1942 CONVENTION

Seigniory Club, P.Q., Canada

Theme: "The Fraternity's Place in War Time"

THE EDITOR Reflects . . .

UPON THE combination of circumstances which have conspired to change plans so that the fraternity is to return to one of its best-loved convention sites, the Seigniory club at Montebello, Province of Quebec, between Ottawa and Montreal on the Ottawa river, June 25-July 1, instead of going to Jasper park.

War has curtailed sight-seeing facilities in the far west, and the Canadian Rockies' hotel which was to feature in a post-convention tour is not to be opened this year.

By great good fortune, a week was open at the Seigniory club, where we had such a happy convention in 1936. Everyone who was there will rejoice to know that we are going back to that peaceful place in the rolling Laurentian foothills, beside the broad, placid river that has borne eventful frontier history on its currents. The great, wide-winged log chateau waits to house us hospitably, as in the past. Our good friend "Chappie," Cyril Chapman, will be there to welcome us. Canadian Kappas, with a longer experience of war than the Americans, will be with us to give the fine example of their adjustment to war-time demands.

So the Seigniory club is where convention is to be, and convention is to be because the fraternity's council, having given its best thought to all questions of patriotism, defense, finance, has concluded that this year, if ever, there is need for the inspiring experience of convention as a morale-builder.

We know there is the need. We have seen Kappa faces light when the wistful question, "Are we going to have convention?" could be answered with a hearty, re-assuring "Yes!" We know definitely that the undergraduate Kappas, shaken as we all are by the impact of total war, need this assurance that Kappa Kappa Gamma is standing by, with the courage to bring us all together in convention because our faith in God, country and fraternity is unshakable, now as never before.

In the mere fact of convention is a statement of our credo. It is a sign of our determination to defend our freedoms to the death. It is a defiance of the defeatist propaganda of totalitarianism which most of all denies freedom to women.

A year ago, when North America faced only the threat of war, Kappa Delta was planning a convention. A year ago in March its magazine, The Angelos, published a fine article answering the question, "Why go to convention?" We quote, in part:

"I would go to convention to keep my balance in the midst of chaos, to prove to myself that I can still appreciate beauty in word, in music, in the touch of common understanding. I would unite with American youth, with those sisters of mine scattered from one ocean to the other, to keep the glow of friendship as intensely beautiful as it was in other days. . . .

"Because it is 1941, we who are wise will grasp eagerly this thing of loveliness which has been extended to us. . . .

"Why go to convention? Why? For American youth, for us who love and are loved, for every true Kappa Delta, convention—1941—can be the greatest blessing, the strongest fortification, the most poignant stimulant to our courage that we shall ever know."

If that was true for Kappa Delta in 1941, how much more is it true for Kappa Kappa Gamma in 1942!

So come to convention to grasp "this thing of loveliness," to help Kappa make a long-range plan for the duration, and to go home a better patriot, ready to face the continuing problems, even the dangers, of a world at war with mind refreshed, spirit strengthened and heart uplifted.

UPON THE enterprise of Y-Northwestern in sending out with the January issue of its chapter publication, The Kappa Good News, a mimeographed blank headed "Remember Pearl Harbor?" It went on "Of course I do, and I haven't forgotten my chapter either. Here's $—— in DEFENSE STAMPS as my subscription to The Kappa Good News, to be applied on the purchase of Series F DEFENSE BONDS to be held by the chapter."

There, sisters, is an idea!

It's an idea that can be converted into funds for the whole fraternity's philanthropic program of fellowships, scholarships and student loans which keep girls in college, fitting them for the great future of reconstruction which lies waiting at the end of the war.

Don't forget your chapter. Don't forget your fraternity, either. When you're filling out defense stamp booklets, fill out one for Kappa Kappa Gamma, too. When it is filled, send it to central office. Then with a nice stack of filled stamp booklets, the fraternity may use them to purchase the $74 bonds of Series F which appreciate to $100 in 12 years, or the Series G bonds which are offered at par in denominations of $100 to $10,000, bear interest and are redeemable at par after 12 years from issue date.

Begin with a five-dollar book of 10-cent stamps. Surprise yourself by your savings, surprise the fraternity by your gift—and all the while, help defend your beloved country and its cherished freedoms! Keep them flying—those defense stamp booklets—to central office!

UPON THE blessing which is Kappa's in the living inspiration of Louise Bennett Boyd (Mrs. Joseph N.), the only founder of Kappa Kappa Gamma still spared to us.

As every good Kappa should know, Mrs. Boyd lives at Penney Farms, Florida. No more valiant spirit belongs to Kappa than this gallant, frail lady who challenges encroaching blindness with a cheerful heart, and is now rallying from an illness which weakened her last February.

Mrs. Boyd has good and devoted care. Kappas at Penney Farms and Winter Park and the fraternity council keep in touch with her constantly. Why should not the rest of us let her know, while we can, that we love her very much for all the beauty of friendship which she and those other girls at Monmouth 72 years ago—think how long ago!—directed toward our lives today? We can't do too much for her, or tell her too often of our love and gratitude. We mustn't let "too little and too late" apply to expressions of our affection for her.

It would be a fine surprise if every chapter and every alumnae association would send Mrs. Boyd a greeting for Mother's day, as the Kappa mother of us all.

UPON OUR own special remembrance of Elmie Warner Mallory, which goes back to 1913 or 1914, when Mrs. Mallory was a faculty wife in Ann Arbor and we were in high school. That was back in the Greek-letter middle ages when fraternity chapters were allowed to rush and pledge (tsk, tsk!) high school girls.

After we were pledged, there was one spring when we were practically a weekend commuter between Detroit and Ann Arbor. "I see Ann Arbor in June" is a line from a song in an old Michigan Union opera, and Ann Arbor in spring is something to see. There was a later spring when even the old cemetery out Geddes seemed beautiful and park-like in the right company, whose name was Don. But that's getting ahead of the story, and telling tales.

One Saturday that earlier spring we Frills Eliminated . . .

"WE MUST MAKE THIS WEEK COUNT"

By Marian S. Handy, Γ K-William and Mary, Convention Marshal

FRATERNITY plans, like all personal ones these days, must be subject to change and rearrangement. Since the announcement of Jasper park as the site of the 1942 convention in the February KEY, transportation difficulties in that part of Canada have been encountered. So the council has shifted the convention scene to the Seigniory club in the Province of Quebec, Canada. It has also been necessary to change dates, so convention will now be June 25-July 1. Any Kappa who attended or talked with another who attended the 1936 convention at the Seigniory knows what a delightful spot it is and will rejoice in its selection for this 1942 meeting.

The Seigniory club is situated in the heart of the Laurentian mountains, between Montreal and Ottawa, and faces out over the winding Ottawa river. Its quiet, restful beauty can't fail to linger long in your memory. The center of club activity is the log chateau which is complete in every detail. It is built around the spacious lobby, in the center of which as many as half a dozen fireplaces around the circular chimney throw out their warmth on chilly nights. From the circular galleries surrounding the lobby the four wings extend, and it is here that each of our Kappa provinces will be quartered for the week of convention. The spacious dining room too is surrounded by a balcony, and how well we all remember how it adapts itself to Kappa banquets! The dining room opens out on to a terrace facing the river, and it is here that in 1936 the Kappa delegates enjoyed after-luncheon dancing after busy morning sessions.

The chateau is surrounded by many acres of rugged and charming country where in season sportsmen find abundance of game and fish. A short walk from the chateau is the Sports club where golfers tee off on one of the sportiest courses in the country. It is here that the Kappas will be bound to find time for a picnic sometime during convention week. Near the chateau there are tennis courts and a luxurious enclosed swimming pool. There is canoeing on the river and plenty of horses are available for riders.

Although Canadian weather is warm and sunny at midday, convention-goers should remember the quite cool evenings and not fail to bring along a worn under them. Two evening or dinner dresses, sports clothes and low-heeled shoes should see us through the week so far as clothes go.

The rates for the six days of convention are to be $7.50 per person per day, which are indeed reasonable for the facilities of the Seigniory club. There is a charge of $.50 for transportation to and from the station and the registration fee is $4.50, so the actual cost for the six days is $50.00.

Of necessity the program is still too indefinite to publish now, but you may be assured it will be a busy, profitable and enjoyable week. With world conditions as they are it would be inappropriate to plan too elaborate a convention. Corners are being cut wherever possible, frills are being eliminated, for we must make this week together count. There are policies to be formulated and problems to be discussed, and above all camaraderie to be fostered. We can always count on making new friends and gaining inspiration at Kappa conventions no matter what else we take away with us.

You will get a thrill at meeting the

A Welcome . . . TO THE SEIGNIORY CLUB

ON BEHALF of the board of governors of the Seignior club may I again extend a very warm welcome to members of Kappa Kappa Gamma fraternity who will attend the 1942 convention, June 25-July 1. We recall your visit here six years ago and it is with much pleasure that we look forward to your return.

All the sports here will be available for your delegates' enjoyment during the convention when it is hoped many of your new members will become familiar with the Seignior.

The Seignior club which has so many distinguished American and Canadian families among its members is indeed honored to entertain once again the members of Kappa Kappa Gamma fraternity and it is hoped the renewed acquaintance with the club and with Canada will be repeated often in the future.

proud than ever of the worthwhile philanthropy of the fraternity; and above all we shall be stimulated to play our part valiantly in the world today.

This and much more convention holds out to you. Don't fail to be with us from June 25 through July 1.

ADDRESS

Travel Bureau Kappa . . .

TELLS WHY CONVENTION IN WAR TIME

By Eleanor Aldrich Sponsel (Mrs. J. G.), B A-Illinois, Vacation Counselor, Chicago Travel Headquarters

EDITOR'S NOTE: THE KEY asked Mrs. Sponsel, who is in a position to know the government's attitude toward travel in war time, to tell Kappas why there should be a convention in war time. In the letter which came with this article, Mrs. Sponsel added, "As a war mother (son in the air corps, another son in medical corps, a daughter studying television for defense work), and [with] a husband [in] defense production—and having lost my father, a Navy officer, after the shock of Pearl Harbor, I feel I can honestly say I believe we should have convention—to take care of necessary business and planning for the future, and that every one should keep fit, at whatever cost."

CONVENTION organizes, unifies and expands the spirit and morale of fraternity. To attend a week of Kappa business sessions, conducted with acumen; to indulge, with congenial companions, in periods of sport and recreation, midst surroundings such as only Kappa foresight and insight can choose, is to attain an inspired perspective in living and a treasure house of memories. Kappa needs to convene to fulfill her purpose and destiny as a power for good.

A vacation—in war time? Yes, due not only to the urge of travel-minded America, but also to the object lesson of England and other countries at war, who have found it necessary to give short periods of respite from over-taxing duties; and upon the advice of our national government, Americans should and will vacation in war time.

The slogan "Travel strengthens America" was adopted by the Union States travel bureau last year. Dr. Thomas Parran, Surgeon General, U. S.

Public Health Service, issued just recently a statement, as follows: "A nation at war must see to it that its people—all of its people, get good food, healthful recreation, diversion and relaxation to promote health and morale." The government is also advising that our young people are sent to places of recreation and camps for the summer. The morale of our home defense must equal that of our battle front.

Travel, change of scenery, new people, fresh activity, relaxation rebuild mind and body and refresh the spirit. We in America are most fortunate in that an unlimited amount of time may be taken, and unlimited tastes may be satisfied. In just a few days we may be at the seashore, in the mountains, on the lakes or enjoy a tour to Mexico or Canada. Whatever the desire of the individual there is fulfillment near home, whether at a resort with dress and society or, in old clothes and blue jeans, answering the call of desert or mountains. In short, get acquainted with that country for which our men folk have gone forth to war to secure for ourselves and children.

However, let us remember in planning our periods of work and play to be always careful that civilian travel be indulged only insofar as consistent with defense, troops and materiel movements, and only as necessity requires, for the promotion of national health and morale. Our transportation systems are doing a wonderful job in coöperation with national defense for the "job to be done" and the retainment of an

OFFERS REST TO BUSY WAR WORKERS

By Hilda Turner, Seigniory Club Director of Publicity and Editor of The Seigneur

WHEN the calm of early summer descends upon a particularly attractive section of Quebec, a visit is to be paid by your members to a picturesque corner of the old province. The fraternity's played its part, offering much-needed rest and relaxation to those harassed and worried with various phases of war work; it has been a popular locale for important conferences between native

1942 convention will play a return engagement at the Seigniory club, on the Ottawa river about mid-way between Montreal and Ottawa, where your delegates met six years ago.

It seems to be one of the war's ill winds that to Americans and Canadians, at least this year, their native land will become a little better known to them. Across the grey days since September 1939 the Seigniory club has and neighboring business leaders; it continues to receive many distinguished guests from the United States as well as from Canada. Its role when this summer takes over will be essentially the same, despite personal tragedies and new standards of endurance and self-discipline. Members of this famous country club have learned to love and value the place for the picture it renews of a normal pleasant way of life where Here's the spacious, comfortable convention hall.

Below is the dining room, where the famous "banquet of a thousand candles" originated and will

order and beauty are still important.

To Kappas who have visited in Canada previously, there may have been times when the picturesque Province of Quebec seemed only a series of outside staircases writhing fantastically into space or a procession of forbidding signs reading "Ne Stationnez-vous Pas"; times when the charm and individuality which we feel are peculiarly that of the province submerged into the sameness that is characteristic of our continent. But a little time in the country, say in that attractive section which surrounds the Seigniory club on the shores of the Ottawa river 80 miles west of Montreal, and that pessimism is repaired. Old houses with sturdy gable ends, brightly whitewashed log farmhouses in the back concessions, the crosses and more elaborate shrines by the wayside are all details that fit into a picture that is pleasant and picturesque, giving an air unlike anything else in this part of the world.

The stranger is astonished to find French the one and only language of the villages, delighted to see a strong dog working happily in harness and touched to overtake two itinerant black-robed fathers striding along the highways with knapsacks and umbrellas, bound for their annual retreat at the monastery at Oka. The people are charming, patient at the manhandling a stranger is apt to give their language, glad to show their homes and their handicrafts to those who are genuinely interested, and in the country districts, particularly, polite and hospitable to a degree that restores a little of one's faith in human nature. They are unobtrusively tenacious of their old ways and not greatly at ease when they abandon them structurally or habitually. Incredible houses with pastry-cook fretwork decoration, glass arranged in neat patterns in the walls, or square block-built affairs with a crenellated crest in galvanized iron illustrate this tendency.

If the quiet Quebec countryside casts a spell on the restless spirit, the forest has an even greater influence, as any who have camped in the northern section of the Seigniory club property or in like Laurentian lakelands can testify. The woods are alive with the half-heard voices of birds, there are countless signs of game and wild life, there is a curious feeling of a friendly presence in the solitude.

Craftsmen particularly skilled in log, stone and wrought iron work helped to create the log chateau, the Seigniory club's residence, 10 years ago and today, weathered and matured, it stands a rustic building of dignity and charm, fitting well into its forest background. Near it are tennis courts, riding stables, swimming pool, boat house; not far away are a challenging 18-hole golf course, skeet and trap-shooting fields. Through the trees from the chateau one can see the towers of the 90-year-old manor house, a club members' rendez-vous.

The Seigniory club's estate of 65,000 acres, an area comparable to a great national park, stretches from the Ottawa river back into the Laurentian lake and mountain region. A fish hatchery, game sanctuary, guides' and rangers' camps are maintained in the forest "back country." In many ways is the Seigniory club without parallel.

The summer season at the Seigniory club in the Province of Quebec begins officially with the opening of the fishing season, May 1. The results of stocking and protection are being amply justified and good catches of speckled trout, rainbow trout and bass are taken by members fishing the 50 lakes and five streams on the 104 square miles of forest country.

The annual inter-city tennis tournaments between members of Ottawa and Montreal tennis clubs will open competitive play on the Seigniory's six entout-cas courts in June; a members' and guests' tournament follows in July, anticipating the annual international tournament scheduled for August. Many of the "big ten" in American and Canadian court circles are expected here for the 13th successive year of the famous tournament.

Of particular interest to the tennis-minded among Seigniory club members and guests this year is the probable return as tennis coach here for the summer months of Mrs. Dorothy Round Little, of England, ex-Wimbledon champion. Mrs. Round Little, who is in Canada for the war's duration, entered the teaching ranks for the first time when she turned to coaching on the Seigniory club courts last summer.

The golf course, one of the most famous in Canada, will take its usual important place on the sports calendar. Friendly matches between members and guests will keep the 18-hole course in constant use during the summer months. The tenth annual women's in-itation tournament will be played in September.

All these organized sports events play their part in the entertainment planned for the season at the Seigniory club, and besides there are diversions without number to fill the hours of those who come to the club in vacation time. Members who own their country houses as well as those who stay at the log chateau find many activities. There are, for instance, Venetian night, when an outdoor entertainment is given on the terrace in front of the log chateau; the annual costume ball, when the historic manor house resounds to the strains of minuet and polka and when young and not so young don the costumes of the day when Louis Joseph Papineau, former owner of the Seigniory, made his home here. There are special events for the junior members, for they have their own regatta, their masquerade and their swimming meet during the season.

SWIMMING pool will be inviting, in its own separate building near the Log Chateau.

MRS. KUHNS KNEW . . . Convention's Value

WRITTEN on the letterhead of the English-Speaking Union, 1 Charing Cross, London, under date of July 9, 1926, a letter from the late Tade Hart-suff Kuhns, first grand president, to a marshal of the 1926 convention at Oakland, California, expressing Mrs. Kuhns' regret that she would be unable to attend convention, is treasured in the central office files. Out of the past, as Kappas prepare for a convention in war time, it brings Mrs. Kuhns' opinion of such a meeting.

"I send most cordial greetings to all of the Kappas gathered there and pray the convention may be all you have hoped for and worked to attain," wrote Mrs. Kuhns. "At all events, it will be an assemblage of Kappas, always joyful to witness, and a rare privilege to be a part of. I am more than sorry not to be with you."

As all Kappas who had the privilege of meeting Mrs. Kuhns at other conventions knew, she was a famous traveler. When she wrote that letter in London in 1926 she had just returned from eight months in the interior of Africa, having gone from the White Nile to Capetown, with part of the journey by automobile. Naturally Mrs. Kuhns was a keen student of world affairs. As Kappa's first grand president she was far in advance of her time in vision and organization. As a cosmopolitan American she continued to look far beyond the moment into the future. So it is significant, not to say prophetic, that her letter should have continued:

"As I wander about over the face of the globe, and it seems to be my lot to do so almost continuously, I am greatly impressed with the problems confronting mankind today; problems so deep and of such vast caliber that they seem beyond the mere human mind to comprehend, let alone encompass and solve. Now that women are taking a broader part in the life of nations it behooves them to study and inform themselves on all matters relating to the welfare of the state and nation. The great calamity that befell us [in] 1914-1918 has broadened even this necessity, so that these problems are now related to the welfare of the human race.

"If not settled in some other way, I am convinced that the time is not far off when in self defense the white people of the earth must cling together. Hence I would urge the closer study of Anglo-Saxon traditions and laws, because they have been always an evolution of freedom, and a closer union between the English speaking peoples. . . . We should know what are and why the real principles of free government. Let the Kappas lead in such staunch foundations of citizenship.

"Since the founders of Kappa, like the founders of our national constitution, builded better than they knew, I have always advocated our crossing the waters and entering foreign institutions. . . . The study of foreign relations could naturally in time lead to an international fellowship—a very worth-while consideration for KKG.

"This letter by no means consoles me in the great regret I have at not being with you, but it does carry my great good wishes and enduring salaams."

In 1937, the year Mrs. Kuhns died, the fraternity established its first foreign exchange fellowship, a program which the present war has interrupted.

American way of living. There are enough facilities to go around if consideration be used that civilian travel be compatible with the needs of our government. Vacations should be staggered, not all short vacation on week-ends but between to avoid congestion and disappointment. You are free to go, by land, by air, by sea.

Schedules Announced . . .

FOR THAT CONVENTION CHOO-CHOO

By Marie Bryden Macnaughtan (Mrs. James, Jr.), ©-Missouri, Convention Transportation Chairman

CHICAGO, for the third time since 1936, will be the meeting place for convention-bound Kappas from all states west of the Mississippi and including Illinois, western Tennessee, western Kentucky and Mississippi, also eastern Louisiana. From here the delegates and visitors will leave from the Michigan Central Station, 12th and Michigan.

The council, convention marshal, and some of the central office staff will arrive at the Seigniory club a week prior to this, to make preliminary convention arrangements, while the province presidents and vice-presidents will leave Chicago Sunday, June 21, arriving at the Seigniory club, Monday, June 22, to have pre-convention sessions with the council.

Headquarters at Chicago: The Stevens hotel will be the official headquarters for Kappas gathering in Chicago. A suite will be provided as a meeting place, and those who plan to stop in Chicago for a few days for sight-seeing and shopping will find this lake-front hotel delightful and conveniently located to shops, theaters and civic centers. The headquarters will be open Tuesday, June 23, and Wednesday, June 24, until time of train departure.

Those traveling from central eastern and southeastern states will join the special at either Detroit or Toronto, as designated by the railroad.

Those from eastern Canada, New England and the east coast will travel through Montreal, arriving at Montebello at 11:12 a.m., Thursday, June 25. If there are sufficient numbers, special cars will be provided from New York and Washington.

For those from western Canada, it is most convenient for them to travel through to Ottawa and join the special there.

Ottawa: Here the special train will stop for three hours while we have breakfast at the famous Chateau Laurier (on the terrace overlooking the Ottawa river, weather permitting), and for a bit of sight-seeing, including the Parliament buildings, in the capital of Canada.

Then on to Montebello and the Seigniory club. The time on the special will seem short indeed, for while we speed along Kappa songs will be heard around the piano in the lounge car and in the pullmans you will find the usual special train bridge tournament in progress, to be played off by the winners from each car.

If this is your first experience on a Kappa "Special" it will be long remembered as a happy one; or if you are a "habiteer" of this convention train, you well know how the value of these contacts as a delightful prelude to convention.

It is desirable that you make your reservations as early as possible through G. P. Carbrey, Canadian Pacific railroad, 418 Locust Street, St. Louis, Missouri, or to the convention transportation chairman, Mrs. James Macnaughtan, Jr., 7538 Teasdale avenue, St. Louis, Missouri.

Due to the transportation conditions created by the present emergency, schedule for special train will be given later to those planning to attend convention.

Passports and Identification: Passports are not necessary to enter or leave Canada, but for the return into the United States identification must be carried, such as birth or baptismal certificate, driver's license, club membership cards, letter from your local voting commissioner, duly notarized, stating you have voted in recent election, tax receipt or some other official identification showing United States citizenship.

Customs: The following information regarding customs should be noted carefully by those traveling to the Seigniory club from points in the United States.

Hand baggage accompanying passengers is examined by customs officials who board the train en route.

Trunks, if necessary, should be checked on railway ticket to Montebello, Que., and dispatched three or four days ahead of time; and baggage checks and keys, together with letter authorizing examination, forwarded to Cyril Chapman, manager, the Log Chateau, Seigniory club, P.Q., who will arrange for customs release.

Any baggage or goods shipped by express should be sent to the Log Chateau, Seigniory club, Montebello, P.Q., bonded on Lachute, and the keys, with letter authorizing examination, forwarded to Mr. Chapman as in the case of checked baggage. For other than personal effects shipped by express a declaration should be made at time of shipment. Visitors planning to arrive at the Club on Saturdays or Sundays should plan to have their baggage expressed to arrive a day or two ahead as customs officers are not on duty to make examination at Lachute during week-ends or on holidays.

Motoring: American visitors to Canada by automobile are advised that gasoline rationing became effective in Canada April 1, 1942, and from that date, every operator of a motor vehicle may obtain gasoline only on the presentation of a ration coupon book.

Under the rationing plan, the owner of a United States automobile entering Canada for touring purposes may obtain from the Canadian customs officer at the port of entry a gasoline licence and ration coupon book, which will be issued free of charge. If the tourist intends to stay in Canada for more than 48 hours, the ration coupon book will contain coupons permitting the purchase of 20 units of gasoline at any the Canadian customs on his exit from Canada.

Each unit in the ration coupon book represents a certain number of gallons of gasoline. Basically, the quantity of gasoline in the unit is 5 Imperial gallons (equal to 6 United States gallons), but this may be reduced or increased at any time by the Oil Controller as circumstances arising out of the gasoline situation may require.

Should the tourist's stay in Canada exceed 90 days, and he desire to obtain a further amount of gasoline, he may make application to a regional control office of the Oil Controller and pay a registration fee of $1, when a gasoline licence and ration coupon book as the Oil Controller may prescribe may be issued to the applicant.

The hours of sale of gasoline in Canada are from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. on week days only. Gasoline cannot be purchased at night or on Sunday.

The carrying of gasoline in containers for use in the operation of a passenger motor car conflicts with the gasoline ration order which states that gasoline for this purpose must be secured from dealers only and delivered directly to the tank of such motor vehicle.

It is expected that the tourist will restrict his motoring as much as possible and, while his ration coupon book provides for a certain amount of gasoline, it is anticipated that he will endeavour to have as many unused ration coupons as possible at the end of his stay in Canada. Such a course will mean a considerable contribution to the war effort in which our two nations are united.

SEE OLD WORLD IN NORTH AMERICA

CONVENTION over, the post-convention trip will leave the Seignior club station, known as Montebello, Wednesday morning, July 1, arriving in Montreal in time for luncheon at the well-known Windsor hotel.

The afternoon will be free to spend sight-seeing in this fascinating French-English city or in its numerous shops.

A visit to Montreal would not be complete without a ride up Mount Royal in a horse-drawn calèche which can be engaged for about $4 per hour for 4 passengers. Taxis from the hotel will take us to our boat for our over-night trip down the St. Lawrence river to Quebec. We will have dinner on board and the evening may be spent enjoying the ship's many diversions, or in the comfortable deck chairs viewing the scenic St. Lawrence by moonlight.

We arrive in Quebec, once the capital of New France, early in the morning of July 1. Here we will stay at the world famous Chateau Frontenac, and as we drive into the medieval court-yard we feel indeed that we are in a foreign land. Quebec is full of interest to the sight-seer, and also from here a trip can be taken to the shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre. This requires about four hours by electric train, and the cost is about $1.50.

After two days and a night in this charming French city, we will leave by boat Thursday evening, July 2, having our evening meal and breakfast on board and arriving in Montreal the following morning. For those wishing to remain longer in Montreal the Ritz-Carleton hotel will be found a pleasant location. The cost of the Montreal-Quebec trip from luncheon in Montreal Wednesday noon July 1 to Saturday morning July 4, including transportation, stateroom on boat, hotel at Quebec (two in a room), all meals, taxis and tips will be $28, plus $1.40 (U.S. 5% tax) in United States money: $30.74, plus 10% Canadian tax in Canadian funds.

SAGUENAY'S CHARM . . . Is Unforgettable

By Joanna Wright, Δ Δ-McGill

FOR the Saguenay extension trip, after you visit in Quebec, you find yourself on one of the comfortable Canada Steamship boats again going on down the river, leaving the fertile green Isle d'Orléans in your wake. At Baie St. Paul with its starkly beautiful mountains you meet the salt water, and the river turns to a deep greeny blue. The boat hugs the north shore so closely that the steeply-wooded mountains which sweep down to the river tower above you. The villages nestle at the bases of the mountains, and with the fisheries, quais and occasional light-houses, they enliven the shore-line.

The river which is now from 12 to 15 miles broad sweeps round rocky jutting headlands—Cap Tourment, Cap Aux Oies, Cap à l'Aigle and Pointe au Pic which hides from our sight Murray Bay, or as Champlain was pleased to christen it "la Mal baie." The quai is crowded with little boys and old men, the fishermen par excellence who have abandoned their favorite sport to help the captain land the boat. Their verbal assistance is unfortunately unheeded; so in an endearing and amazing mixture of French and English they volunteer anything to "les Américains" whom they love, for was not Mr. Taft a visitor of many summers' standing? You will be lucky if you can go to a viellée and hear the old songs, "À la Claire Fontaine," "En Roulant Ma Boule, Roulant," and all the others. In fact you will find it difficult to tear yourself away from Murray Bay.

But do it you must, and go on down the river for 30-odd miles, past Hare island and St. Simeon, past country that is ever growing wilder and rockier, sparser and more windswept, until you come to Ste. Catherine's bay and the mouth of the Saguenay, a tremendous sight and one which you will have to see for yourself to feel the sensation caused by those swiftly-running dark waters which come straight down from the north between scarped rocky mountains. Across the bay is peaceful Tadoussac with its sandy beach, less sophisticated than Murray Bay, but boasting the oldest church on the continent.

I am not going to describe the trip up the Saguenay from Tadoussac to Ha Ha bay, because I hope that you are now all firmly convinced that the one thing to do is to take the Saguenay excursion trip. It is something that you will not forget; the country of the "habitant of Quebec" is as haunting as the melodies of his songs, and you will want to come back if only you will come once to prove it to yourselves.

And so a bon voyage to Saguenay.

It's Pronounced "SEEN-yer-ee"

DON'T be baffled by the name of the place where Kappas will meet for convention, June 25-July 1. Remember the French language? Remember "seigneur," the word for a nobleman, a lord?

A nobleman's estate in the New World, in French-Canada of the 18th century, came to be known as his seigniory. In fact the present Seigniory club actually was the Papineau seigniory. Hence its name, hence the manor house on the club property.

So far so good. But how do you pronounce the word? Like this: "SEEN-yer-ee," with accent on the "SEEN."

Simple, isn't it?

Next step: see that you're seen among the Kappas at the Seigniory club, June 25-July 1.

McGILL UNIVERSITY . . . Is in Montreal

By Joan Patch, Δ Δ-McGill

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Six years ago Joan, then an undergraduate, wrote this article for the February 1936 KEY, preceding convention at the Seigniory club. In this KEY Kappas will learn that Joan is now an officer of the CWAAF. The article about the Canadian air force Kappas was prepared for publication before plans were changed to bring convention again to the Seigniory club in 1942.)

MCGILL UNIVERSITY was founded in 1821 by James McGill, a prominent Scotch merchant of Montreal, who had amassed a large fortune in the fur trade. He had been greatly interested in higher education, and in his will left a large sum of money and his estate, situated in what was then the north end of the town, both of which were to be used for the "Royal Institution for the Advancement of Learning," as McGill was somewhat grandiloquently called. After much delay and difficulty, the college finally opened its doors to students, although the college at first consisted of only a medical faculty.

Today McGill university lies almost in the heart of the city, for with the growth of Montreal, the shopping and business district has almost surrounded the old Burnside estate. In spite of this fact, the beauty of the campus has not been in the least diminished, for, standing in the grounds, one feels that the busy city is far removed. The university lies at the foot of Mount Royal, or "the Mountain," as it is called by most Montrealers. On entering the campus through the memorial gates, a long avenue stretches in front, at the end of which is the Arts building and the James McGill tomb, overshadowed by the mountain, which except for a few college buildings and residential houses, has been left practically as it was when the first white men came to Canada. On either side of the avenue there are small playing fields and tennis courts, some of which are turned into hockey rinks in the winter. Beyond them are the various college buildings, such as the Redpath library, the McCord museum, and the medical, biological and engineering buildings. The other college buildings, the Theological college, the Conservatorium of Music, and the woman's residence, the Royal Victoria college, are in the vicinity of the campus.

In peacetime there are approximately 3,000 students at McGill, of all types and nationalities. Very few of that number are French-speaking, which may seem strange for a university in Quebec, but it is due to the fact that the French have their own college, the Université de Montréal. There are a number of American students at McGill, the majority of them in the faculty of medicine.

Someone has said that McGill is famous for two things, its medical faculty and Professor Stephen Leacock. This may be true. But McGill does possess other faculties, such as the faculty of arts and sciences, engineering, law, commerce, architecture, and many other branches. At one convention the Delta Delta delegates were surprised to find that everyone thought that, as they were from McGill, they must be medical students.

Besides the regular college courses, there are a number of extra-curricular activities open to the students, such as dramatic clubs, a college paper, etc. As

JOINS LONDON COLONY . . . as Polish Refugee

By Maude Landis, Ω-Kansas

IN THE April, 1941, KEY, in the list of unknown addresses, appeared the name of Louise Llewelling, Ω-Kansas.

Inquiry among friends disclosed her present address and some facts regarding her recent thrilling experiences in Warsaw, Paris and London, where she now lives, which no doubt all Kappas will be interested to know about.

For a time after leaving Kansas university, Louise Llewelling was a reporter for the Chicago American, and studied in the Chicago Musical college.

Then she went to Paris, where she studied in Schola Cantorum, and acted as correspondent for Musical America. After more extensive travel on the continent, she contributed to such magazines as Asia and Travel, and wrote special articles for the New York Tribune and the New York World.

She devoted several years to the study of folk-music of different nations and returned to America to begin her career as a singer in Boston. She appeared twice thereafter at the White House, as a guest recitalist of President Wilson, and shortly before the first World war made her New York recital debut in Aeolian hall, New York city. After this she was for several years soloist with the Chamber Ensemble of New York.

In 1917, she was married to Tadeuz Jarecki, son of the director of opera at Lemberg, and himself a composer and conductor of recognized ability, for years director of the Municipal theatre of Stanislowow, Poland. After 1926, Mr. and Mrs. Jarecki were employed in Warsaw, where she was a special writer on music and folk-lore for the American Warsaw Weekly. Since October, 1931, Mrs. Jarecki has been European correspondent for the Delphian Quarterly, Chicago.

Disturbed conditions in Poland led the Jareckis to go to Paris in 1938 and when the Germans marched into Poland, they were attached to the Polish government in exile in Paris. When France surrendered, Hitler announced his intention of shooting everyone connected with the government, and Mr. and Mrs. Jarecki left Paris with only what they could carry in their hands. Their experiences were the typical ones of refugees, but they managed to reach London.

At present, Mrs. Jarecki is in the employ of the Polish government in London, as a translator, and Mr. Jarecki is the head of the Association for the Preservation of Polish Cultural Life. Their address is #14 Carlos place, London, W.I.

Five Kappas Included . . .

AMONG CWAAF'S FIRST 150 OFFICERS

By Gene McNicholl, $\Gamma \Sigma$ -Manitoba, Member, Editorial Staff
Winnipeg Free Press

THEY'RE IN the air force now!" That's what Canadian Kappas are saying as they point with pride to five of their number who have donned the King's uniform. But it's not just because of the uniform that we're proud of them. It's because these girls have the distinction of being among the original 150 women chosen from volunteers all over Canada for training as officers and non-commissioned officers in the Canadian Women's Auxiliary Air Force.

These girls, who have added air force blue to their two Kappa blues, are Jane Bennett, $\Gamma \Sigma$; Karen Hall, $\Gamma \Sigma$; Joan Patch, $\Delta \Delta$ -McGill; Isabelle Dowler, $\Gamma \Upsilon$ -British Columbia, and Barbara Martin, $\Delta \Delta$. They've recently completed their five weeks' training course in Toronto, and are awaiting their postings. With the exception of Joan Patch, who got her commission, the Kappas are all corporals.*

While their work will be varied, their main assignment is to release airmen for other duties. The CWAAF members who were chosen for this special training course will take charge of airwomen who have qualified in specific trades and are posted to RCAF stations across the dominion, to act as an instructional staff, and to handle enlistments at CWAAF recruiting stations.

"It's the next best thing to a Kappa convention," is the way one airwoman described the training course. "Naturally we worked hard, but we had so much fun we didn't really mind."

When the girls first went down they

* Karen's commission was scheduled to come through in March.

PHOTOGRAPHED in Toronto before duty scattered them to different posts were the five members of Kappa's CWAAF contingent, in the air force blue. In the foreground is Assistant Section Officer Joan Patch, $\Delta \Delta$ -McGill, whose rank corresponds to that of Pilot Officer, and who is now senior CWAAF officer at an Ontario training school. Behind her is Corporal Barbara Martin, $\Delta \Delta$, attached to the Toronto training school; then Corporal Jane Bennett, $\Gamma \Sigma$ -Manitoba, also at the training depot; then Corporal (when the picture was taken) Karen Hall, $\Gamma \Sigma$, who flew home to Vancouver to marry Lieutenant Barney Medland, attached to the Royal Navy air arm, February 1. Last November, Lieutenant Medland flew the last plane off the deck of the Ark Royal, 25 miles off Gibraltar. At the extreme right is Corporal Isabelle Dowler, $\Gamma \Upsilon$ -British Columbia, now at a mid-dominion training school.

"Thus are the Kappas who were in the first group of the air force, female," reports Corporal Bennett, to whom THE KEY is indebted for the photograph.

wore civvies, and the Kappas wore their keys, so it didn't take long for the five to get together. And then the fun . . . and work . . . started. Up at the crack of dawn, they had from 6:30 to 7:30 to dress, shine buttons, polish shoes, and wash. The washing, incidentally, was done in a place called the "ablutions room." Breakfast was from 7:30 to 8:15 in the large mess hall, where the food is served in cafeteria style and only the sergeants and officers, who eat in separate rooms, get serviettes.

The lack of serviettes was sort of a problem at first, but after a few days of furtively bringing cleansing tissue along with them to meals, the girls just decided they'd better take things as they found them.

At 8:15 the ensign was raised and at 8:20 there was roll call, parade and inspection. Lectures were from 9:00 to 12:30, when the girls had dinner . . . no light lunch for them! At 13:50, another parade, then lectures, and at 17:30 they had supper. (Just subtract 12 from any time after noon, and you'll be able to understand the airwomen—when they talk of time.)

As far as the uniforms are concerned, there is a unanimity of opinion. They're comfortable, but those hats! "They must have been designed by Queen Mary's milliner," moaned one little corporal.

The uniforms in question are made up of a tunic and skirt of gabardine wool, crease resistant; blue shirt with detachable collar, black tie, grey lisle stockings (yes, they do twist and pull at the skirts!), black oxfords and the aforementioned hat. For outdoor wear there is also a greatcoat, which is listed in the air force catalogue as: Coat, great and warm, blue, airwomen's for the use of.

And it isn't double talk.

The air force has its own way of doing things, and one of them is to catalogue issue clothing backwards.

But Kappa's first airwomen are all agreed that that's the only thing in which the air force is backward.

EDITOR'S NOTE: CWAAF recruits, who are between the ages of 18 and 43 years, enlist on the same terms as men who join the RCAF. They must be willing to be sent on active service anywhere in the world, subject to the same rules and regulations which govern airmen, on and off duty. CWAAF officers are responsible for the welfare and discipline of airwomen at RCAF stations, where they work at their trades under the direction of RCAF officers. The nine trades in which airwomen receive training are administration, cooks, clerks, equipment assistants, mess women, telephone operators, fabric workers, mechanical transport drivers and general duties. The board which interviewed the first CWAAF members to take the officers' training course consisted of a CWAAF officer, a member of the headquarters staff of the Women's Auxiliary Air Force of Britain and RCAF officers.

The sympathy of the fraternity is extended to Clara O. Pierce, B N-Ohio State, executive secretary, and her sister, Rose Beresford, in the death of their mother, Mrs. Charlotte Gunning Pierce, February 23, 1942, at Columbus, Ohio, after a prolonged illness.

Little Colonel . . .

COMMANDS SERVICE MEN'S CADETTE

By Mary Ann Baker Beckett (Mrs. Joe Rand), I-DePauw

IN A LARGE, barnlike brick freight station on Wabash street, in the rear of the Traction Terminal building in Indianapolis, has developed the coziest, most inviting, best-appointed and best-managed service men's club you could imagine. The old offices and store rooms of the previously abandoned building have been cleaned, re-arranged and adapted to the use of the boys in uniform, in a manner worthy of the best Cinderella tales. The old theme of converting something outmoded, useless and unused is here developed into a symphony of comfort, cheer and usefulness.

Colorful draperies at the windows, slipcovered furniture given by friends, bookcases built by handy men, cookie jars filled by sympathetic housewives, game tables, juke boxes (free), soft drink dispensers, easy chairs—even a dressing room with shower baths for dusty soldiers—have been evoked by the magic of the Will to Do.

This club is intended as a rendezvous for service men, where they can be comfortable and happy. Supervised social life is offered, as well as food. One of the main features of the club is the volunteer service of the Service Men's Cadettes. These are divided into four regiments with representative women as colonels. The colonel of the first regiment is Helen Hartinger, P^A-Ohio Wesleyan. On her staff of 14 officers are the following Kappas: major, Betty Wickard, Γ Δ-Purdue; captain, Vivian Petersen, Γ Δ, and lieutenants, Betty Ann Schroeder, M-Butler, and Betsy Wolfe, Δ-Indiana. In the ranks are many Kappas, both in the first regiment, and in the others.

After the girls have been invited to join, they have a training class of two hours, under the direction of Helen Hartinger, in coöperation with the morale officers at Fort Benjamin Harrison. Following the training, plus 12 hours on duty at the club and approval by the committee, a girl is a full-fledged Cadette, and may buy for herself the Service Men's Cadette pin, designed by Colonel Helen Hartinger, who studied art in Europe, and is a teacher in Tudor Hall School for Girls.

Colonel Hartinger is on the club's executive and publicity committees. She makes the posters for the pantry shelf, which she originated. This pantry shelf, a feature which the boys enjoy immensely for its informality, is really a series of shelves in one of the recreation rooms, stocked with bright jars of cheese, sandwich spreads, gay cracker tins, cookies and baskets of apples—such fare as the boys might find in their own homes, and offered as freely to pantry raiders. An electric coffee-maker provides a hot beverage to go with the snacks, and frequently the Cadettes join in making up "Dagwood Specials" or "Poor Boy Sandwiches." This opportunity for normal social life is a fine thing for the service men. Informal dances are also given on week-ends.

Esther Collicot, B N-Ohio State, from Columbus, Ohio, in charge of the Fifth Corps Area Youth Work for Civilian Defense, visited the club, and reported that the work there was the best organized that she had seen, and would be used as a model for service men's activities over the country.

Miss Hartinger, as a member of the executive committee, has worked "on the desk," made headings for the weekly bulletin, and made speeches at Parent-Teachers' meetings and clubs. She took charge of the colored girls' division, and gave the training course to them, with Captain Kitchen, of Fort Benjamin Harrison. She also helped organize the service men's canteen at the Union station. This canteen is designed to cheer and greet the men during the time between trains at the station. Other Kappas assisting there are Mrs. Royer K. Brown, M, Mrs. Gayle B. Wolfe and Mrs. Alan Boyd, Δ, and Mrs. William H. Remy, I.

It is indeed encouraging to see how college-bred women rally to the support of our men in uniform, and it is a source of pride to have such leadership as that of Colonel Helen Hartinger, of the Cadettes.

ARMY-NAVY BLANK . . . Got Quick Action

APPRECIATION of the Kappa mother of a young Army officer for Kappa's establishment of alumnæ Army and Navy committees has come in a note from Elizabeth Rhodes Jackson (Mrs. Ralph Temple), Ψ-Cornell, editor of THE KEY, 1910-1914.

"I sent your (February KEY, page 37) blank to the Baltimore alumnæ president, Miss Schlipp, with the name of my son, not long out of M.I.T., a second lieutenant in chemical warfare at Edge-wood," wrote Mrs. Jackson.

"Miss Schlipp sent me an immediate and very fraternal reply, wrote to King, and maneuvered an invitation for him to the tea dance given by the Goucher chapter that week. This is the only contact he has had in Baltimore outside the arsenal and I very deeply appreciate it.

"My two Phi daughters, Winifred and Ralph, have just given a recital for the Nora Waln fund. The Boston letter will carry it as a news item, but you may like to see the notices."

We like all this evidence of Kappa spirit linked with service in the war effort. We know it will help other Kappas to realize the importance of Army and Navy committees for each alumnæ group. We are convinced that such aid in morale-building is the great contribution which Kappa and other women's Greek-letter organizations can make, in addition to the fine work of individual members.

In that connection, the editor has been thrillingly impressed, though not surprised, by the amount of civilian defense and other war work being done by Kappas, as may be noted in THE KEY alumnæ letters to be read in this issue. We like to see how Denver and Lexington alumnæ, for example, joined up as KKG units to do war work. We chuckled at Atlanta's mention of struggles with artificial respiration and digital pressure points, so meaningful to so many, including the editor.

From other letters reporting return of Kappas evacuated from war zones and potential war zones we got an idea of how valuable the Army and Navy transfer blanks should be in helping these Kappas to adjustment through renewed contacts with other Kappas.

From the British Columbia letter we learned for the first time that a Kappa had been on the Zamzam and is now a Nazi prisoner in Berlin.

Point is—use these Army and Navy blanks on the preceding pages. Fight the Japs and the Nazis on the home front with Kappa friendliness and hospitality to service Kappas and Kappa relatives and friends in the armed services.

Correction

THE KEY regrets that through an error in identification the photograph of Toledo alumnæ in the blue pictorial section of the February KEY carried a caption stating that the picture was taken at the Luella Cummings Home for Girls, instead of the Florence Crittenden home.

How to Sell . . .

BOOKS TO THOSE WHO HAVE BOOKS

By Ruth Duhme, B Δ-Michigan, Director of Publicity
J. B. Lippincott Company

WHEN YOU succumb to a new lipstick, a new icebox, a new girdle or a new dentifrice, you are succumbing to an intangible but insistent pressure. You probably don't think of it as pressure, but more often than not, that is what it is. Somewhere an advertising agent or a publicity man has sat up late devising subtle but effective ways of making you think you want a particular item. He knows how to play on your very human desire to be healthier, more attractive, more fashionable.

But for one kind of publicity agent, the individual engaged in promoting the sale of books, there is a more difficult proposition. While most people are eager to be healthier, more fashionable, or more attractive, they can get along without being wiser. As a fellow-worker in the book business sorrowfully commented to me one day: "A man who misses a meal knows his stomach is empty. But people can live for years with empty heads and never feel a twinge."

The special problems of the book publisher in trying to sell his wares are often exasperatingly difficult, but they give a definite zest to his job just the same. What are some of these problems?

First of all, in contrast to the ordinary producer of goods whose market is potentially the entire public, the publisher has a comparatively limited field. He cannot teach people to read books. If their upbringing and education have not developed in them a taste for books, the publisher is virtually powerless to change their habits. It is a shocking fact that in our country, with its population of 130,000,000, a publisher can feel gratified with a sale of anything over 5,000 copies! Very few books top the 100,000 mark. Even a phenomenal seller like Berlin Diary, with its total of more than 500,000 copies sold, has reached only a fraction of our tremendous consumer market.

RUTH DUHME, B Δ-Michigan, dreams up
"razzle-dazzle"

Another problem confronting the publisher is that he does not, like other producers, enjoy the benefits of repetition. His advertising and publicity cannot hammer away week after week driving home a single name, a single product. Each season he has a completely new list of merchandise to sell and, since few book addicts ever notice a publisher's name, the fact that in a previous season he issued such popular titles as Kitty Foyle or I Married Adventure won't help him sell this season's books. Each new book has to be sold separately and on its own merits.

Finally, as if these two difficulties were not sufficient, there is a third, which is possibly the most troublesome. Publishers have an extremely limited number of outlets. When an advertising manager schedules his appropriation, he concentrates it within six cities, occasionally stretching it, in the case of a sure-fire best seller, to eight. New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco are the best book towns, well-served by many excellent retail stores. Yet, in the great expanse of continent between the Mississippi and the Pacific, there are so few book stores that it doesn't pay the publisher to advertise his wares there.

To make the best of this situation, the promoter of books tries primarily to do two things. The only road to best sellerdom is through rave reviews or the enthusiasm of booksellers who will recommend their favorite title to their regular customers. He tries, therefore, to attract the attention of the literary reviewers of the country to his outstanding titles and at the same time he attempts to entice the booksellers into reading his new publications. (This practice is commonly referred to as "razzle-dazzle.") Some of the advertising and publicity, obviously, is directed to the public at large, but the heavy guns are trained on the above targets!

I won't take up the time or space to discuss at length the usual means we employ to charm the trade: cards printed for the bookseller to send to his charge customers, posters and other display pieces for his windows and counters, nor the whys and wherefores of literary teas, still called teas though they are generally cocktail parties these days, through which a new author or an important author is presented to the luminaries of the critical world. I shall simply pull a few samples out of our little bag of tricks.

For example, there was the Wackaroo. Last spring we were publishing a collection of short stories about a bad little boy. Though a few had appeared in Story Magazine, the author was almost unknown. Short story collections are hard enough to sell in these days of gigantic historical novels, and a book by a new writer requires skillful handling, too. With a small advertising appropriation the means of promoting the book were distinctly limited. Then a bright idea struck. The vogue for "Wackaroos," the little pottery idols which make a delightful smash when thrown in a fit of temper, was just beginning. We bought a supply, strung tags around the necks, and sent them out to reviewers and booksellers. There's One in Every Family, the book about a problem child, was launched with the suggestion, "If there's one in your family, you'll want this Wackaroo." It was silly enough, and everyone laughed, but the book sold extraordinarily well, with one of the smallest advertising appropriations we've ever put on a successful book.

GADGETS like that cost little in comparison with advertising space and are really most effective in catching the attention of overworked and harried book people. Once, to promote our Fish and Seafood Cookbook, we sent out a sample of "Bombay Duck." This delicacy is no more than bummalo fish and, from the numerous letters we received, it left a strong impression. But it also piqued the interest of the right people.

Our latest and most ambitious piece of promotion was worked out in connection with Osa Johnson's new book,

Four Years in Paradise. We had hand-bags made up out of the simulated giraffe skin with which the book is bound and gave one to every female employee of Lippincott. These distinctive bags naturally brought forth inquiries, and that much-cherished phenomenon which is the goal of all book publishers, word-of-mouth publicity, was the result. Pictures of the girls with their bags have appeared in the trade papers, in newspapers and in such unusual spots as Women's Wear Daily, a fashion publication, which commented that this was the first time such a stunt has been used in book promotion.

Needless to say, publishers are not resting content within the limitations of their business. The radio, movies and magazines, though they are the chief competitors of books, are now being used as media to further an interest in reading. For example, Life devoted seven pages to a picture-study of Kitty Foyle, our astonishing best seller of two years ago. Reader's Digest condensations are reaching and interesting a new audience. We make use of the various radio hours which sponsor interviews and occasional quiz programs with authors. Now and then a radio dramatization of one of our books is arranged, as happened a few months ago with the historical novel by Shirley Seifert, Waters of the Wilderness. As for the movies, closer coöperation between movie makers and publishers is stimulating the sale of those books which are transferred to the screen. Book fairs, Book and Author luncheons and lecture tours by authors are all contributing to America's growing consciousness of the importance of books.

J. B. Lippincott company is this year celebrating 150 years of publishing, and by way of signalizing this event, we have an especially exciting list of books scheduled for publication. One is a splendid novel about an almost forgotten episode in American history, the march of a group of unregenerate Confederate soldiers into Mexico after Lee's surrender. It is called Angel with Spurs and was written by Paul Wellman. We are having 50,000 paper drinking cups manufactured with a design from the jacket printed on them. These will be distributed to all the important book stores and, we trust, will stir up at least a faint interest on the part of thirsty clerks. Two extraordinarily good first novels are also on the spring list: Victory in the Dust, by Arthur Phillips, a prize-winning novel, and The Edge of Darkness, by William Woods.

To be launched successfully, a first novel must be sent when still in galley proofs to important people to secure their favorable comments. These are then used in advance publicity, on the book jacket and in advertising. Picture postcards sent to booksellers, feature stories and other interest-builders must be used in profusion. "Razzle-dazzle" is definitely called for on these two novels.

Perhaps, when some time later in the spring you say, "I hear that The Edge of Darkness is the finest novel to come out of the war," you will be carrying on that precious word-of-mouth publicity which some little device we dreamed up started!

NOVEL WINS . . . Fellowship Contest

IN THE first Dodd, Mead Intercollegiate Literary Fellowship contest last year, Helen Virginia Botsford, Δ Z-Colorado college, won a publication contract for her novel and honorable mention on the manuscript. The novel has appeared this spring under the title Ashes of Gold.

The setting is in Old Mexico where Virginia lived for a time while her father had charge of a mining property there. They were situated in the jungle and were two days by mule-back from the nearest wagon road. Under such conditions Virginia began experimenting with her college Spanish, and after absorbing considerable Spanish dialect spoken by the Indian peons, was able to converse quite fluently with them. When she returned to college, however, and continued taking Spanish, she found the dialect much to her detriment, and it horrified her professors.

Nevertheless, Virginia found it impossible to forget the peons whose primitive living conditions and child-like simplicity had fascinated her, and she began writing about them in her themes for advanced composition. The themes grew and grew until at last she knew she had to write a novel about them.

Following her graduation from the University of Arizona in August, 1938, Virginia spent more than a year in Los Angeles, where she wrote radio script and advertising commercials. Later she joined the staff of the Chronicle-News in Trinidad, Colorado, as society editor. Last year she became a teaching fellow in English at the North Texas State Teachers college and divided her time between wearing out red pencils on freshman themes and doing graduate study in English.

Last May she received word of the success of her novel in the Dodd, Mead Intercollegiate Literary Fellowship contest and began adding the finishing touches to the manuscript.

Virginia has been writing ever since she learned enough words to tell a story. She says that pounding a typewriter is in her blood.

SPENT NIGHT IN HAITIAN CITADEL

By June Wilcoxon Brown (Mrs. Albert W.), Γ Ψ-Maryland

I WAS particularly interested in the article by Eleanor Collbran Herrick on Puerto Rico, because it conveys so well the distinctive charm of the West Indies. I do believe, however, that more people are acquainted with Puerto Rico than with the island of Haiti, which lies just to the northeast of Puerto Rico. The general lack of knowledge of the West Indies is amazing to me, and I thought perhaps an article on Haiti might both enlighten and interest Kappas.

In 1939 I made a short visit to Port-au-Prince, Haiti, on a cruise ship which definitely limited my time, but left me with a desire to return to that fascinating and uncommercialized island. In September 1941, my wish came true and I spent three and a half days visiting the northern part of the Republic of Haiti. (Although the entire island is called Haiti, two-thirds of it on the eastern side is the Republic of Santo Domingo and the other one-third on the western side is the Republic of Haiti.)

Along with my party, I visited the mighty citadel which was erected by King Christophe, the first Emperor of Haiti, as a symbol of the accomplishment of the colored race and as a stronghold against invaders. The citadel is situated about 15 miles inland from Cape Haitian atop a high mountain and overlooks many miles of coastline and surrounding country. The citadel is about a two-and-a-half-hour horse-back ride from Christophe's palace, Sans Souci, which is located at a little village called Milot. The route is steep and winding, but offers an excellent opportunity to see the inland vegetation and native life. Native huts dot the entire mountainside and banana trees grow in abundant profusion.

Once at the citadel we explored the ruins of the massive fortress from top to bottom and were completely amazed by its complicated structure. It is more amazing when it is realized that an illiterate slave who became king conceived it and supervised its building. It is surprisingly intact, and cannons and cannon balls still lay where they were left 100 years ago by Christophe's men.

Six of us spent the night at the citadel simply to get into the spirit of Haiti and explore the ruins at night. We had to secure special permission from the government of Haiti to do this, as it is usually not permitted. It was indeed an adventure, roaming around the dark, eerie passages and sitting around a big fire in the open fireplace of the room which had once been Christophe's. Late in the night we heard the faint throb of tom-tom drums and watched the fires in the valley which marked the native huts.

The next morning we watched the sunrise and shortly thereafter began our journey down the mountain. Both the trip up and down reminded me of a real African "safari," as we were preceded and followed by droves of half-clad colored boys, carrying our supplies on their heads.

We returned to Cape Haitian where we purchased sisal bags, for which Haiti is so well-known, and many attractive trays, book-ends and ash-trays hand-made out of mahogany.

From Cape Haitian we went to Le Borgne, a little village rarely visited by white people, inasmuch as it is accessible only by water. One of the officials of the boat company told my party that we were probably the first white women the populace had ever seen, and I believed him after I saw the manner in which the natives stared at us. It was difficult to tell which were more amused and curious, the natives or our party. At Le Borgne we visited the market-place, which is the gathering place for the entire population of every Haitian town. The articles for sale are most amusing, and include everything from rusty nails to chunks of meat hanging out in all the dust and dirt. In line with the other native villages, Le Borgne also boasted an attractive public park and a pretentious cathedral. The towns seem to be built around the cathedrals, and contrary to popular belief "voodooism" is not the prevailing religion. Most of the population is Catholic, and "voodooism" is only practiced in the remotest sections of the island and by a very, very small percentage.

The Haitian natives are all friendly and greet everyone with a smile and a cheery "Bon jour." A French patois is spoken among the natives in Haiti, while Spanish is spoken in Santo Domingo. This results from the French occupation of the eastern part of the island during Napoleon's time. The better class Haitians speak excellent French as well as the native patois, and many of them have gone to school in France.

The medium of monetary exchange is called a gourde (equal to about 20c in American money). This name originated during Christophe's reign when he made the fruit a medium of exchange.

The country of Haiti is beautiful and mountainous, densely covered with vegetation alive with the colors of lovely flowers, including wild orchids, poinsettia, bougainvillea and hibiscus. The native thatched-roof huts are picturesquely tucked among banana trees and palms. There are no poisonous snakes in Haiti and few insects. It is truly a tropical paradise.

After our visit to the pleasant little village of Le Borgne, we visited Port-de-Paix, an interesting and picturesque town whose main business is the exportation of bananas. There we saw the entire process of loading bananas, from the time they are brought to the dock until they are loaded aboard the ship. This process isn't as simple as it might seem and is done entirely by hand. Labor is so cheap in Haiti, it isn't worthwhile to build docks large enough to accommodate the ships and load mechanically. So the bananas are loaded from small boats to the ships by the native colored boys in the most amazing costumes I have ever seen. They are made entirely of patches and holes. How the boys ever manage to get into them is a mystery. Our only solution was that they never take them off and simply keep adding patches.

From Port-de-Paix, we drove to a little village called St. Louis de Nord. We found it interesting and typical with its main market place and cathedral. The natives there also stared more than usual, as they see few white people. I bought a sisal bag there which had been made for the natives. It has a patch-work lining which looks like an old quilt. My friends were highly amused over the effect of the bag on persons who did not know its history. I prize it, however, because one certainly could never find one like it in a tourist shop.

Our ship sailed from Port-de-Paix with Max Lescot, the son of the President of Haiti aboard. He is a refined and agreeable young man, who was returning to the States to attend school. Like his father, he has his country's interest at heart, and he is taking a course in agriculture so that he may return to Haiti and help the people with their farming problems.

We all found it difficult to leave that charming and friendly little island, so enriched with lush tropical beauty, and we spent most of our journey home planning our next visit—a much longer visit!

SECOND FIDDLE TO BANANA CARGO

By Pauline Vonnegut, Δ -Indiana

ON A HOT afternoon late in June, I leaned over the railing of a ship watching the Statue of Liberty recede in the distance. A dream of many years was coming true. I was on my way to YES, they have some bananas, too, being loaded on the Aconcagua at Guayaquil, Ecuador.

South America on board the Aconcagua of the Chilean line. After the sinking of the Robin Moor, only five of the original party of 18 thought it safe to sail on the tour around South America known as the University of Nebraska tour. We stopped at Cristobal and Colon, July 4, then went through the Panama Canal for the voyage down the west coast of South America.

The morning of July 7 we came on deck to find the ship anchored in the Guayas river in front of Guayaquil, Ecuador. Native boats loaded with big bunches of green bananas were hurrying toward us from all sides. After the loading of bananas was underway, our guide was allowed to come on board. We were taken by launch to the shore. From the harbor, the city was imposing. Glistening white buildings were spread out in an arc along the water's edge. Behind these buildings were other structures of split bamboo. Guayaquil was like a stage setting. While in the harbor we seemed to be in the audience of a large theatre looking at the scenery on the stage. Then during an intermission we were behind the scenes and could see the props. This was just the beginning of the many contrasts we were to see in South America.

Driving along some of the main streets in automobiles imported from the United States we noticed the traffic was all on one side of the street. Then we saw that cocoa beans were spread out to dry on the other half and natives were walking among them turning the beans over with their toes or sitting there sorting the beans.

Resting for awhile from sightseeing, we had hot chocolate and cake at a sidewalk cafe and watched the people passing by.

On the way to the country club we were intrigued by a sign which in translation read, "Drink Coca-Cola for the relief of winter heat." We learned that in winter time it is rainy, hot and humid. We were fortunate in being there in the summer when the weather is comparable to California weather, hot in the sun, cool in the shade.

We returned to our ship in the afternoon in time to watch the last of the banana loading. As I leaned over the rail as far as possible to watch, a young man came up saying, "From now on we will play second fiddle to the bananas." "What do you mean?" I asked. He replied, "Once I traveled on a banana boat and the captain said to me 'On this boat every banana is a guest, every passenger is a pest.'"

After the last banana was on board we weighed anchor and sailed down the river about sunset. The vegetation along the river and Ecuadorean coast was dense and grew clear to the edge of the water, which was quite a contrast to the barren coastline of Peru we were to see a few days later.

Our ship did the unusual by arriving at Callao, Peru, a day ahead of schedule, which gave us more time in Lima. During the voyage a Peruvian, whose acquaintance we had made, told us of restaurants where we could try Peruvian cooking. He even made out a menu, suggesting that each one in the party try a different dish. As soon as we were settled in our hotel room in Lima we set out to find the restaurants, although it was only 7 o'clock instead of the popular dining hour of 9.

The following day was crowded full of delightful experiences. There were three-hour sightseeing tours in the morning and afternoon. We saw the Torre Tagle palace, a fine example of colonial building, and the old cathedral where the mummy of Francisco Pizarro lies in a glass case. We drove along the Rimac river and stopped at the La Perricholi palace which, it is said, was built by the viceroy, Amat, for Micaela Villegas or La Perricholi. This brought back to me the story of The Bridge of San Luis Rey. Not far from La Perricholi palace we saw the modern government housing project where houses are being built for the laboring men. Driving through some of the fine residential sections we saw new modern houses, while in the park were gnarled, gray-green olive trees said to have been planted by Pizarro and his friends.

The two outstanding events sandwiched between the sightseeing tours were the visit to the museum of Dr. Julio Tello, Peru's internationally known archeologist, and the tea at the Presidential palace.

Dr. Tello's museum is built around an open court which is pleasingly landscaped. He took us from room to room showing the fine textiles which have been taken from the mummy bundles, life-size figures showing how the Indians wore these clothes, panoramas showing stages in the excavation of the mummy bundles, many pottery vessels and feather robes.

In the late afternoon the president's son came for us and drove us to the palace for tea. His sister was the hostess and there were a number of young people present. We were shown through the palace before tea was served. The banquet hall with magnificent glass chandeliers, and the ballroom, were like the rooms we usually see only in the motion pictures. We were delighted with the grace and charm of these people. In some of these countries, at least, no one waits for an introduction at such a function, but as each guest arrives he shakes hands and speaks to each one present, then carries on a conversation in Spanish or English.

Too soon this day in Lima passed. We were up early the next morning to go by private cars on the Pan-American highway to Arequipa. At present this road is paved only a short distance out of Lima. At first, along the way we saw fields of cotton, banana and orange trees and an occasional Indian village. Later the land was barren. The road ran close to the sea much of the way, but on the second day we left the sea for awhile and climbed upwards. At one of the highest points, the drivers stopped at a small open shrine made of gasoline tins. They removed one of the tins and inside the niche was the figure of a saint, some candles and a container for coins. Each driver left a small coin for safe travel on the road. Behind the shrine a light misty cloud floated along slowly just touching the ground in places as if it were walking on tiptoe. In front of the shrine was the road and an abrupt drop into the valley hundreds of feet below. In the distance were snowclad peaks, and a condor sailed magnificently in circles over the valley.

So we continued on this two day and part of two nights' trip to Arequipa, going along a barren country which was relieved only by green vegetation where a river came down from the mountains and it is possible to irrigate. Here too, would be an Indian village and sometimes one of the numerous police guard stations where all drivers must show their papers before the chain across the road is let down. In this way the police know where every car is at all times.

We stopped in Arequipa to become acclimated, rather than hurry from sea level to Cuzco which is more than 11,000 feet high. Arequipa itself is only about 7,600 feet high. Here we found new wide streets and old narrow ones. On the streets were automobiles from our country, donkeys being led by Indians, and llamas which had come down from the mountains with packs on their backs. In one part of the city were fine new residences and new buildings such as the hospital; then in the Indian section were houses lining the edge of the street, stone walls with cacti growing on top which inclosed tiny gardens.

Although it was mid-July, it was winter in many of these South American countries and we nearly froze during the night on the trip to Cuzco. When the train stopped at Juliaca the next morning we bought mittens, socks and scarves from the Indian women at the station.

LONG BEFORE this trip I selected Cuzco and its surroundings as the most interesting spot in South America. It came up to my expectations, even though I was not prepared to find the old structures incorporated in buildings inhabited at the present time. Lining the edges of the narrow cobblestone streets were structures which definitely showed three types of masonry. The lowest was Pre-Inca; the middle was Inca and the top was Spanish. The Pre-Inca masonry was the finest. The stones were very large, often had a number of angles, and fit so perfectly one with another that no mortar was used to hold them together. It was impossible to insert a knife or a fingernail between the stones, so perfect was the fitting. The Inca masonry was composed of smaller stones. Much of the Spanish building was of stucco.

As we passed large Inca doorways, we often saw just inside an Indian woman sitting at a Singer sewing machine, which seemed so incongruous. Here again automobiles from our country were on the streets along with llamas and donkeys. Sitting with their wares or walking along the street the Indian women twirled their spindles, slowly spinning their yarn. In order to see the famous temples of the Sun, Moon, Stars, Rainbow, Thunder and Lightning we had to go into a monastery. All of these temples, except the Temple of the Sun, opened onto a courtyard in the center of the monastery. In one of the rooms was a wall telephone, which seemed entirely out of place.

The old Spanish palaces still show evidences of their former gardens. Many of them are owned by families no longer living in Cuzco and the caretakers allow some of the poorer people to live in the rooms. Consequently chickens and turkeys run about the courtyards and the aroma of smoke and onions drifts from the rooms.

We went to see the famous ruins of Machu Picchu, and I believe that anyone who goes to Cuzco should make the overnight trip to these ruins. On this trip it is possible to see the magnificent grandeur of the Andes. The valley into which we traveled was at a lower level than Cuzco and covered with dense vegetation. As we walked along the road by the river from the station of Machu Picchu, we could see the ruins far above us. Going by horseback we were at the hotel beside the ruins in about an hour.

We think of sliding boards as very modern articles in our parks, but near Cuzco are the Inca slides. There is a huge piece of stone grooved from top to bottom and here several Indian children were sliding. We tried to slide also and found the rock so slick we had to use our feet as brakes or hit the ground with a terrible thud. These slides are near the Fortress Sacsayhuaman and the Inca baths.

We visited Pisac on a Sunday morning in order to see the market and the parade of mayors after the church service. During the service there was much blowing on conch shells. It seemed odd to find these shells so far inland.

The crossing of Lake Titicaca is now made at night. It is the highest navigable lake in the world and is about two-thirds the area of Lake Ontario. We crossed on a modern, comfortable steamer and near our boat we could see dimly the balsa boats of the natives. These boats, including the sail, are made of reeds which grow along the lake shore, tied in bundles. Some of these boats hold only one person, others hold 15 or 20 people.

We crossed the high plateau by train to La Paz. The plateau drops abruptly into a valley in which the city is located. It took one-half hour for the train to zigzag back and forth down to the station.

The city itself is guarded by the mountain peak, Illimani, on one side and the Christ of the Sacred Heart on the cliff on the other side. In some of the streets the old buildings have been torn down, the streets widened and the most modernistic structures built in their places. Perhaps the next street is narrow and still lined with the old, more picturesque buildings. There are trolley cars and automobiles on these narrow streets, as well as Indians, sometimes with their donkeys. The Indians here look cleaner and more carefully dressed than those in Cuzco. Mingling with the Indians on the street are people in modern European dress.

One day we drove toward the yungas. It was necessary to drive high above La Paz where the mountain was barren and partly covered with snow, then drop steadily into the next valley, finally descending to where there was some vegetation until we were beside the river at the bottom of the valley. Here there was dense sub-tropical vegetation. On our way we passed haciendas and groves of orange and banana trees. There was a constant stream of trucks loaded with oranges, with Indians perched on top, headed for La Paz. Our young guide delighted in pointing out places where we could not pass if it began to rain.

We returned, however, without a mishap and in plenty of time to take our train to Antofagasta, Chile. We traveled across the high plateau toward the Chilean border watching the snow-capped Illimani in the distance.

The next morning at the Peruvian-Chilean border a strong wind swept across the plateau and rocked the train at times. It was very cold. Over the line and into Chile we passed more gray and barren country with occasional dazzling white salt deposits.

Antofagasta is situated on the coast, a touch of green on an otherwise waste land. The water to irrigate the land is piped from the mountains more than 200 miles away. The golf course is unique because there is not a blade of grass on it. Beyond the golf course is La Portada.

For two and a half days we traveled by train down this long country of Chile to Valparaiso, watching the barren land give way to a landscape rich with vegetation. From Valparaiso to Santiago the country was similar to the middle European country-side. The plants were bright green as if they had just been washed, and the roads were deep with mud. In Santiago we learned that it had been raining for three weeks, the planes had not been crossing the Andes for nearly a week, and more than 100 people were waiting to make the flight.

Santiago has initiated a long-time building program. There were already a number of modernistic buildings and widened streets. We had our first opportunity here to visit some of the schools of Chile. We saw a girls' high school and the "Manuel de Salas Lyceo Experimental," which is Chile's only experimental high school. Here we learned about Chile's educational system which is making progress in aiding the poorer classes of society. At the Obligatorio Caja we were introduced to a charming woman who explained for us how Chile's social security laws are working.

We were fortunate in flying across the Andes according to schedule on a clear day so we could see Mt. Aconcagua and the Christ of the Andes. After visiting in Buenos Aires we sailed on the S.S. Argentina, making several stops along the east coast before arriving in New York. These cities along the eastern coast were beautiful and interesting with many plazas, gardens and statues. There were many new buildings under construction. These cities, however, did not offer so many contrasts as those on the west coast.

For the entire trip we had perfect weather. All five of us wished to see the same things, so there was never any disagreement about what to see. We packed many pleasant experiences into the short time we had in the different countries. All the South Americans we met were delightful and charming. They accomplish things without the rush of our North American tempo, thus finding more time to enjoy life.

ALL OF US who go to South America could do our bit toward furthering Pan-Americanism by remembering that the South Americans are Americans, too. Also that they are entitled to the same courtesy as they extend to us. Such courtesy would make for friendship and better understanding. Such consideration, unfortunately, was not always given by some of our tourists.

Now that this dream has come true, all that is necessary is to find a way to go to South America again as soon as possible and remain longer in each country.

were taken along to a luncheon an alumna was giving for the chapter. We still have the mental picture of big sunny rooms, gay girls and a gracious lady, Junoesque, as Dorris Coyne says of her, who was our hostess. That was all we knew of her then. But we were impressed when she brought in her little daughter, in a blue-and-white dress patterned with fleurs-de-lis; and when someone spoke to little Cynthia about the dress, the child said earnestly, "This is my Kappa dress."

The little girl in the "Kappa dress" is a Kappa herself, married now, with a child of her own; and many Beta Deltas, like myself, have warm memories of Cynthia's mother, who gave lovely parties and was a friendly older sister. It was years after, in fact, before it occurred to us that Mrs. Mallory really had been so awesome a person as grand president of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

BIBLE PLANTS . . . to Grow in Your Garden

AS A RESULT of wide-spread interest in an article on Bible plants which Eleanor A. King, B E-Texas, wrote for the New York Botanical Gardens, Miss King is now the author of an unusual book, recently published, Bible Plants for American Gardens.

Once signed up to do the book, the author found out that she had no idea what she was getting into, according to an interview with Cynthia S. Walsh, of The Macmillan company, which published the book. First she had to re-read the Bible, noting each reference botany of Egypt and the Arabian peninsula, as well as of Palestine.

Next she gathered a group of friends every Tuesday for tea and discussion, the conversation keeping pace with to green growing things. Then she had to read hundreds of scholarly articles by Bible students, in the attempt to resolve controversial matters. Finally, she had to study the topography and Eleanor's progress with the book's subject matter. The group talked trees when she was about to write on them, or thorns and thistles when it was time to consider this prickly topic. She says she thinks the title page should read "By Eleanor A. King and Friends."

On a recent trip along the New England coast, Eleanor stopped at every church, sought the minister and asked what place the plants of the Bible had in his services. She was amazed to find how much reference was made to them, until she realized that this was just what Jesus had done by the use of fig-

Good Friends of Kappa . . .

SENT CHILDREN'S OUTFITS TO NORA WALN

IF, THAT big little word that governs all our lives, especially in war time, conditions permit, there is a possibility that Nora Waln may come to the United States this summer in time for convention.

A letter from her to Rheva Ott Shryock (Mrs. R. H.), chairman of the KKG-Nora Waln Fund for Refugee Children, has just arrived under date of February 24, 1942, with a duplicate copy also reaching the editor.

Some of the letter's information will be saved for convention, in case Nora is unable to come. But her letter also reports some splendid gifts which suggest to us that Kappa alumnae, interested in extra sewing or knitting in addition to their Red Cross activity, might make outfits of children's clothing and send them direct to Nora.

With convention in Canada this year, we are particularly happy to acknowledge in this KEY the two gifts from Canadian friends of Kappa—not Kappas, remember—of which Nora has written, as follows:

"The British Quakers do not know where to turn for what is most wanted, whether it be a shelter or a rack to air baby's clothes on. Not all things can be got even with their help, now in the third year of war, when few things for use other than war are made. I just mention this so you will understand how grateful we should be to the 'friend of the Kappas' who has sent us 12 outfits for little girls, complete from bonnets to shoes. I am thrilled with the pretty warm coats, the woolen vests, and the rubbers on each pair of shoes. The box was a joy to unpack. It was a nice thought to have the dresses different colors and a bar of chocolate and a handkerchief edged to match the dress in each pocket.

"And the hair ribbons. Usually British children do not wear hair ribbons, but 12 young friends of 'a friend of the Kappas' do now. They like it. They do look sweet. I forgot to mention the mittens. They like them, too. There was no name on the box or in it. Just a slip of paper saying 'With greetings from a friend of the Kappas.' It came from Canada, dispatched from Quebec. The dresses are hand made and smocked.

"And another box arrived, a box of simply marvelous things; also outfits for 12 little girls—skirts, knickers, stockings, jumpers, hats and gloves in scarlet and navy blue. The parcel was addressed to me in care of Friends' House, London, and the letter said that the donor had heard of the Kappa work I was doing in England so sent these garments 'for the children under your care.' The clothes are now being worn by 12 little girls at Rams Hill, Petersfield, Hampshire, and I have had word from Violet Palmer there that the sight of 12 little girls dressed alike in scarlet and navy blue has caused a sensation in staid Petersfield. The children are thrilled with their wardrobes. The gift is giving great pleasure.

"These were little girls 'bombed out' with very scanty wardrobes left over from their experience and they are now 'the best dressed girls in Petersfield.' They are children under the care of the Friends' War Victims Relief committee and the British Quakers approve of the gaiety of the gift. I have heard several recall the recorded fact that Margaret Fox, a leading Friend of the 17th century, always wore a scarlet shoulder shawl to meeting and preached that people should be clad beautifully as God has colored the things of nature.

"These nice, warm garments came from Marion Findlay, 34 Dumegan (sic—Dunegan?) road, Toronto, Ontario. I do not know who she is. Perhaps she is a Kappa. If she isn't, wouldn't it be a good idea for Toronto Kappas to call and thank her?"

THE KEY wants to supplement the thanks of Toronto Kappas by expressing the fraternity's deep appreciation for these lovely gifts from those who are indeed friends of Kappa, who have put their friendship into deeds so beautifully and thoughtfully. This sort of friendship is doubly precious in a world at war, making us profoundly grateful that Kappa should have inspired it.

WE FEEL that we want to be a part of the work that Kappa is doing whether at home or abroad in the war, and we sincerely hope that we can contribute more in the future," wrote the girls of Γ Δ-Middlebury, sending five dollars from the chapter for the Nora Waln fund.

WHILE ON the Indiana university campus as speaker for Theta Sigma Phi's Matrix Table, Alice Duer Miller (Mrs. Henry W.), B E-Barnard, was an overnight guest of Delta chapter. Her hands busy with war-time knitting, Mrs. Miller was the center of an admiring circle of Kappas, some of whom are in the picture. From the left, Barbara Cline, Sonja Schlee, Mrs. Miller and Rosemary Hendricks. Mrs. Miller's narrative poem, The White Cliffs (published by Coward McCann), which ends with the lines "But in a world where England is finished and dead, I do not wish to live," has broken all records for poetry sales, having gone to 26 editions totaling 211,311 copies.

In Memoriam

Bertha Plimpton Richmond Chevalier (Mrs. Samuel A.), Φ-Boston

Died March 4, 1942, Ashland, Massachusetts

Grand President, 1896-1900

MRS. CHEVALIER was one of those loyal Kappas who began her service to the fraternity before her graduation in 1895 from Boston university by being appointed business manager of THE KEY in 1894. In that same year the Ithaca convention elected her grand secretary. After serving as grand president from 1896 to 1900 she had the distinction of holding active service with the fraternity for six successive years, a rare achievement in those days.

Those who attended the Swampscott, Yellowstone park and 1936 Seignior club conventions will remember Mrs. Chevalier for her quiet, friendly manner and for her helpfulness as an unofficial hostess. As her biographer states in the Kappa history, "she had the social gift, the gaiety and charm, that made her always a companion to be desired."

At the turn of the century and for many years the term career woman was unknown, but our unassuming professional librarian was also wife, mother and homemaker. After her marriage in 1902 to Samuel Arthur Chevalier, head of the catalog department of Boston library, her time was spent with her two boys and the management of town and country houses. The farm was enjoyed by many a week-end guest who helped with whatever garden or remodeling project was on hand at the time.

When the sons were grown Mrs. Chevalier returned to her profession as librarian and joined the staff of Harvard college library in the educational section. In addition to her abilities as scholar, hostess and executive, Mrs. Chevalier could "be counted on to accomplish any sort of task assigned her" and had an old New Englander's weaving skill to "read-the-rug."

The fraternity extends sincerest sympathy to the family of Kappa's seventh grand president, who will long be remembered for her gracious, kindly influence.

Historian and Ritualist

IN A BOX of keepsakes I find a letter from Bertha Richmond written in January 1900. In it she asked whether I would be willing to take a grand council office at the coming convention. No wonder that I have kept the letter all these years, for I have never had a greater compliment, a truer expression of confidence.

Bertha and I must have been about the same age, but when I met her I was a mere visitor at my first convention (1896) while she, in Oxford gown, was presiding over most of the sessions of that convention and was there elected grand president. I have never lost the feeling that she was infinitely wiser than I, a really wonderful person, a rare spirit typical of New England.

I am sure that I was too much in awe of the council to say that my friendship with Bertha Richmond dates from the Evanston convention; but when my own chapter entertained the next convention in Lincoln, Nebraska, I came to love as well as to admire her and our friendship began. For the next two years she was my chief, for I served as deputy of the grand treasurer and did the work of the office, the real officer being involved with a soldier husband in the Spanish-American War.

After two years as grand secretary and four as grand president, Bertha retired from national fraternity activity but was always a devoted member of her chapter, Phi, and of the Boston alumnae association. Marriage and family responsibilities now claimed her and 25 years passed before I saw her again. She dropped into my Bronxville home for a brief visit and we took up our common interests just where we had left them and lived over all the years since we had met, as well as the earlier ones.

It was the Swampscott convention in 1932 which brought Bertha again to convention, one of eight past grand presidents attending. Late in July two years later she was one of the five past grand presidents spending the week-end at Evelyn Wight Allan's country home in Connecticut and that autumn she shared in the ceremonies attendant upon the re-establishment of Alpha, the mother chapter, at Monmouth, Illinois. She was at the 1934, 1936 and 1938 conventions also, each time writing to me, "Are you going? If so, I'll go."

Early last August I had my last letter from her, a request for devotional material, such as I had sent her before, from which to choose should she be asked to lead a service at the Alpha province convention the following month. Bertha could not attend that convention. My material was returned by her husband with word that she was just home after many weeks in a hospital. Death came as a friend, releasing her from pain.

Bertha Richmond Chevalier was a devoted Kappa. The ideals of the fraternity were her own ideals. She was always mindful of the wishes and the welfare of others, forwarding their interests rather than her own and rejoicing in their achievements. She was absolutely loyal to her friends and they loved her not alone for her sterling worth but for her never-failing sense of humor. She was an addition to any group. A close friend, writing of the annual Christmas party of the Boston alumnae association said, "I had not the heart to go, without Bertha." A true friend has gone.

DEATH ENDS HALF-CENTURY OF FRIENDSHIP

By Ella A. Titus, Φ-Boston, Editor of THE KEY, 1891-1894

FIFTY years of unbroken friendship with Bertha Richmond Chevalier: that experience is one of the strongest of my many reasons for gratitude to Kappa Kappa Gamma.

She came to the college of liberal arts of Boston university in the fall of 1891, the beginning of my senior year, was initiated into Phi chapter, November 14, '91, and graduated with the degree of bachelor of arts in 1895. I remember her first appearance as a freshman, wearing her hair in a long, thick braid. The young freshman soon proved one of the ablest members of the chapter. Practical accomplishments and clear good sense do not always go along with a sensitive consideration for others, but the combination was found in Bertha Richmond. And to that she added the gaiety and good humor which made her the best of companions.

Her home in West Medford, from which she commuted daily through her college course, was near mine in Somerville. She became a great favorite with my family, a frequent and welcome guest. Bertha was an intrepid, non-chalant cyclist. Many were the excursions we made in the parks and forest reservations of our neighborhood, in those peaceful times before bicycles and motor cars became a mutual menace.

She began her work for the general fraternity in 1894 when she was appointed business manager of THE KEY, of which I was then editor. We went to the Ithaca convention that year, where she was elected grand secretary. The next two conventions elected her grand president. While she was a national officer the fraternity issued two publications, the catalog and the songbook. During her presidency the administration was on conservative lines, much as in the time of her immediate predecessor, Miss Sharp. These rather dry little items of long-ago history stand for six years of faithful, competent administrative work, in the course of which were made lasting ties of friendship with her colleagues. Mrs. Westermann wrote me not long ago: "I have known Bertha for 45 years. After 1901 I did not see her for more than 20 years but we took it up, our friendship, as though we had been in close touch all the time."

Meanwhile in 1895 she had taken her academic degree, and joined the staff of the Boston public library. There she worked happily until her marriage in 1902 to Mr. Samuel Arthur Chevalier, who was head of the library's catalog department. They lived first in Boston, then for 12 years on a farm in Holliston, a beautiful old town 25 miles away. Finally it became more practicable, both for the boys' education and for Mr. Chevalier's convenience at the library, to take an apartment in Boston, keeping Bald Hill farm for summers and week-ends. But Holliston was their real home, where they had congenial neighbors and practiced hospitality without limit. Their two sons grew up in Holliston, Samuel Richmond, now married and living there, with a little son to carry on the tradition of a Samuel Chevalier in each generation; and Frederick Richmond, married and living in Rockville Centre, Long Island, New York. After Mr. Chevalier retired from the Boston library, the farm became once more an all-the-year-round home, varied by winters in Florida. In the summer months Mr. and Mrs. Ware were neighbors, at their place in Warelands.

Living in or near Boston for so long Bertha was able to maintain without interruption her relations with Phi chapter and the alumnae, and I had the same good fortune. We worked together in the alumnae association, from the early days when it shared the chapter room on Ashburton place, in the building where Mr. and Mrs. Ware had an apartment. I remember feeling greatly honored when Charlotte Ware gave us tea after a meeting. Bertha saw the association grow and thrive. She impressed on younger Kappas her own belief that the fraternity is not just a pleasant part of undergraduate life, but as she said "something that you can always come back to." She gave a strong helping hand in the anxious days of 1931 and '32, when Phi went through a period of depression, and had the satisfaction of seeing the chapter return to a happy flourishing state.

A time came when home cares had lessened and Bertha felt the attraction of her old library profession. She said her mind was "getting petrified" without some occupation of that nature. To my great joy she came in 1923 to Harvard college library, where I was employed. She remained for 10 years, working in the educational section with untiring enthusiasm and loyalty, and making new friends among her fellow-workers.

The recent national conventions of the fraternity were among her great pleasures. In spite of the 50 years since her initiation, I am sure that Kappas who met Bertha at a convention could have seen only a spirit of youth, in her activities and whole-hearted enjoyment. She had never lost the sparkle, the warm glowing interest in people, which characterized her. She went as delegate from the Boston association to the convention of 1934, as visitor to those of 1936 and 1938. It was only illness that kept her from representing the Boston association at the Alpha province convention in September 1941.

The last few years brought her much sorrow, in the deaths of her two brothers and one of her sisters. Bertha was the eldest of five, an older sister in whom

THE CLOSENESS of the fraternity relation varies but it is seldom more close than between two who have served together upon a grand council. In the earlier years, when councils were smaller, the relationship within the group was particularly intimate and precious.

As I write of Elmie Warner Mallory I recall far less the fleeting hour which I spent with her in 1920, the only time that I saw her after she became my successor as grand president, than I do the days of the 1896 convention when our friendship began and the four years during which we worked together for Kappa as members of the council. I know that the promise of her early years flowered in varied abilities and wide usefulness, that the world is a better place for many because of her life and service, but I am thinking of the charm and graciousness of this tall fair girl, and of her idealism as she worked with the girls in college, of the way in which she exemplified all which Kappa stands for, making it seem so desirable that the girls followed her gladly. There are hundreds of grown-up Kappas today who recognize that Elmie Warner had a definite influence upon their lives. It is for me a great regret that the generations of convention-going Kappas since 1906 have not had the inspiration of Elmie Warner Mallory's presence and counsel at convention.

The office of grand registrar did not allow full scope for Elmie Warner's powers, but when she came to the presidency the service which she rendered was outstanding. She encouraged the slowly developing alumnae organization and saw the 26 associations increased by seven when she left the presidency and became alumnae officer, that fore-runner of a council officer in charge of alumnae work.

The Inter-Sorority conference (the present National Panhellenic Congress) had been organized in 1902, and into this new movement for the betterment of campus relationships Elmie Warner put the best of her thinking and effort.

But the thing which I wish might be associated in the mind of every Kappa with Elmie Warner is the fraternity's book of ritual, for it was the 1906 convention which authorized the collection of the rituals then in use into a book which it would be the pride of each chapter to make as beautiful as possible. It also authorized the perfecting of certain other ritualistic services, in use by one or more chapters, in order that they might eventually be included in the book of ritual. Consider the scope of these contributions of one administration to the chapters, to the alumnae, to the fraternity world.

Ten years ago Mrs. Guy M. Walker and I compiled the life story of Elmie Warner Mallory for the History of Kappa Kappa Gamma. A few weeks after her death we sat together and talked of our friend, of the richness of her life of service, of her gallantry in carrying on after her husband's death, doing alone what they had looked forward to doing together, and of the closeness of our friendship with Elmie, a friendship strong and abiding, even though contacts were so infrequent. We had not known of her illness at Christmas time, but we rejoiced that "just by stretching out the hand in written word of love . . . the waiting hand had clasped our own once more, across the silence, in the same old way."

Recalls "Her Untiring Work for Kappa"

IT IS OVER 35 years since I last saw her, but Elmie's vivid personality and charm have stayed with me, as well as the remembrance of her untiring work for Kappa.

"I know, for we worked together on the grand council from 1902 to 1906, when I succeeded Elmie as grand president and was privileged to profit by the result of her work in many lines.

As a newspaper woman she had great versatility, and much was accomplished during her administration.

"I would like to add my tribute to her memory and express my sorrow that she had gone from us."

" . . . There Was a Radiance About Her"

By Cleora Clark Wheeler, X-Minnesota, Former Grand Registrar

THERE WAS something so ethereal about Elmie Warner that it is baffling to try to describe it. She was beautiful. Taller than most women, she carried herself with grace and a certain exhilaration in being among people. She was fearless, tireless. There was an eagerness to take the next pioneering step, and a quick sense of the dramatic which would cause her to stop and exclaim over a tiny incident, and then laugh with you about it. When she entered a room, people would turn to look at her, for there was a radiance about her which was marked. A born leader, she never asked favor for herself. As she once said, "I am willing to lie down and be a stepping-stone for anyone who will promise to go on beyond me."

There are sentences of hers which come to mind repeatedly: "Doesn't a young girl in college know that her age of usefulness is just beginning and that she must not do anything that will impair that usefulness?"; "A year of selfish upbuilding is necessary that you may in the future give of your intellect and soul to others. This is what you most desire. Then the present duty is to the self that you may have some self to give."

When we met she was a grand council officer, and I was a young undergraduate delegate. Yet she made me her assistant within a few months, her deputy pro tem a little later, and there were two very happy years when we worked together closely, by correspondence and in sessions, on fraternity work.

She had confidence in others, and was able to transfer it to them in a remarkable way. Under her leadership the fraternity lived a stimulating life. She created the wish to live with one's powers at their best, to use one's mind clearly, quickly, and with the wish to give something to the world which was worth the giving and worth receiving.

Through the years, I have visited in her home many times, for a few hours or for a day or two. There has always been that fine sense of stimulation which I received as an undergraduate, together with a perfect friendship which seemed as wonderful as it was real. For all of this I am devoutly thankful.

Elmie Warner Mallory . . .

WAS "DIFFERENT AND VERY SPECIAL"

By Dorris Fish Coyne (Mrs. Leonard J.), Δ B—Duke

ELMIE WARNER MALLORY was a great distance away at the moment when I became a Kappa, but a tangible symbol of her thought was with me.

That was the month of the bank holiday. The closed banks and bouncing checks had delayed the arrival of our own keys, so we were to wear those of our pledge mothers. But when I looked down for the first proud glance at the key with which I had just been initiated, I saw the sapphire-bejeweled emblem of another generation. Swinging below it was the insignia of grand president and grand registrar, and the guard was a small Lambda. It was Elmie Mallory's key, the one presented to her by her husband when she was installed as grand president of the fraternity. She had sent it for an occasion which meant a great deal to both of us.

But this is the middle of the story. The last chapter came recently with her death. The beginning was in Ann Arbor 20 years ago, and for that reason I should like to let readers of THE KEY have a glimpse of her as I remember her from my childhood until now. Her children, Cynthia (B Δ-Michigan, now Mrs. Merrill Pearl) and Leal, were two playmates whose friendship has stood the years as did the bonds between their mother and mine.

I remember a house filled with beautiful things gathered by the family from all over the world; big trees, fields, a brook; horses, dogs, and cats; and happiness for the two children who lived there and for all the friends who came frequently.

I remember a tall, Junoesque mother who was a dynamo of energy, carefully interweaving the duties of her professional life and service to the community with the management of her home and family. And I remember the quiet, brilliant professor, her husband, who was her Rock of Gibraltar.

I remember one summer when the two of them were engaged in arduous work, he, behind the tomes of research in the study where he was writing a scholarly book, and she in the sunny dining room, writing newspaper and magazine articles. I know that the book was completed, but I have often wondered about the articles. I spent most of that summer with Cynthia and Leal, and I recall that she was constantly being interrupted by us: to pick up a white and unconscious Leal who had fallen from the willow tree-house into the brook; to bind the wounds of an almost garrotted Cynthia who had hung herself on a wire clothesline while racing Star, the Shetland pony; to summon the hay-men to rescue me from the top of the barn where I dangled from the big-tined tongs which carried the hay from the loaded wagons to the loft. Daily under her open window, she was disturbed by Leal's tirades against the two females who tried to boss him and by ours against the small boy who put angleworms in our long hair. She never did say, "Go away; I'm busy." She always laughed, a full-throated, understanding laugh.

I remember that we could bang on the piano and sing unharmoniously at any hour of the day, tear up the exportieres in the attic or borrow part of her current wardrobe to costume our endless dramas, or raid the groaning ice box and never find it lacking.

I remember one particularly efficient but sad-eyed maid in her home, a girl who had borne a child Elmie Mallory was helping her to keep by giving her work and guidance and a place for her baby. I remember that her attitude was not that of a Lady Bountiful but rather that of one who had a deeply human compassion for a tragic mistake and a desire to help alleviate the pain and make things better.

I remember when an unbelievable accident in the blizzard of a winter night took from her the strength and peace of the beloved professor's presence. In the months and years that followed, I learned how terrible is the restrained grief of the strong who must face a public as if only its worries and hurts mattered, while one's own personal feelings must be saved for the late hours of the night and the little study above the stairs.

So through the two decades in which she was my friend and later my Kappa sister, I knew her as a wife, mother, psychiatric social worker, child guidance leader, owner and director of Straybrook Country Nursery school, Detroit News columnist, teacher, lecturer, author, objective confidante of hundreds who wrote their problems to her, and personal confidante of her friends and her children's friends.

Once when I was with her we stopped in front of a red brick house on Hill street in Ann Arbor, where she had an errand. She told me that it was the Kappa house, and on our way home she tried to answer my questions and explain fraternity life in terms a nine-year-old would understand. I remember that she said, "We like to think that our girls, when they leave the Kappa house and their college days, go into the world a little different and a little special." That was Elmie Warner Mallory as I knew her: different and very special.

More Canadian Gifts to Nora Waln Fund

Thora McIlroy Mills (Mrs. Ralph), B Ψ-Toronto, Canadian chairman for the K K F-Nora Waln Fund for Refugee Children, reports two more gifts. The Beta Psi Mothers' club has given $25, and $10 has come from the girls of Δ Δ-McGill in Montreal.

Thora also reports that Agnes Neil, B Ψ, who went overseas in 1940 as matron of the 15th Canadian general hospital, has been promoted and is now at military headquarters in London.

SEND WORD . . . of Kappas in War Zones

WILL ALL KEY readers who have had personal messages from Kappas scattered around the world, particularly in the Far East battle zones, share news of them with all the rest of us?

There have been Kappas in China, Korea, the Philippines, Burma, India, at Singapore, in Australia and New Zealand, not to mention all those in the Hawaiian islands. There have been Kappas all over Europe, too, in Norway, Rumania and other countries.

What do you hear from them? Where are they now? Will you let the editor of THE KEY know about them?

In Columbus, for example, the mother of Rebecca Martin Brown (Mrs. Arthur), B N-Ohio State, had a cable from her daughter in Honolulu, followed by a letter written December 11. The letter told how the Browns, whose home is in a valley some distance from Pearl Harbor and Hickam field, at first thought the Japanese attack was the American air force going into maneuvers.

Last September Edith Reese Crabtree heard from Margaret Frame, B I-Wooster, secretary of Presbyterian missions in China, from Shanghai, where she wrote of restrictions imposed on schools in occupied China and the complications resulting from the "freezing" of currency. Of Margaret, Mrs. Crabtree says "She is all of Kappa's ideals in person." Now, of course, all Americans in occupied China must have the status of prisoners of war.

THE KEY will be conscious of censorship requirements, though it is not likely, in a quarterly publication such as this, that mere reports of where Kappas may have been recently could be in any way harmful. Rather will the realization that Kappas are in those zones of danger add to our determination to strengthen the defense effort, the victory effect, that will bring them to safety.

ures of speech like "the lilies of the field." Her book suggests churchyard gardens of Bible plants, sale of herbs from such church gardens and use of Bible plants for altar, pulpit and church supper decorations.

Since the book's publication, Eleanor has been invited to lecture before church groups on the subject of plant life mentioned in the Bible. A consistent woman, she has had a thriving "Bible garden" on the roof of her New York apartment house.

After graduation from the University of Texas, Eleanor came to New York. She has worked in an advertising agency specializing in book advertising, for a publisher and for magazines. Now a free-lance writer who has specialized in natural history, she is at work on a book about the "back to the land" movement.

FOUNDERS' MEMORIAL . . . Provides New Books

TEN HANDSOME volumes imported from Blackwell's at Oxford, England, have just been added to the Monmouth college library, as part of the annual gift of Kappa Kappa Gamma to the library," reported the Monmouth, Illinois, paper this spring.

"The 10 volumes represent four basic scholarly works which have been long needed by the English department. Eight of the volumes are from the pen of Sir Edmund K. Chambers, noted scholar and literary critic, who is especially famed for his knowledge of British drama through the time of Shakespeare. They include The Medieval Stage, two volumes; The Elizabethan Stage, four volumes; William Shakespeare, two volumes.

"The latter work skillfully compresses all the vast material of Shakespearean scholarship into one authoritative book. The two other volumes, Jacobean and Caroline Stage, are written by Gerold Eades Bentley.

"A Kappa gift of a few months ago consisted of five volumes of similar material, The History of the English Drama, by Professor Allardyce Nicholl. These books were printed at the Cambridge University Press, England.

"The present books which were mailed in six packages were started from Oxford on December 31, 1941. These books are purchased with the income from the fund put aside by Kappa Kappa Gamma and are selected by the library board under the supervision of Miss Mary McCoy, the librarian."

The fund mentioned in this newspaper report was established, as Kappas will remember, as a memorial to the founders of Kappa Kappa Gamma, a living memorial which makes a contribution to the college at which the fraternity was founded.

In the more than six months of her illness, she was required to leave the world by one of the harder roads, but she went with the devoted care of her family, and of friends in two generations who dearly loved her. Many came to say good-bye to her in the chapel at Forest Hills cemetery on the afternoon of March 6, Kappas, for the fraternity had been a chief concern from the day of her initiation, and those to whom she had come close in other relations. The clergyman read many beautiful passages of Scripture; He made no eulogy; that was as she would have desired.

When I think of her life, the words of the ancient Hebrew writer in the last chapter of Proverbs, who praises the "virtuous woman," seem the fitting tribute.

Still They Say "Thank You"

Always pleasant to receive are the letters which continue to come from "Before 1900" Kappas, to whom THE KEY has been complimentary since the 1940 convention. Typical of the letters is one from Zenna Bush Counail (Mrs. Jesse W.), 6-Missouri, of Seattle.

"You couldn't have been more gracious and sisterly," wrote Mrs. Counail, March 1, to thank the fraternity. "It (the gift of THE KEY) has revived much of my almost forgotten enthusiasm and pleasure in being a Kappa.

"The many altruistic services of the sorority are most commendable and a fulfillment of our ideals and goals as pledged in our impressive initiation. It has been a joy to recognize some of the older girls' names in the magazine and to meet new faces.

"Four of us 1897 Kappas (Theta) correspond and thereby keep in touch with others."

IN MEMORIAM . . .

MARY KATE GRAY BATCHELOR (Mrs. Thomas M.), B X-Kentucky, February 16, 1942, at Glasgow, Kentucky, following an attack of scarlet fever.

She was born in Marrowbone, Kentucky, and after her graduation from high school attended the University of Kentucky. She was a member of the Presbyterian church in Glasgow.

Surviving are her husband, a seven-year-old son, Thomas, Jr.; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Gray; two sisters and a brother.

MARGARET RUNGE ROSE (Mrs. Thomas A.), B E-Texas, February 13, 1942, at Dallas, Texas.

Margaret Runge was born June 29, 1885, in Galveston, Texas, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Runge, Texas pioneers. She was initiated into Beta Xi chapter in the fall of 1905, and was active in the chapter until her graduation. She was married in 1909 and moved to Dallas in that year.

Her three daughters are all active Kappas, all initiated by Beta Xi chapter: Dorothy Rose DeShong (Mrs. Andrew, Jr.), of Dallas; Adrian Rose McGee (Mrs. Kline), of Wichita Falls; and Margaret Rose Turnbull (Mrs. Paul), of Corpus Christi.

Many will remember Margaret Rose at the 1934 convention where she appeared with her three daughters. Dorothy was a delegate at that time.

Kappa Kappa Gamma has lost one of her most loyal and widely-loved members. As a past president of the Dallas alumnae association, she worked long and hard to further Kappa interests in Dallas. She helped Gamma Phi chapter at Southern Methodist university in Dallas to win a charter, and never a year went by that her house was not opened for Kappa Kappa Gammas to use. Her home has been the scene of many a rush party, active chapter meeting, and alumnae meeting. Never was her help asked that it was not given generously and cheerfully.

Mrs. Rose was also a worker in the Church of the Incarnation. In recognition of her tireless work for the Episcopal church, the Church of the Incarnation conducted a service in her memory, Friday, February 20, 1942.

In addition to her three daughters, she is survived by her husband, two sons, a sister and two brothers.

OLIVIA REES JACKMAN (Mrs. R. C.), Ω-Kansas, February 11, 1942, at the University of Kansas hospital in Kansas City, Kansas, following a long illness.

She had been a member of the Lawrence alumnae association since 1905. She is survived by her husband, two daughters, Katherine Jackman Smith (Mrs. Vernon H.), Ω, Omaha, Nebraska, and Mrs. William Carter, Lawrence; two sons, R. R. Jackman and F. C. Jackman, both of Lawrence.

FRANCES DE LATEUR ("Francie"), Γ M-Oregon State, February 5, 1942, following an appendectomy.

FRANCES DE LATEUR

Francie, in her short 20 years, lived every minute fully and unselfishly. Her friends will always remember her sweet smile and flawless character, for Francie lived up to every ideal she ever had.

Besides her Kappa sisters, Francie had four sisters, two brothers and her mother and father, who were the center of her attention, and many a week-end Francie traveled home to Hoquiam, Washington.

Francie's life, up to the day she died, was complete, for everything she did was done well and everything that was begun was finished. In high school her qualities of leadership, initiative and friendliness brought her a busy life. Her list of activities reached its peak her senior year when her schoolmates voted her queen of their class.

Her first year of college was spent at the Dominican college in San Raphael, California. Her sophomore year saw her back up north attending Oregon State college, as had her two older sisters and brother. Pledging Kappa, she was initiated winter term, February 15, 1941. For one short year and a half her Kappa sisters knew and loved her. They knew her as a girl with a purpose in life, for she was studying science, following in the footsteps of her doctor brother. They knew her as an honor student, for Francie received straight A's last term. They knew her too as a girl full of fun, for she had natural talent in singing, dancing and playing the piano. All of her qualities, seriousness in her religion and school, and her fun-loving nature made her a girl who could not help but win your heart.

JEAN GARDNER

BESSIE SUMNER LAWRENCE Mc-GREGOR (Mrs. George), X-Minnesota, January 18, 1942, at Minneapolis, Minnesota.

BESSIE LAWRENCE McGREGOR (Mrs. George), X, February 9, 1941, at the age of 82 years, 6 months, when she left Minneapolis, Minnesota by air for Cleveland, Ohio, to make a trip south.

The first Kappa to graduate from the University of Minnesota, and hence the first fraternity woman to receive her degree on that campus, was Bessie Sumner Lawrence. She was born in Cherryfield, Maine, July 27, 1858, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel E. Lawrence. When she was 15 she came with her parents to that portion of Minneapolis which until the previous year had been St. Anthony, a separate town on the east bank of the Mississippi where the university had been started a few years before. The next year, Bessie Lawrence entered the preparatory department of the university at the age of 16, and in 1876, centennial year, graduated from that department into the university proper. It was housed in Old Main, a stone building which stood where Alice Shevlin hall now stands.

In the spring of 1880 this tall, slender, scholarly girl was almost ready for graduation. The charter of Chi had been bestowed on the charter members, April 21, 1880. Three weeks later, May 13, 1880, Bettie Lawrence was initiated by the charter members at the home of Oliver and Charlotte Wyman, the parents of Adelaide Wyman (later Mrs. George H. Partridge), who was the first marshal of Chi. This home was on "the Island," at that time a beautiful residential center of Minneapolis, not far from the Falls of St. Anthony, reached by Father Hennepin.

Addie Tidd, the first secretary of Chi, was just one month older than Bessie Lawrence, and a close friend and neighbor. Fifty-three years after the establishment of the chapter, the badge of Addie Tidd Smith was presented to the chapter as an honor pin by this life-long friend, into whose keeping it had been placed by Mr. Gilman W. Smith after the death of his wife. The evening of that anniversary banquet in 1933, Mrs. McGregor was the guest of honor of the chapter and alumnae. The actives called for her and brought her to St. Paul with untold pride and happiness. She stood before us in a dress of royal blue velvet, which brought out the silver of her hair and the color of her eyes. With much grace and dignity she told of the early days, of the fact that the chapter initiated her "so that they might have a senior at once, as they were all underclassmen." Her sense of humor was always ready, her reserve fine.

February 14, 1889, Miss Lawrence was married to Mr. George McGregor. They were the parents of three children, a son who died in infancy, and two daughters, Catherine Gordon McGregor, M.D., who is connected with the health service at Kent State university, Ohio, and Georgie McGregor Bronson (Mrs. Charles H.), of Minneapolis, who is the mother of Janet and Sally Bronson, one a junior, the other a sophomore at the university, both members of $\Gamma \Phi B$.

February 9, 1941, at the age of 82 years, six months, Bessie Lawrence McGregor went by air from Minneapolis to Cleveland, Ohio, where she drove to Florida with her daughter. After their southern trip she returned to Minnesota by air. This picture was made when she left on her first flight. Her death was the result of a fractured hip, an accident sustained in her own home in December. The homestead has been at 3120 Portland avenue, Minneapolis, for 50 years, and is now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Bronson. Mrs. McGregor was a member of Temple Baptist church, and was a loyal member of Kappa Kappa Gamma through the years.

CLEORA WHEELER, X

NORMA TIBBETS, Ω-Kansas, December 22, 1941, as the result of an automobile accident occurring en route to Florida. Norma's mother met her death at the same time.

Norma was born August 17, 1921, in Independence, Kansas, moving with her family to Kansas City, Missouri, while she was in high school.

She was initiated into Kappa Kappa Gamma February 19, 1940. She later became a member of the junior alumnae association, taking an active part in the work.

The memory of Norma, as well as her influence, will always be a living thing to her friends. In her were found the true ideals of Kappa.

Her father and a sister, Marjorie, a newly-initiated member of Omega chapter, survive.

MARY E. METCALF

SARAH ELLERY ASTRANDER (Mrs. Fred), II-California, December 18, 1941, at Berkeley.

Daughter of Epes Ellery, a book dealer, who came to San Francisco in 1849, Mrs. Ostrander was one of the first women to attend the University of California, from which she was graduated in 1883. Her husband was the late Superior Judge Ostrander, of Merced county.

Surviving are two sons and two daughters.

ROSALIE PAINTER WOOD (Mrs. Roger M.), B I-Swarthmore, in December, 1941, at her home in Ridley Park, Pennsylvania.

GRACE MEEKER, M-Butler, October 16, 1941, at Decatur, Illinois.

Miss Meeker was a student at Butler in 1890-1892. She attended a school of art and design in New York city and was later graduated from the Art Institute of Chicago. For 10 years she was a rug designer for Marshall, Field and company in Chicago, and later had her own interior decorating shop there.

Surviving is her sister, Tace C. Meeker Stearns (Mrs. Charles B.), M, of Coral Gables, Florida.

ELIZABETH FRANCES MURPHY X-Minnesota, August 30, 1941, at Minneapolis, Minnesota.

ELIZABETH FRANCES MURPHY

Chi chapter announces with regret the death of this much-loved member. Elizabeth Murphy was born April 29, 1908, in Minneapolis, where she lived and attended school, graduating from West high school. In the fall of 1926 she entered the University of Minnesota and was initiated January 22, 1927. After completing two years at the university she entered the business world, and until her death did some interesting radio work. She was a member of St. Mark's Episcopal church. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Edward B. Murphy; two sisters, and a brother.

chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma, together with a large group of her friends, September 28, 1888. These belles of the gay '90s became loyal and active Kappas and continued as close friends. Maude was at the university two years, and became Mrs. Frank Eustis, May 24, 1892. She was a charter member of the Minnesota alumnae association, November 8, 1892, and was its vice-president from January, 1902, to January 1903.

Mr. and Mrs. Eustis were the parents of four children, two daughters and two sons. In 1902, Mr. Eustis died, and Maude bravely carried on alone. Her daughter, Marion (now Mrs. Lewis Nicolls, of Alameda, New Mexico), was initiated into Chi chapter in 1916. Mrs. Eustis continued to reside near the University of Minnesota, in the homestead where her daughter, Mrs. Clarence W. Carlson, now lives.

As a charming Kappa, and a refined wife and mother, we of the earlier days have rejoiced in the friendship of Maude Eustis and will miss her.

EFFIE AMES ROCHFORD
(Mrs. William E.), X

The sympathy of the fraternity is extended to Lydia Voris Kolbe (Mrs. Parke R.), Δ-Akron, past grand president, in the death of her husband, February 28, 1942. Dr. Kolbe was president of the Drexel Institute of Technology in Philadelphia.

SIX TIMES within the past five years May C. Whiting Westermann (Mrs. Theodore), historian and ritualist, has been called upon for the sad task of preparing memorial tributes to past grand presidents of the fraternity. In her research through files of THE KEY, Mrs. Westermann has noted that the 14th grand president, Eva Powell, II-California, was in office when the first break in the circle of presidents came with the death of Katharine L. Sharp, T-Northwestern, sixth grand president, in a motor accident, June 1, 1914. Almost 20 years passed before Alice Tillotson Barney, X-Minnesota, died in office, October 10, 1933. During less than 10 years since then, death has taken six more: Tade Hartsuff Kuhns, M-Butler, May 30, 1937; Kate Cross Shenehon, X-Minnesota, November 23, 1939; Eleanor V. V. Bennet, II-California, February 6, 1940; Emily Bright Burnham, Φ-Boston, April 2, 1940; Elmie Warner Mallory, A-Akron, January 18, 1942, and Bertha Richmond Chevalier, Φ, March 4, 1942.

Bright-looking, wot? These 23 pledges of Gamma Eta-Washington State College, all of them, made more than the grade average required for initiation, with grades ranging from 85 to 94. Because, alas (and a lass!), this is emphatically NOT the case in some other chapters, THE KEY herewith makes an exception to its rule that photographs of pledges should not be published on the ground that they have not yet earned their membership in Kappa Kappa Gamma. We think these bright girls have, for we're certain that they have the other qualifications which will make them good and worthy Kappas.

CHAPTER AND ALUMNAE NEWS

Army and Navy Association

Recruiting news, or letters from Kappa alumnae associations about those local Army and Navy committees which have been organized to aid service Kappas and their men:

Chicago-Intercollegiate—"Mrs Cook, chairman, has appointed a committee representing all of the major sections of Chicago and suburbs to reduce to a minimum and bring efficiency to a maximum. This whole idea, so far as Chicago is concerned, was Mrs. Cook's. Her son is in the service, and her husband is about to go." From the letter of Nena M. Cook, "Will you please send me 50 of the Army and Navy blanks. . . . Everyone is very much interested here because we are asked to entertain soldiers or sailors by the P.T.A., women's clubs, etc., and I for one would much rather entertain our own relatives."

Northern New Jersey—"We think it seems a fine plan."

Baltimore—"The Baltimore alumnae association is more than glad to do what it can, as it always has, to help Kappas coming into Baltimore adjust themselves to new living conditions. We shall constantly be on the alert under the present trying conditions, endeavoring to find new ways to help, and more Kappas to receive that help."

Winter Park—"Here's wishing you the best of luck in this new venture."

North Dakota—"We are not located near any Army camps but we can assist in helping Kappas and relatives of Kappas who move from here to the Army or Navy to become acquainted and adjusted. The husband of our chairman, Mrs. Richard Williams, is an Annapolis graduate, and it is thought that he is in the Philippines at present, so we are sure she will take an interest."

Fort Worth—"We think this is an idea that will be used and appreciated by Kappas all over the country, and we are glad to do our part in keeping up the morale of our sisters and the men."

St. Lawrence University, Canton, New York

The months of January and February have been busy and exciting ones for us. January 9 we had our winter formal at the girls' dormitory due to lack of room in our rented house.

The day we had all been looking forward to arrived, and we moved into our new house February 10. We arose at six o'clock and were moving by seven. Our new house and furniture is beautiful, and we are so grateful to have some room to move around in at last.

Recently the scholastic averages were announced for the fraternities, sororities and neutrals on the hill, and the Kappas had the highest average for the girls. This average was 83.6 taken from the June marks of all active members in Beta Beta.

Some of our Canton alumnae gave a rummage sale to dispose of our old furniture and other items to buy additional furniture for our new house. We are deeply grateful for all their hard work.

St. Lawrence—Established 1920

The remodeling of Kappa lodge was a prodigious undertaking for the St. Lawrence alumnae association, in which, now that it is completed, the association takes just pride and satisfaction.

It is impossible to express the association's appreciation of the faithful and loyal work of those who created this new and beautiful home for Beta Beta. Particular thanks are due the members of the board of directors and of the committees.

As a final effort to increase the decorating fund, the association had a sale of miscellaneous articles contributed by alumnae and friends. The proceeds were most gratifying.

Social affairs took our attention before semester finals with a barn dance, and an informal house dance preceded by a buffet-supper at Priscilla Carlson's.

We were honored by a visit from field secretary, Heloise Smartt. Miss Smartt made some good suggestions which the chapter is attempting to follow right now.

BARBARA MYERS

Boston—Established 1895

January 30 our association met at the College club in Boston with Beatrice Woodman, club president, as hostess. Following dinner, we were entertained with colored movies of Honolulu by Miss Helen Sherman, who spent a good deal of her time there a few years ago. It was a pleasure to welcome Mrs. Kassor, province vice-president, to this meeting as she was unable to attend our Christmas party.

With the war uppermost in the minds of everyone, we had a benefit night February 27. The proceeds were divided between two charities. Part went for the adoption of a Chinese war orphan, and the rest to the Nora Waln fund. This benefit was a lecture-recital, given by two Φ -Boston alumnae, Winifred Jackson, contralto, and Ralph Jackson, director of The Poetry Workshop. Winifred and Ralph gave their services and we are all grateful to them.

The alumnae board turned itself into cooks and waitresses to prepare and serve the banquet following the active chapter's initiation February 21. We were glad of this opportunity to work with our active chapter and thus become acquainted with our new members as soon as possible.

Personals

Elvira Foti has been appointed supervisor of music in Northboro, Southboro and Berlin, Massachusetts.

Mildred Peterson writes from Havana, Cuba. We miss her in Boston, but wish her the best of luck and happiness.

Boston Intercollegiate—Chartered 1924

The Boston Intercollegiate association had its January meeting at the home of Elsie Crocker (Mrs. Percy), X-Minnesota, in Cambridge. That was our meeting on fraternity affairs. We were happy to hear from Edith Reese Crabtree, BT -Wooster, of the NPC-NIC meeting last November in New York city. Irene Neal Railsback, Δ -Indiana, told us of the Hearthstone development.

We were fortunate to have as a special guest Alpha's new province president, Karen Johnson Yarwood (Mrs. John), B T -Syracuse, of Syracuse, New York. She brought us up-to-date on news of this province.

The February meeting was at the home of Mrs. Railsback in Newtonville. Hortense Creede Railsback (Irene's sister-in-law) read G. B. Shaw's one-act play, "The Twelve Pound Look." Mrs. Railsback is a popular professional reader around Boston.

At this meeting Minnie Coffin Wallingford, Δ , invited our group to help her celebrate her 85th birthday anniversary March 20 at a luncheon at the College club in Boston. We accepted readily and extended our congratulations to her youth on that day.

Each year the members of the executive board entertain new and prospective members at a tea at the home of Mrs. Crabtree. Some of the guests not previously mentioned were Zora Schaupp Lasch (Mrs. Robert), Σ-Nebraska, who is here for the current year, while her husband is a Nieman fellow at Harvard. Patricia Donovan Cunningham (Mrs. Joseph O.), Β Π-Washington, is another whose husband is at Harvard, in the business school. Barbara Martin, M-Butler, is in Wheelock college. Mrs. Mary Welling Tappe, Β Ν-Ohio State, and Flora Day Towns Hartman (Mrs. Albert, Jr.), Β Ξ-Texas, were two other guests. Mrs. Hartman's husband is a surgical fellow at Lahey clinic.

Barbara Naylor Gooding, Δ Η-Utah, is living in Brookline.

The east coast as well as the Pacific coast is conscious of its vulnerability to air raids. All of our members are working in their respective communities on defense. Many of us are attending air raid warden schools, first aid classes, and canteen, in addition to doing Red Cross work. We feel the monthly meetings of the association help to boost our morale and cheer us on to greater efforts and endeavor.

NEVA W. DUDDY

When Barbara Greeley entertained us in January at our annual white elephant sale we came laden with articles varying from atomizers and crockery to potato ricers and dog food. These things were ably auctioned off by Frances Christy Wentzell (Mrs. George), with Carolyn Taylor Bogardus (Mrs. Eugene) as assistant. Their clever costumes added much to the evening's fun. When the sale finally ended, $10 had been added to the treasury.

Along with folding bandages, knitting and working on other defense projects, we have plans for a sale of tickets, the grand prize being a defense bond. We hope to clear enough to give a substantial amount to the Red Cross.

Valentine's day we had a luncheon meeting at Drumlins Golf and Country club.

Our alumnae gave a tea for the girls in the chapter at the home of Sarah Blanding in January.

The Kappa Christmas party was a great success this year. The high spot of the evening was a clever play put on by the pledges, about life in the Kappa house.

February 21 we entertained our province president, Mrs. John Yarwood, at a luncheon at the Town club. She spoke on Kappa's place in defense. She also answered questions concerning convention, active chapters, and various fraternity matters. Many newcomers were present at this meeting, which is always a welcome sight to us all. We missed two of our most active members who have moved away. At our March meeting we listened to style tips from a style coördinator of one of our local stores.

BARBARA B. AMES

Toronto—Chartered 1926

Now that the rushing for the active chapter is over—and they did very well, by the way—we are back at our usual monthly meetings. The last one was at the chapter house, and Joan Bennett, from Winnipeg, who is now with the Women's Airforce Auxiliary here in Toronto, gave us a most illuminating inside view of a day in an Airforce woman's life, starting at 6:00 in the morning and lasting until 6:00 at night. After they have graduated, these girls are sent all over Canada to take their place wherever most needed, and though it proves to be a most strenuous life, it also is a most interesting one. Phyllis McSweeney, now awaiting orders from an overseas unit, was also there to tell us of her work at Red Cross headquarters and about the Red Cross transport work.

Our next meeting will be for the pledges.

Usually we have a Sunday afternoon tea, so that the alumnae can meet these prospective members. But this year so many other events have crowded in that we decided to invite the pledges to one of our meetings and entertain them there. The Fraternity formal, at the Toronto Hunt club March 7, was a supper dance instead of just an evening party.

Personals

Ruth Brunke McGill (Mrs. William) is back home working at the Manufacturer's Life Insurance company.

Dorothy Beauchamp Dobson (Mrs. Donald) and Leslie Brennan Shaw (Mrs. N. H.) are living in Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Margaret Pirie Funston (Mrs. Roy) is back in town, having just returned from Brockville, Ontario.

Mary Northway has been promoted from instructor in psychology at the University of Toronto to lecturer. This is an especial honor, since only three other women have been promoted to this position by the university.

MADGE SHAW HERMANT

Gamma Lambda—Chartered 1923

Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vermont

As a war-time measure, Middlebury has shortened its school year. Graduation will be May 25. Vacations and social events have been curtailed to a large extent for the second semester.

Personals

Participating in the chorus for the carnival play, "Calling All Queens," are Denise Aubuchon, Jean Dunn, Ann Robinson, Barbara Drury (pledge), Betty Casey and Ruth Wheaton.

Barbara Platou made freshman dean's list.

Doris Orth (pledge) is secretary of the Women's Athletic association and sophomore representative to the judicial council.

Ruth Wheaton is an assistant editor of the Middlebury Campus, while Barbara Blair, Betty Casey and Bettina Stringer are members of the news staff.

Margaret Buscher is a candidate for carnival queen.

Connecticut—Chartered 1934

The Connecticut alumnae association met, unexpectedly, at the home of Kathryn Bourne Pearse (Mrs. George), $\Gamma \Delta$ -Purdue, when mumps appeared at the home of the scheduled hostess, Elizabeth Ruby Taylor (Mrs. L. Henry), $\Gamma \Gamma$ -Whitman. The committee decided on a war-time economy supper and turned over \$1.65 to the treasurer, even after we voted to cut the dinner cost from 75 cents to 50 cents.

Our association is interested in a local at Connecticut university. The university has grown rapidly in equipment and enrollment, has a good national standing, and we hope Kappa will grant $\Delta X \Omega$ a charter. Mrs. E. Granville Crabtree, Mrs. John Yarwood, Alpha province president, Mrs. Otto Kassor, province vice-president, and our association were entertained by the local at a tea January 10. Since Connecticut has no Kappa chapter at all, we think it a good place for expansion. $K \Lambda \Theta$ has just taken a local at the university.

Montreal—Chartered 1936

The active chapter is planning a panel discussion on rushing which will be attended by four or five alumnae representatives. Alumnae interest in the actives this year has been keen, and we hope at our next association meeting to arouse still more enthusiasm. This meeting will be addressed by Gwen Russel, one of our own members. Her subject will be "Educational Reconstruction." Gwen is well qualified to speak on educational matters, as she has studied progressive education in England and on this continent and is now teaching in one of our most modern schools. Officers will also be elected at the meeting.

The association is sending a representative to the forthcoming Panhellenic tea for the Panhellenic delegate.

Personals

Fran McLeod was a member of the winning team in the eastern Canadian women's ski championships this month.

Mrs. Palmer Howard is on the executive committee of the Red Cross blood bank, Montreal division, and many Kappas are working with her.

Allegheny College, Meadville, Pennsylvania

Gamma Rho began a new semester's work with renewed zeal, despite a curtailed semester vacation and promise of a shortened Easter vacation, indicated in Allegheny's new plan.

Another wearer of the golden key was added to the ranks of Gamma Rho with the initiation of Ruth Gilmore, February 16. A party for the new initiate followed.

Personal

Two more members of Gamma Rho were chosen for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. They are Wilmah Beck and Ruth Gelbach.

BARBARA HUNT

Beta Iota—Established 1898

The Swarthmore alumnae association started the new year with an enthusiastic luncheon meeting at the home of Elisabeth Pratt DeGrott (Mrs. John K.) in Media. To add to our pleasure Mrs. Seil, province vice-president, was present and gave us an inspiring and informative talk.

A combined luncheon and sewing meeting in February found us still up to our knees in soap cans and up to our necks in flannelette. We sew regularly twice a month for the American Friends' Service and are busy selling sponge soap for our Kappa charities. A soap can has become as necessary on the arm of a Swarthmore Kappa as the hand bag, to give that well-balanced look to milady's attire.

We're looking forward to more interesting meetings this spring. We had a luncheon and business meeting at the home of Hallie Hulbart Douglas (Mrs. James B.) March 15, and a dessert bridge with Marjorie Kistler Larkins (Mrs. Charles P.) in April. Our annual spring luncheon that brings Beta Iotas from far and near was to have been a gay occasion at Port Washington, New York, at the home of Eliza K. Willets, one of our charter members; but in the interest of national defense, we are keeping transportation at a minimum by having the luncheon in Swarthmore. We expect to close our activities for the season with a supper picnic in June at the home of Eliza McFarland Anderson (Mrs. J. Aubrey), for Kappas with their families in tow.

CATHARINE EGGLESTON NEWMAN

Philadelphia—Established 1900

Practically everyone in the organization has every spare minute filled with Red Cross work and home defense courses. You'll find us in lonely observation posts, spotting planes in the dead of night, learning what makes an automobile tick, rolling bandages, knitting socks, wrapping bundles, saving stamps and working in the emergency aid and army information centers.

January 24, however, we entertained the newly-organized Kappa Mothers' club at a tea and card party at the Kappa house. Eleanor Steele Faris was chairman. February 14 we invited our Valentines to a tea dance at the Kappa house. Corraling Kappa husbands and "best beaux," or just dropping in toute seule and wishing the Army weren't so far away, we had ourselves as gay a time as any in our undergraduate days. Charmion Coulter Getter was responsible for the fun.

As a group, we are doing no specific war work yet, other than the collection of canceled stamps to ship to England. The government extracts the dye and uses the proceeds for hospital equipment, so get in touch with your British War Relief society and start saving, too.

JANE S. BENNETT

Beta Sigma—Chartered 1905

Adelphi College, Garden City, New York

These past two months since Pearl Harbor, actives and pledges alike of Beta Sigma have been working with local and college defense organizations as well as keeping up with routine college affairs.

The college defense organization, headed by the president, has appointed Elsie O'Reilly as chairman on information and Mary Dargan (president of Lantern) chairman of the emergency lighting system. Knitting needles and wool have become as much standard equipment as a pen and notebook for a day at school. Pledges obligingly act as "victims" for the actives who are in the throes of the first aid course.

No sooner is one prom over than another is begun. Barrie Wildner was chairman of the favors committee for the sophomore prom at the Pierre in New York city, February 6, and Elsie O'Reilly will head the preparations for the junior prom, April 11.

The annual scholarship banquet was given January 6 at the college. Among the alumnæ attending were Beatrice Thien, Virginia Wood, Shirley Mills and Lee Roeder. Dr. Margaret Cole Sand presented the Wagner cup to Jean Braun, who will keep it for the next year.

We were all proud of Beta Sigma's first basketball team. Audrey Fenton (pledge), Joan Wigton (pledge), Norma Torrents (pledge), Barbara Cisin (pledge), Evelyn Waldo, Jean Braun and Gloria Duryea (pledge) guided the team to the semi-finals of the interfraternity contest.

The Career clinic speaker, February 12, was Mrs. Walter Kidde, Jr., B Σ, whose subject was "Marriage as a Career."

PATRICIA KEOGH

Westchester—Chartered 1934

About 40 members of the Westchester alumnae association met for luncheon at the Bonnie Briar Country club, Larchmont, New York, January 16. Our province vice-president, Frances Merritt Seil (Mrs. Gilbert), was a guest; and after lunch, Miguel Munoz, husband of Virginia Baker Munoz, and basso of the New Opera company, sang for us.

An auction of trinkets and costume jewelry added $50 to our philanthropy fund. Carroll Dyrenforth Lowitz (Mrs. J. J.) substituted for Minnie Royse Walker (Mrs. Guy), who is confined to the White Plains, New York, hospital as the result of a fall.

Our next project is an "Imaginary Bridge" for which we will sell "imaginary" tickets to benefit our very real philanthropies.

Two more meetings are scheduled this year: a dessert meeting April 24, at the home of Beulah Smith Robinson (Mrs. Max), 24 Crane road, Scarsdale, New York, and a tea at the home of Jessie Eaton Putnam (Mrs. W. R.), 2 Hampshire road, Bronxville, New York. The Westchester active members will be our guests at the latter meeting. All Kappas in the vicinity are cordially invited to both meetings.

ETHEL EBKE MCKINLESS

Essex—Chartered 1929

We on the eastern seaboard are considering air raids as a probability and almost every family has members enrolled in first aid courses or acting as air raid wardens. At our January meeting in the home of Bernice Wright Alden (Mrs. John), B Δ-Illinois, in Maplewood, we decided to knit for the Red Cross at our meetings. We also listened to (and shared in) a helpful talk on "Dietary Deficiencies" by Dr. Margaret Wurts, Φ-Boston, who is college physician and instructor in health at the Montclair State Teachers College of New Jersey. We learned a lot about minerals and vitamins.

Our hostess for the February meeting was Elizabeth Main Speers (Mrs. James), AΔ-Monmouth, of Bloomfield. Marcia Ruddick, our president, brought Red Cross garments to be hand-finished, and with our own scraps of wool we knitted squares for shelter robes. We stopped, however, to listen to our fascinating speaker, Ruth Sarr Rose, nationally known as a lithographer. She brought her materials, including a 60-pound stone, and showed us the process and many of her beautiful prints, in expounding her subject, "Art as a Hobby."

Another welcome guest was Virginia J. Fortiner, of Maplewood, who was the art editor of the Newark Evening News, and is now the editor of its women's page.

Toward the end of April we are giving a money-raising bridge party at the home of Dee Shuman Wickendon (Mrs. Thomas), Γ Ω-Denison, in Short Hills.

Personals

A guest at the February meeting was a former member, Gertrude Pollock Jenkyns (Mrs. Roy N.), B T-West Virginia, who offered her home for meetings.

Marjorie Lovet Duff (Mrs. Chester L.), B T-Syracuse, who is a member of our evening group, is moving to Akron, Ohio.

ELSIE KRAEMER HOLMES

Northern New Jersey—Chartered 1935

Our first luncheon meeting of the new year was at the home of Jessica Morgan in Ridgewood. Alice Walker served as co-hostess.

We were glad to have sold 36 five-pound containers of sponge soap, the profits of which will go to the Hearthstone fund.

Conducting an interesting Kappa quiz program, our president, Mary Corey, refreshed our minds on many points.

February 13 Frances Galliher of Ridgewood entertained 13 of us at a valentine supper.

Our association raised more than $13 for the Army and Navy knitting unit sponsored by Ridgewood, $9.25 of it contributed by Mary Corey, who gave a benefit luncheon.

MERRIE BOOTH DAVIS

Gamma Epsilon—Chartered 1919

University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania

After the Christmas holidays, our university announced that the school schedule had been entirely revised because we were now a country at war. Our semester was shortened by three weeks, and our seniors are to graduate six weeks ahead of schedule. All holidays are shortened, many social activities are canceled and several schools have been put on a trimester basis, including the college. Several members of our chapter are knitting for the Red Cross, taking first aid courses offered by the university and participating in other ways in our national defense program.

Aside from all this additional work, we still found time to take part in the annual contest offered by the Phillip Morris company and won the combination radio-victrola offered as a prize.

We attended a luncheon given for us by members of the local chapter of K A Θ and a tea dance and supper for our chapter given by the members of Φ Γ Δ.

Four years ago we initiated the practice of having all the members of our chapter dress alike during the week preceding rushing. Other women's fraternities adopted this practice in the succeeding years. This year we have abandoned this policy in favor of an eight-page booklet, containing the pictures of each girl in Gamma Epsilon chapter along with individual write-ups about our activities. We presented them, in place of the usual favors, at our rushing parties in February. During rush week we wore light blue ribbons bearing the letters K K Γ, in dark blue. This is the first time either of these things has been done by a woman's fraternity on our campus.

ANNE DELP

Pittsburgh—Established 1919

Pittsburgh Kappas since last heard from have not been inactive. Despite the war emergency, we had quite a large gathering at both our January and February meetings. January 17 co-hostesses Elinor Kistler, Γ P-Allegheny, and Cora Kraus, Γ P, provided us with luncheon, served at the chapter house. At this meeting we played bridge and renewed old acquaintances.

February 11, after a chow mein dinner served by hostess Janet Flinn (Mrs. S. D), Γ E-Pittsburgh, and her committee, we had the delightful experience of hearing a talk on Labrador by Margaret Thompson Doult (Mrs. Kenneth), Γ E. Mrs. Doult told us of interesting experiences while on a botanical collecting trip with her husband in this northern country. Her talk was illustrated by slides showing some of the Indians and Eskimos, specimens collected and the picturesque landscape found in Labrador during the short summer season. Mrs. Doult is now on the faculty of Pennsylvania College for Women, and we were more than pleased to have her with us.

BEATRICE BROOMALL

Harrisburg—Chartered 1940

Despite a reduction in the membership of our Harrisburg alumnae club, which has dwindled to about nine, the enthusiasm of the remaining members has resulted in a particularly enjoyable season.

In celebration of Founders' day, our president, Geraldine Moore Reitzel (Mrs. Ralph) entertained the group with bridge and luncheon at her home.

Hostess to the club at a Hallowe'en party was Sally Crowell; and Will-Adele farm, home of Adeline Anderson (Mrs. William), was the scene of our Christmas party.

At our January meeting at the home of Betty Vincent Schaffner (Mrs. William), our guest speaker was Dr. Elizabeth Hartman. Dr. Hartman, formerly an instructor in the Women's Christian college, Madras City, South India, fascinated the members with her discussion of the many strange customs in women's colleges in that distant land. Her talk was supplemented by moving picture scenes.

We have been successful in the sale of playing cards, soap, greeting cards and Christmas wrappings, and the proceeds have increased our treasury balance appreciably.

ANNE PLUMB McSTAY

Delta Alpha—Chartered 1930

Pennsylvania State College, State College,
Pennsylvania

Because of the new third semester plan adopted by the college, and the early registration, we are even more busy than usual.

The Kappas have had three successful parties: a Kappa fair, a cabaret party and a Chinese dinner.

The members of Δ X fraternity were our guests of honor at a theater party in January.

With everyone doing her bit for defense, we Kappas have knitted several sweaters, scarfs, socks and afghans for the Red Cross, and also every Kappa is encouraged to take advantage of at least one or two of the defense courses which the college is now offering.

We have had a series of lectures at the Kappa house. The speakers have been Miss Harriet Allen, our chaperon; Dr. Anna Stephens, college physician; Dr. Robert Bernreuter, professor of psychology, and Miss Charlotte Ray, dean of women. Each lecture has been most interesting and has given us a better understanding of the different departments in our college.

MARGARET CAMPSEY

State College (Pa.)—Chartered 1933

A popular innovation on our calendar this year was the Sunday night buffet supper for active chapter officers of Delta Alpha in conjunction with our November meeting, at the home of Helen Payne Seashore (Mrs. Carl G., Jr.). The program, which followed the alumnae ritual at the opening of the meeting, was devoted to a short talk on Kappa's philanthropies, given by Beatrice McKechnie White (Mrs. L. Craig), and to brief explanations by the active chapter officers of their special duties. The thorough organization of our active chapters these days proved a bit of a revelation to many of us.

Nine alumnae were happy to meet our new field secretaries, Heloise Smartt and Catherine Cudlip, and entertain them at dinner during their visit to Delta Alpha later in November.

The chapter entertained us at the annual Christmas party in December, and in January our guest speaker was Delta Alpha's membership chairman, Lila Whoolery, who explained the current rush program. We hemmed the blue handkerchiefs given as favors to rushees.

Since our treasury has been increased through soap and magazine subscription sales, we felt solvent enough to send checks to the Nora Waln fund and the local Red Cross at Christmas.

We plan to entertain the chapter's pledges in March and the seniors in April. Since Penn State goes on a three-semester basis as a war measure, with the third semester beginning in June, we expect to continue our meetings during the summer months.

Lambda—Chartered 1877

University of Akron, Akron, Ohio

The lack of a long news letter cannot be ascribed to a state of complete somnolence on the part of the Lambda Kappas, for a week of exams and vacations at Christmas and mid-semester have respectively chilled and thrilled us since the last epistle.

We do, however, have one notable triumph which must be recorded. Paradoxically enough, it happened Friday, the 13th of February. Dr. Hayes, head of the psychology department at the university, selected one fraternity (the Lone Star) and one sorority (Kappa) to compete in a radio contest of applied psychology. Our representatives were Juanita Gamble, Mary Louise Ahern and Doris Mikolashek. Short skits concerning everyday problems were presented. The winning side was the one which made the most scintillating decisions regarding the solution of these problems. The Kappas emerged victorious, and not only settled an age-old feud (strictly friendly, we add) with the Lone Stars on the subject of comparative brain-power, but were $20 richer.

Our alumnae gave a covered-dish dinner in honor of our new pledges, February 4.

Personals

The Kappas won the intramural volleyball trophy. Team members were Marjorie Billow, Julianne Mayfield, Kathryn Jobe, Betty Cooper, Ann Tschantz and Jane De Cora.

We also won the badminton trophy. Players were Ann Tschantz and Jane De Cora.

Mary Rowe (junior) has won the Pixley scholarship for English majors for the second consecutive semester.

Esther Schultz (pledge), Betty Murphy (pledge) and Marian Barnes (pledge) have been pledged to $\Delta \Delta \Delta$, national women's scholastic honorary, for which an average of 3.5 or over is required. The rating here is four point, A.

Juanita Gamble (junior) was pledged to $K \Delta \Pi$, national education honorary.

Virginia Hale (pledge) was elected honorary captain by Pershing Rifles, national military honorary.

PATRICIA MCGOVERN

Rho Deuteron—Chartered 1880, R. 1925

Ohio Wesleyan University, Deleware, Ohio

Preparing for the election of officers and initiation, we have been busy with meetings, teas and pledge shows.

Personals

According to the students' choice we have five Kappas nominated for beauty queens: Marion Davis, Kay Enger, Doris Joseph, JoAnn Smith and Olive Simmons (pledge).

Betty Jean Shafer was selected as a representative senior woman; Martha Conger and Alice Henricks were selected as representative junior women; and Gretchen Brander and Betty Fearheily represent the sophomore class.

Marjorie Kerr was chairman of the valentine tea dance given by Panhellenic.

Jean Dornbier is chairman of the banquet committee for Monnett day.

Ruth Leonard went to an Episcopalian convention as a delegate from Ohio Wesleyan.

BETTE MADISON

Columbus—Established 1901

Our January meeting was all that we had hoped it would be. The program consisted of a book review given by Mrs. Depew Head, who reviewed Windswept in such an interesting manner that everyone has clamored to read it.

In January we awarded to our members at their business meeting a pair of silk hose and everyone took a chance. In February the award was defense stamps and our material realization has been sufficient to make it possible for us to give $25 to the Red Cross. In March we planned a Bingo party after our business meeting. We sold the cards, gave cash awards, and incidentally made a little money for the treasury.

HELEN H. FRANKENBERG

Beta Rho Deuteron—Chartered 1885, R. 1914

University of Cincinnati, Cincinnati, Ohio

Beta Rho celebrated its winning of the radio-victrola combination in a recent contest on campus by having a "Vic Dance." Rugs were rolled up to give way to jiving feet, "cokes" and cookies satisfied the hunger and thirst. Each couple was permitted to enter only by presenting a new record.

Exchange supper meetings with fraternities were given in January.

The officers chosen for the following year are Patricia Montgomery, president; Martha Hetterick, pledge mistress; Virginia Downey, treasurer; Marilyn Troeger, recording secretary, and Alice Hundley, corresponding secretary.

Personals

Norma Dustin came through for Beta Rho by being crowned queen of the Engineers' ball, January 17.

Mariet Gregory was elected president of YWCA.

Junior advisors for 1942 and 1943 are Virginia Erhardt, Elizabeth Jenike, Alice Hundley, Emily Garlish, Marian Ahlering, Muriel Schmick, Joan Grove and Doris Burmeister (pledge).

The February meeting of the Newark-Granville alumnae association was in the home of Mrs. Clarence Eddy in Granville. Many of this group are taking an active part in defense and Red Cross work. It was voted to give $12 to the Red Cross.

LOUISE F. LAMSON

Delta Lambda—Chartered 1940

Miami University, Oxford, Ohio

Delta Lambdas have invited faculty members to give talks on our place in the world of today and tomorrow.

Dr. Smith, head of the history department, spoke to us January 14 on "Passing Events of 1941." A week later, Dr. Lohman, of the economics department, led an informal discussion concerning the relation of scholarship in college work to defense.

January 26 Mr. Foster, a professor in the department of music, played various movements and explained their relation to the symphonies which were played by the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra for the university, February 4.

We Kappas of Miami are coöperating in every way with the university administration to conserve for defense. Tin foil, paper, string, rubber bands, toothpaste and paint tubes, and numerous other articles are being stowed away for Uncle Sam.

The actives were entertained by the pledges, February 6, with an informal afternoon party. The hostesses wore blue skirts and white blouses with petite blue and white crepe paper aprons.

A rush party was given in South hall recreation room, February 11.

Personals

Marjorie Jacoby was one of 20 students selected from Miami university for Who's Who

Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. Marjorie was elected to membership in $\Phi B K$ in her junior year; she is a member of $K \Delta \Pi$, $\Phi \Sigma$, the YWCA cabinet; president of the Westminster student fellowship, house chairman of a residence hall, a member of Mortar Board, and the recipient of an undergraduate scholarship for 1941-42.

Dellarose Brooks will be initiated into $K \Delta \Pi$, national professional education honorary.

Louise Bath and Helen Smyers were initiated into Liberal Arts—Alethenai, campus literary honorary.

Anne Lewis (pledge) has become a member of Minnesingers, the university's mixed chorus.

The chapter was indeed sorry to lose Janet Glover and Alice Mather, who did not return second semester.

HELEN SMYERS

Canton—Chartered 1934

The Canton Kappas turned out almost 100 per cent for our holiday luncheon, and this year we were particularly happy to have five pledges as guests of honor.

January found us all bidding at the white elephant sale, our money-raising scheme for the year. As relaxation from these busy war days, for our February meeting we indulged in a valentine bridge party following the regular business meeting.

After election of officers in March, we all went back to paper doll days, cutting and making picture scrap books for the Children's home, an annual project for Canton Kappas.

The April meeting will find us becoming book-conscious when we carry out the plan, "Let's Talk About Books." Even though we have all been busy doing volunteer work, we do not know what the demands may be on our time by May, so we have scheduled that meeting for continued Red Cross work and a discussion of our activities in the home defense program.

Personal

We are happy to welcome Mrs. Richard Chesrown, ΓK -William and Mary, to our group.

KAY KISER MOORE

Cleveland—Established 1901

The year 1941 ended with a Christmas party in the evening at the College club. Beth Holler (Mrs. L. S.) was chairman. Gertrude Bell (Mrs. C. M.) was in charge of the music. Under her able direction, a chorus of Kappas from the younger group sang carols. Elizabeth Lowry (Mrs. Roswell) gave two Christmas readings. Ten-cent toys were humorously dispensed by Edith Smith (Mrs. J. W.), dressed as Santa Claus. These toys were afterwards rewrapped and taken to the Rainbow Hospital for Crippled Children. Bess Kinzel (Mrs. E. E.) disposed of several cases of peanut brittle in tins, which is money in our till. The meeting ended with dessert and coffee.

The new year began with a well-attended supper in charge of Mrs. D. C. Green. Dorothy Wigglesworth (Mrs. Tom) loaned her home for the occasion. Margaret Rowland (Mrs. Guy A.), who is in constant demand in these parts for her book reviews, gave us a fascinating picture of Rebecca West's timely book, Black Lamb and Gray Falcon. A thrilling impromptu conclusion came when Mrs. Prawn, who had just returned by clipper from Hawaii, gave us an eyewitness description of December 7 at Pearl Harbor. Her husband remains on the island with the Air Force.

Dispensing with our usual rummage sales to raise money for the treasury, we are holding a drawing for a defense bond. Red Cross, first aid and the Sunbeam Shop continue to fill our days.

FRANCES SWARTZEL MONNETT

Toledo—Established 1920

During the Christmas holidays we had luncheon at the Women's club with our pledges and actives who were home for the vacation. News has just been received here of the recent pledging of Peggy Bacon, Sandusky, Ohio, by Delta Beta, Duke university.

A smorgasbord was served by Irene Fletcher Stine (Mrs. Sidney), $B N$ -Ohio State, before our January meeting in her home. She was assisted by Mary Buck, $B \Delta$ -Illinois; Margaret Bassett Erausquin (Mrs. German), $B \Delta$ -Michigan, and Margaret Easton Seney (Mrs. George E., III), $P \Delta$ -Ohio Wesleyan. Polly Eiler Krueger (Mrs. H. F.), ΓP -Allegheny, was a welcome visitor from her home in Cleveland, Ohio. A letter was read from Virginia Neville Robertson (Mrs. Donald F.), Σ -Nebraska, now living in St. Petersburg, Florida. Movies taken at our Christmas meeting were shown by Marcella Rardin Mewborn (Mrs. William), $P \Delta$, and films were also shown by Polly Krueger and Jane Helmel Cole (Mrs. Richard), $B \Delta$. These contained some "footage" devoted to those who attend the Tuesday bridge meetings and delighted us with activities of young Kappa sons and daughters. Red Cross and Rose McGill funds were voted at this meeting. War work was discussed, but since almost everyone was knitting as we talked and since it was disclosed in the discussion that much individual war effort had already been started, nothing was decided as a group.

Our bi-weekly afternoon bridge meetings, however, have been put on a war-time basis. Instead of a country club or tea room luncheon, the members bring their own sandwiches to one Kappa's home and she, as hostess, serves coffee and dessert or salad. Red Cross knitting or sewing takes the place of bridge, and these meetings are always open to all Kappas and their guests.

Ebon C., Jr.), B A, and Marcella Mewborn worked out the details of valentine box, games, etc.

Personals

Vera Swift Pamment (Mrs. Harry), Ξ-Adrian, is at home recovering from a recent operation.

Marguerite Griffith, Δ, is dean of girls at Waite high school. Last spring the school annual was dedicated to her.

Elizabeth Griffith Chapman (Mrs. Paul), Δ, is chairman of the lecture committee of the planning council set up in Toledo, as a demonstration city, to launch a movement to acquaint us with the problems and history of people living in Latin American countries.

Pledges and actives were guests of the local alumnæ group at a valentine tea at the chapter house.

A reception honoring Mildred Dilling, world famous harpist, was given at the chapter house by Ψ I Ξ, service sorority, following Miss Dilling's appearance with the Indianapolis Symphony orchestra, February 16.

Joan Read Darby (Mrs. Richard) was given a miscellaneous shower by members of the chapter.

Margaret Hillis has been appointed by Herman B. Wells, university president, to serve as a member of the campus war council. The council is in charge of the university's war program.

Included in the cast of "The Women," produced recently by the University theater, were Patty Lou Wingert, Marilyn Seward, Jean Reese and Sara Gambel.

Madelyn Pugh, already one of the campus' outstanding "activity girls," was named head of the senior class memorial committee.

Delta Kappas honored at Mortar Board's annual sophomore recognition tea, February 11, were Marilyn Seward, Betty Wulfman, Patty Lou Wingert, Anne Hendricks and Margaret Hillis. These girls were chosen on the basis of activities, scholarship and personality.

JANICE LOUISE POPE

Indianapolis—Established 1898

All out for defense! That's the war cry of Indianapolis Kappas. January 7 they took up a key position at the Butler chapter house. It was the 64th birthday of Mu chapter, and the alumnæ joined the actives at dinner in a joint celebration.

Kappa representatives from various branches of the defense program focused our attention on the work to be done. Our president, Mrs. Everett M. Schofield, was the toastmistress, speaking on the Nora Waln war relief fund, and on the sale of defense bonds and stamps. She introduced the Indianapolis alumnæ president, Mrs. Gayle B. Wolfe, who related some of her experiences as a hostess at the newly organized canteen at the Union station. The canteen is one of the projects of the Army, Navy and Marine Service Men's club, started at the request of station officials. Helen Hartinger spoke on the Service Men's club. Betty Bange also told of the work done by the Cadettes, who serve as hostesses. Mrs. R. Hillsdale College, Hillsdale, Michigan group, we still waited anxiously for examination results, and finally rejoiced with a "B" average. We are hoping that it is the highest on campus. The pledge class also upheld its standing with a "C plus" average. Margaret Stainthorpe claims laurel for all "A's." Cheers are also in order for Gay Cartwright, Shirley O'dea and Jean Baumgartner, third semester pledges, whose grades have improved so much that they were among the initiates of February 15.

A group of diligent pledges proved their interests in Kappa by fulfilling all their pledge requirements. Only two of a group of 13 failed to meet initiation requirements. At initiation February 15, the following girls became bearers of the key: Connis Brachman, Marie Vidro, June Vincent, Ruth Van Bree, Lueela Mae Childs, Bobbie Lou Donaldson, Luallen Beck, Doris Sark, Martha Wight, Margaret Stainthorpe, Jane Kennedy, Shirley O'dea and Jean Baumgartner.

JESSIE BAILEY NARRANCE

Adrian—Chartered 1924

It has long been a custom at Christmas time to have a luncheon instead of the regular December meeting. Kappas, home for the holidays, look forward to this every year. Twenty-six Kappas had luncheon, December 27, at the Lenawee hotel. Leona Spielman Kay, association president, extended greetings to those visiting us. Margaret Osgood, E-Adrian, assistant dean of women at Ohio university, told of some of her experiences at the 1941 deans' convention in Atlantic City. Helen Meyer, E, described her work as home economics teacher at a college for Catholic women in Florida. Georgianna Root, a B Δ-Michigan pledge, gave us a sidelight on pledge life on a large campus and described the remodeled chapter house. Iva Swift, E, branch librarian in Washington, D.C., gave an interesting talk on Washington as the center of all war activities.

The 17 pledges of Xi chapter were entertained by the alumnae at a buffet supper February 9, in the home of Leona Spielman Kay. Each pledge was given a gardenia corsage as a favor. They, in turn, entertained us by reading character sketches of one another as a means of introducing themselves to us.

The alumnae association entertained the Tri Delta alliance in March at the home of Alice Baldwin.

Detroit—Established 1901

The evening group, with Patricia Ryan, Δ Γ-Michigan State, as chairman, planned our January general meeting, a dinner at the Women's City club. They presented a skit, and we were happy to have as guest of honor our province president, Mrs. Carl F. Trager, Δ Γ, of East Lansing, Michigan. The next meeting of the association is to be a dessert luncheon April 11, at the home of Aletha Yerkes Smith (Mrs. Harold R.), B Δ-Michigan.

Central group met February 12 at the home of Mina Bates Overstreet (Mrs. Charles M.), Δ Γ. Some recent books were reviewed by Helen Bower. The East Side group had an all-day sewing session February 11 at the home of Edith Neer Paterson (Mrs. J. Douglas), Ξ-Adrian. A representative of the Red Cross motor corps spoke. After luncheon several members of the group had to leave to attend the first meeting of their first aid class.

ELIZABETH WEDDA

Lafayette—Established 1919

Our Christmas party at the home of Dorcas Fifer (Mrs. P. M.) was a genuine success and we had only a brief business session. At the Purdue chapter house January 12 we, with the actives, were fortunate to see the Sun Valley convention movies.

Gladys Walker (Mrs. G. P.) was hostess to our group the evening of February 3. We were indeed happy to report $77.64 realized from our sale of Christmas wreaths.

We are anticipating a rummage sale in March. Our committee includes Mary McQueen (Mrs. D. W.), Iris Gery (Mrs. Richard), Mary Southworth (Mrs. R. M.), Marjorie Jarrell (Mrs. John), Louise Thornton (Mrs. M. H.) and Marion Owen (Mrs. H. F.).

The next party was at Eleanor Eisenbach's home. We planned for our seniors' party in April at the home of Bernice Baynes (Mrs. W. L.).

We hope that soon we can adapt our meeting hours to doing something for the Red Cross. At present we are waiting for materials. In the meanwhile, each of us who can is doing something to help and we are anticipating the time when we can do much more in the various war causes.

MARY LOUISE KIMMELL

Fort Wayne—Chartered 1924

Our association had a Christmas party at the home of Jane McBride. Mrs. Robert Dreisbach played Santa and gifts were distributed by means of clever identifying bits of poetry. The magazine chairman, Mrs. Gathings Stewart, was busy collecting money, some of which will go into the Hearstone fund, of course.

The Panhellenic association gave a breakfast December 27, at which active members, home for the holidays, were entertained.

In January we met for an afternoon dessert meeting at the home of Mrs. Clifton McCormick, tried at the suggestion of some members who find it difficult to leave their families for evening affairs. However, since a larger number in our group is occupied during the day, it was decided to continue with the dinner meetings.

As a result of the USO magazine drive, a committee has been appointed for our group. The chairman is Mrs. Gerald Somers and her helpers are Mrs. Gordon Smith and Mrs. James Menafee. To collect magazines and books for our men in the training camps is a responsibility of every member. The hauling to centers will be done by the appointed committee.

ALBERTA L. POPP

Gary, Indiana—Chartered 1926

The Gary Kappas have been working individually and as a group, on the various aspects of national defense. One meeting was devoted to sewing and knitting, and it was decided to give defense stamps exclusively, as prizes. Virginia Howells Baitinger (Mrs. H. M.), Γ-Northwestern, is the training chairman for the Girl Scouts council, civilian defense program. Another member doing active work along this line is Ruth Bills, Δ-Indiana, co-chairman of the women's division for civilian defense.

The Muncie Kappa alumnae had a dinner meeting at the home of Edith Sawicki (Mrs. Harry), Δ-Indiana, February 2. During our business meeting Katherine Miller (Mrs. Jean), Ξ-Adrian, reported on our Christmas philanthropy. She had charge of buying some new clothes for a gift to a needy school girl. We voted to donate $5 to the Red Cross.

We were pleased with the announcement that Patricia Tuhey, of Muncie, had been pledged Kappa at Purdue.

After our business meeting Miss Esther Bartlett, who was the guest of Mrs. Miller, talked on her trip through Mexico last summer with a seminar group. She also showed us native handicraft which she had collected on her trip.

MARY WRIGHT MOSCRIPT

Lansing-East Lansing—Chartered 1930

Our January meeting was at the chapter house at Michigan State college. It was guest night and a program of dramatic readings was given. The association was responsible for a booth in one of the downtown stores during the Red Cross war fund drive. We are also interested in a movement begun in Lansing to organize a College Women's Volunteer Service bureau. At our February meeting we talked about the attitude of the national fraternity toward the present emergency and the part that we can play as fraternity women. Vera Trager, province president, led this discussion and also told us about her duties as a national officer. Jeanne Smith Riordan previewed her new book of poetry, Poems for a Child and His Mother.

In February Catherine Anne Cudlip visited our active and alumnae groups. Thursday evening the actives made it possible for all the alumnae and sponsors to meet Miss Cudlip at a Mexican "fiesta" in the Grier Hall recreation room. After the chili supper the pledges entertained with songs.

We all gained many pointers from Miss Cudlip's visit, and hope she will visit us again.

Illinois Wesleyan celebrated Homecoming in the traditional fashion. The chapter took first place for its float in the parade and third place in the "Greek Sing." The annual alumnae-active spread at the chapter house was the climax of the festivities.

Epsilon announces the initiation, February 21, of 14 pledges: Jeannette Brooks, Miriam Wyatt, Patty Klemm, Patty Gerling, Marjorie Hartenbower, Margaret Elliot, Beverly Minch, Frances Lou Mitchell, Helen Schaeffer, Charlene Waterson, Barbara Stubblefield, Shiela Smith, Elizabeth Crossman and Annabelle Janes.

In November, Epsilon entertained the campus fraternity women with a Panhellenic wiener-roast.

The annual water pageant was presented in March at Memorial gymnasium. Kappas participating were Charlene Waterson, Marianne Fearhiely, Helen Meeker, Frances Mitchell, Patty Gerling, Barbara Stubblefield, Beverly Minch, Marjorie Hartenbower and Charlotte Sutter (pledge).

For five consecutive semesters, Epsilon has received the Panhellenic scholarship cup. The winner for the past semester has not as yet been announced. The chapter average is close to "B." If the Kappas win it again, we may keep the cup permanently.

After Christmas vacation, we came back to find frozen and burst pipes in the chapter house. The girls who live in the house spent the next two weeks boarding with town Kappas. A week after the house was reopened the junior class planned a housewarming for Kappas and their dates. Special guests were the B Ks, because they had also returned to a cold house.

Personals

Mary Thompson gave her speech recital January 15 at Presser hall. She read Moliere's School for Husbands.

Two Epsilon Kappas have been elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. They are Christina Carter, junior, and Jean Holdridge, senior. This is the second year that Christina has appeared in this Who's Who. She is also a member of Gatheia and Green Medallion, freshman and sophomore honoraries. In addition, Chris is active in YWCA, WSA, French club, Masquers, Women's league, Peanut club and A E Δ, pre-medical fraternity. She is also the chapter registrar.

Jean Holdridge is president of Egas, which corresponds to Mortar Board. Jean also belongs to French club, Home Economics club, WSA, Γ T, honorary publications fraternity, and has undertaken the job of chapter treasurer for the past year.

The high scholarship ring was awarded to Christina Carter, and Eleanor Jones received the improvement ring for the first semester.

Mary Marquis and Christina Carter were recently initiated into A E Δ, pre-medical fraternity.

Virginia Wyatt was made a member of Φ Σ I, honorary romance language fraternity, of which she is secretary-treasurer.

VIRGINIA WYATT

Bloomington, Illinois—Established 1906

The two holiday benefits for Kappa philanthropies and the Red Cross were successful. Nearly $200 was made from the sale of wreaths, and the presentation of a lovely Christmas pageant by Kappas and their families at Presser hall, December 27. Lillian Mecherle not only wrote and directed the performance but played the organ throughout.

January 22 we were entertained by our own "Information, Please," on questions about Kappa, with Margaret Jones Imig (Mrs. Raymond) as master of ceremonies and Nancy Peairs, Ruth Tobie Dalyrymple (Mrs. Gerald), Constance Ferguson and Edith Elliot Kuhn (Mrs. Louis) as the experts. Kappa soap was featured in the advertising.

The groups into which the club is divided are engaged in various activities, sewing for Red Cross, calling on Kappas who are shut in, raising funds for student aid at Wesleyan, and providing baskets for a needy family from time to time.

February 15 Margaret Marquis Rust (Mrs. Adlai) opened her home to all Bloomington Kappas in honor of Catherine Anne Cudlip, field secretary.

LORRAINE KROFT

University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wisconsin

Eta's Kappas took a deep breath after the ordeal of final exams was over and have plunged into the second semester activities with a new enthusiasm.

The main subject on our minds at present is the annual winter carnival which includes plaid shirt week, skating exhibitions and ice show, the Snow ball, ice sculpturing contest and a ski tournament.

In January we had a pleasant three-day visit from Catherine Anne Cudlip, field secretary. She gave us many helpful suggestions and spurred us on to keep an even keel during these stormy days.

The University of Wisconsin was recently put on a war-time schedule. We are not to have a spring recess, and as a result the seniors will be graduated June 1, three weeks earlier than usual.

Personals

Reigning over the university junior prom, the biggest social event on the campus, was Queen Priscilla White. Patricia White, her twin sister was the prom queen last year.

Patty Harshaw transferred this semester to Northwestern university. Patty was our pledge captain this year and her lively personality will be sorely missed by both pledges and actives alike.

Georgia Ann Trebilcock has been made a member of the committee in charge of the monthly student teas at the home of President and Mrs. Dykstra.

Charlene Brown was initiated into $\Sigma E \Sigma$, sophomore honorary society.

In the horse show sponsored by the Little International Stock show at the university, the Kappas won the cup in the intersorority division for the third time, thus earning the right to keep it. Kappas who rode in the show were Marjorie Shearer Anderson, Elizabeth Odegard and Dorothy Kiekhofer.

JOSEPHINE TRUMBOWER

Milwaukee—Established 1906

The Milwaukee Kappas are busily occupied in various types of defense work. We have helped our treasury by selling "Gadabout" calendars.

We were happy to have the active Kappas with us for our holiday luncheon meeting. Jessie Korsh Kachel, H-Wisconsin, was hostess to a large group. We enjoyed a dramatic presentation by the Shorewood Players and the singing of Christmas carols. The officers of the alumnae group, Mrs. W. O. Chamberlain, Mrs. Earl Morton, Mrs. Paul White and Mrs. O. Delwin Schultz, assisted the hostess.

We are extremely sorry to have two of our members leave town, accompanying their husbands who are in service: Mary Ann Roozen Weenendaal, E-Illinois Wesleyan, who is now in Norfolk, Virginia; and Alice Barney Burroughs, X-Minnesota, our former KEY correspondent and rushing chairman, who has moved to Wilmington, Delaware.

Frances Swanson Feldt, A4-Monmouth, is president of the Milwaukee Panhellenic association.

During the last few months, our greatest effort as a group has been directed towards fitting ourselves into the defense program. When the charming and gracious field secretary, Catherine Anne Cudlip, visited our chapter, she led the informal discussion in which we talked over the part our sorority can fill in striving for victory.

To save our escorts' money, we ruled out corsages for our winter formal, and to cut expenses, we decided not to have dinner before the dance.

We contributed books to the book drive and have all signed up for some kind of war work on the campus.

Our winter scholarship banquet, February 16, found 19 girls with B averages at the head table. Plaques were awarded to the new initiates who were outstanding in scholarship, adaptability and activities as pledges: Nancy Huenekens, Jane Goodsill and Faith Dougan, respectively.

Initiated January 31 were Nancy Huenekens, Harriet Caley, Elizabeth Merrill, Barbara Morrissey, Virginia Seidl, Ann Owen, Lorle Ahern, Jane Goodsill, Elizabeth Herbert, Nancy Hauser, Agnes Lynch, Mary Alice McNeil, Mary Jean Greig, Barbara Heines, Nora Boyd, Faith Dougan, Jeanne Groth, Jean Ueland, Sandra Ueland, Barbara Tomlinson, Sally Rumble, Lonnie Hoke, Betty McNally and Mary Carleton.

MARGARET QUIGLEY

Minnesota—Established 1892

Our January meeting, planned by Louise Belden, program chairman, was a "Hobby Lobby" meeting. Katherine Noth Chambers (Mrs. R. J.), X-Minnesota, spoke enthusiastically about her hobby of flying and assured us it was a satisfactory hobby. Genevieve Solon Simonet (Mrs. Leonard W.), X, told of satisfaction achieved in writing professionally for a Minnesota publication, The Golfer and Sportsman, and also as an avocation. Jane Loughland, X, showed us samples of wall paper which she had designed from nature studies. Painting and designing of wall paper are both her vocation and avocation. Most of us had no idea of the knowledge of color and pattern that go into a well-designed wall paper. Jean McCarthy, X, gave us a few highlights of her experiences as a reporter for the Gallup poll.

We are planning to have a series of bridge parties at the homes of alumnæ on the same day to contribute toward Kappa philanthropic funds. We worked out this plan last year and were able to contribute quite substantially to the Nora Waln fund.

For our March meeting, Louise Belden plans to have the chapter advisors report on their work and contacts with the active chapter.

A few of our alumnæ had luncheon with Catherine Anne Cudlip, January 24, and were delighted to meet and talk with her.

ELIZABETH THOMPSON ANDRESEN

In a chapter meeting shortly after war was declared, it was decided that each girl would contribute at least a dime a week toward defense bonds. The bonds are to be purchased in the name of the house and will go to help pay off the house mortgage. Besides financial interest in the present situation, most of the girls have signed up for defense courses offered by the university. It is the aim of each of us to continue with the work we have started, and at the same time to do all that we possibly can for the defense of the country, always keeping in mind the importance of looking toward the tomorrow when the war will be over.

This chapter is proud of the 22 pledges who made a C average or better last semester.

Nadine Kinney was crowned Navy ball queen, which is one of the three major social affairs given during the year. This year the other two will not be given because of the war.

Personals

The following six girls have received membership in honorary societies: Mary Alice Christian, Φ B; Virginia Egolf, $H \Sigma \Phi$; Patricia Emrich, $A \Lambda \Delta$; Mary Agnes Graham, $\Sigma A I$; Marilou Heilman, $H \Sigma \Phi$, and Mel Weichert, Mortar Board.

Harriet Hoettchen has been working in Anchor, Illinois, since her graduation last January. She directs the glee club and orchestra, gives private voice and instrumental lessons, teaches typing, and is an advisor for the school newspaper.

BETTY CLAYPOOL

North Shore—Established 1910

At our meeting January 21 in the home of Mrs. Dwight Orcutt, Glencoe, officers for the current year were elected. Betty Fletcher Howell (Mrs. Richard), our capable and enthusiastic president, was reelected. Other officers are vice-president in charge of membership, Elizabeth Quinlan Laing (Mrs. John); second vice-president in charge of publicity, Betsy Triebel Rahmel (Mrs. Henry); recording secretary, Patricia Dobson Clarke (Mrs. John); corresponding secretary, Cecile Stern Bowen (Mrs. Llewellyn); treasurer, Mildred Danner Moody (Mrs. Joseph), and assistant treasurer, Jean Perrill Griggs (Mrs. Carl, Jr.).

The new board met for the first time in February at a valentine tea given by our president in her home. During the meeting we industriously wrote 144 cards to all Kappa alumnæ on the North Shore urging them to attend the meeting February 18 at the Kappa house and to bring knitting needles and all scraps of yarn to knit afghan squares while we listened to Mrs. J. Lynden Shanley give an illustrated talk on modern decorative arts.

We think often these days of Frances Wild Dreher and her three young children, who are living in Soerabaya, Java.

Betty Purdum Thompson, who has been living on the island of Maui, Hawaii, has returned to the United States.

MARIE FLENTYE HIGGINBOTHAM

Chicago Intercollegiate—Chartered 1931

Our February meeting at the Woman's University club was a joint dinner meeting with the Business Girls' group. Martha Douglas, $\Gamma \Gamma$ -Whitman, director of training for Carson, Pirie, Scott and company, spoke on personnel work. Miss Douglas, fresh from a tour of the fashion centers of the east and also Washington, where she heard Winston Churchill address the Senate, told us that Chicago is not yet aware of the war.

However, the Intercollegiate association had conceived the idea of hospitality for service men and appointed our Army and Navy chairman, Nena McIntyre Cook (Mrs. Donald M.), $B \Delta$ -Michigan, at the same time Kappa's Army and Navy chairman was formulating the plan for the fraternity. With a great number of our girls having sons, husbands and brothers in the service, our arrangements are in good working order and many filled blanks have been sent to other associations. Of course, all girls are working for the Red Cross. The South Side group sews at meetings for the infant welfare of the Red Cross.

The Business Girls' group enjoyed a showing of the pictures of convention at their March meeting.

Our annual benefit party was a luncheon bridge March 13 at the Better Homemaking institute. In addition there was an interesting program of cooking and homemaking hints.

JANE VAUGHN POSEY

Springfield, Illinois—Established 1910

The Central Illinois Kappa luncheon, the annual get-together of the Bloomington, Champaign-Urbana, Monmouth and Springfield associations, which was to be in Springfield this year, has been canceled. It was the unanimous opinion of the four associations that it would be best to cancel the luncheon for the duration of the war. We are sorry that we won't be seeing all the familiar faces, and the new ones too. But we shall be looking forward to the time when we have won our fight, and a peaceful way of life has been resumed. Then we hope all of you who are in Central Illinois or who can get here will meet with us in the spring, and the annual Central Illinois Kappa luncheon will be resumed.

EVELYN GEISERT

Winnipeg—Chartered 1928

The Winnipeg alumnae association began its winter season with renewed enthusiasm after the Christmas interval. January 19 we entertained the active chapter at a supper meeting at the home of Marion and Margaret Kotchapaw. The meeting was in charge of Margaret Hurley and Frances Hunt. Catherine Anne Cudlip, field secretary, visited our chapter, January 27-30. We had a social meeting with her at the home of Hope Rutherford.

We are thrilled that our pledges have done so well in getting their scholastic standing for initiation. Nearly 65 Kappas attended the initiation banquet, February 9, at the Fort Garry hotel. The members of the alumnae chapter were well represented and the U-shaped table made an impressive setting decorated with lighted blue cup candles.

MARGARET WILLIAMS

North Dakota—Chartered 1926

With two new alumnae groups in North Dakota, the North Dakota association may be asking to have its name changed to Fargo association. Anyway, we enjoyed December's letter from the Grand Forks association, and hope to read one this time from the Bismarck group.

We have had only one meeting since our last letter and that was a luncheon meeting at Avery Trask Barnard's (Mrs. R. T.), X-Minnesota, with Catherine Anne Cudlip as our guest. We had a grand turn-out, including some who hadn't been with us for a long time. We did so much visiting with Catherine about the forthcoming convention and about what we can do to aid the fraternity in carrying out a helpful program in the years ahead that we did not get to the bridge game planned.

We particularly miss those of our young alumnae who have left Fargo to be with their husbands near the various Army posts where they are located. The association would like to hear from them, and we are trusting that if they read this, they will write us so that they may be properly included in the forthcoming Gamma Tau News, published once a year through the joint efforts of the alumnae association and undergraduate chapter.

Bismarck—Chartered 1941

About 40 women representing 14 different Panhellenic groups attended the holiday tea given by the Bismarck Kappa club, January 4. Lorraine Bohlig Buckingham (Mrs. T. W.), Γ T-North Dakota, was general chairman. This promoted a Panhellenic spirit which may lead to the organization of a city group.

Since the organization of our club September 19, 1941 (charter granted October 13, 1941), we have been active under the leadership of our president, Emilybelle Craig Schmeding (Mrs. W. F.), Γ T. Meetings are the first and third Monday of every month. Other officers are Evelyn Wattam, Γ T, secretary-treasurer; Florence Wilson, Δ Γ -Michigan State, program chairman, and Elizabeth Olsen Danstrom (Mrs. Robert V.), Γ T, recommendations chairman. In addition to the officers other charter members of our group are Lorraine Bohlig Buckingham (Mrs. T. W.), Γ T; Jane Canniff Hartung (Mrs. Earle), Γ T; Marian Brainerd Johnson (Mrs. Earl), Γ T; Clara Pearson Leonard (Mrs. R. C.), Γ T; and Eleanor Sevison, B Δ -Michigan. Delores DeVries Arnold (Mrs. Earl), Γ T, and Ellen Tillotson Nichols (Mrs. Frank), Γ T, have since joined our group; while Jane Canniff Hartung has moved to Redbank, New Jersey, where her husband was called to active duty.

Knitting for the Red Cross and participation in the "Books for Victory" drive have been other worthwhile ventures of our club.

Theta—Chartered 1875

University of Missouri, Columbia, Missouri

We have been meeting with our alumnæ every Tuesday evening to knit sweaters, socks and afghan squares for the Red Cross.

We decided not to give our mid-winter formal and donate $100, which would have been used for the dance, to the Red Cross. This action has been followed by many other fraternities on the campus.

To step into our house you might think that 30 of our girls had met with serious accidents, but upon investigation it would be learned that they were practicing how to tie different types of bandages. The girls have been attending Red Cross first aid classes, sponsored by the university, and are merely practicing what they have learned.

March 14 was the date for initiation of 19 pledges of last semester.

Personals

Virginia Bell and Page Simrall were elected as our delegates to the fraternity convention this summer.

Barbara Handley (pledge) will christen the destroyer U.S.S. Laub in San Pedro, California, May 1.

JANE HAGGERTY

University of Iowa, Iowa City, Iowa

Beta Zeta chapter has been coöperating with the "Women's Work in War" program at the University of Iowa. The pledges and actives gather at 10:30 every night on first floor to do "physical fitness" exercises for 15 minutes. Each week a new set of exercises is used. Several of the girls are also knitting Red Cross sweaters.

The pledges gave a "Friday-the-thirteenth" party for the actives in February.

Iowa City alumnæ were guests of the active chapter February 19. Following the dinner, the alumnæ had their monthly meeting at the chapter house.

The chapter is happy to watch the chapter room in the process of redecoration, for the results are going to be most pleasing and stimulating.

Personals

Barbara Kent was presented as honorary cadet colonel at the annual military ball. She will also participate in reviewing the regiment Governor's day, May 9.

Terry Ann Tester (pledge) served on the freshman party committee.

BARBARA KENT

Iowa City—Established 1921

Twenty-seven members of the Iowa City alumnæ association met for their January meeting at the home of Gertrude Dennis. A six o'clock dinner was served, followed by a business meeting. It was reported that the sale of the "Gadabout" books was a huge success, 100 having been sold before Christmas.

The next meeting was a dinner with the active chapter at the house, February 19.

Activities in most organizations in Iowa City have been transferred to the Red Cross work in which all are taking part. The university has rearranged the second semester, eliminating Easter vacation and examination week, so that the school year will end May 9. This is done in order to make room for some 2,000 Naval Air Corps cadets who are to be here for preliminary training.

One effect of the war was the decrease of enrollment for the university. The total number of students enrolled this spring semester is 3,657; for the same semester a year ago, it was 4,029, a loss of 372 students. However, this shrinkage was not as great as was expected.

The Kappas completed last semester's work with a grade average of 1.87, which is a decided improvement over last year's average.

A singing contest among the organized women's houses of the university occurred March 8. Each sorority entering the contest sang one of its own sorority songs, the alma mater, and one song of its own choice.

The Kappas were the undefeated team in the intramural ping-pong match for the university. They were, however, beaten in the semi-finals of the basketball intersorority tournament.

Personals

Members of the undefeated ping-pong team were Lura Jane Smith, Shirley Irwin, Kathryn Hines, and Cordelia Murphy, Suzanne Wieder and Marjorie Tibbits (pledges).

Lawrence—Established 1902

In spite of the fact that this is a busy world right now, the interest in our alumnae meetings has kept up. That is not unusual, though, for the busier people are, the more they sense their obligations.

Our money-raiser this year was another rummage sale and our proceeds, $107, exceeded all expectations.

At our last meeting we voted to change the wording of our scholarship which we maintain at the university. It has heretofore been available only to a girl; but now, if no girl is available, any man who needs it may use it. This change was made because so many more boys than girls need financial assistance.

February 17 the alumnae entertained the freshmen with a buffet supper at the home of Blanche Simons Maloney (Mrs. O. W.). While speaking of freshmen, I might add that 21 out of 23 were initiated the last of February.

Personal

Julie Henry Nessley (Mrs. Jack), Ω -Kansas, has just returned to Lawrence from Samoa where her husband is with the Marines.

LINDA PURNELL SMITH

Sigma—Chartered 1884

University of Nebraska, Lincoln, Nebraska

Upon returning from vacation, 350 couples danced at the Kappa winter formal in the ballroom of the Cornhusker hotel.

February 9 Sigma affiliated Marie Anderson, Γ T-North Dakota.

Kappa was well represented at the annual Mortar Board tea honoring high scholarship.

To enable the individual and the sorority and fraternity better to plan for the future, "All-Greek Week" was initiated on the University of Nebraska campus. Various seminars were presented through the week beginning February 8, and were led by alumni members of different fraternities.

Sigma chapter was instrumental in promoting this week through the leadership of Suzanne Woodruff, chapter president, who acted as co-chairman of the program. The Interfraternity council and Panhellenic council sponsored the program of speakers and round-tables.

All-church night opened the week, when students heard Dr. Paul Weaver, of Stephens college, who shared the program with the all fraternity-sorority choir.

Fraternity seminars discussed leadership, scholarship, finance, pledge training, social, selective service and fraternities. The topics discussed at the sorority seminars included pledge captains and pledge training, presidents, national defense and sororities, corresponding secretaries, scholarship, rush chairman, social chairman and house managers.

Ruth Kadel Seacrest (Mrs. Joseph W.), Kappa's director of chapter programs, was chairman of the scholarship seminar. The seminars created a coöperative feeling among sororities and made it possible for each to discuss its particular problem and have suggestions as to how to handle the problem by other sororities.

The week's climax was a fraternity-faculty luncheon for all fraternity faculty members, fraternity presidents and alumni advisors. Banquets were also given for all fraternity pledges, actives, sorority pledges and sorority actives. Mrs. Fred Coleman, speaker for the sorority active banquet, is past president of Mortar Board. The speaker at the sorority pledge dinner was Mrs. Walter Militzer, national president of Kappa Delta.

Friday the 13th ended the week. The fraternity sweetheart was presented at the Interfraternity ball in the Student Union ballroom.

Owing to the splendid coöperation of all groups and the interest in sororities and fraternities that has been created throughout the state, the week is to be established as a yearly part of the university program.

BARBARA SIMPSON

Lincoln—Established 1903

An afghan has just been completed and presented to the British War Relief office by the members of our association. At each meeting members knitted eight-inch blocks until the entire afghan was completed. Other such work has been carried on by each member in her individual time and interests, and our president, Nell Carey Waggoner (Mrs. Mark), is chairman of the nurses' aid committee in Lincoln.

Our December meeting was well attended, and after the regular business meeting we had a white elephant sale. Our February meeting was our "game meeting," at which we played group games after the regular business meeting. Plans are made for a musicale for our next meeting. Our banquet this year will be in May.

The alumnae are proud of three actives, Kay Tunison, Betty Jo Farquhar and Carol Wherry, who appeared in the opera presented by the university school of music this year. Kay and Betty Jo had the leading roles in the first and second evenings respectively. Phyllis Welch and Marie Anderson, members of University Players, are also members of whom to be proud, having done outstanding work in this drama organization.

HELEN JANE GROTH

Omaha—Established 1920

Omaha alumnae members are devoting their efforts to defense activities, as no doubt hundreds of other Kappas are doing. Most of our sewing and bridge groups are now knitting and working for Red Cross. On every hand some one is discussing her first aid, nutrition or home nursing class, or whether she is qualified for canteen work or some other project. We find it a bit hard to concentrate on our home assignments, especially those who have been out of school for any length of time.

We do feel our Christmas dolls for the settlement were deeply appreciated, and are happy to have been able to do that work another year.

Personals

We were pleased to have as guests at our February dinner Dorothy Jones Morse (Mrs. Ted), $B \Lambda$ -Illinois, and Rosanne Sheahan, Σ -Nebraska, both of Council Bluffs, Iowa.

We are sorry to lose from our membership Evelyn Jack Reiff (Mrs. Stanley), Σ , who has moved with Mr. Reiff and their family to Kansas City, Missouri. Address: 5507 Central street.

MARY LOU GENUNG

Manhattan—Established 1921

We lost another one of our members in February. Frances Bell Rhodes (Mrs. Harlan), Γ A-Kansas State, has gone to live in Tonawanda, New York. At our February meeting after the business was concluded we enjoyed a social hour and presented a gift to Mrs. Rhodes. Mr. Rhodes will be in the office of the United States Gypsum company's plant. Another Kappa we shall miss is Helen Beth Coates Sherrill (Mrs. Tasker), who has moved to Quero, Texas, where her husband is a student in the air school of civilian flying.

We were happy to hear from Eugenia Leighton Chatman (Mrs. J. C.), Γ A, who is living at 850 East 81st street, Chicago, Illinois. She has a six-year-old son Joe and a three-and-a-half-year-old daughter Eugenia Leighton.

We have a new Kappa living in Manhattan, Pauline Christensen (Mrs. J. N.).

Elizabeth Hart Ritter (Mrs. Louis), Γ A, is the author of a new book for children, Parasols Is for Ladies. It concerns a Negro family and the illustrations are authentic and unique.

NANCY HAINES

Kansas City, Missouri—Established 1900

December 29 the association gave a party for its children and grandchildren at the Kansas City museum. Dorothy Johnstone Wilson (Mrs. Clifford C.), $B \Theta$ -Oklahoma, in charge of arrangements, planned a marionette show for the younger children, a treasure hunt throughout the museum for the older children, refreshments and favors. The party was primarily social, but it also served to add to the interest of our children in the many educational advantages offered at the museum.

The association met for dinner January 5 at the home of Nancy Lawson Jones (Mrs. Paul), Θ -Missouri. Landon Laird, dramatic critic and editor of the "About Town" column of the Kansas City Star, gave us an interesting talk on "Personalities of Hollywood."

February 7 we had a luncheon meeting at the home of Pauline Ohmer Martin (Mrs. S. A.), Ω -Kansas. Miss Edna D. Orr, of the staff of the Kansas City public library, discussed books by Kansas City authors. She also explained the various services offered to us as users of our public libraries.

The junior alumnae group, which meets on the first Monday evening of each month, has had a successful year under the leadership of Daisy Leonore Coates Vaughan (Mrs. William E.), Θ . New officers elected at their meeting February 9 are president, Mary Elizabeth Metcalf, Ω ; vice-president, Helen Johnson, Ω ; secretary, Betty Bonnell, Γ A-Kansas State; treasurer, Alice Harkless, Θ ; rushing captains, Jean Egbert Smith (Mrs. Lynwood Chandler), Ω , and Margaret Robertson Mansur (Mrs. E. E., Jr.), Θ .

Personals

Virginia Carter Campbell (Mrs. I. K.), Ω , has done a splendid job as our Panhellenic representative this year. She was recently made chairman of a committee in that group to work with the Kansas City board of education in handling lists of girls going to various colleges next year. Virginia has also been made chairman of the Red Cross first aid classes in Johnson county, Kansas.

Irma Bryant Barton (Mrs. Harrison W.), Θ , was recently appointed as our recommendation chairman, with Emily Fitch Jenkins (Mrs. F. B., Jr.), Θ , vice-chairman. There will be a recommendation board this year with two members each from Theta, Omega, and Gamma Alpha, and two members at large to handle recommendations for the more distant schools.

Madeline McKone Klemp (Mrs. Hubert), Ω , was this association's first loss to the Army, and she has been greatly missed. We were glad to hear that she is enjoying life at Selfridge Field, Michigan, where her husband is an officer in the engineering corps.

Kappa is well represented at the University of Kansas hospital this year. Bonnie Lou Clapp, Mary Alice Matchette and Mary Lou Robinson, Γ A, are student nurses there, and Betty Barnes Turner (Mrs. Robert C.), Ω , is working as a technician.

Mary Jo Connell Higgins (Mrs. Thomas M.), Ω , has recently moved to Kansas City from Gary, Indiana.

MRS. PAUL A. GEMPEL

Southeast Kansas—Established 1940

Southeast Kansas alumnae club met February 8 at the home of Jimmie Porter Halpin (Mrs. Vincent), Γ N-Arkansas, with Maxine Alman as assistant hostess. Faye Clapp, active member of Γ A-Kansas State and sister of Betty Brandenburg, our president, attended the meeting. We made plans to have Coffeyville girls who are going to school next year invited to nearby Kappa chapters during closed week-ends. Jimmie's home is an ideal place to have a Kappa meeting, with the dark blue carpeting and lighter blue slipcovers, and she showed that well-known southern hospitality when she treated us to strawberry shortcake so early in the year. Barbara Jean Hays, $B \Phi$ -Montana, was appointed rushing recommendations chairman.

We met in March at the home of Georgia Castleberry Merrill (Mrs. George), $B \Delta$ -Illinois, in Independence. Ada Cates, Ω -Kansas, was assisting hostess.

Topeka, Kansas—Chartered 1925

Our fraternity education luncheon was given January 12 at the home of Dorothy Dean (Mrs. John S., Jr.), with Madeline Hurd (Mrs. Bruce) and Jessie Jencks (Mrs. Maurice) as assisting hostesses.

February 9 a Kappa history dinner was given at the home of Juanita Coats (Mrs. J. Blood), with Ruth Hogue (Mrs. T. L.), Vivian Rutter (Mrs. Warren) and Barbara Olinger as assisting hostesses. Mrs. R. V. Beattie, a Kappa who arrived in town January 19, after being evacuated from Anchorage, Alaska, talked to us about her experiences. Her husband, Major R. V. Beattie, has been called to active duty, and she and her children will live in Topeka for the duration of the war. Each member also told an interesting bit of Kappa history while we knitted on afghan squares. A completed afghan has been given to the Red Cross by our group.

ELIZABETH PETTIT

Wichita—Chartered 1925

The Wichita alumnae association has grown along with Wichita, our latest addition being Fritzi Meyn Lewis (Mrs. George), Ω -Kansas. Also Mary K. Latner Connell (Mrs. O. J., Jr.), Ω , from Eldorado, attended our last meeting, and we're always delighted to have visitors. We coöperated with Panhellenic, and assisted in the registration of men, February 16.

We joined $\Pi B \Phi$ and $K A \Theta$ in giving a tri-sorority dance this past Christmas, which resulted profitably, both socially and financially, the crowd being much larger than we anticipated. A novel prize drawing of defense stamps and bonds was conducted during an intermission.

Mrs. R. E. Padfield is our new recommendations chairman.

JOAN HOWE BRETZ

Des Moines—Established 1920

The Des Moines alumnae group met for its first meeting at the Kappa house February 11. A number of the actives were present and in spite of bad winter weather the meeting was well attended.

Mrs. Leon Wood was the guest speaker of the evening. Mrs. Wood is active in our local civilian defense activities and told us much about the work that the local board is doing. Our alumnae group is interested in doing all that it can to assist in these defense activities, and in the local Red Cross work many Kappas are actively doing their share.

The alumnae group met for a short downtown luncheon January 10 and the girls enjoyed the meeting planned by Irma Applequist Everett (Mrs. Max).

MARIE JEWETT

Second semester rushing is well under way and being ably directed by Betty Stevens, rush chairman.

With the war, all the Gamma Iotas are busy doing their share in Red Cross and civilian defense work. Dean Maise is chairman of a campus USO group.

Personals

Ashly Papin and Dean Maise have been elected to $\Phi \Sigma I$, Spanish honorary.

The university has accepted Patty Mansfield's plan for reorganizing freshman orientation.

BETTY HOPKINS

St. Louis—Established 1903

At the January meeting of the association, St. Louis Kappas heard one of their own members, Mrs. Frances Goodall, speak on civilian defense. Mrs. Goodall is an executive in the St. Louis defense organization. Most of our members have registered and are receiving instruction in the various branches.

Four wool afghans, children's size, have been sent from our club directly to Nora Waln. The knitting group has completed the first allotment of wool for the Red Cross, a total of 48 sweaters.

January 31 Kappa alumnae coöperated with the local Panhellenic in giving a benefit bridge.

Mr. La Tourette spoke to the alumnae group in February, giving an interesting account of experiences in working with the Dies committee.

We were happy to have Mrs. Everett Eberhard, Mrs. Crabtree's daughter, in our group this winter. Her husband was stationed at Scott Field, but has recently been moved.

INEZ CARR COMFORT

Beta Mu—Chartered 1901

University of Colorado, Boulder, Colorado

There is scarcely a girl in the house who is not active in civilian defense, and Kappas may be seen any night in the week putting on tourniquets in first aid, bathing babies in home nursing, changing tires in motor mechanics or hitting the bull's eye in rifle practice.

But the girls are especially proud of the 80-square blue-and-blue afghan which they knit. The afghan was sold to the Mothers club and the Boulder and Denver alumnae groups for $25, and the money was turned over to the American Red Cross. The afghan was later presented to Mrs. Robert L. Stearns, an outstanding member of Beta Mu, and wife of the president of the University of Colorado.

We of Beta Mu would like to feel that our separate efforts in defense work are like the uncompleted afghan which, when completed, symbolizes what can be accomplished by all of us working together for our country.

JANE DYDE

Boulder—Chartered 1937

December 20 Margaret Read, now a senior draftsman in the Army at Lowry field, entertained the association members at a Christmas luncheon at the Olin hotel in Denver.

January 20, 14 of our 19 members ate spaghetti and had our meeting at the home of Lois Skinner Prator (Mrs. Ralph). Caroline Henry Gillaspie (Mrs. J. D.) read a report on the function and standing of the fraternity's national funds. Arian Andrew was welcomed as a new member of our association. Bertha Price Winn (Mrs. Hunt) presented each of us with attractive blue-and-blue year-books which she had made.

The majority of our association members attended a luncheon and short meeting January 26 for the field secretary, Heloise Smartt. We surely did enjoy meeting and knowing her. She is all that her name implies, "smart," vivacious, charming and full of excellent suggestions. We are looking forward to another visit in the future.

LOIS SKINNER PRATOR

Gamma Beta—Chartered 1918

University of New Mexico, Albuquerque,

Buffet dinners have been the favored entertainment this semester. One was given February 9 in honor of our alumnae advisors and house board members.

The pledges defied superstition and gave their annual party for the actives, Friday the 13th. Rosemary Helling (pledge) made all the arrangements and issued clever invitations including a mirror, asking the guests to "come as you are."

A large number of Kappas are enrolled in first aid classes being given on the campus. Every afternoon some of them may be found working in the Red Cross rooms.

The Associated Women Students chose Valentine's day for their Sadie Hawkins dance.

It was the unanimous vote of the chapter to reduce the expense of our spring formal and buy a defense bond.

Personals

Frances Martin, chapter treasurer and campus cheer leader, was chosen popularity queen at the Mirage ball.

Cora Jean Lindeberg did not return to school this semester and is now in training as a hostess for Continental Air Lines.

Marion Wilson was elected snow queen at the university ski meet.

MAXINE RUNYAN

Gamma Omicron—Chartered 1927

University of Wyoming, Laramie, Wyoming

Gamma Omicron chapter was honored by having as house guests two fraternity officers, Heloise Smartt, field secretary, and Eleanor Campbell (Mrs. Joseph), Eta province president. During their stay they were entertained at a reception for 430 patrons and faculty members. Among our guests were the newly-arrived President and Mrs. J. L. Morrill.

Our winter quarter dance was given with $\Delta \Delta \Delta$ sorority. As a result of this combination we were able to save \$30, with which a \$25 defense bond will be purchased and the rest given to the Red Cross.

Newly initiated into Kappa are Dorothy Martens, Thalice Coleman, Louanne Templeton and Lorraine Cummings. The initiation banquet followed. This was the first time initiation services have been conducted in the new chapter house.

Many Kappas are enrolling in the defense training courses offered by the university.

ROSEMARY REDDICK

Laramie—Chartered 1927

Laramie alumnae are continuing with their plan to furnish the chapter room of the new house in time for next year's province convention which is to meet here. At our January meeting plans were made for a rummage sale in February to raise funds for this purpose.

Margaret Sonnichsen has resigned as Key correspondent and Jean Hunton has been elected to take her place.

January 27 the alumnae met with Heloise Smartt, field secretary, and Eleanor Campbell (Mrs. Joseph), Eta province president, who were visiting Gamma Omicron chapter. The following evening the alumnae served at a reception which the active chapter gave in their honor.

JEAN HUNTON

Delta Zeta—Chartered 1932

Colorado College, Colorado Springs, Colorado

Delta Zeta chapter was most happy to have as its guest Heloise Smartt, field secretary, from January 16 to 19. Her visit was most enjoyable, and we all feel we have profited much from her helpful suggestions. A tea was given in her honor January 18, at which members of the faculty and the alumnae association were guests.

Our housemother, Mrs. Ruth M. Underhill, has returned to the chapter. She is a real Kappa mother, for her daughter, Jane, ΔZ , graduated in 1940 and was the holder of a Kappa graduate fellowship, and her daughter, Carolyn, ΔZ , graduated last year.

We had an open house tea February 15 for all girls on campus, the Mothers' club and the alumnae.

The pledges will give the actives a dinner the Monday before initiation. Each pledge will sing an original Kappa song.

SHIRLEY VAN DRUFF

Colorado Springs—Chartered 1933

Our January meeting was the first at the chapter house since it was remodeled and enlarged. We were all extremely pleased at the results of this work.

At our February meeting those present enjoyed a review of Mrs. Appleyard's Year, given by Mrs. Bland Cresap.

Mrs. James Haney is directing the annual fashion show this year and is appointing several committees to help with this project. The show will be in May and will feature summer clothes. Plans are being made to sell chances on a defense bond instead of on a dress, as has been the custom in other years. Proceeds from the fashion show will be used to help pay for the improvements on the house.

DOROTHY MAY LAWSON

During the month of January the Denver alumnae association was honored by a visit from our field secretary, Heloise Smartt. A luncheon was given in her honor at the Denver Athletic club and a tea was given by a group of young alumnae at the home of Mrs. Richard Kearns.

Delta Eta—Chartered 1932

University of Utah, Salt Lake City, Utah

Our winter Snowball formal was given in the Starlite gardens atop the Hotel Utah under the direction of our social chairman, Marjory Sutherland, assisted by Marjory Warshaw, Ann Roberts, Louise Ramsey, Ella Ballinger and Ann Cunningham.

Rush week terminated January 31, with the pledging of 15 girls, followed by a breakfast given for the new pledges by the B Θ IIs. Not to be outdone by the Betas, the Σ Xs swept the happy pledges away to the Σ X derby.

The Kappas are busier now than ever with their Red Cross work. First aid lessons, knitting, bandage rolling and letter-writing to soldiers are among the activities in which we are all heartily participating.

Initiation was conducted February 14 for Marjory Ryberg, Jeanne Rodgers, Dorothy Covey and Carol Cowan. Marjory Ryberg modeled at the Mortar Board luncheon-fashion show later in the afternoon.

Personals

Jacqueline McIntyre and Betty Jo Travis were chosen leads in the annual University of Utah varsity play.

Our December meeting, at the chapter house, was a bridge party instead of the regular luncheon. The executive board planned and furnished the refreshments, and prizes were awarded for high scores.

At our January luncheon meeting, it was decided to join with the actives in holding a class in Red Cross first aid, and that class now meets once a week with good attendance.

We are happy to welcome to our association two new members whose husbands have been transferred here. They are Thelma Thompson Haynes (Mrs. B. G.), B II-Washington, and Gertrude Jolls Winde (Mrs. N. H.), B I-Swarthmore.

Beta Xi—Chartered 1902

University of Texas, Austin, Texas

The University of Texas is becoming defense-conscious. Student service organizations and faculty committees have coöperated in campaigns ranging all the way from Red Cross war fund drives to efforts to collect magazines for the United Service Organizations. February 16, 1,400 students registered for selective service, and a two-month program of eight forums "to give students and citizens of the state an all-over picture of the war and their part in it" has been planned.

Panhellenic has helped to set the keynote for campus defense activities by appointing a defense committee, of which Myra Tschudin is chairman.

Beta Xi was happy to have as a visitor February 12-13, Gladys Hensley Engle (Mrs. Frank M.), B Θ-Oklahoma, of Tulsa, Oklahoma, vice-president of Theta province.

Beta Xi chapter had open house for Α T Ω and Φ Δ Θ fraternities, February 16.

MARY BRINKERHOFF

Austin, Texas—Chartered 1929

Austin alumnae are madly busy these hectic war days. We are all taking one or more Red Cross defense courses and are trying to do as much as we can for our country.

Lilla Donnan Sheppard (Mrs. H. H.) and Christine Littlefield Buford (Mrs. R. A.) have made a record in Red Cross circles with the number of perfectly knitted garments they have completed.

At our January meeting we were all inspired when Margaret Peck, Γ A-Middlebury, head of Littlefield dormitory at the University of Texas, spoke to us on Kappa's part in national defense. Miss Peck has a most spiritual personality and she made us feel that "the things of the spirit" are more keenly needed in our world at the present time than ever before. To hold fast to your faith and to try to keep your health are two of the vital needs of a woman today. We wish that every young Kappa, especially, could have heard Margaret Peck speak.

Gladys Hensley Engle (Mrs. Frank M.), Theta province vice-president, visited Austin February 11-12. Mrs. Engle spoke at our regular February luncheon meeting at the chapter house. We always enjoy knowing Kappa officers and regret that because we are so far away these visits are few and far between.

Beta Theta—Chartered 1914

Oklahoma University, Norman, Oklahoma

Our first social function after our return from the holidays was a buffet supper in the chapter house, January 11.

The chapter was happy to have a visit from Heloise Smartt, January 12-14. A dinner was given in the chapter house in her honor. Special guests were Sally Little Brandt (Mrs. Joseph), wife of the president of Oklahoma university, and Eva Ewins, both Kappas.

We were successful in mid-term rush.

Members and pledges entertained their dates with a valentine dinner February 15.

Personals

Lelia Belle Mathews has the lead in "Eligible and Eager," all-school musical comedy which is to be presented both at the university and at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. Other Kappas in the production are Mary Katherine Farr, Gerda Wooten, Helda Hess, Cirelda Burris and Nan Burg.

Joann Rygel (pledge) was elected to membership in Π Ω Π , national honorary commercial fraternity.

Billye Jo Simpson, Eleanor Johnson and Melanie Brown were initiated into Oikonomia, honorary home economics society.

BARBARA CHRISTIAN

Oklahoma City—Established 1916

Judging from the interest and attendance, we would say that our alumnae meetings have been enjoyable this year. We meet once a month at the homes of members for buffet supper followed by a business meeting and a program. At our January meeting at the home of Ganald Stout Eastman (Mrs. Leslie), Θ -Missouri, we were glad to have as a special guest our province vice-president, Gladys Hensley Engle (Mrs. Frank), B Θ -Oklahoma, who gave us an interesting talk on general fraternity affairs.

In February we were busy with a rummage sale from which we cleared a nice sum to finance our charity and war projects of the year. We are also collecting old paper and magazines for defense. We are proud of Emma Nielsen Grubb (Mrs. Gayle), Σ -Nebraska, who is head of the local Red Cross canteen.

At our February meeting we were glad to have a new member, Phyllis Maust Galloway (Mrs. A. J.), Γ A-Kansas State, who recently moved here from Chicago.

Our March meeting was a luncheon, followed by two more buffet suppers in April and May.

The Dallas alumnae association was honored by a visit from our Theta province vice-president, Gladys Engle (Mrs. Frank M.), who brought us valuable suggestions, and spoke to us about plans for convention.

We feel proud of our new province president, Sarah Army (Mrs. Fred). Sarah has long been a tireless worker for the Dallas alumnae association and we know she will make us even more proud of her as our province president.

We are trying to do our part to help win the war and have bought two $75 defense bonds as a start.

KATHARINE GREGG RILEY

Fort Worth—Chartered 1924

Our February meeting was a luncheon at the home of Helen Wallace Watt (Mrs. W. R.). Gladys Hensley Engle (Mrs. Frank), of Tulsa, our province vice-president, was our guest, and gave a most interesting talk concerning Kappa's place in defense.

Many of our members are now busily engaged in war work, and Lucy Penrose Ewings (Mrs. Roger B.) heads the list. Last July Lucy was asked by the executive board of the Tarrant county chapter of the Red Cross to organize a Red Cross motor corps. Lucy is captain of the corps, and largely due to her ceaseless efforts and generous expenditure of time, the motor corps now has 94 members, who have completed a rigid course of training.

Camilla Beall and Aubun Tenison Slay (Mrs. William, Jr.) are lieutenants in the corps. Among others actively engaged in this work are Frances Gardner Snowden (Mrs. James H.), Betty Beall, Emma Jean Fisher Hawes (Mrs. David B.).

Our alumnae association met at the home of Joline Street (Mrs. Park), January 6. Assisting as hostesses were Ruth Helland (Mrs. Archie), Lee Hargis (Mrs. Norton), Bobbie Harper (Mrs. Charles) and Katherine Minter (Mrs. Merton). The motion was passed to coöperate with Panhellenic in its sponsorship of a sewing room for the Red Cross. Our association is to send a representative to take charge of the sewing room half a day each week. Our guest speaker after the business meeting was Mrs. John Meusebach, chairman in charge of the nine volunteer special services of the Red Cross, who gave a detailed account of the type of work done by each corps. Both Mrs. Meusebach and Terry Graves (Mrs. Amos), in charge of the group for the home nursing course, received a large number of volunteers from amongst our alumnae.

The luncheon meeting planned for February 3 was postponed to February 14 because of the presence here of Mrs. Frank M. Engle, of Tulsa, Oklahoma, province vice-president. We were happy and honored by her visit.

Catherine Ross, one of this season's debutantes, is a new member of the Waco Service league.

*Iota ProvinceBeta Pi—Chartered 1905*University of Washington, Seattle, Washington

What does initiation mean to Kappas? I wonder, especially in this unsettled world, what it meant to the 27 girls who became new wearers of the key February 4. I hope it brought peace, understanding and friendliness into a world that cannot define these words. I hope it brought an inner realization of what Kappa is striving for.

The banquet following initiation was a glorious trip to the Kappa Hearthstone via speeches, with Mrs. Margretta Hillman as tourist guide. The friendliness of Beta Pi chapter was stressed in a speech by Dorothy Cookinham. Mrs. Doris Taubman gave us a defense recipe for good sound living during these times, between quips which sent us into the aisles, and made us realize why we now have a new chapter house. It seems that while Doris was in school, she kept the girls constantly rolling on the floor in fits of laughter until the foundations broke down. This is the first time in history that a person has succeeded in breaking down the much-discussed Kappa foundations. Virginia Vanderbilt gave an inspiring speech for the new initiates which answered in part my query, "What an initiation means." But it was not until the standards committee of the chapter initiated Jeanne Barto in a hospital that we found out all that a key could mean.

In our desire to be virtually Dr. Jekylls and Mr. Hydes, only as far as dual personalities go, we find ourselves defense workers by day and glamour girls by night. Our winter formal was given without the usual dinner, and the money saved from this was used for national defense.

We are looking forward to the visit of Heloise Smartt, field secretary. We have even heard that she is most human, although adept at discovering skeletons in closets!

PEGGY AUSTIN

Beta Phi—Chartered 1909Montana State University, Missoula, Montana

We have had three dessert dinners for the Σ Xs, Σ Ns and Φ Δ Θ s in the interests of goodwill, and to acquaint our pledges with the different fraternities.

Kappa stood third in scholarship for fall quarter, missing first by .001 of a point.

Our deepest sympathy is extended to Ruth Smails for the recent death of her step-father.

Personals

Eileen Murphy was one of the candidates for Homecoming queen.

Janet Nichols and Shirley Strandberg sang solos in the Christmas cantata.

Outstanding event for Beta Phi chapter this quarter was the most enjoyable visit of Heloise Smartt, field secretary. While she was here, we had a banquet and a Panhellenic luncheon for her. Also the Mothers' club was invited to tea to meet her.

After straightening things out to everyone's satisfaction, we proceeded to initiate 12 girls who won their keys through honorary initiation. The requirement is a B average. The new Kappas are Margaret Mulroney, Margaret Thraillkill, Katherine Cowell, Mary Louise Robison, Eileen Murphy, Mary Louise Ross, Janet Nichols, Dorothy Wirth, Sybil Flaherty, Roberta Renz, Barbara Wilson and Marian Cheney.

We are in the midst of furious intersorority basketball and bowling tournaments. Thus far we are on top and hopeful of staying there.

Personals

Janet Nichols, Shirley Strandberg and Eileen Murphy sang for the music club dance.

Isabel Brenner was appointed air raid warden.

Sybil Flaherty is on the debate team.

Marion Cheney was pledged to ΨX , national psychology honorary society.

CAMILLA MCCORMICK

Montana—Established 1919

The association has continued its well-attended monthly meetings at the chapter house. Programs have been arranged for each meeting and have included some guest speakers. The Mothers' club members were guests of the alumnae at the January gathering, at which girls from the active chapter entertained with Kappa songs and other musical numbers.

The main project for the year has been the purchase of new initiation equipment for Beta Phi chapter. This was accomplished in time for the honor initiation of 12 new members February 7.

The chapter was happy to have Heloise Smartt, field secretary, as a guest at the February meeting. Alumnae, actives and pledges enjoyed supper together, then a Kappa sing, after which the alumnae had their regular business meeting. Miss Smartt spoke informally to the group, telling with enthusiasm of Kappa doings elsewhere, and making helpful suggestions for the good of the association in Missoula. Our Hulda Fields (Mrs. Ralph), president of Iota province, accompanied Miss Smartt on her official visits to Spokane, Pullman and Moscow.

Personals

Mary Rodes Leaphart (Mrs. C. W.), B X-Kentucky, former grand secretary and grand registrar, is now a proud grandmother. Mary went to New York in December to welcome her grandson, and visited for two months with her daughter Mary (Mrs. Joseph C. Carter), B Φ -Montana.

Two loyal members of our association have moved away recently and are greatly missed. Bernice Luedke Fitzhugh (Mrs. Russell) has gone to make her home in Billings, and Marion Breaid (Mrs. Denny), B Ω -Oregon, has returned to her former home in Portland.

Kathleen O'Donnell O'Brien (Mrs. James) has returned to Billings from Honolulu with her three young daughters, and will remain there for the duration.

Mary Cardell has returned from Honolulu also, and is visiting her mother in San Marino, California.

Ruth Polleys Sale (Mrs. George) has returned from Anchorage, Alaska, with her young son. Dr. Sale is still on duty with the Army at Anchorage.

Montana alumnae are justly proud of Grace and Olive Barnett, whose book, Homesteader Horses, was published by the Oxford Press this fall. This is the sixth book for children which these gifted Kappas have had published, each book illustrated as well as written by them. Besides the six story books, a booklet in a series of social science studies published by Row Peterson in Evanston is to be released soon. This is called Woodland Wealth, and is a study of trees for fourth grade children.

GRACE MATHEWSON STREIT

Butte—Chartered 1938

The Kappa alumnae in Butte are really humming this year. Our monthly meetings have been made interesting by the addition of a program each time we meet. In December the meeting was at Collette Dougherty's, and after catching up on Kappa news we listened to a wonderfully descriptive talk by Bernice Papworth on Japan. Bernice spent some time there and brought to the meeting several articles to demonstrate her discussion of that country.

In January we met with Catherine McCarthy Davenport (Mrs. William A.), and were treated to a program given by Dorothy Hannifin on sterling silver. Dorothy is an authority in this line and we all learned a great deal. During the meeting and program we worked on baby wrappers for the Red Cross.

When the Red Cross conducted its nationwide campaign for emergency subscriptions, via telephone and radio we Kappas subscribed $10 to the cause.

At present we are looking forward to our next get-together which Josephine and Helga McArthur will have at their home.

In the months to come, we Butte Kappas can be depended upon to do our bit in whatever way we can to aid in national defense.

LEAH S. BRICKETT

Beta Omega—Chartered 1913

University of Oregon, Eugene, Oregon

Beta Omega scored first again during fall term by receiving the highest scholastic average of any sorority on the campus.

Fourteen new members were initiated January 24.

Our alumnae advisors were entertained at dinner and formal chapter meeting February 9.

Dads' week-end occurred February 13-15, and for the second time the "Valentine Girl" for this week-end was chosen from our chapter. This year Dorothy Walthers won the title. Her picture was used to advertise the event, and she was introduced at a luncheon for the fathers. A dinner honoring our fathers was given at the chapter house.

We had our winter term formal dance at the Osburn hotel.

MARGARET SLEEPER

Beta Kappa—Chartered 1916

University of Idaho, Moscow, Idaho

We were delighted with a visit from our field secretary, Heloise Smartt, and our province president, Mrs. Hulda Fields, the week-end of February 7. In addition to their charming company and pleasurable friendship, we received many suggestions and ideas.

Upperclassmen were honored at their annual dinner dance.

Personals

An outstanding member of our pledge class, Peggy Tway, was chosen to be "Yell Queen" by the ASUI. She is also directing the annual pep band show.

Another outstanding pledge is Mary Elizabeth Pennell, who made a straight A average.

RAMONA LARKIN

Boise—Established 1921

Julie Davis Northrop and Ellen Dollard Glaisyer were hostesses for the February 2 meeting. Program ideas were discussed and later bridge was enjoyed.

Kappa had charge of the decorations for the 20th annual Panhellenic ball during Christmas week. This year, half the proceeds were given to the Red Cross War Relief fund.

In coöperation with the Panhellenic association, Kappa is devoting one day a month to sewing for the Red Cross.

Kay Nicholson Gamble (Mrs. Thomas), B K-Idaho, and family have recently returned to make their home in Boise.

Former Boise Kappas in the Hawaiian islands when the war broke out include Francis Stolle Johns (Mrs. Howard), B K, whose husband is connected with a construction company in Honolulu, and Barbara Kidder Ringrose (Mrs. Neil), I T-Whitman, whose husband, a lieutenant in the infantry, is stationed at Schofield Barracks.

Gamma Eta—Chartered 1920

Washington State College, Pullman, Washington

Gamma Eta chapter is practically bursting with pride over their 23 pledges, all of whom made their grades. Half of these girls made an average of 90 or above.

Pledges went patriotic when for their pledge project they redecorated the smoking room in red, white and blue.

Our chapter is still thrilled over the visit of Heloise Smartt, field secretary, and Mrs. Ralph Fields, president of Iota province, February 11-14. A dinner was given in their honor, and 13 campus guests were entertained, among whom was Miss Lulu Holmes, dean of women at Washington State.

The following chapter officers were installed February 16 for the coming year: Ruth Hayes, president; Carol Kembel, vice-president; Edith Larson, recording secretary; Betty Turner, corresponding secretary; Shirley Ott, treasurer;

October 15 we had our annual "get acquainted" dessert with the Gamma Eta pledges and the house-mother, at the home of Louise Ott Webb (Mrs. Everett).

November brought us the pleasure of having Thelma Harper Anderson (Mrs. Russell), of Aberdeen, Washington, as our guest.

The annual Christmas party was at the home of Ella Olson Mathany (Mrs. Howard), December 3.

Our February meeting was given additional Kappa enthusiasm and inspiration due to two honored guests, Heloise Smartt, field secretary, and Mrs. Ralph Fields, province president. Their visit was much appreciated. Our newest Kappa baby greeted us, as her mother, Kathleen Bailey Irwin (Mrs. Claude), was hostess. This meeting will long be remembered as the announcement was made that all 23 Gamma Eta pledges had made their scholastic average for initiation.

BELLE WENZ DIRSTINE

Spokane—Established 1923

The Spokane alumnae recently were honored with a visit from Heloise Smartt, field secretary, and Mrs. Ralph E. Fields, Iowa province president. They were entertained at a tea at the home of Agnes Wegner (Mrs. A. H.), at which Margaret Davenport (Mrs. Harry T.), former province president, and Margrethe Husom (Mrs. Ralph) received with the guests.

Presiding at the tea tables during the afternoon were the officers of the Spokane Panhellenic association. Delegates and presidents of all Panhellenic sororities were invited to attend. Mildred Yenney (Mrs. C.), treasurer, and Mrs. Francis Ashby, secretary of the local alumnae association, assisted Mrs. Wegner, the hostess. All enjoyed meeting Miss Smartt and Mrs. Fields and hearing of their experiences and helpful suggestions. Members of the local association also entertained the visiting officers at a luncheon at the Spokane hotel.

The 1940 convention films were the highlight of a recent monthly meeting. Geneva Thornhill (Mrs. H.), Spokane's delegate, previously had shown films which she had taken there and related many convention highlights.

The February alumnae meeting was the annual guest event, with members entertaining their friends at a bridge dessert at the YWCA clubrooms. Cleta Bingham (Mrs. Jack), chairman, was assisted by Phyllis Morrison (Mrs. Tom), Mary Hoesley (Mrs. W.), Jane Richter (Mrs. E. T.), Eleanor Thompson (Mrs. G. D.), Janet Campbell, Mary Dysart, Mary Jane Hart and Betty Schultz. As a special feature of the evening Iris Boone (Mrs. Max) presented several piano numbers.

MARY DYSART

Yakima—Chartered 1939

Eighteen alumnae members were entertained January 19 at a dinner in the home of Grace Dawson Markham (Mrs. Loren). The hostess was assisted by Suzanne Bartholet Teague (Mrs. Fred), Helen Stevenson (Mrs. Harvey) and Edith Gholson (Mrs. Cecil). This was our first regular monthly meeting since the December luncheon in honor of our actives.

After the usual business was taken care of, Marie Schreck Kranz (Mrs. Mark) gave a talk on "Diet in Relation to National Defense," which was both timely and interesting.

Throughout the meeting, we put in our time profitably by hemming bandages for the Red Cross. We have unanimously decided to do this at each meeting, so that our small group may contribute a little to the work of this fine organization.

PEGGY GILLESPIE

Gamma Mu—Chartered 1924

Oregon State College, Corvallis, Oregon

The pledges started the new term by giving the chapter a dance, the Kappa Kotton Kapers.

The combined grades of pledges and actives of last term won us first place in scholarship among women's organizations on the campus. The average of actives' grades won second place for our chapter.

The junior prom this year saw Leona Leonard, our golden-haired junior, as a prom princess. Lennie followed in the footsteps of Kay Seberg and Carolyn Woolcott, junior prom queens of the past two years.

The seniors of Gamma Mu chapter have just been initiated into the "lavender and old lace" club, an organization originated by the sophomores for a fun night.

JEAN GARDNER

Portland—Established 1919

The urgent request that all Portland women take an active part in the defense program has necessarily reduced much of the social activity of the alumnae association this year. Members are participating as air raid wardens (Mary Elliott Pence), listeners with the interceptor command (Marion Andrews, June Brown Daggatt and Frances Jones Tate), recorders for Minute Men in the sale of defense bonds (Grace Stevens Samuelson), as well as in many other ways, such as studying first aid, nutrition and canteen work. No one seems to feel in the mood for a spring dance which had been planned as our chief money-making project of the year, so the suggestion for individual bridge parties during one week in March will substitute, with the possibility of a dance later on in the year if the international situation warrants.

Dwight Alderman, of the Portland Gas and Coke company, a chemical engineer and a staff major with the Veterans' Guard and Patrol, gave an interesting and enlightening talk on the defense set-up in the country in general and Portland in particular. He is working directly under Chief of Police Niles in helping to educate citizens regarding bomb control and precautions for an air raid, in the belief that education dispels fear.

We regretted not seeing the movies of the convention at Sun Valley due to the fact that our January meeting had to be canceled because of icy weather.

Meier and Frank company's annual table-setting contest was scheduled in February. Anna McCrea Davis was chairman of our committee for this event, and assisting her were Helen Dudley Starr and Kathryn Bos-singer Strohecker.

MARY ELLIOTT PENCE

Salem—Established 1940

The thrilling first-hand account of the Pearl Harbor attack given by Barbara Miller at the January 15 meeting made the war seem very close. Barbara and her mother, Virginia Miller (Mrs. Harry), both B Ω Oregon, returned on the first passenger boat, leaving Honolulu December 19. She told of volunteer nursing of the wounded at Fort Shafter's hospital, of a perilous convoyed crossing, of being pursued by a submarine and finally of a safe arrival in Salem, Christmas day.

At this meeting Barbara reviewed the initiation ceremony. Hostesses were Margaret Wagner, Elizabeth Stolz (Mrs. Richard) and Mary Lou Olliver.

February 11 we met at Donna Eason's (Mrs. David), with Peggy Drager (Mrs. Robert) and Marybeth Quistad (Mrs. Harvey) as co-hostesses. Plans for buying and making a layette for the Red Cross were completed. Ten Kappas enrolled during the month for a defense course in home nursing.

LEAH HOGUE

Gamma Upsilon—Chartered 1929

University of British Columbia, Vancouver, British Columbia

January 9 we gave a tea, the only rushing function on our program, at the home of Barbara McQueen. As a result we pledged two girls, January 21.

We had a pledge-active social meeting at the home of Lorraine Large, at which Barbara Spencer entertained us with a musical evening, playing records and giving us a talk on the great composers.

We entertained the $\Phi \Delta \Theta$ fraternity at a roller skating party January 29.

This year we have again decided not to have our annual spring formal, but instead to have a party at the panorama roof of the Hotel Vancouver.

At the annual elections Mary Farrell was unanimously chosen president to succeed Doreen Ryan.

BARBARA MCQUEEN

British Columbia—Chartered 1929

As time advances, we find ourselves busy making plans for our spring bridge, to raise money for the Nora Waln fund.

The four Kappa Red Cross groups are working harder and we are busier than ever as the demands are increasing. Our meetings since the beginning of the year have been most interesting with business in general and numerous guest speakers.

Our philanthropic work of caring for underprivileged children of Seymour school has been gratifying, according to the numerous letters received from the children and the school nurses.

Isabel Russel Guernsey, who is now in Berlin, after being rescued from the "Zamzam," writes interesting accounts of her environment and her daily experiences as a prisoner.

One of her brightest remarks is about the Red Cross parcels she has received. Little did she think, when attending Red Cross chain luncheons, that she was contributing to her future aid.

Beta Eta—Chartered 1892

Leland Stanford University, Palo Alto, California

We returned to college in January after a gay vacation. An unusually good rush period began almost immediately, and we now have 18 pledges.

The Palo Alto alumnae of Beta Eta gave a dinner for the pledges and in this way became acquainted with them.

Pi and Beta Eta chapters assisted with the alumnae fashion show at the Palace hotel in San Francisco in February. The girls from both chapters went to San Francisco to try out for modeling, and 15 were chosen from Beta Eta. The proceeds are going in part to national defense and partly for a scholarship fund.

POLLY PHLEGER

San Francisco Bay—Established 1928

Our annual fashion show was changed from the usual dinner dance to a tea and fashion show, February 28, at the Palace hotel, featuring clothes from Ransohoff's. Both Stanford and California have new rulings which apply to off-campus evening parties because of possible blackouts.

Dorothy Cooper Willis (Mrs. F. Glouster), B H-Stanford, was chairman of arrangements. Claudine Cotton Wood (Mrs. Leonard E), B H, and Beatrice Simpson Volkmann (Mrs. Daniel), II-California, were in charge of ticket sales. Patricia J. Walker, I E-UCLA, had the sale of chance tickets. In the East Bay, Mignon Henrici Gifford (Mrs. John), II, was in charge of ticket sales.

The tea was given excellent publicity. The sale of tickets was beyond our expectation, and the event proved to be very successful.

A portion of the proceeds will be given to the American Women's Voluntary Services and the remainder to Kappa philanthropies, since we do wish to continue our contributions to Kappa.

Gamma Zeta—Chartered 1920

University of Arizona, Tucson, Arizona

Studying for exams and beginning rushing have been the main activities of Gamma Zeta.

The efforts of the latter brought us two pledges. Official ratings have not yet come from the administration office, but the fact that 23 pledges will be initiated gives support to the belief that our high standing of last semester will be continued.

Kappas are taking an interest in work for national defense. The first class in first aid given on campus included Jean Beerman and Salome Ross. We were sorry to see Salome Ross leave; she has finished requirements for graduation after being with Gamma Zeta for three years.

Another member was gained when Frances McClure, Δ I-Louisiana State, was affiliated February 12.

Gamma Zeta is looking forward to the visit of Leonna Dorlac Lilljeberg soon.

Phoenix—Chartered 1927

The Phoenix alumnae met January 12 at the home of Robbie McCall McAtee (Mrs. John), with Virginia McCall Kolberg (Mrs. E. E.) and Florence Dunn Lockett (Mrs. Claybourne H.) as co-hostesses. Ruth Barnard Sherril (Mrs. W. P.) was hostess for our February meeting, with Emily Holt Stannard (Mrs. Carlos) and Marie T. Stannard (Mrs. Glynn) assisting. Both meetings were devoted to Red Cross sewing.

Our president, Mildred Harvey Miller (Mrs. Henry H.), has resigned. She is now devoting all her hours to fulfilling her extremely heavy duties with the civilian defense of Arizona and the Red Cross. Gertrude Whittlesey Kennedy, vice-president, will preside for the remainder of the year.

ANNE FISHER SULLIVAN

Gamma Xi—Chartered 1925

University of California at Los Angeles,
Los Angeles, California

With classes beginning and the formal pledging of 10 girls the new semester got under way.

Between semesters the girls spread out widely. Several spent the time in Palm Springs, while others ventured forth to the snow in nearby mountains.

The university, complying with national defense measures, is aiding men to complete their education by the addition of a summer semester. Thus we will only have four weeks vacation throughout the year. Some of the girls are planning to continue through the extra semester.

Personals

Mary Ann Betts was recently initiated into A M I, honorary language fraternity.

Patricia Darby was elected executive secretary of the university defense council.

KATHERINE MOORE

Pasadena—Chartered 1939

The Pasadena alumnae association had as its Christmas meeting a luncheon at the home of Florence M. Baldwin (Mrs. Gates), B H-Stanford. Members brought gifts for the Christmas tree of the children of our local charity, the Goodwill Industries. A Christmas musicale arranged by Clare Nelson Seagraves (Mrs. L. H.), B II-Washington, was presented, featuring some of our members. An added attraction was the appearance of a group of the Jarabe dancers from the Pasadena Settlement association, who presented a number of Mexican folk dances in native costume.

The January meeting, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William G. King (Charlotte Winter), B II, was an evening meeting for Kappas, their husbands and friends. We heard an interesting talk by William Foran, geologist for the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, loaned to the British government to determine the oil potentialities in the Near East. His topic was "Subversive Methods, Ancient and Modern." Mr. Foran is the husband of Thelma Hare Foran, B K-Idaho, who is president of the San Diego alumnae association. Catharine Richards McCabe (Mrs. Montclair), B II, and her committee were in charge of refreshments.

Our February meeting was another evening affair at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edwin Davis (Adelaide Plumb), Θ-Missouri. Florence Yoch, II-California, landscape architect, gave a talk, illustrated by colorful slides of famous gardens all over the world. A buffet supper was planned and served by Elinor Day Freeman (Mrs. Jack), B H, and her committee. At this meeting it was announced by our president, Florence

Allen Taofer (Mrs. Edwin C.), B Ω-Oregon, that on the third Wednesday of each month, we would meet at the All Saints Episcopal church in Pasadena, one of the Red Cross units, at 10 o'clock in the morning to sew, work to be followed by a Dutch treat lunch. Phyllis Eaton Freeman (Mrs. Fulton), B BΔ-St. Lawrence, was appointed the Army and Navy chairman for our chapter.

We welcome as new members Louise Miles Davies (Mrs. Edwin G.), B Ψ-Toronto, just moved to Pasadena from Glencoe, Illinois, where she was affiliated with the Chicago Intercollegiate association; Phyllis Eaton Freeman (Mrs. Fulton), recently returned from Peking; Clare Nelson Seagrave (Mrs. L. H.), B II, from the Westchester County alumnae association; Rosemary Jo Wentworth Shide-mantle (Mrs. A. J.), Ω-Kansas, recently from New York city, where she was a member of the young business women's branch of the New York alumnae association; she has also been affiliated with the alumnae chapters of Wichita, Kansas, and Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

MARTHA RICE PEATMAN

Sacramento Valley—Chartered 1935

Since the last KEY letter was written the Sacramento alumnae have enjoyed a tea, given at the home of Mary Smith (Mrs. Albert) January 13, and a dinner with Elizabeth Smith (Mrs. Harold) as hostess February 10.

We were happy to welcome at the tea Myrtle Hass (Mrs. Andrew T.), our province vice-president. Every one present greatly enjoyed her helpful and inspiring talk, and that is what builds and strengthens a chapter. We are looking forward to her next visit.

Winifred Breuner (Mrs. Robert) gave an interesting report on the five large Christmas baskets delivered to needy families.

Mildred McDuffee (Mrs. Herbert S.) spoke at both meetings on the importance of national defense. She stated that Panhellenic had had a meeting urging every member to give as much time as possible, as many workers are needed in the different fields.

We were thrilled to see our knitted squares put together in a colorful afghan.

We were glad to donate $15 to both the Nora Waln fund and the Rose McGill fund, two worthy and outstanding philanthropies.

Beta Upsilon—Chartered 1906

West Virginia University, Morgantown, West Virginia

Finals have again come and gone, and Beta Upsilon is faced with a heavy schedule of classes and defense work. All conceivable sorts of defense classes are being offered at the university and the chapter has turned out full force to take part.

Our social calendar has been running over with exciting dates: the women's Panhellenic formal, our annual informal the next night, and the Gold Diggers' ball, when coeds hold the purse strings and finance the evening. Also most exciting is an invitation from our brother fraternity, $\Phi K \Psi$, for a dinner and date evening. March 6 the chapter was hostess to other sorority women at one in a series of informal Panhellenic teas.

Personals

Mary Lou Bullard, whose picture appeared in a recent issue of the Burr, Patterson and Auld catalogue, is one of the colonels in the university drive for the sale of defense bonds and stamps.

Nancy Jo Ballangee is chairman of the Mortar Board benefit bridge afternoon, proceeds of which will go to the American Red Cross.

Nancy Garrett took a leading role in "Ladies in Retirement," produced by the University players.

NANCY STURTEVANT

Gamma Kappa—Chartered 1923

William and Mary, Williamsburg, Virginia

We are happy to announce the initiation of 17 new sisters: Helen Albers, Evelyn Bell, Louise Brown, Polly Bryan, Jean Burnside, Elizabeth Butt, Josephine Cornell, Gloria Dickerson, Edith E. Havey, Helen Jerry, Ruth Kenyon, Catherine Leavey, Mary Lehr, Jean Lockridge, Anne Moore, Ruth Schmitz and Elizabeth Shutts.

Formal initiation was conducted February 12-13, with seven visiting alumnae, Frances Seymour Cooper (Mrs. Robert), Margaret Taylor, May Carruth Berry (Mrs. Cornell), Sally Bell, Mrs. Donna Stanford, Ann Nenzel Lambert (Mrs. J. Wilfred) and Marguerite Wynne-Roberts participating.

February 14 we had our annual banquet at the Williamsburg lodge. Marguerite Wynne-Roberts, our well-loved Kappa alumna and assistant dean of women of the College of William and Mary, presided. Scholarship keys were awarded to Helen Albers and Louise Brown.

Personals

Sally Douglas has been selected the first student representative on the college committee for lectures on art and music.

CHARLOTTE ELISE STEITZ

College Park—Chartered 1938

The winter and war work have not dampened the Kappa enthusiasm nor decreased the attendance at alumnae meetings. The January meeting was at Kay Davis' home in Spring Valley. In the absence of the program chairman, Louise Fenton Quinn (Mrs. Edward) arranged an interesting meeting with a visual trip across the country via movies by Transcontinental Western Airlines.

The executive board of the chapter met for dinner and a board meeting at the Kenesaw apartment February 11, preceding the alumnae meeting at the home of Lydia Evans.

The alumnae advisors to Gamma Psi chapter gave individual reports which afforded an insight to their activities and those of the active chapter. We were glad to learn that the active chapter has maintained its scholarship. The Sigma Delta scholarship loan was explained to the group. It was a fund set up by the local chapter before it was chartered Gamma Psi. The fund is awarded by the scholarship committee of the University of Maryland to a deserving girl on the campus.

New officers are Louise Fenton Quinn (Mrs. Edward), Army-Navy chairman; Geraldine Schuh, editor of the chapter news letter; Ruth Lowry Storm (Mrs. John R.), recommendations chairman, and Marion Parker Needham (Mrs. William C. H.), membership chairman.

TEMPE C. GRANT

Delta Beta—Chartered 1930

Duke University, Durham, North Carolina

Concluding a highly successful three-day rushing season, Delta Beta chapter announces the pledging of 17 girls.

room was preceded by a breakfast at the Washington Duke hotel.

The pledges have two meetings a week under the direction of Katherine Harpster, pledge mistress.

BARBARA COSLER

Delta Theta—Chartered 1933

Goucher College, Baltimore, Maryland

Upon our return to Goucher after the holidays, we received a belated Christmas present, the scholarship cup, in recognition of our high scholastic rating for the fall term. We ranked first among the seven fraternities on campus.

The annual Panhellenic ball was given at the Maryland Casualty.

Jane Heidelberg, Gloria Noda, Isabel Riley and Betty Jo Swineford were formally initiated January 20. After the initiation, the new members were entertained at a banquet at the Northway. Emily Schlipp, president of the Baltimore alumnae association, Elisabeth Bartlett and Alice Kaestner, alumnae, were the speakers. The initiates provided entertainment by singing songs which they had composed.

An archives exhibit was presented to enable the new members to become familiar with the archives. After the exhibit there was a music hour, and several alumnae, as well as active members, attended. We were entertained by recordings of "Sleeping Beauty Suite," by Tschaiowsky, and "Piano Concerto," by Grieg.

MARGARET YANEY

Baltimore—Chartered 1926

The high spot of the January meeting of the Baltimore alumnae association, at the home of Mrs. Walter Lohr, was a talk by Mrs. Carl Wheelock on the prospective registration of women for civilian defense. In discussing the numerous things which women can do which were not included in the current general registration for civilian defense, Mrs. Wheelock brought to each of us the realization of our individual responsibility and ability to help. Almost every one of our group is engaged in some defense activity, though it be only knitting!

The guest speaker at our February meeting, at the home of Jean Heimer and Lois Twomley, was Richard Carl Medford, director of the Municipal Museum of Baltimore. It is interesting to note that this institution is showing defense motion pictures every noon for 20 minutes, so that the business people of Baltimore can benefit by these instructions.

Personals

Mrs. Arthur H. Deute has been singing for the soldiers at various camps, to their great pleasure.

Two welcome visitors at the February meeting were our beloved association founder, Mrs. Douglas, from Newark, Delaware, and Mrs. George Connell, from Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania.

Beta Omicron—Chartered 1904

Newcomb College, New Orleans, Louisiana

Immediately following exams, the chapter had its annual houseparty at Mercedes Harris' summer home in Slidell, Louisiana. About 30 Kappas, pledges as well as actives, spent the week-end playing tennis, badminton, horse-shoes, and singing before the fire.

The chapter decided to give the spring dance as a benefit, in order that the money may be used for a worthy cause. All invitations will be presented at the door with a certain number of defense stamps which will then be turned over to an organization working toward national defense.

Plans for the alumnae tea were resumed and it was decided that the tea be given in the chapter rooms.

BETTY HILL

Beta Chi—Chartered 1910

University of Kentucky, Lexington, Kentucky

Beta Chi elected Ethel Koger president to succeed Ann McMullen who graduated in February. Ethel Koger transferred last year from Delta Kappa at the University of Miami.

February 12 was Beta Chi's Founders' day. The annual banquet, celebrating this local Founders' day, was given at the Phoenix hotel. Among the alumnae present were two Kappas of whom Beta Chi is especially proud: Mattie Carey McCauley (Mrs. Gentry), charter member of Beta Chi, and Elizabeth Kimbrough Park (Mrs. James), K K Γ vice-president.

Our pledges this year have done well; out of 21 we are to initiate 15 girls. We are proud of them because Beta Chi's standing, necessary for initiation, is 1.5.

BETSY BROOKS WOODFORD

Lexington—Established 1921

Our association met in December at the home of Harriet Van Meter (Mrs. Farra). We rolled bandages for the Red Cross after a short business meeting. Our January meeting was in the Student Union building on the University of Kentucky campus. A luncheon was served and a large number of members attended.

The association as a whole has recently registered at the office of civilian defense for whatever services we can render. Our gift this year to the active chapter was a silver cup to be designated at the Kappa Kappa Gamma alumnae cup, to be given each year to the sorority making the highest scholastic standing on the campus. This cup will be presented at the annual Panhellenic banquet. We are proud that Beta Chi chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma won the cup this year for ranking the highest in scholastic achievements.

Beta Chi's Founders' day banquet was observed February 12 at the Phoenix hotel. Alumnae Mimi Wiedeman, Rebecca Milward (Mrs. Emmett) and Mary King Kouns (Mrs. Charles) were in charge of arrangements. We were pleased to have with us at the banquet Mattie Cary McCauley (Mrs. Gentry), one of the founders of the chapter.

RUTH WARE

Memphis—Chartered 1938

Memphis alumnae were joint hostesses with Z T A for the February meeting of Panhellenic at the Zeta lodge on Southwestern university campus. Following the business meeting we enjoyed a technicolor movie of Ecuador.

Some of us are enrolled in the Red Cross first aid course and several are on call for canteen service. Continuing our local philanthropy, we have supplied a poor family with food in addition to the regular work with the underprivileged group of Girl Reserves. Mildred FitzHenry Jones (Mrs. Paul), E-Illinois Wesleyan, is on the Girl Reserve committee of the YWCA. Susan Black Turner (Mrs. Arthur L.), Δ Γ-Michigan State, is treasurer of the YWCA board of directors. Helen Mosset Lowry (Mrs. Paul J.), B PΔ-Cincinnati, and Grace Norwood Cunningham (Mrs. Jesse), Δ-Indiana, remain on the board, the latter as president of the YWCA for the past two years.

We are happy to welcome Edith Seville Gantt (Mrs. George), Γ Φ-Southern Methodist, as a new member of our association.

GEORGIA COLE TEAGUE

Gamma Pi—Chartered 1927

University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, Alabama

The first social event following examinations was a valentine party given by the pledges for pledges of the other sororities and their non-sorority friends.

LUCIA JONES

Atlanta—Chartered 1931

The Atlanta alumnae association is feeling the first effects of the war. Since Atlanta is prominent as a defense center of the south, many of our Kappas with Army or Navy husbands are being transferred. We are so glad to welcome all newcomers and equally sorry to lose our old members. Especially do we regret the resignation of our president, Maurine Smith McCain (Mrs. King), whose husband has been called into the Army.

The increasing demands on all sides for money make it hard for us to raise funds for our Kappa association. However, the budget must be balanced, and we are planning a benefit bridge, old and unoriginal, but tried and true. A suggestion has been made that we sell chances on a defense bond.

We are carrying on our charitable work with a new family. Our last family, we are glad to report, is now self-sustaining. It has been our custom for several years to assist a worthy family, ineligible for aid through organized charities, and to transfer our help as soon as they can carry on alone. We are fortunate in securing these names through our welfare chairman, Clare Scott Beall (Mrs. Arthur), who is director of admissions to Eggleston hospital. Meanwhile we continue to struggle with artificial respiration and digital pressure points in the cause of first aid!

FRANCES FATOUT ALEXANDER

Rollins College, Winter Park, Florida

The initiation banquet was given, as in other years, at the Boyd Hearthstone, which we are fortunate in having practically at our front door. In addition to the new initiates and the rest of the active chapter, several alumnae and guests of the Hearthstone were present, among them Harriette Silver Scott (Mrs. Clifford), manager of the Hearthstone; Helen Steinmetz, Betty de Giers and Jane Pelton.

Personals

Janie May Stokely was elected to $\Pi \Gamma M$, honorary national social science fraternity.

Betty Lou Berdahl was elected by the college to be included in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Peg Kirk reached the semi-finals in the Palm Beach amateur golf tournament.

Jeanne Dominick was selected by members of the senior class to be marshal for all processions and convocations for seniors. It is the custom at Rollins for one man and one woman, each a member of the junior class, to have this honor, and this is the third year that a Kappa has been elected. Betty de Giers and Betty Lou Berdahl were chosen in the past two years.

NANCY LEE RAGAN

Winter Park—Chartered 1932

An enlightening "educational" program was given at our January meeting on the organization, purposes and ideals of Kappa. It was arranged by Harriett Scott (Mrs. Clifford) and Gladys Trisman (Mrs. Frederick), who called on half a dozen others to discuss such topics as membership qualifications, convention powers, Kappa philanthropies, insignia, etc.

Four of our Kappas were in the reception committee at the newly-opened alumni house "housewarming" given by the Rollins college alumni council in January. They were Wilhelmina Greene (Mrs. Raymond), who, with her husband, was in charge of all plans for the occasion; Helen Steinmetz, Frances Perrotet and Mrs. J. C. Lettice.

A formal tea for the eight recent initiates of the active Delta Epsilon chapter at Rollins college was given February 10 at the residence of Gladys Trisman (Mrs. Frederick). Helen Steinmetz, president of the alumnae group, and Jeanne Dominick, president of the active chapter, assisted at the tea table and the hostess was assisted in receiving by several of the younger alumnae.

A gift subscription of Selecciones, the Spanish edition of the Reader's Digest, is being sponsored by Ruth Cutter Nash (Mrs. R. C.).

Personals

Four new members have been received into the association: Celia Stein Claffin (Mrs. M. Beryl), wintering at Mt. Dora; Mrs. Robert Greer, of Orlando, and two recent Rollins college graduates, Mary Branch Merrill (Mrs. T. B.) and Jane Parks Ward (Mrs. Harry, Jr.).

Helen Steinmetz, president, and Betsey Chaffee (Mrs. J. I.), vice-president, recently motored to Penney Farms, Florida, to call on Mrs. Louise Bennett Boyd, the only living founder of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

The chapter wishes to express its deepest sympathy to Ellen McElroy Davidson (Mrs. James, III), ΔE -Rollins, whose husband, an instructor in aviation, was killed in an accidental crash at Randolph Field, Texas, barely three weeks after their wedding.

Sympathy is also extended to Ruth Cutter Nash, whose brother, Dr. Wm. D. Cutter, of Chicago, an officer of the American Medical association, and nationally known in the field of medical education, died suddenly of coronary thrombosis.

RUTH C. NASH

Delta Iota—Chartered 1935

Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, Louisiana

The second annual $\Pi K A-K K \Gamma$ Christmas party was a tremendous success. Numerous gifts were presented to the under-privileged children who were the guests of the two fraternities.

Examinations restricted many festivities during January.

The declaration of war brought forth the true patriotism of Louisiana State's Kappas. Our fraternity was the first to initiate a program of war work on the campus. Today all members of Delta Iota are knitting, enrolled in first aid classes or are studying home nursing.

The chapter bought a defense bond with the money budgeted for one of the Kappa dances. All tea dances were canceled by the university in order that the money might be used for national defense.

Personals

Moir Lant was selected by $\Phi K \Phi$, national senior honorary fraternity, for maintaining a 2.5 average.

Kappas of the freshman and sophomore classes making the semester honor roll are Elizabeth Kirkpatrick, Peggy Ann Fife

MOIRA LANT

Delta Kappa—Chartered 1938

University of Miami, Coral Gables, Florida

Because of the war social life within the sororities and fraternities of our university has been practically eliminated. Red Cross classes, knitting and other patriotic projects now fill leisure hours. The Red Cross first aid course is the specific project of our chapter.

College life has left us so busy that it is hard to realize the Christmas holidays were only a short time ago. However, the season will not soon be forgotten in Coral Gables. One of the big events was the Kappa tea dance to which we invited our good friends from other sororities.

PHYLLIS JONES

Miami—Chartered 1925

An al fresco supper was enjoyed by Miami alumnae February 11 on the backyard terrace of Mrs. Harold Bagby's Miami Beach home.

At the outdoor grill Mr. Bagby, in chef's cap and apron, turned out hamburgers with the skill that has earned him no small local repute. After the regular business, a white elephant sale, with Bunty Cesarano (Mrs. P. J.) doing the auctioneering, realized more than $7 and no complaints from the customers.

Alumnae and actives of Delta Kappa chapter joined forces for a smorgasbord rush party February 18 at the chapter house with Betty Lou Newman (Mrs. Frank) as alumnae chairman.

"The Man Who Came to Dinner," produced and acted by the Theatre of the Fifteen in Coral Gables, was sponsored by the Miami association January 28 as its winter project. For the third year alumnae took complete charge of ticket sales for one performance in return for a share of the profits. As almost the entire audience was made up of Kappas and friends, two birds were killed with one stone in this way, the treasury increased and an entertaining evening enjoyed by the members. Travis Lee Cheatham (Mrs. Lawson) was in charge.

MARGARET SHILLINGTON

Beauty Does Its Bit

AT A TIME when war pictures are overwhelming us, a breath of beauty on the cover seems a welcome contrast," wrote Editor K. D. Pulcifer, in the January 1942 issue of The Shield and Diamond, explaining that the "glamour girl" is Ruth Martin, dream girl of the $\Pi K A$ chapter at the University of Arkansas, chosen to preside over $\Pi K A$ festivities throughout the state this year. Ruth, ΓN -Arkansas, is engaged to a $\Pi K A$, need we add.

Thou Kappa Kappa Gamma live each day in all our hearts. And in our lives play many noble sympathetic parts. The parts of sister, second mother, counsellor, true friend. Of Love's ideal to which we raise our eyes until the end Until the end? I think when passed beyond this little sphere. We still shall see thy joyous shining light forever clear. And hear in all the skies thy call of perfect Womanhood
So God may say "On earth and here thou art a lasting Good"

Ella Wallace Wells
