SUMMER 1970

Where can you go to find friendship?

Will friendship in the second century become as rare as the whooping crane? Friendship, like the whooping crane, requires favorable environment.

Statistics are that during the average lifetime, each human being will have close contact with 600 others, not all of whom will be friends. Most enduring relationships are formed in youth, especially in the undergraduate years. Yet in spite of the growing campus population, there is less and less chance for students to make friends.

The size and the distance of classes, the necessity to study harder than ever for grades, degrees, and the coveted jobs of the future, and sometimes working to help defray college fees—all these pressures decrease opportunities for finding friends.

For over 100 years, thousands of students on university and college campuses in the United States and Canada have developed lifelong friendships through affiliation with Greek letter campus organizations. There is evidence that on the king-size campuses of today and tomorrow, Greek letter organizations are becoming, more and more, the nuclei of friendship.

The girl who joins a Greek organization asks to be identified with their standards of scholarship, character and life style. Here she finds friends with whom she will share the joyous and, at the same time, educational experience of being part of a group.

In the framework of the chapter she will be able to try out her own abilities and develop skill in carrying her share of chapter responsibility. A further revelation will be the friendship which awaits her in adult life where the alumnae members are predisposed to be her friends around the world.

Are Greeks still strong?

At no time in the history of fraternities and sororities has their existence been more challenged by criticism and opposition. The Key presents the optimistic side of the Greek picture by relating comments from various fraternity and sorority leaders, and college administrators.

Stronger than ever

Since 1940, the number of established fraternity and sorority chapters in the United States and Canada has almost doubled. During the past five years, there has been an increase of over 350 fraternity chapters and more than 250 new sorority chapters.

New groups are being added at the rate of 70 new men's groups and 50 new women's groups every year. Over 400 additional institutions throughout the United States alone have asked national fraternities and sororities to become established on their campuses in the last six years.

The National Interfraternity Conference (NIC), composed of 60 general undergraduate fraternities, reports that since World War II fraternities have grown more than 60 per cent. In the past 10 years more than 92 (132 from 1956 to 1967) universities and colleges opened their doors for the first time to fraternities. A recent survey of 150 educational institutions without fraternities indicated that officials at 120 would encourage the establishment of fraternities.

The Shield of Phi Kappa Psi

The wrong impression

As we both know, there are those who do not understand what sororities and fraternities are all about. Such persons who themselves have never shared the responsibilities of membership regard initiation hazing and horse-play with great disdain—which most of it deserves as we know—but this ends their grasp of sorority life. The charges of snobbishness, social cruelty, status insulation, political manipulation, to name only a few, are all levied at sororities and fraternities. To some degree there is no doubt that evidence can be found to support these undesirable practices should they exist. These same accusations can be made at times of every group of persons who organize for whatever purpose. But these are not what sororities are all about.

We know and we understand what fraternity and sorority membership means to a man or woman college student. We know that for the individual who accepts membership at least the following will be true:

(1) A girl has been judged by her fellow students, her own peers, to be an individual of moral and personal integrity, a girl whose character is unquestioned, and one with which her sorority sisters are willing to identify their own;

(2) She has demonstrated to her sorority sisters that she can subject her own personal selfish notions, wishes, preferences, to share in a mutual consideration for her sisters. She is a better person because she has developed—and exercises—the strength of character required to place concern for others in her group ahead of her own.

Where are we going?

During the last three years I have noticed a steady change in the thinking, philosophy and the activities of both chapters and their members. College is no longer just a social and learning experience, but it is a preparation for these young women to assume intelligent and active roles in their adult lives. In general, I have nothing but praise for their thinking. They have questioning minds, showing a reluctance and an unwillingness to accept traditional modes of life just for tradition's sake. They are mature; they are eager to explore various fields of learning; they have an acute awareness of the world's problems.

merly had none. In the past six years 400 institutions of higher learning asked that fraternities and sororities be established on their campuses. The reasons behind the requests were: The fraternity system improves scholarship, promotes leadership and good citizenship, and creates a loyalty to the college or university. It is a matter of record that 75 per cent of the individual funds contributed to colleges and universities comes from fraternity and sorority members.

The conclusion to be drawn from this expansion is that universities and colleges have increasing belief in the fraternity chapter as a helpful addition to the educational climate.

The fraternity system which is nearly 200 years old, will survive if only for the simple reason that it is devoted primarily to the development of friendship. Indeed, those members, both collegiate and alumnae, who be-

"To be relevant in this age, the fraternity must ever be new—new in its approach, new in the telling of its own story."

An alumna responds

Sir: The answer to the question raised by Mary Margaret Flatley in her article of November 30, "Is The Sorority System on Its Way Out," could have been answered more accurately had she extended her research beyond the University of Maryland to include statistics on the actual growth of the fraternity system.

Greek letter groups are hardly on their last legs. Banta's Greek Exchange, in its July 1969 issue, reports that the period June 1, 1967, to May 31, 1969, found that the number of reported chapters established by National Interfraternity Conference member fraternities (men's groups) totaled 368; of the National Panhellenic Conference member fraternities (women's groups), 160.

In the past 10 years national fraternities added chapters at 135 campuses which for-lieve in the value of membership, are working together toward creative change.

Perhaps these men and women need to speak up and speak out more firmly on the positive contributions which have been made to campus and community through leadership, volunteer service, scholarship and scholarship aid programs. As these are the goals of all Greek letter groups such contributions shall continue.

The fraternity system will fail only when its own members—of all ages—fail it by not trying harder. Fraternity membership has never been for the fainthearted nor the negative. Rather the challenge is afforded the individual willing to accept the demands, but only in those areas that can produce improvement in service and in character.

A brighter future

Optimism about the future of the American University was expressed by the late Dr. Jack S. Wilkes, Southern Methodist University Vice-President, in a speech delivered to the Dallas Panhellenic Association. "I am optimistic because the American university believes in human dignity and worth, it asks the fundamental question of life, it challenges us to apply intelligence to service."

The SMU administrator expressed his belief in the value of the student sorority and fraternity system. He added that those students who exemplify qualities of leadership in these groups have the further responsibility to assist in bringing stability and order to the college campus today.

Wilkes pointed out that SMU is one of the very few universities left with more than tively kept out of current campus history by its own irrelevance or is it simply not telling its own story well?

In either case, our Fraternity cannot afford to sit in its own little corner and watch the rest of the campus go by. To be relevant in this age, the Fraternity must ever be new—new in its approach, new in the telling of its own story. So long as we remain united in our beliefs and our goals and true to our ideals, there will always be a new Fraternity combining the truths of the past, the realities of the present and the ability to cope with the future.

This Living Fraternity for A Changing World must have, it seems to me, the following characteristics:

1. It must be strong institutionally, this strength being present at every level of the organization.

"New groups are being added at the rate of 70 new men's groups and 50 new women's groups every year."

40 per cent of its students in fraternities and sororities. He cited one reason for this as the progressive nature of the SMU groups and their interest in the whole university.

A living fraternity for a changing world

Would you be shocked to read that the fraternity might not be listed among the ten most influential factors affecting the lives of the students on your college campus? You may read such from our critics. Would you be incensed to hear the fraternity plays no significant role now, nor is it likely to, in the revolutionary changes taking place in the academic world? You may hear such from our critics. Is the fraternity system being effec-

2. Beyond this, the living Fraternity for a changing world, must possess something of the charismatic. This unique power which comes to us as fraternity men must be used to secure the allegiance of other men as we seek to use our extraordinary gifts for the benefit of other people both in and out of the organization.

3. The living Fraternity in the changing world must be more worldly. This may sound strange, but what I am saying is that its outlook must be toward the college campus lest its mission become too introverted. The Fraternity does not exist for itself, but for those in it and those whom they touch. It cannot withdraw into its stately houses and operate in isolation. It must be a part of the scene, playing its own role, sharing its talents, making its contributions.

4. The living Fraternity in the changing world needs to be creative in its thought. If our Fraternity is going to meet the challenge of this age, it must be committed to rigorous intellectual discipline. We cannot afford the luxury of trying to be an effective Fraternity in these times if we leave our "thinking caps" in the closet.

emphasis upon intellectual pursuits demands that the social function be subordinate to academic purpose. If it is to maintain its place on campus, the modern fraternity must reclaim its position as a center of intellectual endeavor, one that excludes an atmosphere of creativity for serious, studious, maturing young adults who share lofty goals and interests.

The challenge of change

It is clear to me that today's fraternity can look forward to a brighter future than ever before. I am confident this is true with one important qualification.. It can do so if it is willing and able to prove its worth. And, in light of the changing nature of college life today, this means that old objectives and achievements must give way to new ambitions, new responsibilities, new goals of service.

During the 190 years of existence in America, the fraternity system has proved its mettle time and time again. Through the years, Greek-letter organizations have demonstrated that they possess a unique and valuable potential, if that potential is developed and used to best advantage.

For many thousands of Greeks who have preceded you, the fraternity has been an important catalyst of personal development, rich in tradition, purpose and service. The modern fraternity would lose sight of these traditions at its own peril.

Today's fraternity must re-establish itself first and foremost as an instrument of intellectual attainment. To place the necessary tion has never seen, there is reason to ask whether they can survive. Some persons feel they are obsolescent, useless, and fit only for memories. It is foolish to be casual or doctrinaire. Fraternities are a long way from their demise and for those who would put them to death there are those equally vehement and dedicated to keep them alive.

Fraternities have traditions. They have histories. They have written records. Memory peoples their mystic shrine. That which has gone before has warmth and meaning. There have been persons in fraternities whose lives have inspired others.

The present is important. A fraternity must renew itself with each entering class. A fraternity is competing for campus standing. It lives in the present through activities and programs.

Assistant to the President

As befits a Centennial chapter, March 7, 1970 was a fortuitous date on which to install Kappa's ninety-third chapter, its first chapter of the second century. In South Carolina, the day dawned with an air of expectation for the state lay in the path of a total eclipse of the sun, a phenomenon occurring once in every 385 years. But another kind of excitement competed with this celestial display for on the Clemson University campus, though the sun was darkened, a new chapter would appear for the first time—Epsilon Mu Chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

As former Fraternity President, Mary Turner Whitney, remarked in her banquet address, the date had further significance as the year marked not only the 100th anniversary of the founding of Kappa Kappa Gamma, but also the 300th anniversary of the settlement of the state of South Carolina.

A closer look at Clemson

Located in the scenic foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains in Clemson, South Carolina, Clemson University is a picturesque campus on the shoreline of Hartwell Lake. Founded upon the bequest of Thomas Green Clemson in 1888, Clemson College opened its doors to male students in July, 1893 on the historic site of Fort Hill estate, a 1500 acre plantation.

After the War Between the States left South Carolina in economic ruin, Thomas Clemson realized that the hope of recovery for his adopted state lay in education which would prepare young men in industrial and agricultural development. To this purpose, Clemson willed his inheritance and estate. From humble beginnings of a single dormitory, three classroom buildings, 400 students and 15 teachers, Clemson has grown to one of the prestige schools of the South recognized in the fields of textile research, engineering, architecture and agriculture. A land grant institution, Clemson achieved university status in 1964 and presently has a student enrollment in excess of 7000 on the main campus.

Established as a "people's college" offering higher education to more than the privileged few, today's Clemson student body represents the entire state of South Carolina, almost every state in the nation and many foreign countries. The statue of Thomas Green Clemson overlooks an extensive campus composed of historic old buildings, contemporary classroom complexes and high-rise dormitories.

Among recent additions to the campus scene is the exciting new Robert Muldrow Cooper Library housing the permanent collection and memorabilia of the Honorable James F. Byrnes whose service to his country includes holding the positions of United States Supreme Court Justice, U. S. Secretary of State, U. S. Congressman and Senator, and Governor of the State of South Carolina.

Clemson first admitted women students in 1955, but a significant interest in enrollment was not realized until the completion of the first dormitory for women in the fall of 1963. From 158 women students in 1963, enrollment has increased to the present 1150 women with 739 in residence on the campus in the three residence halls.

National groups invited

Although local Greek letter groups have been present on the Clemson campus since the late 1950's, it was not until the fall of 1969 that national groups were invited to come on campus. There are now three sororities and ten fraternities on campus and all are becoming chapters of national groups.

Omicron Zeta Tau was the first sorority to appear on the Clemson campus, chartered in November, 1959 as Omicron, with these six charter members, Nancy Edwards, Becky Epting, Margaret Fowler, Hanna Holleman, Barbara Witherspoon and Judy DeLoache. Their purpose was to foster spiritual, intellectual and social environment of the highest quality for the Clemson student. In 1965, the name was lengthened to Omicron Zeta Tau and the pin was redesigned.

In September, 1969 Kappa Kappa Gamma received a notice from the administration of Clemson University informing the Fraternity of a recent vote by the student body and administration allowing national fraternities and sororities to be established on the Clemson campus. Kappa Kappa Gamma was one of five national organizations to be invited for consideration of future colonization. An invitation was received from the Dean of Women, Susan G. Delony, requesting the Fraternity to send representatives to the campus to interview the Omicron Zeta Tau local sorority.

Frances Fatout Alexander, I-DePauw, Fraternity Research Chairman and former President, and Jean Hess Wells, Δ Υ-Georgia, Assistant to the President and former Mu Province Director of Chapters, made an inspection trip to the campus on November 14 for the purpose of meeting with the administration and the members of Omicron Zeta Tau chapter. Impressed by the potential of a chapter on the Clemson campus, the representatives enthusiastically recommended to the Council that an extension team be sent to Clemson for further evaluation.

By unanimous vote of the chapter, members of Omicron Zeta Tau formally petitioned Kappa Kappa Gamma to become a future chapter of the Fraternity. An extension team composed of Nan Kretschmer Boyer, B M-Colorado, Chairman of Extension, Janet Dickerson Sanford, T K-William and Mary, Mu Province Director of Chapters, and Elizabeth Foster West, Δ B-Duke, Mu Province Director of Alumnæ, visited the campus on December 9 and met with the administration, Omicron Zeta Tau members and area Kappa alumnæ. They were joined by Candice Jordan Walker, an active from E K-South Carolina, and two advisers to E K-South Carolina, Diana Calverly Queen, Δ B-Duke, and Katherine DePass Durham, B O-Sophie Newcomb.

A future Kappa chapter examined

A closer look at Omicron Zeta Tau revealed that the chapter had maintained active interest in all phases of campus life. Each year they participate in Homecoming, Club Fair, the Miss Clemson contest, Dixie Day and Greek Week Fraternity Sing. During 1968-69, their participation in Dixie Day was rewarded by winning the Sports Trophy, the Dixie Day Magnolia Queen and the Over-All Trophy. The Panhellenic Scholarship Trophy has been won by the chapter for the last four consecutive semesters and they sponsored sored the Homecoming Queen.

Community service has always played a vital role in the chapter program. Although their service projects have varied from year to year, they have been an important part of each sister's dedication. Recent projects included adopting a needy family, writing to servicemen overseas and sending gifts to needy children on special holidays. Of particular interest to them was Kappa's ongoing philanthropy program.

An enthusiastic evaluation and report from the extension team along with a recommendation to colonize was presented to the Council and Associate Council of the Fraternity. An affirmative vote and official acceptance of the Omicron Zeta Tau chapter into Kappa Kappa Gamma on December 19 resulted in the formation of Epsilon Mu colony. The other two local chapters were accepted by Delta Delta Delta and Chi Omega.

On December 30, letters were sent to all alumnæ in South Carolina, North Carolina and Georgia announcing the colonization of the Epsilon Mu Chapter and enlisting their help and support in this colonization. By prior arrangement, all groups were to enter formal second semester deferred rush under the aegis of their national organizations. Frances Alexander and Jean Wells returned to the campus on January 6 to serve as a colonization team.

The Legend of Kate Shelley

Early issue of The Golden Key tells how a young woman, later to become a Kappa at Omicron chapter, Simpson College, saved many lives from a near train disaster one stormy night in 1881.

This year of 1970 holds a great deal of historical significance to the members of Kappa Kappa Gamma Fraternity. This is the year that Kappa celebrates its one hundredth year of existence.

The history of every organization reveals moments of excitement and honor. Recently the story of a young woman's heroism written long ago in the pages of The Golden Key has been discovered, and it bears repeating.

Imagine, a stormy night some 90 years ago at a time when the passenger train was an important mode of transportation in the nation. A young girl named Kate Shelley, nearly 15 years of age, became a national heroine one night in 1881 when she risked her life to warn a station agent that a passenger train was destined for disaster. She vividly tells her story in The Golden Key in 1884 as follows:

"About six o'clock on the evening of that memorable night, it began to rain; and for five hours the storm raged and the rain fell in torrents, until the face of the earth seemed like a mighty lake . . .

"The water rose higher and higher, until the fence around our farm lifted, and was swept away under the bridge . . . My mother and myself waited and watched the storm, until suddenly I thought I heard a train coming down the track from the west. Mother tried to persuade me that no train would venture on the road in such a night . . . I sprang up saying, 'That is Number 11!' I at once recognized the engine as one of the helpers going over the road from Moingona to Boone to examine the bridges and see if all were safe before the night express came by with its load of human freight.

"I knew the terrible water had washed the piers from under the bridge, and as the rails and ties across the river had deceived the men in the engine until too late, all must have gone down. The thought was terrible, and I told mother I must go to the aid of the drowning men, for we could faintly hear above the roar of the storm their cry for 'help.'

"Again the thought of the coming train, bearing so many precious lives, coming on to certain doom, if not stopped in time, moved me till I felt that I must go . . . It was about 11 o'clock, and I knew I must reach Moingona or the night express would come dashing along heedless of the danger ahead, and if not stopped would follow in the track of the other fated engine.

"So, taking my lantern, I started out into the darkness and rain. Oh, the night was terrible! . . . How was I to reach Moingona? One way the swollen stream stopped me; another, the bridge was gone. The only way left was to go west half a mile, through the thick, dark woods and brush, around the bend in the river to the railroad track, a little above the place where the bridge went out, and from there on the track to Moingona . . .

"Bruised and bleeding from the thorn bushes and underbrush, I reached the scene of the wreck and finding I could do nothing there I started for Moingona, only half a mile now, but between me and the town was the Des Moines river bridge, 500 feet long, a bridge not built for human feet, consisting of nothing but ties and rails.

"I looked at my lantern, and shaking up the oil to make it burn better, with a silent prayer to God, I started for the dangerous bridge. When I was about 20 yards from it, my light went out and I was left in total darkness with only the lightning to guide me

. . . Gathering all my courage I walked on until I came to the bridge, then getting down on my knees and asking God for strength, I crawled over that long and dreadful space.

"When about two-thirds of the way over, by a flash of lightning I saw coming down the river a mighty tree standing upright in the water. I involuntarily rose up and clasped my hands, I thought the end had come, for if the tree should strike the bridge with its great force and momentum, the whole structure would go down.

"By the mercy of God, the tree swept under and only the green branches brushed my feet. Resuming my slow and toilsome way, I finally reached the other side. For a few minutes I thought I must give up, even then, for I felt too weak to go further, but as I went I gained strength until I ran as fast as I could.

"The station reached, I burst into the room with: 'Stop the passenger train, the bridge has gone out, the engine gone down,' then I fainted. But the people were saved; and there were many to save, for on that night the train was five passenger coaches and two sleepers."

This story has become a part of railroad legend and in 1956 Kate Shelley's grave at Boone, Iowa was marked with a bronze plaque placed there by the railway managements and labor unions of the nation. The Iowa legislature awarded her a gold medal for her bravery.

Kate was a poor girl, daughter of an Irish immigrant, but according to The Golden Key, "It was Francis E. Willard, who, learning of her (Kate's) great longing for an education, presented the matter to the W.C.T.U., and to that body of earnest workers she is indebted for what college life she has known. She entered college here (Simpson College at Indianola, Iowa) in the fall of 1882 and a few weeks later she became a sister in the bonds of Kappa Kappa Gamma."

The Kappa chapter at Simpson was in existence only from 1880 to 1890 and Kate was able to attend for just a year. It was not until last fall that a nephew of Kate Shelley, John D. Shelley of Ames, Iowa came across her key among the belongings of another aunt, now 97 years old and the sole survivor of Kate's immediate family. (Miss Shelley died in 1912 at her home in Boone after an operation for appendicitis.)

Mr. Shelley, a member of the Journalism Department at Iowa State, corresponded with Kappa Headquarters to inquire if membership records might verify his aunt's affiliation at Simpson. It was then that her interesting story was discovered in the 1884 issue of The Golden Key. He described his aunt's key as being flat and bearing on the back the engraved name of "Kate Shelley."

The most recent development in the Kate Shelley story is the preliminary efforts of the Boone County Historical Society in Iowa to gain control of the old Shelley homestead and make it into an historical site where visitors could see the site of Kate's home, then follow the route she took through the storm to the place where she finally reached the old Moin-gona railroad station to warn railroad officials of the imminent disaster.

Mr. Shelley related that Kate's story has been published numerous times since 1881 in many parts of the world and it is found in school books published for elementary students in the United States and abroad. ❀

Editor's note:

It is interesting to note that Miss Shelley was the only member of the Shelley family to spell her name as "Shelly" without the final "e". Professor Shelley explained that Kate preferred to have her name spelled that way although most published references to her seem to use the final "e". One exception is the souvenir postcard shown on page 11 where the name on the medalion is spelled "Shelly."

Through the years of her dedication to Kappa, Clara O., as she was affectionately known by many, placed great importance on scholarship awards.

Assistance to undergraduate members in the form of scholarships was an important part of Kappa to her and she encouraged the "name award scholarships" about which most Kappa alumnae are very aware.

However, her interest in continuing education for women was most evident when she planted the seed which developed into our Centennial goal — a scholarship on every campus where Kappa is located.

It seems most appropriate to perpetuate this interest.

Therefore the Fraternity will be awarding annually a continuing grant for graduate study which will be known as "Clara O. Pierce Memorial Fellowship" and will be administered through the Founder's Memorial Fund for Students' Aid which she was responsible for initiating.

Annual grant honors memory of our Clara O.

Who, what, when and where at the Centennial Convention

Dr. Kershner to conduct workshop on "Why Greek?"

Highlighting the opening morning of Kappa's Centennial Convention June 24-July 1 will be a workshop entitled "Why Greek?" conducted by Dr. Frederick D. Kershner, Jr.

Dr. Kershner is well known in the fraternity world as director of counseling for Operation Greek, an organization of professional men and women who have pooled their talents to provide professional services to fraternities and sororities on the national scale.

As director of the history department at Columbia Teacher's College, he has also gained the distinction of professor of American social and intellectual history at Columbia.

Considered today's foremost authority on the history and social significance of Greek letter societies, Dr. Kershner is dedicated to improving the Greek world by providing factual information on the history of fraternities and student movements. He is currently writing a book on The History of American Fraternity Ideas.

He has helped to develop a new approach to chapter rebuilding and through several pilot projects with Operation Greek, he has been able to help innovate "the Chapter of the Future" concept and programs with formerly weak, non-directed chapters.

Dr. Kershner has served his own fraternity, Delta Tau Delta, as supervisor of scholarship since 1955.

Doris Seward featured at Candlelight Banquet

Dr. Doris M. Seward, Δ-Indiana, Dean of Student Affairs Planning at the University of Kentucky, will be the speaker at the Candlelight Banquet climaxing the Centennial Convention of Kappa Kappa Gamma on Tuesday evening, June 30.

Dr. Seward has been in charge of the Centennial Scholarship selection program and has taken part in programs at several of Kappa's biennial conventions. She is a past recipient of the Kappa Kappa Gamma Alumnae Achievement award.

She holds an A.B. from Indiana University, an M.A. from Syracuse University, and a Ph.D. in student personnel administration in higher education from Syracuse.

Felix McKnight, publisher, to give Centennial speech at President's Dinner

Kappas attending the Centennial Convention of Kappa Kappa Gamma June 24-July 1, will hear the noted newspaperman, Felix R. McKnight, co-publisher and editor of The Dallas Times-Herald. Mr. McKnight will present the Centennial Address at the President's Dinner Thursday evening, June 25.

Mr. McKnight joined The Times-Herald in 1957 as vice-president and executive editor. His newspaper career started on the San Antonio Light in 1928 and he later joined the Associated Press. He was associated with The Dallas Morning News for 16 years, part of that time as managing editor.

As a writer and editor, he has covered 12 national political conventions; the United Nations, presidential tours, the Texas Legislature and the Washington scene. In 1962 he was one of 12 American editors to travel through the Soviet Union representing the American Society of Newspaper Editors which concluded with a press conference with Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

In 1963 Mr. McKnight was recognized for

Felix R. McKnight

"outstanding achievement in journalism" by the Southwestern Journalism Congress. He has been a member of various advisory committees in government and law.

Mr. McKnight is a native of Dallas and attended Texas A & M University. He and his wife have two daughters and three grandchildren.

Convention

Peter Nero to perform in Centennial Spotlight

Stepping into the spotlight for an evening of entertainment at Kappa's Centennial Convention will be the world-famous pianist, Peter Nero. Some have called him a great jazz pianist, others label him a great classical pianist, and still others have said he is a great popular pianist.

However, you will have the opportunity to decide for yourself if you attend the 48th biennial convention of Kappa Kappa Gamma at French Lick, Indiana June 24-July 1. He will perform on Sunday evening, June 28.

The son of a social worker, Peter Nero started piano lessons at the age of seven and by the time he was 14 he had won many piano awards, appeared with symphony orchestras and had won a Julliard Scholarship. He attended Brooklyn College, graduating with a B.A.

The world of jazz beckoned and in 1960 RCA signed him to his first recording contract. In nine years he recorded 23 albums and in 1969 switched to Columbia.

He has composed and performed his own concerto "Blue Fantasy," and he also wrote the score and acted in the movie, "Sunday In New York."

He is married and has two children.

Take a walk through the history of Kappa in sound and light

At the Centennial Convention Kappas will have the delightful experience of stepping into a living museum of the past with sound, lights and action capturing the spirit of Kappa's 100 year old history.

The historical museum committee, headed by Edie Mae Hamilton Herrel, B N-Ohio State, hopes to create a warm, enriching atmosphere in which all Kappas may come to understand the joys and experiences our founders felt when they joined together in the bonds of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

To assure the success of this historical museum, the committee is asking all Kappas to assist in obtaining items of historical significance, including old minutes, photographs, furniture, newspaper clippings, programs, convention souvenirs, rush souvenirs and belongings of founders or former presidents. The emphasis will be placed on those chapters chartered before 1900, both active and inactive.

Anyone who has items significant to Kappa's history which they would share for the historical museum, should inform Mrs. Joseph Thatcher, The Historical Museum, Fraternity Headquarters, 530 East Town Street, Columbus, Ohio 43216.

Items can be returned if requested, and if not they will go to the Fraternity Headquarters Archives. Write Mrs. Thatcher before sending items to avoid duplication.

Others working on the committee are Jane Weathers Wentz, costumes, Diane Miller Selby, visual and audio aids, Catherine Schroeder Graf, music, script and docents, Patricia Stanceau Springer and Betty Sanor Cameron, all B N-Ohio State, Jean Sanborn Lombard and Liz Dodge Sturges, both Γ Ω-Denison, creative art work.

A visit to a unique Russian "Academic City"

Educators view isolated university town in the white plains of Siberia

by DR. DORIS M. SEWARD
Δ-Indiana

A totally planned, 12-year-old city in a white birch forest beside a blue lake in Siberia is teeming this very moment with brilliant young students and inquisitive, purposeful professors. Akademgorodok is the name of an academic community I visited in March, 1969, when the blue lake was frozen over and the birch forests were white with snow.

What is different about this college town? It is a "closed city," devoted solely to academic and research activities—no manufacturing. The average age of its approximately 40,000 inhabitants is 30 and the students at the relatively small all-Russian university (about 3,800) are an extraordinarily select group in terms of scientific interests and research aptitude. Of about 3,200 applicants considered each year, we were told that about 750 were admitted annually. Fewer than 200 of the 700 or 800 graduates each year are selected for doctoral studies, but the thorough and relentless selection process probably indicates that this group has high ability in an essentially science curriculum.

I had the opportunity of visiting this "Academic City," which is roughly what Akademgorodok means, with a small group of other educators interested in higher education. My first impressions were physical—the white, white snow, the fresh smelling crystalline air. Because of a commitment against air pollution, only two chimneys are permitted in the entire area. One is located at the power plant which seemingly provides heat for all the city, and even at 30 degrees below zero, I found that the temperature of the buildings was warm and comfortable.

Because of its isolated location, attention has been given to making the area attractive to the faculty. Buildings were placed in the forest without widely bulldozing the area. The faculty club is beautifully modern and a large department store provides for consumer needs. The procedures for a foreigner to buy any item here is complicated and discouraging, but for an undue number of rubles and paper work I did buy in this store a cream and sugar set on a tray and a small wooden doll.

We were shown the location of individual residences for professors and reminded that most professional people in Western Europe live in apartments. Though Akademgorodok is many jet hours flying time from Moscow, the faculty is given the opportunity of attending various scientific meetings there and in neighboring countries.

The students I met were delightful and friendly. Their command of English was excellent and they were eager to have their pronunciation evaluated. The jazz records I had taken to leave as gifts of appreciation were enthusiastically received and I gave the captain of the volley ball team a large red Frizbee, fortunately with printed directions for its use.

There were many questions which as guests we did not feel were appropriate to ask. Probably our hosts showed similar restraint. However, in terms of the beauty of a new area and the excitement of a carefully constructed academic model community Akademgorodok is a place I am glad to have visited.

A look into the lives of women abroad

by JEANNE ROBERTS HOPPER

*Δ Z-Colorado College
American women's tour hostess*

Kappas will go anywhere! So it is little wonder that there were some among a group of 40 selected American women who gently invaded Russia, India and Czechoslovakia last fall in a unique attempt to bridge the international communication gap. It was my unusual privilege to have been asked abroad to bring a delegation of our women leaders into these countries to see if better understanding between peoples could result.

Among the Kappas who participated in this unique adventure besides myself as hostess were my two sisters, Margery Roberts Branch and Nancy Roberts Berge, both Δ Z-Colorado College, and Eleanore Goodridge Campbell, B M-Colorado. A fourth sister Judith Roberts Nelson, Mills College, was also part of the group. The colorful group of ladies ranged in all ages and represented a gamut of professions, businesses, and volunteer capacities.

In our travels we met with such women leaders as the president of the Soviet Women's Committee, who also is the world's only woman cosmonaut, Valentina Tereshkova. Madame Indira Gandhi, the Prime Minister of India, greeted us in her garden to discuss some of India's gravest problems.

Prague's Predicament

This was my second visit to Prague in a little over a year. In October, 1968, I was a member of the first group of Americans to enter Czechoslovakia after the Russian invasion. At that time I wrote, "The Czechoslovakians are the defiant, the undaunted, the indomitable. They are the introverts, the intellectuals, and the philosophers. Dear to their existence is freedom of the human spirit, individual and variable. Above all else, they value the right to be forthright and frank, to speak as they think, and to think creatively."

Today, the Russian army has tripled to a one-half million count near the city of one million people. "They are cleaner and more mannerly than a year ago," we were told. Their uniforms have been redesigned to closely resemble the Czech army uniform. The national mood is one of sorrow. In one year the Czechs' chosen leaders have been renounced and removed, history in the schoolbooks has been rewritten to support the Russian invasion, censorship has become strict, and the economy has been restructured to serve the Soviet advantage.

One highlight of the entire trip was to have the Czechoslovakian national anthem sung for us by great musicians in a semi-private gathering. The song swelled into a crescendo of rich harmony and tears streamed down the singers' faces. It was contagious and soon we were all weeping, too.

The day our tour departed from Czechoslovakia, the borders were closed and amnesty for Czechs was ended. Our freedom to travel seemed poignantly precious at that dramatic hour.

Russia's Red Carpet

The spirit of Communist Russia seems massive, weighty, overpowering, and collective—symbolized by contemporary physical structures such as the Palace of Congresses where the Presidium meets twice a year, the Metro subway system which moves Moscow's seven and one-half million people about, the Hotel Russia which houses 6,000 people. Though one quickly knows that the individual spirit is there in each and every heart, it is disciplined, subdued, and oppressed. Russia is cold and its spirit is in storage in spite of the kindness and generosity of the people.

The USSR is operating under yet another in a long historical list of totalitarian systems. Only eight per cent of the people are actual members of the Communist Party which is all-powerful, all-pervasive, and all-oppressive. Ironically, even though Lenin himself warned the Party against developing a cult of any one personality, the Communists have done just that. Lenin is their god, the symbolic inspiration for millions of people to labor hard and productively for their State.

Over 50% of all professional positions (lawyers, physicians, architects, teachers, etc.) are held by women and all women, as well as men, must work unless they are disabled. Our guides told us there is also, now, an income tax, but "it is only 6 per cent." Competition, incentive plans, and great disparity in size of incomes and living advantages are creeping into the Soviet's system.

A visitor observes very quickly that with the exception of Moscow University and the Palace of Congresses, all handsome edifices were built by the Czars or the Church in other eras. Hard currency, especially the American dollar, is brought into the USSR to bolster its economy.

The black market money exchange seems to be growing rapidly and unavoidably. Our women were accosted frequently with offers for money-exchange deals as well as for the purchase of clothes we were wearing. We did not participate in any such transactions, but we know we could have sold our clothing for either rubles or even United States dollars!

It was a return visit to Russia for me and I observed many changes. A year ago the guides, quite willingly, took us to visit religious services in "practicing cathedrals." This year, it was only after my insisting that I knew there were practicing cathedrals and that I had seen them, that our guide would take us to such a church. Although the service was going on when we entered, the guide ignored it and announced that the next service would be early the following morning. When the bus doors closed and we were alone with our guide she asked that we not reveal the fact that she had brought us there. Visibly disturbed, she explained that for such an action she could lose her job.

The people are still basically warm and human but on the whole there has been imposed an overlay of politics and indoctrination that limits their response to us. They seem friendly but constantly on guard.

With tourism being encouraged, the people are bound to realize some of the benefits of the free world. The fact that 40 American women would travel to Russia signifies that we were allowed to leave our own country, finance independent travel and take money out of the United States to spend elsewhere as we chose. Our presence there was an effective statement for the American way of life.

India's Impact

As visitors, India's immediate impact upon us was one of shock and dismay. Poverty, famine, and overpopulation are instantly and appallingly visible. There is no adequate preparation for such sights. But with a second easy glance, we saw open friendliness shine forth from Hindu and Moslem faces. There was a giving of oneself, a trustful relating to others, a love for one's kin which was not apparent in the country we had left behind.

Our time in India was spent primarily in researching medical institutes, clinics, and services in terms of family planning. We were dumbfounded by the living conditions and endless streams of children. We were staggered to learn that India adds the equivalent

A new Kappa appointment

A new face recently joined the corps of Province Directors of Alumnæ. She is Ellen Johnson Lawther, Γ Ψ -Maryland, who was appointed to fill the office of Lambda Province Director of Alumnæ. This office had been held by Carol Ann Peters Duncan who regrettably found it necessary to resign.

Ellen was born in Washington, D.C. and attended school in Richmond, Virginia, Palo Alto, California and graduated from National Cathedral School in Washington. At the University of Maryland she earned a B.S. in home economics.

After her marriage to John Lawther, they lived in Montgomery, Alabama where he was stationed at Maxwell Field. While there, Ellen was active in the Montgomery Alumnæ Club and served as president of the "small, but ambitious group."

When the Lawthers moved to Cincinnati where he was with IBM, Ellen was active in the Cincinnati Alumnæ Association serving as area chairman, Panhellenic delegate and a member of the Beta Rho house board.

The year 1963 brought the Lawthers and their two children back to Washington where he works as a marketing manager for IBM in the GEM (government, education, medical) branch office.

Ellen devotes most of her free time to Kappa and the Florence Crittenton Home in Washington. This year she was appointed to the board of managers for the Home, having served on various committees. She was the first president of the newly formed Washington, D.C.-Suburban Maryland Alumnæ Association in 1965 and attended the Sun Valley convention as president of the Suburban Maryland Association. For the past two years she has been recommendations chairman for the southwestern portion of Montgomery County, Maryland.

As well as her volunteer work, Ellen works two days a week for the Marriott Corporation doing menu analysis or costing. In her free time she enjoys sewing, swimming and golfing. The Lawthers have two children, Sue Ellen, 10½ and Dean, 9. Ellen says, "Without their understanding, patience and excellent telephone answering service and message taking, I would never have been able to complete my jobs."

New Lambda Province Director of Alumnæ and her family, Dean, Ellen, John and Sue Ellen.

Centennial Fund drive nears end

Chairman Anne Harter reports that gifts may be contributed until the close of Kappa's Centennial Convention with the official end of the drive being June 30, 1970. Chairman Harter will report on the Fund at the 1970 convention and again in a forthcoming issue of THE KEY. All gifts received from individual members, alumnæ groups and active chapters after January 5, 1970 will be listed in a future issue. If you haven't remembered Kappa in her 100th birthday celebration, there is still time. Your dollars will aid 94 deserving students in the study of rehabilitation services.

Flash!

As this issue of THE KEY goes to press, Centennial Chairman Harter reports there has been a tremendous response to the Centennial Fund and donations have pushed the total near the 90 per cent mark. You can help make that 100 per cent by convention time if you send your donation today.

Centennial Fund Drive Closes June 30, 1970

Group gifts exceed $80,000 for three-year period

Alumnæ groups and active chapters have provided continuous stimulus to the Centennial Fund during the more than three years of the drive for funds. As of January 1, 1970 more than $80,000.00 has been contributed by Kappa groups.

Thirteen of the larger alumnæ associations have already been listed as having contributed a total of $1,000.00 or more to the Fund (Fall and Winter 1969 issues). Joining this list are six additional groups:

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania
Tulsa, Oklahoma
Oklahoma City, Oklahoma
Boise, Idaho
Scottsdale, Arizona
San Diego, California

The following gifts from alumnæ groups, active chapters, miscellaneous Kappa groups and parents of active members were gratefully received in the period noted.

Monmouth alumnae donate memorial gift

The Monmouth, Illinois Alumnae Association solicited Centennial Fund gifts from their members to present a large contribution in the name of their Association. The gift of $500.00 was pledged more than two years ago and paid last winter. It was given in memory of Myra Tubbs Ricketts, T-Northwestern, who gave generously of her time and effort in the reestablishment in 1934 of Alpha chapter.

These alumnae, all Alpha chapter members except as noted, made possible this memorial gift: Dorothy Eisminger Armstrong, Estelle Evers Barnes, Rosemary Field Bolon, *Sina Lou Beach Bowman, *Jean Moffatt Brett, Δ-Indiana, Mary Bartling Crow, Josephine Watt Graham, Louise Whiteman Gridley, Jane Walker Hardin, Onnalee Hawes Horner, Mary Jane McCracken Hubbard, Polly Martin Johnson, Marjorie Scott Kettering, Dorothy Brown Lafferty, Elizabeth Deirstein Lashly, Jean Liedman, Joan Watt McGuire, *Mabel Martin McCoy, Dorothy Goddard Peterson, *Mary Biceste Porter, Ruth Tubbs Rawson, Barbara Bolon Stillwell, Jane Zimmer Swanson, Agnes Young Turnbull, Margaret Statt Watt and Roberta McVey Wells.

Headquarters slides help increase Fund

One of the highlights of the 1968 Kappa convention was the tour of Fraternity Headquarters. Because of the interest expressed by delegates and visitors who wished "everyone could see it," a series of slides was made available for purchase by alumnae groups, chapters and individuals. Charles Nitschke, husband of Sally Moore Nitschke, B N-Ohio State, was the Columbus architect responsible for the restoration of the Headquarters building after the 1965 fire, and he produced the slides. Sally handled the orders and distribution of the slides pledging that all income would benefit the Centennial Fund. A total of $271.45 was donated to the Fund by the many Kappas who purchased the slide series. The special efforts of Chuck and Sally Nitschke are appreciated.

KAPPAS OFF THE PRESS

Kappa authors' new books are reviewed

by AUDREY HARTLEY CAHILL

Δ A-Penn State
Guest editor

Saint-Watching by Phyllis McGinley. Viking Press, New York, 1969. 243 pages. $5.95.

When Phyllis McGinley first thought about doing a book on saints, she had pictured "simple good-humored entertainment." But "Books have wills of their own" and the whole effort turned in to "something a bit more serious than I had originally intended. . . . So, although I intended to describe them chiefly through quip and anecdote, I was forced to depict them in greater depth than was my first design."

Even so, Miss McGinley has managed to avoid the whispered pious phrases so often associated with the saints and these select souls come across in a touching humanness with which we can all identify.

The well-known saints are numbered here of course, but those not so widely celebrated are not overlooked. For instance some of us may be meeting Joan Delanoue for the first time. Joan was a niggardly shopkeeper. She inherited a house and the shop at her father's death. She sold her goods seven days a week to the horror of the good people of the town. To weary pilgrims passing by, desperate for a night's lodging, she would offer beds at a very high sum.

"What changed her nature it is difficult to say. But saints have recovered from more picturesque depravities than stinginess and Joan did at length repent. She began in a small way by giving away one of her dresses. It was her first draught of the wine of charity, and evidently an intoxicating one. It went straight to her heart. Before long, like an addict, she was tipling in secret-taking clothes from the closet to hand out after dark to the unfortunate, opening her purse to any case of need . . ."

It was Phyllis McGinley's intent to write a book for the nonbeliever as well as the believer. In this she has succeeded. In her portraits of the saints she has shown them as the human beings they were. "They lost their tempers, got hungry, scolded God, were egotistical or testy or impatient in their turns, made mistakes and regretted them. Still they went on doggedly blundering toward heaven. And they won sanctity partly by willing to be saints, not because they encountered no temptation to be less."

Miss McGinley (Mrs. Charles Hayden) is a member of Delta Eta, University of Utah. The publishing of a new book by this brilliant author and winner of the Pulitzer Prize for Poetry (1961) is always a happy event.

Around the World on a Frayed Shoestring: Travel Tales For Armchair Hours by Lyndall Finley Wortham. University of Texas Press, Austin, Texas, 1968. 323 pages. $5.95.

Lyndall Finley Wortham has always pursued adventure, sometimes "on a frayed shoestring" as was the case of her world tour in 1924.

Our adventuresome author was living in New York City in the twenties, "where everyone I was associated with went to Europe every few months . . ." Lyndall wanted to go too. With a stroke of intuition, she followed a brainstorm to the office of Frank C. Clark, sponsor of Clark's Around the World Cruise, to apply for a job as a member of his hostess group.

Plans were slowly unfolding, but it was a Kappa luncheon at the home of Josephine Edmonds Young, B B-St. Lawrence, that gave the final impetus and provided Mary Turner Pope, B X-Kentucky, as a delightful traveling companion. Another Kappa luncheon took place later in Honolulu at the home of Louise Malloy Watson, B E-Texas, complete with delicious Hawaiian food.

The girls left New York in January of 1924 on the Cunard liner Laconia. They went through the Panama Canal with stopovers in Cuba and Panama and a final stateside docking at Los Angeles. The nine-month voyage took the girls to a Japanese tea ceremony, the thieves market in Hong Kong, Kipling's Rangoon, a nine-day trek across India which included a trip down the sacred Ganges, the Taj Mahal, and a swim on the wonderful beaches just 15 miles from the reunion with the Laconia at Bombay. Other highlights were the pyramids of Egypt, the Holy Land and the glorious cities and culture of Europe.

One would think the homeward crossing of the Atlantic would be an anticlimax, but not for Lyndall. With her timing she literally bumped into the Prince of Wales (the present Duke of Windsor) on the ship's dance floor.

The illustrated book is written in letter form which first appeared serially in the Dallas News from March, 1924 to July, 1925.

Editor's note:

Contributing to THE KEY as guest editor for the annual book review section is Audrey Hartley Cahill, Δ A-Penn State. Audrey lives in Dover, Delaware where she works with the Delaware State Library. She reviews for the Library Journal and during the time she lived in Florida she did a weekly book column for the Cocoa Tribune.

Current books by Kappa authors are wanted for review purposes and for the Fraternity Headquarters Library. Please send or ask your publishers to send such publications to the Editor, Mrs. James R. Ritter, 1801 Parkade Boulevard, Columbia, Missouri 65201.

Wonderfully exciting adventures are always happening to Lyndall Wortham who describes herself as "one who has never had a passive experience." For example, in the fall of 1968, between three television appearances and two radio programs, she and her husband, Gus, attended the glamorous international balls in Portugal, entertained Princess Grace and Prince Ranier, and witnessed the Apollo VIII moon shot at Cape Kennedy as the invited guests of Astronaut Frank Borman.

In presenting a copy of her book to the Kappa Library at Headquarters, Mrs. Wortham wrote, "To the Library of the Headquarters, Kappa Kappa Gamma, in loving token of the greatest single influence (besides my parents) in shaping my life and its ideals!"

Lyndall Finley Wortham, who spent her college days at the University of Texas, is a member of Beta Xi and the donor of the Ware Standards Award for fine all-around chapter performance.

The Care and Feeding of Your Diabetic Child by Sally Vanderpoel. Frederick Fell, New York, 1969. 116 pages. $4.95.

"There are so many old wives tales and superstitions surrounding diabetes that much of the fear that patients and parents feel is distorted." Sally Vanderpoel knows about the superstitions, but more importantly she knows about the constructive steps that can make the life of a diabetic a normal, healthy, active experience.

Her firsthand knowledge has been obtained because her son, Phil, was diagnosed as a diabetic when he was in the first grade. Now as a senior in high school, active in sports as well as scholastics, Phil is a fine example of what the doctor promised when his ailment was discovered. "He will live and he will be healthy and perfectly normal." The author says: "I didn't believe him then, but I held his words carefully in my mind and heart to keep them alive and glowing, to make them true."

Rush helpers 1970-71

Twelve Kappas have been appointed, one in each Province, to aid with rush problems. They are not to be confused in any way with the reference system.

What is a rush helper?

Just that! A helper!—in an informative, not directive manner. She is a wealth of information on everything a chapter should know pertaining to their rush. She has the answer for problems, parties, procedures. She has no authority, but can quickly refer you to those who do. She is a supplement to the Graduate Counselor, Field Secretary and Province Director of Chapters. She is an experienced Kappa alumna with a special love for rush; a vital friend to all the chapters in her province. She has an enthusiastic interest in Kappa and a sincere desire to help with this most important job of membership selection. Make her an ex-officio member of your rush committee. She is only as useful as you make her. Call her, write her, wire her! That's why she's there—to HELP!

This is what her book is about, making the hope a reality. It is not a medical book, nor is it a minutely detailed one regarding diet and medication. Attention is given to food and the methods used in varied menu planning, but this is not the chief value of the book, nor is it meant to be. The importance of the book lies in its reliable common sense. The pages are full of it, and although this book is directed to the parents of diabetics, it really is a book for all parents whose children are temporarily or permanently restricted through a physical disability.

A member of Gamma Omicron chapter at the University of Wyoming, Sally is native to that state while her State Senator husband is from Wisconsin. They have three children.

She writes, "As a Kappa I have been often the sole alumna in our area and so I have felt responsible for upholding my end of our state in Kappa membership. The most effective work I have done locally in community affairs is with retarded children. I helped organize an association for retarded children which has operated a private school for trainable retarded children for the past four years. We have just achieved the ultimate victory by having the local school district take over the operation of the school."

Confederate Surgeon, Aristides Monteiro by Sylvia G. L. Dannett and Rosamond H. Burkart. Dodd, Mead and Company, 1969. Illustrated with Photographs and Maps. 226 pages. $4.00.

Confederate Surgeon
Aristides Monteiro

Sylvia G. L. Dannett
and Rosamond H. Burkart

The life of Aristides Monteiro, descended from Portuguese nobility, reads like a novel. It was the death of his mother at childbirth that aroused the compassion of this young Virginian for the suffering of others. As soon as he was of age he became an apprentice for three years to a practicing physician. This was the days of the mid-nineteenth century.

His apprenticeship successfully completed, he enrolled at the University of Virginia where he met his future wife, the daughter of the owner of the most popular tavern in town. In college he made the acquaintance of a jockey and their mutual love of horses was the beginning of a lifelong friendship. The jockey, John Mosby, became the Colonel of a battalion in the Civil War whose guerilla tactics were feared by the Union soldiers. Aristides Monteiro became surgeon to that gallant company.

One of Monteiro's closest friends in medical school was William Forbes of Pennsylvania. Together they robbed a grave one spooky night to obtain a cadaver to perfect their surgical skills. It was this same Forbes who, years later, proposed legislation which was passed in Pennsylvania making it legal to obtain unclaimed bodies for medical purposes.

This excellent and historically correct biography is not only the story of a doctor, it is a documentary of the life style of professional people at a turbulent time in the history of the United States when medicine was in relative infancy and the nation in danger of death at an early age.

Rosamond Burkhart, co-author of this biography for young people, is a member of Mu chapter, Butler. Mrs. Burkart's library contains over 500 volumes on the War and she is a lecturer on the subject. In 1965 she received a citation from the New Jersey Civil War Centennial "for extraordinary contribution to the effort of the Commission."

Married to an engineer and the mother of two sons, Rosamond Burkhart is also an avid gardener and amateur artist.

The Cedars of Charlo by Virginia Weisel Johnson. William Morrow and Company, New York, 1969. 192 pages. $4.50.

Becky Shaw was a child of the beautiful Montana mountain country where the cedars grow. Becky tells of the summer before she was a high school sophomore when dreams didn't come true, but one could manage to grow up even so.

Becky paid 50 dollars for a sickly palomino at a horse auction because her imagination transformed him into the beautiful golden horse of her dreams. She would restore him to health and he would win a ribbon at the horse show. When this pipe dream doesn't materialize, she puts Hobby to pasture where he gains weight and Becky loses an illusion.

There is an unsuccessful attempt by Becky to help her friend Spike, an aging broncobuster, save the Cedars of Charlo from the hungry saws of the lumbermen. Becky's coming of age is successful though many of her young plans are not.

This story is remarkably drawn to life through these characters: The sickly mother who came from a well-to-do family and who would rather live in the country than in town on the wrong side of the tracks; the gruff father who is a failure as a lumber man and as a social being; the uncle, though not a real uncle, who once courted her mother; the nearby neighbors, not too desirable; and Spike and Becky, the principal characters. This is a fine adventure story which will hold the young readers interest.

This country that Virginia Johnson writes of is one she knows well for it is her native land. She lives in her hometown of Missoula, Montana with her husband, now a retired brigadier general. They have lived in many parts of the world and have two daughters, one in college and the other a Captain in the WACs. Mrs. Johnson is an ardent horsewoman who loves the out of doors. A member of Beta Phi Chapter, she attended the University of Montana.

Richard E. Byrd by Helen Diehl Olds. Illustrated by Frank Aloise. Putnam's, New York, 1969. 62 pages. $2.68.

Having written about 25 books for children, Helen Old's latest work is a biography of Richard E. Byrd. This book is for the 7 to 9 age group and was written for Putnam's See and Read, Beginning to Read Biographies as were two of her previous books, Christopher Columbus and Lyndon Johnson.

This biography opens with the young Dick Byrd traveling around the world alone at age 12. It touches on the highpoints of the amazing and hazardous career of one of America's great explorers. A book such as this one is an excellent means of sparking the imagination of the young reader who is on the brink of entering, through his own skill, the wonderful world of books.

In addition to her writing, Mrs. Olds often conducts writers' conferences and juvenile writing courses at colleges and universities. Helen Olds is a member of Beta Xi, University of Texas and lives in Little Neck, New York.

The Animal Convention by Barbara Jo Allen. Illustrated by H. T. Ingraham. Vantage Press, New York, 1969. 94 pages. $2.95.

Deciding that the time had come for the creatures of the world to unite, animals from all over the world were gathering for an international convention for preservation in a forest near Santa Barbara, California.

The news of the conference spread with the aid of telepathy to the various specie. But in case there might be some characters insensitive to the special language of the bush, each delegate wore a burr badge on his tail for identification and protection. There was near disaster when Rabbit Jones, journeying from a Montana ranch with Cat Kramer and Cow Paterson, lost his burr and came close to being devoured by a mountain lion.

There were problems such as a ticklish protocol situation involving seating. For instance it was thought prudent not to seat Cat Cramer next to Mouse Menton where temptation might prove too great.

Perhaps the most spectacular delegate and certainly the probable winner of the Prize for distance traveled was the Convention's President, Elephant Abdul of Africa. The ingenious way in which he arranged his African capture to gain transportation to California and then master-minded the escape at his destination is delightfully told by the author.

Many Kappas will recognize Barbara Jo Allen as the Vera Vague of the Bob Hope radio show. She has also done movies and television. Barbara Jo and her husband live in Santa Barbara where, in addition to her professional activities, she raises orchids and studies the classical guitar. Miss Allen has spent most of her adult life in California and is a member of $\Pi\Delta$, University of California.

"Pickers" singing groups are not new to Kappa chapters throughout the country, but a trip to the Caribbean for such a group is news. And that's what the Kappa Pickers of Δ-Indiana, experienced last summer—a 28-day USO tour of the Caribbean islands to entertain servicemen stationed in Panama; Guantanamo Bay, Cuba; Puerto Rico; San Salvador; Grand Turk; Eleuthera; and Antigua.

The Kappa Pickers, one of 21 college groups chosen to participate in the 1969 USO summer tour, learned of their good fortune almost two years ago, but because girls graduate each year and new members are chosen, the actual planning of the show, choosing costumes, procuring equipment, and building props were left to these Pickers in the spring of 1969, Peggy Jones, Marcie Telander Markosi, Betty Carr, Melodee Meeks Rosen, Deborah Culloden, Ann Sharp Lucas, and Leslie Oliver. Another sister, Polly Gamble came directly from the lead in a musical in Illinois to be soloist in the show.

Kappa Pickers . . . Although the Kappa Picker group of $\Delta \Psi$ -Texas Tech, is only three years old, they have gained much popularity on campus as well as in the city of Lubbock. After singing for rush functions for their own chapter, they were invited by several men's fraternities to sing for rush parties. They have also performed for various civic groups, including the Women's Club of Lubbock and the City Panhellenic. They provided entertainment for Dad's Day and were featured in the homecoming parade.

Summer governess . . . Catherine Ezell, B T-West Virginia, was employed last summer as a governess for 30 children at a summer boarding home in Switzerland. Taking the children on excursions and picnics high in the Alps and accompanying them on tours through Switzerland's majestic castles were only a few of Catherine's duties. She was sponsored by the International Society of Training and Culture's "Jobs Abroad Program."

She dealt with French-speaking children between the ages of four and twelve from Italy, France, Switzerland, Belgium, and the Belgian Congo.

Actively speaking . . .

Jo Ellen Oberholtzer, Δ A-Penn State, cheerleader, junior class senate, Outing Club's ski division, co-chairman of the arrangements committee for Colloquy.

Top junior . . . Meredith Macan, Δ A-Penn State, is serving as president of the Student Faculty Board of the College of Human Development. She was recently honored as a high-ranking junior of the College. She is a member of Cwens and Chimes, women's honoraries, and the American Home Economics Association.

Kathleen Brozman, B M-Colorado, Colorado's Princess for the Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, D.C.

A help for HEAD START . . . Kappas of Δ E-Rollins, played an active role in the community last fall by participating in a local HEAD START program. Through the efforts of the chapter, the school's playground was cleaned of debris, and a Halloween party was given for 41 children.

Catherine Anne Clemens, B K-Idaho, Miss Wool of Idaho.

. . . Roundup of chapter news

A look into the lives

of the population of Australia each year. We were deeply impressed by the Indian doctors who tackle these problems with unalterable hope and determination.

India has its distinct architectural wonders to treat the visitor. The Taj Mahal, the Red Fort, Jaipur's palaces of a living, reigning maharaja and the Elephant Caves were feast-superb for us. The delicate, natural beauty of the Vale of Kashmir, with the protecting arm of the Himalayas around it, is as glorious and memorable as the man-made wonders.

Religious ethic is an unquestioned, integral part of the Indian's existence, whether he be Hindu or Moslem. To have a Sikh in Delhi tell us of his pending wedding planned by parents to a girl he has never met, to have a Parsee in Bombay show us the funeral Tower of Silence where their dead are disposed of by vultures, to be greeted by a Jain with her nose and mouth veiled to avoid harming even insects, to have a Moslem chant and pray to mecca outside our houseboat in Srinagar, to have Hindu guests arrive late to a party because they are worshipping the moon—all these are real, vivid, indelible pictures which we travelled far to see.

Threading through these countries as gentle invaders were our 40 American women who laugh easily, speak frankly, think freely, accepting such a way of life as a birthright. We know now such freedom of the human spirit exists only whenever and wherever man is willing to defend and nurture it.

Our trip has prepared us for this task! ♣

DIVIDES
OUR GRIEF

National television personality, Beverly Muth Stark, H-Wisconsin (top right) has successfully combined three careers, family, television and art. The glamorous Madison, Wisconsin resident and mother of two teenagers keeps a smooth running home that displays her flair for decorating and antique hunting. In the communications world, she does advertising for a Chicago agency and her commercials are seen in three cities. For eight years, she was the national, on-camera spokeswoman for the electric industry. She has also worked in radio. Mrs. Stark is listed in the 1969-70 edition of Foremost Women in Communications. Her paintings, a recent "more than hobby" avocation, may be seen in a Middleton gallery.

Typifying the young alumna involved in Kappa activities is Pat Glover Gobble, Δ X-Texas Tech (top left). The Beaumont-Port Arthur, Texas alumnae made hand puppets for the hospitals in the area. Puppets were distributed on Halloween to the small patients in the pediatric wards.

Portland alumna, Martha Pence Pederson, B Δ-Illinois, (bottom left), believes in giving her talent back to her church. The cards consist of nine five-inch squares spelling Christmas, and each contains an inspirational message. This card won an Award of Merit at the Portland Art Museum Graphics Arts show. Mrs. Pederson was the only woman to receive this honor. "Friendship" (bottom right) is another of her creations. She and her daughter enjoy finding quotes together, ranging from the Bible to the sayings of Charles M. Schulze, "Peanuts" creator.

Albuquerque's second "Kappa Creations" bazaar resulted in nearly $1,000 for the alumnæ association. Burlap flowers, decorated eggs, rag dolls, pine cone wreaths, knit garmets, decoupage plaques and book caddies were some of the many articles sold. Six New Mexico artists also displayed their works, among them Hazel Hawkins Elliott (New Mexico scenery sketches) and Alice Girand Blue (zinc stamps for monogramming), both Γ B-New Mexico. Nancy Nohl Meadows and Linda Bureau Keleher, both Γ B-New Mexico, were co-chairmen.

Pullman

Traditions abound in this alumnæ association. Graduating Washington State seniors are officially welcomed as new alumnæ at a buffet supper in their honor. Francine Kruse Terrell, B Z-Iowa, wife of Washington State's president, Glenn Terrell, opened her home for this event. Each senior was presented with a Kappa engraved demitasse spoon.

An informal pool and patio party is held in August for alumnæ and Kappa summer visitors. In September, new pledges and the chapter house director are guests of the alumnæ.

New California club

The East Bay Alumnæ Association has formed a new Mt. Diablo alumnæ club for members living in various Contra Costa County communities including Orinda, Moraga, Lafayette, Walnut Creek, Danville, Alamo and Concord.

An introductory coffee in February was the beginning of a strong and enthusiastic group in this area.

Los Angeles

In lieu of the usual December meeting Los Angeles alumnæ played Santa Claus to two teenage Morongo Indian school girls. The price of a luncheon donation bought each girl a "Sorority Deb" jumper, blouse and sweater.

Fairfield

Fairfield Kappas have gone to press. For several months alumnæ have been submitting favorite recipes for the newly published Kappa Cookbook.

The "Sip 'n' Sample" luncheon was held again this year with proceeds going to the Centennial Fund. Kappas also joined with Fairfield alumnæ of Kappa Alpha Theta in a Centennial luncheon.

Extremely proud of their letter of commendation for Sacramento Valley's contribution to the Centennial Fund are, left to right, Christine Erickson Astone, Γ O-Wyoming, association president; Dorothy Sherman Stokes, Σ -Nebraska, assistant to the Director of Membership; and Sandy Singer Hoover, B M-Colorado, Sacramento centennial chairman.

Kansas City

It is interesting to note some of the results of the scholarships given by the Kansas City alumnae from the money raised from their vastly successful annual Homes Tour.

Scholarships for continuing education of students studying deaf education were made avail-

Kansas City alumnae get ready for the 18th annual Holiday House Tour. Almost 300 Kappas give of their time and approximately 5,600 tickets were sold at $1.50 each. Proceeds are up to $6,600. Left to right: Denny Allen Brisley, co-chairmen Janice Weber Talge and Pat Deatherage Willson and Ann Pate Stevens, all Θ -Missouri.

Park Ridge-Des Plaines

Members who assisted with the Kappa Kandle Koffee were, Louise Wilkins Eberle, Δ Σ -Oklahoma State; Ann Clark Lienemann, Γ Θ -Drake; Glendora Hay Ulvilden, Δ Σ -Colorado College; Jill Preest Kirk, B N-Ohio State, Koffee chairman; Betty Jo McMartin Bjorklund, Γ Θ -Drake; and Sue Sullivan Stuart, B Δ -Michigan, president. The $350 went to the Centennial Fund.

Sacramento Valley

A first place award was presented to a winning display submitted by the Sacramento Valley Alumnae Association at the annual Kappa Alpha Theta Flaming Festival. All Panhellenic members entered and the winning Kappa display was entitled "California Burns Brightly from 1769 to 1969" in honor of the California Bi-Centennial.

Responsible for the $25.00 first place entry were Penny Polite Carstens, Δ Ω -Fresno State, Noni Talcott Pietila, B Π -Washington, and Mary Gaylord Abinante, Γ M-Oregon State.

Sacramento Valley alumnae heard Dorothy Sherman Stokes, Σ -Nebraska, assistant to the Director of Membership, at their Founders' Day luncheon. The association was recognized as the first California group to reach 100 per cent of its Centennial goal and it claims the largest alumnae donation totaling $2,340.00.

able from some of the proceeds. The first recipient of the scholarship is now Director for Classes of Hearing Impaired in Rockland County, Maryland. Another recipient works with the blind and deaf in the Kansas City school system; another heads the greater Kansas City Speech and Hearing Center at General Hospital and soon will become Michigan State Director of the Hearing and Speech Society. A fourth is the Regional Director for the West Coast of the Deaf and Blind under the U.S. Office of Education.

Martha Galleher Cox, P Δ -Ohio Wesleyan, Fraternity Director of Philanthropies, congratulates two 50 year members at the New Mexico Founders' Day dinner. Left is Annie Duncan Bruce and right, Margaret Lee MacArthur, both Γ B-New Mexico.

Five 50 year members were honored by the Louisville Alumnae Association. Standing left to right, Gertrude Romans Daniels, X-Minnesota, Elizabeth Booker Chescheir and Edith Dean Bowman, both B X-Kentucky. Seated are Margaret Jefferson Beard and Ruth Gregory Yoe, both B X-Kentucky.

North Shore

Mildred Gerlach Jaklon, H-Wisconsin, was awarded her 50 year pin at the Founders' Day banquet of the North Shore Alumnae Association. She composes crossword puzzles which appear regularly in the Chicago Tribune and are widely syndicated.

50 years a Kappa

Helena

The Helena, Montana Alumnae Association honored three of their 50 year members at Founders' Day. They were Beryl Burfening Kaiserman, Eunice Whiteside Reasoner and Allie Keith McFadden, all B Φ -Montana State. Unable to attend was a fourth 50 year honoree, Kathlyn Broadwater, B Φ -Montana State. The association was celebrating its 25th anniversary at the Founders' Day occasion.

Columbus

One hundred sixty Kappas gathered in Columbus for Founders' Day. Fifty year Kappas receiving pins were Naomi Gum Hartman, I-DePauw; Marjorie Stanley Hoag, Nola Dysle Havens and Elizabeth Guerin Tallmadge, all B N-Ohio State.

San Francisco

The Founders' Day banquet which gathered alumnae from San Francisco and East Bay Associations honored these 50 year members: Mignon Henrici Gifford, Ruth Heidt O'Connor and Marie Kinkelin Otto, all Π Δ -California, Alice VanderSluis King, B Ω -Oregon, and Lucille Lyon Mason, B H-Stanford.

Names in the News

Primary responsibility for the first National YWCA championship meet in Toledo, Ohio in April belonged to Margaret (Peg) Easton Seney, PA-Ohio Wesleyan (below). Peg is a member of the staff of the YWCA Association of Toledo, and also represents the National Board of the YWCA on the United States Olympic Women's Swimming Committee. She was in charge of all arrangements for the meet in Toledo. Peg is also assistant chairman of Kappa's Centennial committee.

A member of the first pledge class at T B-New Mexico, Estelle Harris Rogers, was awarded her 50 year pin at the Hobbs, New Mexico Founders' Day celebration.

Estelle Harris Rogers, T B-New Mexico

Mary Brinkerhoff, T Ψ-Maryland, was honored with the 1969 Dallas Hospital Council Award for her "significant contributions in furthering community awareness and understanding of patient care facilities in Dallas."

Miss Brinkerhoff is a staff writer for the Dallas Morning News and has received many honors for her work. She is a recipient of the Matrix Award from Theta Sigma Phi and has been recognized for her work by the Dallas Press Club, Texas Association for Mental Health and the Dallas County Chapter, American Red Cross.

Names in the news from Mu chapter at Butler University are: Jane Blake Lidikay, Auxiliary president to the Indianapolis Day Nursery; Jessie Strickland Burns, Day Nursery Association president; Natalie O'Dell Peeler, Kappa alumnae president in Bloomington; Carolyn Ford Pennington, Rushville Alumnae Club president, and Phyllis Smith Volk, Aurora, Illinois Club president.

Suzanni Midelse Levaggi, B Θ-Oklahoma, was named one of the ten best dressed women in the San Francisco Bay Area.

Linda Eckhard, M-Butler, is a soloist with the Gregg Smith Singers, which have been on tour.

Jeanette Hafner Hahner, B Ω-Oregon, received the Award of Merit from the Walla Walla, Washington Chamber of Commerce. The citation recognized Mrs. Hahner's "outstanding community service over a long period of years, beyond the normal responsibilities of her own work." She is a former president of Kappa alumnae among her numerous other achievements.

Jeanette Hahner, B Ω-Oregon, award recipient, and Dr. George Wood, past president, Walla Walla, Washington Chamber of Commerce.

The giving continues

"The enclosed check for $102.00 is Gamma Xi (California at Los Angeles) chapter's Centennial contribution. Each girl donated $1.00 for each year she has been a Kappa including the present fall pledge class of 1969. Those who had previously contributed a gift were excluded from the drive. It is our great pleasure to send this gift to you and we hope the Centennial Fund's goal will soon be reached." (The individual donors' names will be listed in a future issue.)

A 50 year Kappa says . . .

Dear Miss Harter,

On this fiftieth anniversary of my initiation into Kappa Kappa Gamma, I would like to add my "widow's mite" to your wonderful Educational Endowment Fund.

I will be eternally grateful for the many years of happiness that Kappa has given to me. I have been active, since college, in both the Long Beach and Southern Orange County (California) Alum groups. But not only has it meant a great deal to me, but my sister is the president of the La Jolla Association and my daughter is vice-president of the Southern Orange County group.

One of the great moments of my life was when I returned to Montana in October for the fiftieth reunion of my pledge class and found the wonderful group of women outstanding in all ways.

Thanks and blessings on you during our great Centennial and my fiftieth year in Kappa.

Loyally,

Donor remembers Kappa days

"It is with gratitude and affection that I enclose my check for the Centennial Fund. Although I was only at Illinois Wesleyan for my freshman year when I became a Kappa and met and married my Phi Gam husband, that one memorable and happy year has brought me continuing happiness."

An alumnae speaks

"I wish I were able to contribute more than just $1.00 for each year I have been a Kappa, for I spent three wonderful years at the Kappa house at the University of Kansas. I am most grateful to the Fraternity and am now enjoying the alumnae activities in Lincoln (Nebraska)."

Kappa means friendship

"When I was in school I was quite active in Kappa and thought it a truly wonderful experience. I appreciated what I had and learned so much from the people I encountered and the many varied and valuable experiences. But now, as an alumna, I look back and realize that I didn't appreciate those four short years as much as I should have. How much more I appreciate those dear friendships and warm loyalties as I am now away from school trying to find once again such a circle of friends. To those of us who have been lucky enough to be Kappas, my wish is that we will take full advantage of all that the Fraternity has to offer. Though I wish my gift to the Centennial Fund could be larger, I know that a large part of my heartfelt feelings about Kappa accompany this small donation."

A tribute to Clara

"How wonderful Clara was for Kappa and to me! She was Kappa Kappa Gamma. Please accept this check for the Centennial Fund in which she was so interested and in memory of her fine contribution in the years of service for young women all over the world."

Banquet, awards, speeches

A gala banquet, held at Clemson House, was presided over by vivacious toastmistress, Alice Westfall Little, Δ X-San Jose State. The banquet proved to be one of the highlights of the weekend as greetings from the University were brought by Dr. Robert C. Edwards, President of Clemson University. An inspirational banquet address was given by Mary Turner Whitney who responded to Dr. Edwards' welcome saying, "Tonight, meeting together here in the shelter of an institution dedicated to science and to the education of the youth of one of the oldest settlements of our country, after straining our eyes and imaginations this afternoon to the far reaches of space, we celebrate the beginnings of a hopefully long and happy relationship between this time honored university and our century old fraternity."

Various gifts were presented to the chapter during the evening which included the awarding of two special keys. A President's Key was presented to the chapter by Frances Alexander. The alumnae of the Piedmont, South Carolina Club presented the chapter with a Scholarship Key and the recipient was Sandra Corley, an active who has maintained a 4.0 scholastic average. A beautifully engraved silver Revere bowl was presented to the chapter from the Atlanta Alumnae Association, and the active chapter at South Carolina presented the chapter with an engraved silver dish. Greetings from Kappa chapters, alumnae and Fraternity officers from across the country were read.

As a surprise to the banquet guests, the new chapter presented a medley of Kappa songs. Speaking on behalf of the chapter, President Judith Anne Nicks expressed their sincere appreciation for the efforts of so many who had made this happy occasion possible and, as a token of their appreciation, gifts from the chapter were presented to the installing officers.

At a model chapter meeting held on Sunday afternoon, March 8, Mary Turner Whitney presided and Epsilon Mu chapter officers were installed. Culminating the events of the weekend was the reception held at Clemson House where Fraternity officers greeted the many faculty members, students, alumnae, parents and friends of the new initiates who came to offer their congratulations.

"Home" for the Epsilon Mu Kappas is Manning Hall, an eleven story, women's residence hall located in a new complex of four residence halls with adjoining cafeteria. The beautifully landscaped site is conveniently located to classroom and student activity centers on campus. Epsilon Mu Kappas enjoy living together on the sixth floor which is arranged in six room, double occupancy suites with carpeting, study rooms and laundry facilities. Chapter rooms are furnished to the groups on the ground floor.

Thank you to devoted alumnae

Bouquets of fleur-de-lis go to the devoted and willing alumnae of the area who so successfully planned and staged the installation festivities. Under the capable leadership of Mary Winn Leake Long, B X-Kentucky, serving as marshal were alumnae from Greenville: Jean Newkirk Hoffman, Γ Ω -Denison, finance; Elizabeth Barnes Craig, Δ Δ -Miami U., registration; Julianna Woodsin Toledano, Δ I-Louisiana State, equipment; Barbara Jean Anderson Walker, E Γ -North Carolina, wardrobe; Sandra Boogs Baynham, B X-Kentucky, properties and ritual; Julianna Wright Weeks, Δ Y-Georgia, reception; Betsy Cloyd Sykes, B Y-West Virginia, decor; Catherine Parker Miller, Δ Y-Georgia, flowers; and Susan McManus, Δ Y-Georgia, publicity.

From Anderson, in addition to Mary Winn Leake Long, were Bette Burow Grotke, B N-Ohio State, badges, transportation, hostesses; Alice Westfall Little, Δ X-San Jose State, invitations; and Linwood Gisclard Findley, Δ I-Louisiana State, banquet. Betty Bishop Pilcher, E K-South Carolina, from Clemson, was in charge of pages and music. She also served as pledge adviser to the new colony and was responsible for the pledge training of the 27 new charter members. Betty Burow Grotke serves as chapter council adviser and chairman of the newly formed advisory board for Epsilon Mu.
