spots of the evening was a "white elephant" auction which proved entertaining as well as very profitable to our treasury.

We enjoyed having two girls from Beta Chi, Matilda Beard and Louise Jefferson, at our party. Mrs. Edgar Martin (Margery Armsby, A) has recently moved to Atlanta from Cleveland, Ohio. We hope that these three Kappas will become active members of our association.

The Atlanta Panhellenic sponsored a bridge party and fashion show in February to raise money for the scholarship which is given each year to some girl at the University of Georgia. Kappas were asked to support the benefit and sell a quota of tickets, as were all fraternities affiliated with Panhellenic.

Delta Iota—Chartered 1935

Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, Louisiana

All our pledges made their grades and Delta Iota pledged two girls.

The pledges entertained the actives and co-organizers with a luncheon in the private dining room in Highland hall, February 15. Favors were corsages of yellow jonquils. After lunch, we all went to the movies.

Talk of women's fraternity houses to be built by the university for the coming school year has had us all in a dither, though nothing is as yet definite.

After an informal mid-term rush week, we plan to have our first initiation within the next two weeks.

MARTHA LINSDAY

Kappa Names Are News

A syndicated article on some of America's highest salaried women includes the name of Ruth Waldo, B Σ, who "writes for an advertising agency and drew $20,000 in 1934, more than most men can hope for in a similar post." . . . A Cedar Rapids newspaper carried a feature story with Vivien Buser, B Z, as its subject. One of her hobbies is photography, begun at a Colorado summer camp where she now spends her summers as rifle instructor. She has her own dark room, where she develops, prints, and enlarges the pictures she has taken. She was highly praised by the editors of the National Geographic for her work in enlarging pictures by Edward Murray used to illustrate his article on a visit with nomads in central Asia, in a recent issue of the magazine. . . . The New York Sun reports that Pi's Helen Wills Moody's first one-man exhibition of oils will be in the Grand Central art galleries this spring. In the Seattle Sunday Times was a picture of Valerie Ellis, B Π, feminine lead in "Accent on Youth," a local production for which Seattle Kappas took over the theater, February 11, for a Rose McGill fund benefit.

Beatrice Blackmar Gould, B Z, and her husband, Bruce Gould, short story writers of note, are now editors of The Ladies' Home Journal. . . . In January The New York Times carried a story of the dinner arranged by Mrs. A. Barton Hepburn, B B, at Beekman Tower (Panhellenic), when four magistrates, guests or honor, presented their opinion of the effectiveness of the adolescent court in salvaging first offenders. . . . Fully reported in the New York newspapers was the dinner in February honoring Virginia C. Gildersleeve, B E, who is celebrating her twenty-fifth year as dean of Barnard college. New York's Mayor F. H. LaGuardia was one of the guest speakers at the dinner in the Biltmore hotel. During the evening the program between 10:15 and 10:45 was broadcast over WJZ. . . . Book reviews have praised In Calico and Crinoline, by Eleanor M. Sickles, Γ T. This book of "true stories of American women, 1608-1865," is dedicated to her niece, Barbara Alice Sickles, daughter of Alice Lilliequist Sickles, Γ T. During their college days at Whitman, Eleanor wrote the Kappa song, "Hand in Hand," and Alice the well-known Kappa banquet song. Mrs. Sickles lives in St. Paul, where she is executive secretary of the International institute. This spring she will again direct a folk festival, for which she will use material obtained in Europe last summer. . . . Honored guest at a Delta Kappa Epsilon formal dance in Seattle was June Elizabeth King, Γ T. Her father, C. P. King, was sent east 25 years ago to obtain the charter for the Δ K E chapter at the University of Washington.
