Call to Convention

In his poem entitled, "New Hampshire," Robert Frost says, "It's restful to arrive at a decision and restful just to think about New Hampshire!" The Kappas arrived at their decision to hold the forty-sixth biennial convention at Mt. Washington, Bretton Woods, New Hampshire, several years ago, but zestful is more nearly the word we would apply to plans for that assembly! But restful it may be also, for this is Robert Frost country where tree covered mountains lull the traveler and bid him stay a while.

And we bid you, Kappas of all ages, to turn your sights toward New Hampshire, June 23-29, and attend this great Kappa conclave.

There are two things said about every convention and they will be said about this one. "If only everyone else in my chapter, or if those in my alumnæ group could be here;" or "How can I ever carry back the feeling and thrill and inspiration to those at home?" Convention has to be experienced to be understood and it is one of the hardest tasks to try to recapture and project those experiences to those who have no conception of a Kappa convention.

It is the time when old friends meet again, Kappa friends who may not have seen each other since the last convention two years ago. It is the time for the new delegate, apprehensive at this strange responsibility, to meet other delegates from across the country and learn to her surprise and pleasure that they are just like the girls at home and that this could be her own chapter, only larger! The ritual and pageantry of convention, so well remembered by the habiteers and so thrilling to the first attenders are a part of it. So also are the stimulating and thought provoking speakers and the informative resource meetings. A vital part of convention is the fun, the entertainment and the wonderful Kappa fellowship that permeates our meeting. Here for the first time, members see the entire scope of their Fraternity, learn what respect Kappa is accorded in the educational world, and feel a deep sense of pride in the membership they may have accepted so casually. If you've never been to convention, you've never really enjoyed the full advantages of your membership. Make your plans now to join us at Bretton Woods this summer!

Loyally,

T rue freedom carries great responsibility; a responsibility to be dependable and a responsibility to develop a sense of worth. The greater the freedom to choose and to do, the greater the need for guidance. The freedom of the adult world imposes responsibilities that are incessantly demanding. Youth too often has a tendency to overestimate the term freedom.

A college or fraternity builds on moral foundations that have been firmly laid at home. Unfortunately, many students and some parents have the misconception that young people suddenly become mature adults when they go to college. They do not realize that maturity comes only with knowledge and experience not with a change from high school to college. "Freedom is a plant which grows only from knowledge. It must be watered with faith," said Adlai Stevenson. Milhaud, the great French composer, wrote "You can not be free until you have mastered the rules."

The student who has "mastered the rules" will have the opportunity of moving forward and growing stronger and more mature each time a wise choice is made. Fine young people who have learned self-discipline in the formative years, whether it be in music, the arts, athletics or behavior codes, can control their lives and make decisions that will bring lasting happiness. Otherwise the new freedom is not freedom at all.

We as fraternity women need to examine and understand the conditions of this new age of freedom. A knowledge of campus trends, their effect upon us and what we can do about them is essential.

Edith Crabtree, former Fraternity President, pointed out that all of life is a process of change. Kappa Kappa Gamma has developed strength through almost one hundred years because it has been flexible to change, quick to adjust to new trends, yet always steadfast to its basic purposes and creed.

The Fraternity feels that if the college woman of today is to be ready for these changes and for the obligations she has assumed with acceptance of Fraternity membership she must make selfish aims secondary to broader and higher objectives.

The Fraternity contends that academic, social, moral and health standards are more easily maintained in supervised chapter housing or dormitories rather than in off-campus living now sanctioned and sometimes even encouraged by many administrations for seniors or those over 21.

Sometimes the student feels money can be saved by apartment living with a number of friends. It is true that careful students who can cook and buy wisely and don't mind the inconvenience of house work probably can save money. Too often though the house work takes too much time and meals are eaten out.

The distraction of the fraternity house is another reason given for wanting an apartment. A third reason is the desire to be relieved of responsibility—it has interfered with study, with normal living and is taking too much personal time just for the benefit of the group.

Lately we hear of the student who wants to be independent and self-reliant, yet she never gives a thought to the obligation of membership.

The Fraternity policy is that active members live in the chapter houses as an obligation of membership assumed with initiation. The extensive housing program initiated and developed by the Fraternity, at the request of the actives and for their comfort, needs to have the support and cooperation of the undergraduate.

They've given Cinderella a key

by MARY MARGARET GARRARD

Cinderella started it. She was possibly the first—and certainly the most famous girl—who ever had a curfew. She had to leave the party by 12 midnight—or else.

However, if Cinderella were a college student today and lived on the right campus she would find that not even fairy godmothers are permitted to set the curfew any more. Neither, for that matter, are college administrations or student governments. Today, on these campuses, Cinderella would set her own hours.

Of course, not just any Cinderella can do this. Curfews are still extant, probably 100%, for freshmen college girls over the country. But some colleges are turning over to senior girls the responsibility of returning home from dates, study sessions, or what-have-you at whatever hour of the night they choose, or not till morning, if this suits them better. Even a few specially chosen sophomores are being given the new freedom at some places, while an increasing number of juniors are now "on their own."

The ensuing article endeavors to present in an unbiased fashion the history of and the current status of this new freedom, as well as its pros and cons.

When did this start? As far as can be ascertained, about 1955, with a greatly accelerated interest in extended hours for college women in the last two or three years.

Where has this been voted in? Mainly in some state universities in the northern U.S. Percentage-wise the number of schools involved is not great. However, there is a trend in many places toward liberalizing hours. Where libraries are open until midnight, upperclass women may be allowed to stay out on week nights until 12:30. Some weekend privileges extend to 3:00 A.M. Along with this goes a generous arrangement for overnights.

It is but a step from this to "senior keys," or whatever name the program is known by which allows senior girls to set their own hours. All such plans have a similar purpose. It is stated that the purpose is not to encourage students to stay out later, but rather to recognize the maturity of the senior and her ability to assume responsibility for her own life. It is reiterated that the new hours are a privilege for her—not a right.

By and large the impetus for the new hours can be said to come from the upper-class girls themselves, those involved in leadership positions in AWS or other campus government groups, although occasionally a faculty source has provided the spark. Usually every conceivable campus entity that is concerned is brought into the discussion of liberalizing hours: the dean of women's office, the residence hall governments and counselors, the local Panhellenic, sorority advisory boards, directors of the independent houses, alumnae and others. Alternative plans may be submitted.

Of course, approval must be given at some point by the university itself, usually acting through the dean of women. Also it is up to a committee to winnow through the results of any votes taken, any debates engaged in and then to set up the program of extended hours. However, the way is often left open for an individual living group to operate on a plan stricter than the norm, if it so wishes.

What is the norm? It would be nice to describe a hypothetical "average" representing all schools. This is not possible due to the highly individual approach employed by each. While some colleges have conducted surveys of what is going on elsewhere, final decisions are made on each campus according to local conditions.

The plans vary: some are implemented separately by housing units based on certain minimum standards; some are highly elaborate and uniform plans of issuing house keys. The rules under which most systems operate are usually reviewed and possibly revised yearly. The participating girls must also attend at least one orientation meeting where these rules are spelled out.

Various criteria determine who may take part. Just being a senior and/or over age 21 is enough on some campuses. (Graduate students usually have full freedom automatically.) Other colleges require one or more of the following: filing of a birth certificate; letter of permission from parents; a high grade-point average; approval of the dean of women. If the hours freedom extends into the lower classes, the requirements may (though not always) become tougher, with possibly only those juniors and sophomores with high standing, who are "recommended," being included.

There are other limiting factors. A major headache is how to provide safety for a living unit with seniors returning at all hours of the night.

Where a front door is left unlocked, one solution is to hire a night proctor. In the senior keys system where each girl has a house key, keeping track of keys is regarded as a serious matter. When not in use, keys are kept in a central place; spot key checks are held regularly; keys are turned in to the dean of women at the end of the year.

Seniors are subject to sign-outs for the use of keys in more or less detail—again depending on the school. Some schools want to know where a girl is going and the name of her escort, if any. Often a girl must indicate the hour when she expects to come back. On some campuses she must sign in by 7 the next morning, or it may be by 9, or not until noon.

There are various penalties for not using keys responsibly. The dean of women, a branch of the AWS, or the standards committee of an individual house may serve as judge and jury on violations. A whole living unit may lose privileges if the key system there is not conducted according to rules. Occasional removal of key privileges are reported which punish the individual girl who shares her key with someone else, falsifies information, repeatedly misplaces her key, does not report misuses of keys by

Editor's Note:

They've given Cinderella a Key is one of a series of articles prepared for sorority magazines by "Operation Brass Tacks," a project of the National Panhellenic Editors' Conference.

Material for this article was secured by the author from deans of women in colleges both with and without the key system and from a sampling of students, alumnae, parents, house directors, sorority advisory board members and traveling secretaries, as well as others closely associated with campus living.

The author, Mary Margaret Kern Garrard, has had a long career as a free lance writer. She is a former editor of the Mortar Board Quarterly and the International Altrusan and is currently editor of the Kappa Alpha Theta Magazine.

Permission to reprint the article or any portion thereof must be obtained from the "Operation Brass Tacks" committee, Dorothy Davis Stuck, Pi Beta Phi, chairman, P.O. Box 490, Marked Tree, Arkansas 72365.

others, or in general uses her key to reflect poorly on her reputation or that of her living group.

Such a program places a good deal of responsibility both on the senior girls with keys and also on the officers and standards committee of a living unit. Generally speaking, housemothers are not supposed to be too involved. However, there is some feeling that an adult who is in personal touch with the girls, thus knowing what their habits are and where they spend their time, can help keep such a program on a high level.

That there are mixed reactions to this relaxation of hours, no one denies. The girls themselves seem almost 100% in favor. Administrations on campuses where the programs are in effect seem generally pleased with the results and particularly pleased with the orderly and democratic approach used by students in petitioning for the changes.

On the other hand, some administrations are dead set against the whole idea. In general, advisory boards and housemothers of sororities likewise have reservations. Some people think there are many girls who really don't care about it either, but rather than being labeled old-fashioned, keep quiet, get their keys and then don't use them. Actually, for various reasons, numbers of girls do make little use of the privileges.

There is also a feeling that there is a great swell of parental opposition. This may be, but parents are not speaking out. Few have refused to give permission to their senior daughters for more liberal hours. At one school where a letter was sent asking for replies only if there were objections, not one parental objection came in. Nevertheless, individual parents in small numbers have expressed themselves in letters to deans of women and in discussions with sorority advisory board members.

Occasionally, there is also some change of opinion after experience with the new hours. For instance, housemothers who were skeptical or not in favor have been known to come to feel that they no longer should advise against the program.

As controversy continues, not the least of the questions raised is whether a university or college shirks its responsibility of serving in loco parentis by allowing such liberalization of rules.

Actually, some schools do take their responsibilities seriously. In such institutions adults keep close watch over the new hours programs. The students themselves sometimes also make an effort to keep watch, checking on grade averages of those with extended hours (where no grade-point is required in the first place), on the drop-out rate of such people, even on their extra visits to the infirmary (presumably caused by too little sleep!).

A final source of discussion has to do with the why of this movement for more freedom for college girls. To many it seems but a part of the larger restlessness on our campuses today. Other symptoms of this are increased drinking, the drive for relaxation of parietal rules, the attitude toward premarital sex. Some feel a liberal minority is leading the more conservative majority.

There are other factors which contribute more or less directly to the hours question. In some large universities there is no longer room for all students to live in college-supervised housing. Asks the upperclass girl who does: Why must I have rules when those in apartments off-campus do not?

Other girls who have been given unlimited freedom in high school by permissive parents may also complain about curfews. Still others, having studied abroad, have brought back a whole new set of ideas based on the fact that European students are almost completely unsupervised.

Some students may also tell you that the need for great amounts of free time has become more important as the pressures for grades and for making-good produce tensions and anxieties such as have never before been known.

Amidst all this, some definite pros and cons emerge concerning four areas all starting with "s": safety, scholarship, self-discipline, sex.

In the matter of safety, those against the new hours see two hazards. A girl may stay out too late too often and undermine her health. Also, in the case of some real mishap occurring, no one would be the wiser or be alerted to set up a search for a girl until the

*It's great to be a Greek

by MARYLEA BENWARE

B A-University of Illinois

Since its founding in the Eighteenth Century, the Greek system has flourished. Its processes have served to coordinate and advance the activities of the college. College life is filled, as we all know, with various diversified pastimes. First and foremost, of course, is education. Our primary goal is to learn so that we can fulfill our many goals and aspirations. Whether they be in the realm of business, the arts, or in homemaking, education fulfills a most important goal—the improvement of one's self. Fraternity life aids in this improvement. Through its bringing together of persons with similar ideas (but persons who profess their individuality), college life can be made far more enriching. In most houses, one can find a group of people who care about each other and who, through their working to maintain their house and inviting new members, interest themselves in things constructive and challenging.

To study only is a weak attempt at maturity. College life offers unlimited opportunity to "see around" textbooks and to find the answer to what is really important for the future. The fraternity is a place to "air out" problems with people you know and trust. Of course, dorm life can put you in contact with people, but the atmosphere of a fraternity or sorority is somehow different. Maybe it is working for your pin, maybe it is working to be a group leader; it could be many things. But somehow the workings of fraternity life create a bond ready to be called on for support at any given moment.

A great variety of social events and constructive activities are available to the college student, especially at a large university. The fraternity member is usually encouraged to participate in these activities. In most cases the individual needs an excuse (such as helping the house image on campus) to become active. Once having entered an activity most students find they have really been missing something and are glad that they were pushed a little. The Greek system is made strong and vital just through such efforts as trying to diversify a person's activities and by exposing him to various social and cultural events.

On my campus, many people feel that the Greeks are apathetic and not hard workers in anything. But it seems to me that the Greeks are the ones active in the Union, the yearbook, in Student Senate, and various other important areas. Is it because the independent student feels that the Greeks dominate all these activities? Do they feel that the Greeks have a closed society of inefficient bureaucrats? Or, do they not participate because they are not motivated to do so? In the Greek system there is a constant air of competition which is always a motivational factor. Through the unity and closeness of a house this sense of competition can be a good incentive to the student. This can only serve to strengthen the character of the individual and of the working body—the fraternity.

I have talked with many independent students who, though hesitant many times to reveal how they feel about the Greek system,

National Panhellenic Conference meets in Williamsburg

by RUTH BULLOCK CHASTANG
Panhellenic delegate

Mother Nature had been busy with palette and brush and the countryside was aglow with the fall coloring as some 203 delegates, alternates, and visitors gathered at the Williamsburg Lodge in Williamsburg, Virginia, October 27-31 for the 39th session of the National Panhellenic Conference. Kappa was represented by Ruth Chastang, the official delegate and alternates Frances Alexander and Mary Whitney. Also attending unofficially were Louise Barbeck, Fraternity Vice-President, and Isabel Simmons, Editor.

The Conference was opened on Wednesday afternoon by the chairman, Miss Elizabeth Dyer, Chi Omega. In evaluating the work of the Conference during the 1963-65 biennium, she pointed to the committee reports for specific accomplishments and expressed concern over the threats to freedom of voluntary association and the pressures for local autonomy. Mrs. Karl B. Miller, Sigma Kappa, secretary, called attention to the statistical analysis (as of June 1, 1965) which showed 62 new chapters installed and 35 colonies or pledge chapters.

In reviewing the reports, the panel discussions, and the addresses of guest speakers, it seemed that the theme of the Conference was "Concern with Change-Problems-Solutions." All demonstrated concern as changes affect society and the individual—concern for ensuing problems as they relate to fraternity; concern that change without restraint is dangerous, change without regard to basic truths and traditions may be destructive.

"Sororities—Their Present Status and What the Future Holds" was the subject of a panel discussion the first evening. Kappa President, Frances Alexander, served as moderator. Introductory comments reviewed present trends which affect sororities, the social revolution of our era which enmeshes the fraternity system in the civil rights struggle, and the resulting questions, criticisms, and attacks.

To answer some of the criticism aimed at the fraternity system, it was repeated that there is a need to create the proper image; to update programs to meet demands and pressures; to stress scholastic achievement, embracing worthwhile activities which take advantage of cultural and intellectual opportunities offered by the colleges. Long established standards need continued emphasis.

Looking toward additional and different problems which will result from changes yet to come, the discussion involved the establishment of many new junior colleges, branch campuses, increase in the number of graduate students, and continued social changes.

Mrs. J. Rodney Harris, Alpha Omicron Pi, advertising and public relations expert, challenged her listeners in a dinner speech to face up, for "tomorrow is here!" She pictured a tomorrow of more growth, technological advancements beyond our comprehension, high economy, and greater social changes. Pointing out the need to "sell fraternity," Mrs. Harris asked if "we are making plans to grow proportionately with the prediction?" She felt that we should "take lessons from industry and meet the demands of the times" and that "uninformed alumnae are the most dangerous weapons against our image."

Significant points included in some of the committee reports were:

Education-Citizenship: "We believe that Freedom of Choice—the right to select our associates without direction, coercion, or punishment from any source whatsoever—is a basic and fundamental principle of a free society."

Rush Survey: NPC membership is not keeping up numberwise with increased enrollment.

Extension: Continued interest on part of local groups desiring national affiliation and administrators who wish to invite national groups to their campuses. Many locals on small, remote campuses desirous of affiliation, but the interest of NPC groups is usually directed to the larger schools.

NPC-NAWDC Liaison: Kappa's chairman of Research and alternate NPC delegate, Mary Whitney, commented on a letter sent by the committee to the deans of women on 349 campuses having NPC fraternities. It related to the concern of NPC delegates in regard to maintaining high standards of conduct for fraternity members and the desire of each member group to cooperate with and assist each administrator in maintaining the standards established for her individual campus. It asked for opinions and suggestions in the area of standards as they relate to the Panhellenic program. Specific areas studied were closing hours, house keys, week-end privileges, and apartments.

Research and Public Relations: This report prefaced by background information and the history of the methods used by those promoting attacks on collegiate fraternal orders, presented reliable documentation of sources of attack and pointed to the need for knowledge of these matters which affect us as members of society and as fraternity women.

Dean Christine Conaway (left) and Kay Felty (right), Panhellenic President at Ohio State University accept the Fraternity Month Award for constructive public relations in the areas of scholarship, guardianship of good health, cooperation for wise college standards and service to a college community. Kay is a member of Beta Nu Chapter. In presenting the award to Ohio State, Mrs. Wilbur G. Payne, Alpha Chi Omega, said "For the first place honor we have chosen a college where sororities have been in existence since 1890, the Panhellenic since 1904. On this campus, 1800 of approximately 10,000 women are sorority members, the sorority average is consistently well above the all-women's average, they have continual evaluation of all Panhellenic activities to improve the ones they have, eliminate the ones which are not needed, and add new worth-while activities. In the last two years, the membership of the women's honor societies have had over 50 per cent sorority members and of the ten outstanding senior women, six have been sorority members. Thirty-three of the 55 WSGA membes have sorority affiliation as well as six of the seven officers. A Panhellenic rush was held this past year to help strengthen one of the member groups." Stetson University in Florida was second and Oklahoma State third in the judging. The National Panhellenic award, a gift of the 1957 Executive Council, recognizing "true, practical Panhellenism in the college field, the 'working together for the good of all,'" was presented to the University of Miami with Iowa State University as runner-up.

College Panhellenics: With the continuing need to strengthen the relationship between NPC and College Panhellenics through the area advisers, it was recommended that the committee be enlarged to better implement that goal.

City Panhellenics: Alumnae of NPC fraternities banded together have reached new heights in expressing concern and showing initiative to meet the obvious need to counteract subversive influences and anti-fraternity propaganda on every level. The official roll consists of 363 City Panhellenics and 57 other groups are completing requirements for affiliation.

IRAC: Reports of the meeting held last May indicated "increased number of chapters and new campuses, a continuance of anti-fraternity pressures, and more emphasis on local autonomy." Mrs. Joseph D. Grigsby, Delta Delta Delta, in giving her report stated that articles such as the one in the Wall Street Journal and other public statements which were not factual, have been answered.

Again, as in 1963, College Panhellenics were asked to send representatives to share in that part of the program dedicated to areas concerned with undergraduate activity. The visitors from campuses within a 250-mile radius of Williamsburg included deans and advisers as well as collegiennes. The Saturday afternoon meeting devoted to a panel was followed by group discussions presided over by Mrs. James W. Hofstead, Kappa Alpha Theta. She stressed the need for continued close association with all College Panhellenics and advised a re-evaluation of rush rules with an eye to simplification.

Other points given attention were the NPC thinking in early rush and pledging, limitations of authority, quota-limitation, services, and the need to adjust chapter and Panhellenic programs so that we are not accused of placing road blocks in the way of academic achievement. Also stressed was the need to take the initiative to maintain highest standards "and, in so doing, help set the tone for the entire campus."

Mrs. George G. Rudolph, Delta Delta Delta, adviser to the collegiate area represented, moderated the panel and Kappa's delegate, Ruth Chastang was one of the panelists.

Following the close of the collegiate sessions the final meeting was called to order on Sunday afternoon. The gavel was presented to Mrs. Karl B. Miller, Sigma Kappa, the new chairman. Other officers for the biennium are Mrs. George K. Roller, Alpha Omicron Pi, secretary, and Mrs. Carl Frische, Zeta Tau Alpha, treasurer. In accepting her new office Mrs. Miller said: "I challenge each of you to remember the five 'C's' I have enumerated: Change—Communications—Coordination—Confidence—and Cooperation, and I emphasize cooperation as the key to our present need in the fraternity world today."

The final banquet held Saturday evening heard Mr. Tom Huston, president of Young Americans for Freedom, stress the importance of interfraternity cooperation and challenge his listeners to stand fast in their right to choose their members without interference from any source.

Meeting concurrently with the NPC session were the National Panhellenic Editors' Conference and the Association of Central Office Executives.

As chairman, Isabel Simmons, Kappa editor, presided over meetings of the Editors' group. They voted to continue their Operation Brass Tacks project of furnishing professionally written articles to the member groups for publication in their magazines.

Mrs. Polly Ward, Delta Gamma, special assistant in charge of all publications for AAUW, spoke on layout and production problems during a workshop program. Mr. Kenneth W. Dean, a director of the George Banta Company discussed future plans for printing fraternity publications at another session. Mr. Murray Martin, advertising director for the National Interfraternity Conference magazines, spoke about the possibilities of a joint advertising project for NPC magazines.

Miss Minnie Mae Prescott, Kappa Delta, presided over the meetings of the Central Office Executives. Mrs. H. C. Flemmer, Alpha Gamma Delta, will head this group for the next biennium.

A final pleasant event for the Kappas was a Sunday afternoon tea at the Gamma Kappa house with members of the Chapter as hostesses.

President's Dinner

An international figure in educational leadership, Dr. Novice G. Fawcett, President of The Ohio State University, will be the guest speaker at the Presidents' Dinner. Dr. Fawcett is the father of Jane, a B N-Ohio State member of the class of 1965.

President Fawcett earned the Bachelor of Science degree "Magna cum Laude" from Kenyon College in 1931 and holds an honorary LL.D. degree from the same institution in recognition of "unique contributions to the field of education." He holds a Master of Arts from Ohio State and additional honorary degrees from many other institutions. Dr. Fawcett began his professional career as a teacher of mathematics and science; later served as a superintendent of schools in Gambier, Defiance, Bexley, Akron and of the Columbus, Ohio, Public Schools. He was the first vice-chairman of the American Council on Education; has served as president of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges; is chairman of the Inter-University Council of Ohio, a member of the executive committee of the Ohio College Association; on the Scholarship Board of the Timken Roller Bearing Company Educational Fund Inc. and on the Board of Visitors to the Air University, Montgomery, Alabama. In addition Dr. Fawcett takes an active part and serves in a directoral capacity in many local, state and national business and professional organizations.

At the request of the International Cooperation Administration (now the Agency for International Development) President Fawcett journeyed to Southeast Asia early in 1960 for an official inspection and evaluation of educational and research programs in India where The Ohio State University is engaged in a cooperative venture aimed at advancing living standards in that area. In August, 1962, he served with a selected group of university administrators on a team that travelled the DEW Line in the Arctic from east of Greenland to a point west of Alaska on a United States Air Force inspection trip.

Keynoter

Dr. Doris M. Seward, a native of Bloomington, Indiana, assumed the duties of Dean of Women at the University of Kentucky nine years ago. She holds a B.A. from Indiana University where she became a member of Delta Chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma. She received a Master's degree from Syracuse University and a Ph.D. in student personnel administration in higher education from Syracuse. Dr. Seward has been engaged in personnel work at Syracuse, Minnesota and Purdue. Before coming to Kentucky, she served as assistant dean of women at Purdue and during 1955-56 was acting dean.

Dr. Seward is a member of numerous professional, social and civic organizations and has contributed articles to several national publications. She is a member of Φ B K, Mortar Board, Π Λ Θ , Ψ X, Λ Λ Δ , the National Association of Deans of Women and the American Association of University Women.

In the summer of 1962 she served as a delegate to the World Confederation of Organizations of the Teaching Profession at its meeting in Stockholm, Sweden. In subsequent years she has attended this organization's meeting in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, in Paris, France, and in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, again as a member of the American delegation.

The Convention committees

by CURTIS BUEHLER
Convention committee chairman

To most people the best convention is the one where they have fun, good food, a comfortable room with a congenial roommate, sparkling entertainment and an inspiring program. By the time the delegates and visitors arrive on the opening day those desirable conditions have usually been established by the combined efforts of the hotel staff, the Kappa Council and Convention committees.

Sometimes it has not been too easy an assignment but few realize it except the Convention workers. This year, 1966, and the 46th Biennial Convention may be remembered as the best one for the Convention workers, for the facilities at the Mount Washington Hotel, as well as the co-operation of its staff, are ideal for a Kappa Convention. Committee members will not be harassed with trying to jam 600 into a Convention Hall which seats 500, or a dining room that is too small. There is an actual choice of attractive meeting rooms. The Headquarters staff and The Hoot staff will have large offices in a central location. The social committee will have a big room to spread out their decorations, menus and favors. The lobby is large enough to place the information and registration desks beyond the sound of each others' voices, and the hospitality committee can visit with convention guests in any number of inviting places. With these glamorous conditions the convention workers are already planning for next June.

In this group are dedicated Kappas to make this Convention the best convention yet for all those who attend. It gives me great pleasure to present the names of these members who will be in Bretton Woods to greet delegates and visitors this coming June.

Virginia Parker Blanchard, Φ-Boston, who has been on the Council for many years in the past, has ascended to the choice position of Assistant to the Chairman. She also holds the title this administration of Assistant to the President. Ginny and her husband Paul own The Reporter Press in North Conway, New Hampshire. They will be the official printers for the Convention newspaper, The Hoot. Bretton Woods falls into Ginny's country and she is eagerly looking forward to playing hostess in her home state. Her talents and abilities are endless.

Anne Lewis Wilson, B X-Kentucky, assisted with rooming at the Sun Valley convention and became so expert at matching roommates and selecting the right rooms from the hotel charts that she is now in complete charge of rooming for the coming meeting. Anne is secretary of the Board of Trustees of the University of Kentucky and administrative assistant to the President of the University. She has been very active in Beta Chi chapter affairs as adviser and House Board member.

Jane Pollard Gould, B M-Colorado, will have her Post-Convention tour to Scandinavia set-up by the time Convention opens but will be taking care of the trips around the New Hampshire countryside on Sunday afternoon. Jane has gotten many Kappas to and from conventions for many years. The planning meeting of the Convention Committee held in Columbus last November was sparked by the addition of Mary Agnes Graham Roberts, T-Northwestern. "Gray" a former field secretary and pledge training chairman long a faithful worker at one of the hardest jobs to be filled at Convention (convention hall and meeting room mechanics) was full of new ideas and thoughts.

Nancy Lipman, Δ H-Utah, a former Graduate Counselor will again assist "Gray". She had a hard decision to make this year as she is the President of the Salt Lake City Association and should attend Convention as a delegate. The Convention Committee won her over and another delegate will take notes for Nancy. Nancy is a district adviser for the Utah Girl Scout Council.

Mary Jim Lane Chickering, Γ N-Arkansas, is returning to the chairmanship of the Social committee. Anyone who has attended previous conventions when Mary Jim planned the social events will attest to her originality and ability. Mary Jim, wife of General Edwin Chickering, Chief of Staff to the U.S. representative, NATO Military Committee and Standing Group with duty station in the Pentagon, now makes her home in Alexandria, Virginia. Mary Jim returned to college a couple of years ago and graduated last June with a major in Interior Design from American University. She says it is a "far cry from my major in chemistry." She assisted in establishing the student chapter of the American Institute of Interior Designers—"using again as I have so often my 'Kappa training'."

Assisting Mary Jim are some familiar faces and some new ones. In between her jaunts and tours around the world Dorothy Seebree Cassill, B II-Washington, will add her talents to the group. Last year Dorothy took a tour to the Orient and this summer will be leading a group on the European Continent. Charlotte Reese Copeland, B I-Wooster, a member of Fraternity Headquarters staff, will once again work on this committee in the tedious and backbreaking job of keeping track of all the social supplies, etc. Helping her will be Judith Ann Brown Black, B N-Ohio State, also a member of Headquarters staff. Judy is an artist and will be a valuable asset to the committee. Another familiar face returning to the committee after an absence will be Olga Turner Duffey, B O-Newcomb. She worked at both The Homestead and Grove Park Inn meetings.

Joining the Social Committee for the second time is another talented Kappa, Emma Jane "Deanie" Hosmer Miller, Δ A-Penn State, a former Province officer. "Deanie" is a busy lady in Philadelphia where she is president of the Lankenau Hospital Service League—a big, big job. Another new face is Cathie Andros Pollock, B Δ-Michigan, who is presently with the Headquarters staff. Cathie moved to Columbus the past year after teaching school in Ann Arbor while her husband attended law school.

Marian Handy Anderson, Γ K-William and Mary, and Katherine Nolan Kammer, B O-Newcomb, will be co-chairmen of the Hospitality committee. With their natural charm and graciousness and knowledge of Kappa, everyone will be assured of a warm welcome. Marian has been Convention chairman and Kay has worked on the social committee at previous meetings. The assistants on this committee are well known to most and they personify hospitality. They include two former Fraternity Presidents, Eleanore Goodridge Campbell, B M-Colorado, and Helen Snyder Andres, B II-Washington; a former Council member, and Hospitality committee chairman, Elizabeth Kimbrough Park, B X-Kentucky, and Agnes Guthrie Favrot, B O-Newcomb, former Rose McGill Fund chairman and a long-time member of this committee. Marie Bryden Macnaughtan, Θ-Missouri, a former Council officer and Convention Transportation chairman is a welcome addition to this committee.

Ardis North Hamilton, B N-Ohio State, is returning to the chairmanship of the Registration committee after an absence of two years. Ardis assists the Fraternity bookkeeper at Headquarters in a part-time capacity. Assisting her will be Marian Schroeder Graham, B Φ-Montana, who served in a similar capacity at the all time high registration at Coronado. Marian has served as membership adviser to B Φ, scholarship adviser to Δ H-Utah, and finance and chapter council adviser to Γ Ξ-California at Los Angeles. She is a former Province officer and currently is assistant to the Fraternity Director of Membership.

Two new members joining this committee for the first time are Jean Risser Aiken, Γ P-Allegheny, and Jean Ashdown Matthews, Δ K-U. of Miami. Jean Risser is associate dean of women at the University of Pittsburgh, has long been active in Kappa work. She was active chapter president, Pittsburgh Alumnae Association president and Beta Province Director of Alumnae. She is a busy person serving in addition to many college and community activities, as a member of the Fraternity Fellowships committee she is a part-time student in Graduate school of Library and Information Science at the University of Pittsburgh. Her loves include mystery books, travel and gardening. Jean Matthews is serving her second term as Miami Alumnae Association president and was co-marshal of the 1963 Mu Province Convention. She has been Rush adviser to Delta Kappa at the U. of Miami and has attended two General and two Province Conventions. She is active in Coral Gables community work and says her hobbies are knitting, sewing, collecting spoons, photography, travel and Kappa.

The Information committee will be in charge of Patricia Kingsbury White, M-Butler. Pat has served on various convention committees—last time in charge of registration. Working with her will be a former Convention chairman, Virginia Alexander McMillan, Γ K-William and Mary, who has helped in various capacities at several conventions. Three new members will join the group this year—Janice Tappin Lowell, Δ M-Connecticut, Jo Ann Dodds Richardson, B T-West Virginia, and Joan Davis Dimond, Δ Δ-McGill.

Jan Lowell has had little contact with Kappa since she graduated from college, as she lives in Brighton, Maine and Maine has neither a Kappa chapter nor an alumnae association. She is looking forward to the convention. She and her husband, Bud, have twin sons, Peter and Roger, who are Phillips Andover seniors, and John, a seventh grader. Jan teaches English in the Brighton Junior High, serves as a trustee of the public library and set up a Candy Striper program at the new local hospital. Last May she was elected to Φ K Φ at the University of Maine, after receiving her Master of Education degree.

She is a golfer and loves skiing.

Many will remember Jo Ann Richardson as a traveling counselor in 1951-2. After marriage she taught home economics in San Antonio while her husband was stationed there. In recent years her family, Ronnie, 9, Douglas, 7, and Ann Lynn 2, has been her chief interest. She has been on the advisory board of B T at West Virginia and currently is the Panhellenic adviser.

Joan Dimond is a founder and former President of the Commonwealth Alumnæ Association in Boston. In 1959 she was alumnæ marshal of the Alpha Province Convention. Currently she is chairman of the Phi Advisory board at Boston U. and serves as the Membership adviser. Joan helped on the Convention committee in 1956 when Kappa last went to New England for a meeting. Her husband, Sidney, and Debora, going on 7, and David, 4, keep Joan busy a good share of the time. Since she has lived in New England for many years she will be a wonderful source of information on local points of interest.

Jane Price Butler, Γ Ω-Denison, the indispensable chairman of Convention Music, will again train the Convention Choir in "no time flat." The Fraternity Chairman of Music, Bonnie Daynes Adams, Δ H-Utah, will have charge of all the singing at the special events. Everyone is always carried along with Bonnie's enthusiasm.

The Convention artist will be Katharine Bailey Hoyt, B N-Ohio State, who has been the official artist previously and has helped at other conventions without title. Kay, who has made her home in Boston, for many years, has been a faithful convention attendee and is a talented artist. She will be assisted in some of the art work by Lucie Dunlap Chandler, B X-Kentucky, the Sun Valley artist, and by Judy Brown and Cathie Pollock of the Social Committee.

This year the Pageant is in the capable hands of Edith Mae Hamilton Herrell, B N-Ohio State. Edie was in charge of photography at the Coronado convention and at Grove Park she assisted "Gray" Roberts on the Staging committee. At Sun Valley she worked tirelessly on the Social committee. In spite of raising three young Herrell's, Edie Mae has her finger in many civic activities. Her most time-consuming one at the moment is the Columbus Junior Theatre of the Arts. She is one of the founders, and assistant director, president and founder of the Women's Council of the Theatre. She currently is on the Board of Trustees and Art instructor.

Again Jane Emig Ford, B N-Ohio State, will be on hand to supervise the Kappa photography. Every one smiles more naturally when Jane beams over the shoulder of the photographer. Helping Jane this year will be Nancy McCloud, B N-Ohio State, as her assistant. Nancy is a 1965 graduate and is teaching in the Bexley, Ohio school system.

Willie Mae Robinson Wright, Γ Θ-Drake, the Chapter Publications chairman, will again be the editor of the Convention paper, The Hoot. "Billie" does publicity and public relations for the Institute of Logopedics in Wichita, Kansas. Ably assisting her will be the editor and the active Chapter and Alumnæ editors of THE KEY, Isabel Hatton Simmons, B N-Ohio State, Judy McCleary Jones, B M-Colorado, and Diane Prettyman DeWall, Θ-Missouri. Also on the staff will be Florence Hutchinson Lonsford, Γ Δ-Purdue, a member of the Public Relations Committee.

Oregon State in midst of record growth

Oregon State University is Oregon's oldest public institution of higher learning. This year, it has 12,000 students; 10 years from now, it expects to have some 18,000.

The city of Corvallis, in which Oregon State University is located, has a population of 28,000. Portland, the famed City of Roses, is 90 miles to the north; the Pacific Ocean is just 60 miles to the west over the Coastal Mountains.

OSU celebrates the 27th day of October as the anniversary of its founding. On that day in 1868, the Legislative Assembly of the State of Oregon designated Corvallis College to receive the benefits and to assume the responsibilities of the Morrill Act of 1862, also known as the Land-Grant Act.

Corvallis College had been founded as an academy in 1857. In 1865, under the sponsorship of the Methodist Church, South, it had introduced college-level studies. In 1868, when it became a state public school, it had the curriculum of a liberal arts college.

From that beginning and a graduating class of three in 1870, Oregon State has grown into one of the West's leading academic and research centers. Last June, it conferred 2,424 degrees; it has research grants at present totaling about $10,000,000.

The School of Science has moved well ahead in the year since Sputnik as the university's largest school. Today, it counts about 2,800 of the 12,000 students on campus.

The School of Engineering is second largest followed by the School of Education, School of Humanities and Social Sciences, Business and Technology, Agriculture, Home Economics, Forestry and Pharmacy.

About one out of every eight students on campus now is in the Graduate School, working for a master's or doctor's degree. There are four times more graduate students this year than 10 years ago. The Ph.D. degree is offered in about 90 fields; master's degrees in about 100.

Just about half of the advanced degree candidates are working in science fields.

Men outnumber the women on campus two to one which makes the social life of the coeds all the more interesting.

The university is in the midst of record growth. There are 1,400 more students this fall than a year ago. Building programs are being pushed to keep abreast of the rapidly-increasing enrollments. Nine new residence halls have been built in the last nine years, and another 57-acre area has been set aside this fall for more.

Fraternities and sororities attract many students at OSU and have made significant contributions over the years. There are 32 fraternities and 16 sororities. They house a total of about 2,400 students.

The Dean of Women says:

Sororities have been part of the Oregon State University since 1915. Gamma Mu Chapter of Iota Province of Kappa Kappa Gamma began as a local in 1917 and received its national charter in 1924. During all these years Kappa has provided leadership in scholastic excellence and in student activities. At present one of its members is Second Vice-President of the Associated Students. The chapter has consistently been among the top five in scholarship.

Oregon State University looks to the sorority women for leadership in carrying out the ideals of the University, whether it be in social conduct, in superior performance in activities, or in promoting the welfare of the institution. Kappa Kappa Gamma has always been in the lead in providing this leadership.

HELEN S. MOOR

"Cooperative" houses are a distinctive part of the campus to help students cut costs while benefitting from group living. In co-operative houses, students "cooperate" in doing all household tasks, including assisting with meal preparation and serving. By sharing the household duties, students save from $15 to $35 a month. In some cases, the savings may represent the difference between a student being able to attend college or dropping out because of finances.

Between 500 and 600 live in the 14 cooperative houses now.

Students from across the nation and around the world make up the student body. Nearly every state is represented this year and more than 60 foreign countries. Out-of-state numbers have been trimmed in the last five years, however, with higher admission requirements and sizeable increases in tuition for non-Oregonians.

Freshmen this year at Oregon State are members of the "Class of the Century" because they will graduate in the university's 100th year. Class members will have a hand in helping to arrange some of the special activities that will be a part of the Centennial observance.

About one out of 20 freshmen is participating in honors programs in the School of Science and the School of Humanities and Social Sciences. The programs are designed to let students "go faster and farther" in their university studies.

Reserve Officer Training Corps programs have drawn new emphasis with international tensions. Oregon State is one of only 35 universities in the country that offers ROTC training in all branches of Service—Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marine Corps.

Oregon State has many varied programs to talk about. Its School of Forestry has 14,000 acres of forest nearby and students "commute" in special buses as they combine the classroom and practical woods training. The Department of Food Science and Technology graduates about 20 percent of the nation's graduates in that field.

This fall, the nation's first training program in X-ray science-engineering was

The President says:

As Oregon State University nears the end of its first century, we are more conscious than usual, I'm sure, of our rather unique heritage. Oregon State University has thrived through all of its 97 years in what many Oregonians have described as a special kind of atmosphere—or state of mind.

This attitude of integrity, high standards, intellectual honesty, knowledge and scholarship, friendliness, character and service has given Corvallis and OSU a reputation throughout Oregon and the West as a wholesome and enviable place to live and obtain a college education.

We believe in the fraternity system at Oregon State. The sorority and fraternity system has been a vital and worthwhile part of our institutional program ever since the first national came to the campus more than 50 years ago. Sororities and fraternities have contributed significantly to the attitude I mentioned previously. They provide a very substantial portion of our housing, of course. But their greatest contributions are in providing personal growth—both intellectual and social—for their members.

Historians have called this the age of opportunity. It is also the age in which, perhaps for the first time, we have really become aware of the value and importance of human resources. A part of every student who has ever attended Oregon State University remains with us. Their attitudes and their values and their expressions of these attitudes and values are a part of the fabric of our University.

Whatever Oregon State is—and we think it is a great University—is in part what every one of its students has made it. This includes the members of Kappa Kappa Gamma over the years. I am most pleased and privileged to congratulate Gamma Mu Chapter—our Chapter—for its long and particularly distinguished record of personal and organizational leadership on this campus. We are genuinely grateful for this opportunity to be represented in The Key.

JAMES H. JENSEN

started. The university campus is extended to the ocean where a new Marine Science Laboratory has just been built. Students will take some classes there and oceanography-fisheries water pollution research is centered in the new Laboratory.

The Department of Oceanography, organized within the past 10 years, now has the fourth largest graduate enrollment of any school in the nation. The university has a 180-foot ocean research vessel on which students train while they assist with projects on the ocean—its chemistry, currents, radioactivity, salinity, plant and animal life, etc. A minimum of 10 days each year is required of each major but some students spend up to 50 days at sea.

In 1957, when the National Science Foundation started its Academic Year Institutes to upgrade training of U.S. science-mathematics teachers, OSU was one of 16 leading universities picked to launch the training. It has been on the list each year since then. Nearly 450 teachers from across the country have been enrolled in the nine special institutes.

Summer session has become summer term as a year-round academic program takes shape.

Heading the list of distinguished Oregon State graduates is Dr. Linus Pauling, the famed scientist who is the only individual winner of two Nobel Prizes. Pauling was an honor graduate in the Department of Chemistry.

Dr. James H. Jensen has been president of Oregon State since Sept. 1, 1961. Popular with students, he has proved to be an able and effective leader for the university. He earlier was provost at Iowa State University and is a former president of the American Phytopathological Society.

Benton Hall, the oldest building on campus, illustrates the close ties between the university, the community in which it "lives," and the state it serves. It was built with funds donated by people of Benton County (in which the university is located).

Today, Benton Hall stands on the east end of a 400-acre, tree-lined campus with some 80 major buildings.

The Oregon State campus is "extended" across the state through the Extension Service. Agricultural and home demonstration agents who are located in every county of the state are university faculty members. The 4-H club program of Oregon with 35,000 members is part of the university also. And the Agricultural Experiment Station has 13 branch stations throughout the state where research on local agricultural problems is conducted.

The spirit of the university perhaps can best be expressed in its unofficial slogan: "Oregon State University—The Scholarly and Friendly Campus."

These changing times

Another trend bearing the approval of many administrators is the use of house keys for senior women giving unrestricted privileges with a curfew set at 3:00 or 4:00 A.M.—one campus even did not require the key to be checked in until noon of the following day.

When house keys are issued on campus and are used by Kappas, the Fraternity policy is to require signed permission of parents which absolves the Fraternity of responsibility while the keys are in use. Such permission, signed by parents, is kept on file by the House Director. Senior women who have permission to use house keys should consider the safety of the chapter house, protect their own health and academic standing, be considerate of their fellow students and not jeopardize their personal reputation or the reputation of their group or University. All actives living in the chapter house have a "sign out" policy which the Fraternity feels is necessary should an emergency arise.

It is difficult to comprehend the scope and pace of the changes that are altering the pattern of the world today. If the young college woman is to be ready for these changes she must face the uncertainties ahead with courage and determination. By aiming high and with the realization that struggle is the law of growth she is preparing to meet the challenges and opportunities of these changing times.

Early beginnings

by LORNA COLLAMORE JESSUP

Γ M-Oregon State

To add charm and interest to your visit to Gamma Mu Chapter at Oregon State University, we are relying on three "eyewitnesses," two of whom have contributed to the story through the years, and one who is currently active in the chapter.

Recounting the beginnings and early years is Mrs. Lorna Jessup, who, as a very young widow, came to Oregon State to finish her education and, in the process, found herself serving as house director for the local sorority, Gamma Iota, which later became Gamma Mu. Mrs. Jessup supplied much encouragement and help in the local's quest for a Kappa charter and was subsequently initiated into Kappa. For many years thereafter, Kappas benefited from her wisdom, enthusiasm, and help.

Our second "eyewitness," who is handling the story from World War II to the present, is Mary Kollins Reed. Mary attended Oregon State during the War and was, for many years, an adviser for Gamma Mu, handling the myriad chapter problems virtually alone when there weren't enough Kappa alumnae in Corvallis to "make up a table of bridge." She has been the power behind both of Gamma Mu's remodeling projects, both friend and counselor to countless Oregon State Kappas and has given an amazing share of her boundless energy to this chapter.

The third contributor is Mary Coman, who, as a sophomore this year, edited the 1965 Gamma Mu News. She is well informed on the present activities and doers in today's chapter.

Kappa Kappa Gamma is a large family of chapters. As is true in any large family, there are many varying traits that show widely differing facets of personality, interest and beauty.

The time has now come for a closer look at a far western member, located on the campus of Oregon State University* in Corvallis, Oregon. I refer to Gamma Mu Chapter.

We are all familiar with the story of our Fraternity Founders, whose dream became a reality in Kappa Kappa Gamma. It may be interesting for us to remember that before each one of our chapters was born, another small group had a vision and a dream. They, too, worked long and earnestly to the end that they might be found worthy as a chapter of our Fraternity.

For many years before World War I, life seemed to flow gently in an unhurried, untroubled world. Suddenly we were in war. Life changed abruptly for all students. Most of our young men were in the service of their country. It took a number of years following the war to restore a semblance of order to the college campus. A new and greatly enlarged world had been brought home to us. Our service men had returned to the campus, bringing with them a matured sense of need for completing their interrupted college educations. With the increased enrollment, housing became a major problem. Residence halls were overcrowded. Small groups of students interested in becoming sorority and fraternity members were encouraged to organize and demonstrate their ability to live and work together harmoniously.

It was with this background in 1917 that a small group of girls, who lived in Waldo Hall, discovered that they had a deep desire as individuals to have the experience of forming their own group where they could strive to build a strong organization with a goal of becoming a chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma. One of the first songs of the original group carried the lines "When our good ship comes a-sailing—Kappa girls we'll be." Their advisers were people whose contribution many will fondly recall: Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Lemon, Dr. and Mrs. U. G. Dubach, and Miss Helen Lee Davis.

Finding a home for the new group was quite a problem. Since Corvallis was a small town, large and suitable houses were almost non-existent. Finally a house was chosen and the small group planned carefully to make it as attractive as possible. A deciding factor in the choice of this first home was the fact that the third floor was a large unfinished attic! Believe it or not, the girls did the actual job of flooring the attic. Very soon, two rows of single cots extended the length of the third floor and became the sleeping dormitory for twenty girls.

Emphasis was placed on choosing worthy and capable membership. Scholarship was always of major concern and, of course, character was the cornerstone in consideration for membership.

The name chosen by this group was Gamma Iota. This clearly indicated the help and interest of several good Kappa friends, one of whom, Blanche Hinman Smith, B T-Syracuse, loyally serves as Gamma Mu's Scholarship Adviser to this day. The Gamma in the name, to quote the Gamma Mu History, "stood for Gamma in Kappa Kappa Gamma and the Iota for Iota Province of Kappa," the Province in which this chapter would be located. It was hoped too, that they would be ready to become Gamma Iota Chapter, a dream that was not realized.

Gamma Iota worked diligently through these early years. She found her place in college activities. Her members were active in debate, music, dancing—in fact, in every phase of college activity. Honor Societies were well represented by members of this group. A well remembered week-end might serve to indicate the calibre of our little group. The time was 1921 Homecoming weekend of the OAC Campus. The big game was between OAC and the University of Washington. The special occasion for Gamma Iota—an opportunity to be "at home" to visiting Kappas from Beta Pi, Beta Omega, and members of the Portland Alumnae Association. The visit included before and after game courtesies, a dinner, several overnight guests and breakfast.

For this big week-end, the house was in perfect order, the girls were gracious and poised. Our guests were impressed. How could this small group, in their modest home, carry out such an extensive program without a trace of flurry or confusion? The answer was simple; Gamma Iota was making a great effort to demonstrate to this group of friends that they were working for a greatly desired goal, and they were hoping that their wonderful Kappa friends might recognize a degree of worthiness, and, by their interest and help, make the goal of a Kappa charter just a bit nearer realization.

The girls, too, wanted very much to own at least one piece of furniture that could be a symbol of what they hoped could come later. The purchase was a Weber grand piano. Of course, the piano was not new, but it was beautiful and impressive! After serving the group through these early years, it was later refinished, refelted, restrung and is even now the lovely Rosewood Grand Piano in Gamma Mu's large and beautiful living room.

In 1922 as the last of the original group of girls was graduating the need for better housing was a serious problem. It was agreed that if the goal of a Kappa chapter was to be achieved, better housing might be a helpful factor in reaching it. During the 1922-23 college year very careful evaluation was given to each possible choice of better housing. Finally a decision was reached. A new, larger house, nearer to the campus was available. The girls had saved a sum of $1,000 which could be used as a first payment. The College Committee on Student Housing approved the plans for purchase of its house, so the contract calling for a sum of $24,459 was signed. This decision was a tremendous one for individual undergraduates to make. There was no "national" to help finance the project. It took a lot of faith and courage to "sign on the dotted line."

That this house was a mere stop gap in the quest for better housing was very soon apparent. Its purchase came in a time of rapidly changing and up-grading of homes, both private and public. This house, however, was the home of the group at the time of the granting of a charter to become Gamma Mu of Kappa Kappa Gamma and remained as the chapter house until 1935.

At this time our Gamma Iotas were experiencing a period of great frustration. No matter how hard they tried; the question remained: would Kappa ever be willing to grant the desired charter? Gamma Iota made a big and final decision. She would do her best, and hope. If hope were not to become a reality, she would dissolve her assets and quit. For Gamma Iota, it was Kappa Kappa Gamma—or nothing! There was to be no substitute.

The petition was presented in March, 1924. Kappa Kappa Gamma would expand her policy to include charters on the campuses of the State Colleges! So on June 7, 1924 the local group who had dreamed of becoming Gamma Iota Chapter —became Gamma Mu! Marie Leghorn, National Registrar, was the installing officer, with the aid of Beta Omega Chapter at the University of Oregon. They initiated the 27 charter members: Louise Arnold (Miller), Enid Beal (Johnstone), Flossie Mae Blackburn (Boone), Ruth Cleland (Bell), Edna Belle Cobbledick (Holman), Wava Farley, Ida Granberg, Clela Hilderbrand (Bingham), Frances Jones (Tate), Ann Karlson (Greene), Dolores Kelsey (Foster), Doris Elnor Lake (Porter), Helen Leonard, Ruth Lyon (Pattison), Jessie McDonald (Acklen), Vida McKern (Scea), Marie McNair, Helen Edythe Miller (Goss), Thelma Jean Miller (Wagner), Edna Morback (Stiles), Ruth Price (Snyder), Mary May Swarm (Martens), Eleanor Thomas (McCormick), Irma Van Hollebeke (Calkins), Mildred Wallace (Lynch), Kathryn Wightman (Schaub,) Zelia Zigler (McElroy).

Fortunately, Gamma Mu had been slowly acquiring an equity in the property acquired in 1923 and had accumulated enough for it to be a bargaining factor for the purchase of the large "Kappa Castle" which has housed the chapter since 1935.

And then—

Little did the members of the Board realize that the "Castle" they chose in 1935 would still be the much-loved house occupied by our girls today. It has been renovated several times but, basically, has proven a good house for us. In their selection of Mrs. George Leekley, in the fall of 1938 as house director, the Board demonstrated similar insight, for she stayed with Gamma Mu for 14 rewarding years. She became the paragon for others; not only did she set the standards for other house mothers, but for the Kappas as well. Her name became synonymous with good taste and graciousness. Her warmth and complete competence in handling affairs for Kappa seemed to personify Kappa ideals to all who entered the Kappa Castle. Her hallmark of perfection was evident in the lovely teas given for faculty and townspeople; she added those "touch-of-home" trimmings for holiday dinners; she seemed to know the "perfect" time for a treat of hot cocoa and always she had compassion and a warm-hearted interest in all. Above all, however, Mrs. Leekley had an unswerving loyalty to the members of Gamma Mu and to Kappa. All who lived in the Castle during her reign felt her influence in the house and in their lives much longer than the years she spent with them.

In 1940, the inadequacies of the house were becoming apparent. Some finish work was done in the basement playroom, trunk room and storage rooms. A little later, the finish work was done on the third floor bath and plans were drawn for landscaping but not carried out completely. The Mothers' Club contributed the sewing machine that the girls continue to find so useful in the house today.

In October, 1942, war risk insurance was discussed; desserts replaced dinners during rush because of rationing. In 1943, school was kept in session through the Christmas holidays. In fact, finals were given from December 29-31. With travel conditions less crowded after the holidays, OSC began vacation on January 1.

With the help of exceptional finance advisers, Fern McCroskey Price and Peggy Mulligan Blackledge, together with the wise management of Mrs. Leekley, a ceremony was held for the "burning of the mortgage." Markie Weatherford Runkel presided on that historic day, March 23, 1944.

During World War II, two enterprising and thoughtful Oregon Staters decided to publish a newsletter, the Oregon State Yank, for all Oregon State servicemen. Co-editor, Elaine Kollins Sewell

Jones, was a Gamma Mu. It was quite an undertaking considering that their only financial support came from donations. The letters received from grateful servicemen from all over the world made the effort most worthwhile. Homecoming events were replaced that year with "Yank Weekend" and all proceeds went to the Oregon State Yank. (Co-editor was Jane Steagall, Gamma Phi Beta.)

In 1947, the Kappas, with borrowed hammers and saws (and perhaps talent) came in second in the homecoming sign contest with the theme of "Reunion after Tokyo" which marked the beginning of the years to come as after-the-war years.

In 1950 the House Board moved a step towards enlarging the house, which was to remodel the small dining room, move Mrs. Leekley's quarters into a more desirable suite, and remodel an outdated kitchen. The Kappas were the first sorority on our campus to install a dishwasher. In remodeling, the dining room was enlarged to accommodate about 90 girls. Needless to say, this was thought to be really ample for all times except on those rare banquet nights when guests were invited. Little did anyone know that in 14 short years, it would be barely adequate for the membership. Of course, even this remodeling seemed like a tremendous undertaking and there were many moments of uncertainty as to whether costs would soon be going down when it could be done less expensively. Each time before remodeling, the chapter was polled to determine the feelings towards the present house as compared to a completely new house. Each time throughout the years that this was done, an affirmation of the earlier house board's selection was revealed in the choice to stay on Van Buren in preference to moving to new quarters. Reasons would range from the traditions of our "Castle" to the location which avoided a fraternity row look and was close to town as well as to the campus. When this was first done, we hoped this feeling would prevail in the future. This hope was born out when, ten years later, the choice remained consistent and the girls still preferred their present location.

How happy all of us were that Mrs. Leekley got to initiate the new living quarters to be used by the house director! These years were to be her last years with us, and in the spring of 1953, Gamma Mu actives and alumnae honored her with a tea to which her many friends were invited. The history records the deep feeling of affection all had for this remarkable lady. "To show our appreciation for the fine morale she established in the house, her thoughtfulness and genuine interest in all of the girls and Kappa, her cultural attributes which were realized on the campus as well as in the house, we all put our hearts and souls into the reception given for Mrs. Leekley." A "substantial" check was presented to her as tangible evidence of their esteem. Money was also set aside and named the "Leekley Loan Fund." The fund, to be used for small emergency loans is administered by Irene Hazlett Saling.

In March, 1957 it was Gamma Mu's pleasure to hostess the Iota Province Convention. The experience was memorable for the actives and alumnae in the area. Working together on a project of this size acquainted them with one another and marked the beginning of a fine new relationship between the two. 1957 was a banner year. In addition to seeing our team play in the Rose Bowl and hostessing Province Convention, Gamma Mu achieved the top place for the entire year in scholarship at OSU, and Carolyn Rice was chosen as one of the ten best-dressed girls in the nation by Glamour Magazine.

During the spring of 1962, the final stages of the long-term remodeling program started. After an extended period of planning, the house that had accommodated 45 inadequately was enlarged to house 55 adequately. It was felt that this addition would more than cover the average yearly occupancy and would afford more square feet per girl than any house on campus. The remodeling costs were close to $100,000. For this amount the following was accomplished: two small corner properties were purchased and offstreet parking provided, closet space per girl was doubled, new guest and kitchen facilities were built, the entire house was rewired, more study rooms and a sleeping porch on the second floor became a reality, a second floor lounge was included and was attractively furnished by the Portland Mother's Club, new bath facilities and an ironing room were made possible, and a sundeck was added above the existing three stories with access up a regulation stairway. Probably the most convenient improvement made was the addition of a stairway that extends from the laundry area in the basement to the third floor. The major part of the first floor was redecorated, a patio was added off the dining room with some landscaping. It is satisfying to look at what has been accomplished. It is a laudable example of the joint efforts of our national leadership, our house board, and the actives for a job well done.

During the winter term of 1964, Gamma Mu was overjoyed to have such distinguished visitors as Mary Turner Whitney, then Fraternity President, and our remarkable Executive Secretary, Clara O. Pierce.

The faith of those undergraduates who signed "on the dotted line" in 1923 was not misplaced, for through the years capable hands have guided the affairs of Gamma Mu. The present house is indeed a "castle" compared to Gamma Iota's original house which they purchased with their hard-earned $1,000 as a down payment. And the recent renovation of the house is a far cry from the do-it-yourself efforts on the sleeping porch in the Gamma Iota days. The original charter group of 27 are perhaps astonished to think of the growth of their small group to the present membership of 85, and of the growth of the campus from 3,138 at the time of their installation, to an enrollment of 11,900 in the fall of 1965.

Changes are coming fast. Recently the Chancellor's Office has committed funds to pay the summer tuition of a limited number of OSU students who are eligible to attend fall term but who chose to attend on a winter, spring, summer schedule. This program, which has been called "Operation Fallout," is just getting off the ground. Perhaps, now, we will be faced with new problems involved in a continual year around program.

And now, to face the challenges of a growing and changing campus, we have more alumnae "woman power" to fill the position on Advisory and House Boards, for Corvallis, too, has grown, and new and welcome Kappa faces are the happy result. Gamma Mu has benefited tremendously in recent years from the efforts of these new alumnae whose enthusiasm and wealth of new ideas have given added spark and esprit de corps to advisory-active relations. Fortunate, indeed, is the "alum" who lives in this area and who has the opportunity to work with the girls in the chapter today.

This is our year

Maintaining Kappa's record of leadership at OSU provides a real challenge. But there is ample evidence that the present chapter is rising to the occasion with purposeful enthusiasm.

The fall pledge class is a testimony to this fact, for Gamma Mu's first efforts this school year were directed to preparations for rush. The theme, "The 1800's" was carried out with gay red, white, and blue decorations and with costumes consisting of floor length skirts, ruffy blouses, and black cameo name tags worn at the throat. On September 14, the happy, hectic days came to a climax as Gamma Mu pledged 30 girls.

After a few days' respite, it was time to settle down to school work. As in the formative years of Gamma Mu, scholarship remains a concern of the greatest importance. Gamma Mu's scholastic prowess has been impressive through the years. During the period of 1940-1958, it experienced a veritable "Golden Age." For sixteen of those eighteen years, the chapter ranked third and above, having achieved first place on the campus for seven years, second for five. From 1950-52, the girls of Gamma Mu established a truly remarkable record; that of being first for six consecutive quarters, during five of which the chapter average was 3.00 ("B") and above!!

The present chapter hopes to make a beginning on a second "Golden Age." The scholarship committee is hard at work to help the chapter make this hope a reality. Scholastic endeavor is given added emphasis by holding scholarship banquets each term at which recognition is given to the most outstanding member of each class and to those with the greatest improvement. A cup, given in honor of Blanche Hinman Smith, also is awarded at this dinner. Last spring quarter found Kappa ranked in third position. The elusive first place, it is hoped, will be reached during 1965-66.

Reaching this goal will be difficult, because the loss of three exceptional seniors will be keenly felt. These girls, Carrie Case, Zelma Reed, and Nancy Austin were the three top senior women scholastically in the 1965 graduating class. They each earned a straight 4.00 grade point average during winter term and graduated with accumulative gpa's for four years of 3.82, 3.72 and 3.69 respectively! To anyone's knowledge, this was the first time in the history of Oregon State that the three top women students on campus all came from the same house. High scholarship was by no means their only contribution—all three were members of Mortar Board. Zelma, besides many campus activities, served as the very capable Chapter President; Nancy held the presidency of AWS; and Carrie brought innumerable honors to herself and to the chapter by participating in a wide range of activities. She was on the 1964-65 Rally Squad; she was chosen Homecoming Queen, Winter Carnival Queen, and honored nationally in the National College Queen contest in which she was chosen first runner-up. Because of her many outstanding contributions to OSU, Carrie is the only girl ever to win both the coveted Chi Omega and Drusilla Shepard Awards. To recognize the remarkable preeminence of these three, the alumnae tapped them for HOO'S HOO, a new club, and presented them with scrolls, sterling silver owl charms, and owl glasses.

Gamma Mu claims many other outstanding girls, as well. Prominent among these are Nancy Rugg, Mortar Board and second Vice-President of the Student Body, Mary Sue Williams, Sharon Erickson, Sue Cherry, Glenda Zelinski and Mary Coman, members of A Λ Δ (Freshman scholastic honorary), Barbara Long and Marian Joiner, members of Talons (Sophomore Service Honorary), and Anne Manno, Sue Dawson, and Ingrid Isaksen, members of Euterpe (music). Ingrid, who is Chapter President this year, used her musical talents to win the title role in the OSU production of Little Mary Sunshine. Kappa holds the presidency of Panhellenic this year with Margy Summers taking over that important responsibility. Mary Carlin, was selected Academics Editor of the Beaver (yearbook), having served last year, as a freshman, as Club Section Editor. Joan Foote represents Kappa on the Rally Squad, following in the footsteps of Sally Mallicoat who was a Rally Girl during the 1964-65 season. Kappa beauty received a flattering share of recognition this year with many honored as Dream Girls, Ideal Girls and Sweethearts. Lynda Ellis was elected Prom Queen in an all student vote.

The Gamma Mus won a coveted place in the IFC Sing, an annual event during Mothers' Weekend. Dressed in bright green and white outfits, they sang a medley of Irish ballads in a special arrangement by Ingrid Isaksen.

The pledge class, too, was busy with its projects. At Christmas, it brightened the OSU campus as it "carolled" along the streets and at the fraternities. Also during winter term the pledges painted and redecored the phone booths at the chapter house. Showing a flare for decorating, they painted bright abstract flowers on the ceilings and added clever light fixtures to each.

A highlight of last year occurred during spring term when it was Gamma Mu's privilege to have the Panhellenic exchange student from Turkey, Ayse Kayman, as a resident of the Kappa Castle. A charming girl and a most interesting speaker, Ayse always had eager listeners when she spoke of life in her native land. Texas will become Ayse's next home when she attends school there.

It is easy to get submerged in the daily hectic hustle of college life, and lose sight momentarily of the experiences that probably will be best remembered. In the light of calm reflection, it is the traditions that stand out as most significant. Perhaps it is the aura of tradition that surrounds the Kappa Castle, itself, that makes Gamma Mu a tradition-minded chapter. There is something nostalgic about the firesides and the songs sung Gamma Mu fashion, the fall house dance with its "Garden of Blue," the Alumnae "Pie Party" for the pledges, or the Senior Dinner the alumnae give in the spring, the pledge "walk-in" breakfast for the actives, or their "walk-out" weekend together at the beach. Perhaps it is the turnabout dinner honoring our Beta houseboys, the Kite-Key Dance with the Thetas, or decorating the house together at Christmas that will be remembered.

Gamma Mu is proud indeed of her alumnae who have gone on to serve the Fraternity: Ona Carmine Kelley, past Iota Province Director of Chapters; Helen Leonard Frank, past Kappa Province Director of Chapters; Berniece Whittlesey, a past Travel Counselor, and Alice Fisher Summers, Iota Province Director of Chapters.

She is equally proud of others who have achieved impressive professional success. Gladys Miller, who played an extremely important part in Gamma Iota days, went on to achieve prominence as an interior decorator. She was in charge of renovating and decorating the historic Blair and Blair-Lee houses in Washington, D.C. She and her staff handled the interior planning of some 40,000 defense homes during the war. During this period, too, she decorated the New York and Los Angeles apartments of Mr. and Mrs. Charlton Heston, and the home of General and Mrs. Walter Bedell Smith in Washington. She is the author of four books on home decorating. One of her books, Decoratively Speaking, is used as a school textbook. She served as editor-in-chief of both New Homes Guide and Home Modernizing Guide magazines. Now retired and living in San Francisco, she serves as a consultant. She holds the Kappa Alumnae Achievement award.

Elaine Kollins Sewell Jones is prominent in the field of Public Relations in Los Angeles. As a Public Relations Counselor, she opened her own office in 1953 and has served a number of national and regional institutions and manufacturers, especially in the fields of corporate relations and development of both external and internal communication programs. She has received two "Lulu" awards for outstanding Public Relations programs undertaken in the 13 western states and has written a number of articles for magazines on architectural and design subjects. She is listed in Who's Who in Public Relations and is a member of the Public Relations Society of America.

Ruth Shellhorn Keuser, one of the winners of the Alumnae Achievement Awards at the 1960 Kappa Convention has achieved outstanding success in landscape architecture. She was the landscape architect for Disneyland, the Santa Monica Civic Auditorium, the Veteran's Hospital at Long Beach and Bullock's stores in Santa Ana, Pasadena, Palm Springs, Wilshire and the San Fernando Valley. She has won awards for professional landscaping and was named "Woman of the Year" by the Los Angeles Times.

Gamma Mu is justly proud, too, of Jerri Nibbler, who has just returned from Milagro, Ecuador, where she served two years in the Peace Corps. Her job there was to organize Home Economics courses for the women of Milagro.

In assessing Gamma Mu's record of success through the years, it is difficult to refrain from mentioning the names of those who have given such willing helping hands along the way. It is difficult, too, to refrain from mentioning the many, many outstanding girls, who, when "it was their year" came through with flying colors and gave Gamma Mu an amazing list of Mortar Boards, Girls of Achievement, student leaders, Kappa leaders, and scholars. These girls left a heritage of stability and sense of purpose which has made it possible for the present and future chapter to cope with the complexities inherent in this Age of Numbers.

So this is Gamma Mu's story—a continuing one of friendship and development in Kappa. Perhaps it will serve to impress all who follow with what was done for them—that the beautiful Castle with the letters KKG, would not be there if it had not been for unswerving loyalty to a goal and the unstinting effort to reach it. The founders are not, I'm sure, surprised at the record of accomplishment—if it were not so, it wouldn't be Kappa!

Spotlighting Kappas of note

Rising to the top

Karin Hurdstrom, B K-Idaho, a rising young opera star recently made her debut on the stage of New York's Town Hall where her recital brought high critical praise. Richard D. Freed wrote: "The material was well chosen and brilliantly sung. This was warm-hearted, totally committed singing by an artist as thoroughly inside her material as she is superbly equipped to project it." Following her triumph, Miss Hurdstrom appeared on concert stages in Washington, D.C., Pittsburgh and at Yale and Boston Universities. After her graduation from Idaho where she was a member of $\Phi B K$, Mortar Board, $\Sigma A I$ and one of the top ten in her graduating class, Miss Hurdstrom received her Master of Science degree from the Julliard School of Music. She began singing with the Robert Shaw Chorale and was awarded a Fulbright Scholarship for further study in Germany. From 1962-65 she has been a leading dramatic soprano with the Salzburg Landes Theatre. Reviews of her appearances on tour through Germany, Austria and Spain have brought resounding praise and predictions of a great future for this young Kappa. She is currently residing in Vienna, Austria, and is in rehearsal for a new opera, Idomeneo, after which she will have a spring concert tour of Germany.

Honored by state

Governor and Mrs. William Scranton of Pennsylvania greet Etta Oberholtzer Engle (right), B A-Pennsylvania, at the Distinguished Daughters of Pennsylvania annual luncheon. Mrs. Engle, one of six women chosen for this honor, was recognized for her contributions to local, state and national boards of public schools, mental health, library development, Red Cross and homemaker services. Last year she received the Benjamin Rush Award from the Dauphin County Medical Society for outstanding contributions to her community. Mrs. Engle has served as president of the Pennsylvania Division of the American Association of University Women.

In a man's world

Lucy Guild Toberman, $\Gamma \Xi$ -California at Los Angeles, was appointed by the Mayor of Los Angeles to represent the Social Service Commission of the City of Los Angeles on the Project Advisory committee of the Volunteer Health and Welfare Agencies of the United States of America. Mrs. Toberman met in New York City with the all male committee which included the attorney generals of many states. Mrs. Toberman is national publicity chairman of the Needlework Guild of America and heads her own public relations firm. She is the mother of five children, one of whom she adopted while in Europe as a foreign correspondent for the Los Angeles Daily News and assisting in the ceremonies connected with the giving of Kappa layettes donated to Norway at the request of Nora Waln.

Center: Bonnie Clark Barrett, Δ Ω -Fresno, was chosen as 1965-66 National Wine Queen. She is the wife of professional football player, Jan Barrett, who is with the Oakland, California Raiders. Her numerous queenships include the Cookery Queen of the National Sports and Boat Show in San Francisco last year.

Right: Eugenia Ferguson Stewart, Ω -Kansas, has been included in the 1966 edition of Outstanding Young Women in America, an annual biographical compilation of 6,000 outstanding young women in the nation between the ages of 21 and 36. Her many activities include the DAR, Kansas City Junior League and co-captain of the United Fund Campaign.

These alumnae honored by their communities

Texas Republicans gathered for an Appreciation Dinner and reception honoring Beryle Buckley Milburn, B Ξ -Texas, for her service to the Republican party. Senator John Tower, was the guest speaker at the event which cited Mrs. Milburn's concern and action against apathy. Since 1956, she has been a member of the Republican State executive committee, serving as secretary for the past two years. She has also played an important role in community affairs.

Elsie I. Sweeney, M-Butler, was presented with the Community Service Award of Columbus, Indiana, for outstanding contributions to the cultural development of the city. Her interests include membership in the National Council of the Metropolitan Opera Association and the executive committee, the National Federation of Music Clubs, the National Council of Churches' United Church Women's organization. She has been honored as the Columbus Senior Citizen of the year. Her showplace home, Castalia, was the recent setting for a luncheon gathering of members of the Metropolitan Opera National Council.

Amy Pitkin Stearns, B M-Colorado, was selected to receive the 1965 "Woman of the Year" award of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Denver. Mrs. Stearns' many community activities include vice-president of the Denver Symphony Society, past president of the Junior League of Denver, the National Society of the Colonial Dames of America in Colorado. She was active in the restoration of the Hotel de Paris in Georgetown and the McAllister House in Colorado Springs. Mrs. Stearns is an honorary member of Δ K Γ , international honorary society of women educators. Her husband, Dr. Robert L. Stearns, is former president of the University of Colorado.

Her Kappa grand daughter Clerimond Haug McDaniel, Π Δ -California, accepted the pin for her. Four hundred members of 24 alumnae groups from Bakersfield to the Mexican border gathered for the occasion. Hazel Round Wagner, Δ Z-Colorado College, was the principal speaker and 12 fifty-year Kappas were honored.

Pledges and actives of Gamma Pi were honored at a homemade dessert hostessed by Tuscaloosa alumnae at the chapter house. San Francisco show

"Sail Along with KKG" was the theme of the San Francisco Bay Area Alumnae Founders' Day. Invitations picturing a full-rigged yacht with KKG pennant flying logged the Order of the Day.

First Port of Call: a look at the May T. Morrison Rehabilitation Center, a Kappa philanthropy in action. Second Port of Call: Luncheon at the St. Francis Yacht Club honored 50 year member Madeline Macy Benedict Gimbal, II^Δ-California. Actives put on a gay sketch followed by a show-stopping millinery parade by alumnae.

Lexington honors Elizabeth Park

Elizabeth Kimbrough Park, B X-Kentucky was named distinguished alumna of Beta Chi chapter for her contributions to the local and national organization.

Mary Turner Whitney, B P^Δ-Cincinnati, immediate past fraternity president, spoke at the Founders' Day banquet. Fifty year pins were presented to Anita Crabbe McCarthy and Mildred Taylor Dunlap, both B X-Kentucky.

A heart warming story of Wisconsin Kappas who have kept in touch through the years (49 of them, the graduation date was 1916) was sent to THE KEY by Mary Dupuy Bickel, H-Wisconsin.

Close friends through school, these girls were determined not to lose touch with each other after graduation. A round robin letter seemed to be the answer and Mrs. Bickel writes: "With the passing years our affection grew. How I wish that seniors in every Kappa house in the country would be as determined not to lose touch, and do as we did. The slight effort of writing a letter every month or so has repaid us a thousandfold. By this time there is nothing, I believe literally nothing, each would not do for any other if the need arose." For 49 years this letter has been a faithful if somewhat erratic contact, drawing the women close through their sharing of experiences ranging from the birth of the first baby to the first grandchildren.

Last May seven of the group gathered for a gala reunion, their third since graduation, at the home of Alice Bemis H'Doubler in Springfield, Missouri. "She," writes Mary Bickel, with her daughter Alice ('Hogan,' also an Eta Kappa) put on a house party to beat anything I ever attended—from cock-tails, as we arrived, on the wide, open veranda, to charming jaunts into the country, to the quail for breakfast the day of departure. All arranged and carried out with no apparent effort.

"On first walking into the room, a late comer, and not having seen the others for many years, I admit to a slight sense of shock, to thinking, 'Why, they're old ladies! They used to be my age!'—and then I saw myself in the mirror. We had wrinkles, and white hair (very becoming to some, not me), and maybe we had to straighten up a little upon rising from a chair. It was a shock. Three minutes later the impression of age had disappeared. The old-lady faces seemed merely masks, put on in fun and now discarded.

"Yet we could laugh at our age, as if to say, 'Look what we've come to! Isn't it ridiculous? We're 70.' I didn't hear one person moan about it. Instead we concentrated on hilarious reminiscence or, in quieter moments, expressions of love and sympathy. We were relaxed, and it was fun to recognize that this one or that had still the same little mannerisms, the same traits of character, she'd always had. One was still a talker, one a bit bossy, one a bit fussy about her clothes and one a bit careless (me)—just as we'd been when in school.

"The last night, telling ourselves how smart we'd been to have had the foresight to start that important 'Bird,' one of us said, 'We should do something tangible to celebrate our remarkable achievement. Here's an idea: I attended an alumnae meeting two weeks ago, in Madison, where they spoke of an active girl who may not be able to come back next year for lack of funds. How would it be to collect $10.00 from each of us . . . ?'

"So we did, and sent the $90.00 on to the alumna who has charge of those things. A small thing, to express our gratitude to life, and our devotion to each other.

"So, Kappas, take our advice: whether you're in or out of school, start a Round Robin with the friends you made there. You'll never have better or truer ones!

"And don't let the bird die. Pick it up, dust it off, mend its broken wing and send it off again. In 20 years, or 49, you'll know what I mean."

Alumnactivity

Commonwealth alumnæ, under the direction of Laura Johnson Osswald, B N-Ohio State, Rehabilitation chairman, made a number of useful articles for the physically handicapped who are learning to be independent in self care. The articles were presented to hospitals in Jamaica Plains and Cambridge. Left to right: Mary Kay Evans Eyerman, B N-Ohio State; Dorothy Riggs Stickley, B P^A-Cincinnati; Louise Priest Card, Δ M-Connecticut; Laura Johnson Osswald; Nancy Needham Merrill, B B-St. Lawrence; Donnilea Smith Marshall, B T-Syracuse, president.

"Kappa has never stood still. She has moved with the times, yet holds to the same ideals as those envisioned by the Founders. Her strength is in her well-informed alumnæ and increasing alumnæ membership." . . . quote from the La Jolla Alumnæ Association letter to alumnæ. From the letters that come to your editor, it is apparent that alumnæ are indeed moving with the times . . . programs are thought provoking, projects are planned for fun (and funds) in an exciting array of ideas. THE KEY tries to cover each association that sends news . . . remember, activities of your group may mean a successful idea for someone else.

Ways that mean a lot . . .

Going, going . . . gone! El Paso alumnæ prepare their specialities in the food line and bring them to a Food Auction. Beverages are served with sandwiches and cookies and the specialities are auctioned off. Members may bring two guests to this gay event. . . . In Tulsa, alumnæ have an opportunity to sell decorator fabrics at a fraction of cost, the percentage of profits going to the treasury. Alumnæ also planned the first Fraternity Hootenanny in the area.

Candles light the way . . . Winter Park Kappas hold a "candle coffee," sell unusual candles and holders, serve refreshments to guests and buyers. Proceeds go to the Brace Fund of Cerebral Palsy.

Keep Klean Garages means the fall rummage sale of the St. Louis Association that members look forward to each year. . . . A Progressive luncheon for 200 was the feat accomplished by Kappas in the San Mateo Association. The highly successful Cook's Tour and Cook Book contributed double the usual amount to the School for the Deaf and to Delta Chi Chapter, San Jose State.

"Komo Mai, Nou Ka Hale"

(Come in, the house is yours) was the invitation to join activities of the Cleveland West Shore alumnæ. For a beginning the group planned Kau-Kau (food a-plenty) catered by Kappas and a show of puppetry by Shirley "Sherry" Spring Foecking, Γ Θ-Drake.

Nancy Gaddis Newell, and Agnes Park Faunsaugh, both P^A-Ohio Wesleyan. Oklahoma City Kappas hold a coffee for Newcomers to welcome alumnæ new in the city and recent graduates. . . . Interiors were the subject of the dinner program sponsored by Syracuse alumnæ. . . . Montgomery was hostess to the actives returning to college at an informal fall party. . . . The Mexican Fiesta of the Pasadena alumnæ featured Mexican food, decor, and music sung by

"Dear Foster Mother" reads the letter from Maria Rosaria Frunzio, adopted foster-daughter of the Cleveland West Shore alumnæ, "I inform you I have received your nice parcel . . . I do not know how to thank you enough for your good heart towards me . . ." Alumnæ are thrilled with their 13-year-old "Italian daughter" from Fogia, who they report is grateful for her "parents" but finds it difficult to understand why there are so many of them. This group also gives two Kappa scholarships and helps send a student to Ohio University.

Juan Mijares. . . Mr. Keith W. Hardy, executive director of the United Cerebral Palsy Association of St. Louis was the featured speaker at the St. Louis group's coffee to honor all new Kappas in the area.

Mr. Hardy is the husband of Mary Edna Barker Hardy, Γ I-Washington U. Austin Kappas and alumnae met on the Texas campus for an early fall brunch. Bloomington (Illinois) alumnae met for a Homecoming Spread at the newly finished Illinois Wesleyan chapter house. . . . Robert L. Koepfel, husband of Phyllis Gautier Koepfel, Δ K-U. of Miami, and Public Defender for Dade County, a recently created position there, was the featured speaker for Miami, Florida alumnae.

Exciting venture

Proud of their recent undertaking are Houston alumnae who sponsored a three week course on a scholarship basis to 30 teachers in the Houston Independent School District and neighboring districts in Harris County. The Kappas brought Dr. Walter Barbe to the University of Houston to teach the course on the "Challenges of the Gifted," and paid for the 30 scholarships. Dr. Barbe, formerly Director of Special Education at Kent State University, Kent, Ohio, is now associate Editor of Highlights for Children magazine. In the Spring, the Houston Kappas and the Texas State Teachers' Association brought Dr. Elizabeth Drews to the Houston area. Dr. Drews is Professor of Special Education at Michigan State University. The Kappas sponsored Dr. Drews to work with a group of gifted students and to tape two telecasts with these students. The telecasts have been shown to teachers in the Houston area.

Thank you, Miami

The Miami Easter Seal Society awarded a Certificate of Appreciation to the Miami Alumnae Association for their work with the "Happy Thursday Club." Ruth Lige Breeding, Δ-Indiana, philanthropy chairman accepted the award on behalf of the Association. Once a month Ruth and several other Kappas plan games and activities, prepare food for a group of handicapped adults at the Rehabilitation Center.

Kappa house shower given by Baton Rouge

Discovering the need for such essentials as thumb tacks, fireplace wood, fly swatters and laundry bags (to mention a few) at the Delta Iota house, the Kappa alumna hosted a shower as one of their monthly meetings. Clever idea . . . the Kappa House Bag.

Pasadena day to remember Cordon-Bleu print dinner

Gourmet secrets were divulged by renowned Monsieur Watkins, chef de cuisine of the Huntington-Sheraton Hotel to enthusiastic Kappas and guests, at a benefit for the Child Guidance Center and the Pasadena Day Nursery as well as Kappa philanthropies.

Marian Manners of the Los Angeles Times was commentator for the cooking instructions entitled Cordon-Bleu Print for Thanksgiving. For extra fare, fashions for holiday entertaining were shown during the brunch hour while music was provided by a noted Flamenco guitarist.

Ft. Worth scores success with children's show

"Kiddie Karnival," a fashion show sponsored by Fort Worth Kappas combines two sure-fire ingredients for success—children and a worthy cause. Using members' children to model delightful moppet clothes, the Kappas staged a successful fashion show, giving the proceeds to the Blind Children's Service Center. Refreshments included child-sized gingerbread men and decorations were all with a children's theme.

Country store day for Portland

Delightful shopping at the Oswego Country Store, luncheon and free baby sitting (provided by the Kappa Juniors) all add up to a successful benefit given by the Portland alumnae. The proceeds go to the Rehabilitation Center.

Hartford makes hand puppets

Each child admitted to the Hartford Hospital is given a hand puppet of his own, the work of Hartford Kappas. Kits are provided by the Rehabilitation Center. Plans for the year include a joint meeting with Kappa Alpha Theta alumnae.

Southern New Jersey alumnae held their third annual Candle Sale Coffee, proceeds going to support a scholarship. Left to right: Jean Hoffman Read, Ω -Kansas; Alice Webbe Johnson, B A-Pennsylvania; Judith Ross Hammond, B M-Colorado and Marjorie Roberts Pursell, B A-Pennsylvania.

Gifts for Hale Mohalu

Hawaii Kappas provide Christmas gifts for the patients at the Hansen's Disease Hospital, Hale Mohalu. Emily Lonabaugh Ewing, Γ O-Wyoming, is president of the Panhellenic of Hawaii this year. Kappas boast more paid members than any other alumnae group on the islands.

"Kappa Campaign" in Springfield, Missouri

Finding new Kappas in the area via the "Kappa Campaign" sparked such enthusiasm in the Springfield group that the members went on to begin a money raising project . . . Kappa Bridge Days.

Northern Virginia's "Kappa Christmas Shoppe" organized by Molly Cowan Cromwell, H-Wisconsin, offered the hand block print items including scarves, pinafores, place mats, stationery, of Eddie Lou Kinser, I-DePauw, which supplies shops in Virginia, Washington, D.C. and New York. Boutique items were also on sale. Left to right: Darlene Wegener Cars, B P^A-Cincinnati; Molly Cromwell; Eddie Kinser and Margaret King Dingleberry, B B^A-St. Lawrence.

A word or two

When Madison-St. Clair County alumnae celebrated the first birthday of their Club, 21 members from 11 different chapters attended. . . . Lehigh Valley Kappas make items for Kappa Creations sale, which benefits the Hemophilia Society. . . . A "Green Tea" for Kappas and guests held by Fairfield County alumnae. . . . Dayton with husbands enjoys gala champagne-buffet. . . . "Kurls, Kombs, Glamour," a talk and demonstration by Stephens College fashion instructor is planned for Columbia, Missouri alumnae.

They've given Cinderella a key

next day's deadline—perhaps as late as noon—when it would be revealed she was missing.

Those for the new hours say that in most cases a search would be started by early morning if a girl has not come in; rarely would it be delayed until noon. They do not feel that actually this type of danger is too great (communities differ in this regard), but point out that there is danger of accidents when cars must speed home, trying to reach there before curfew. Particularly in schools in or near a metropolitan area, it is safer to be able to proceed at a reasonable pace after a play or concert. They add that many girls do find the new hours useful almost solely for many such short-time purposes.

As for scholarship, those who are against the new freedom believe lower scholarship is apt to result due to a girl's inability to handle her time wisely. Indeed, they remark, you see few girls using the university library under the new, midnight hours!

Those who approve the new freedom agree with the college president who opined that students can't be doing all the wrong things the critics impute to them or their scholarship wouldn't be so high. There are also those who feel that by her junior year a girl knows where she is going, knows what studying it takes to stay in school, and isn't about to throw it all away by staying out all night too often.

Moving on to the question of self-discipline, those who oppose the new freedom worry about the immature girl who is not able to handle herself or her problems. They also think the more mature girl will benefit by having rules, and they are concerned about the responsibility adults should take in setting high standards and helping young people to live up to them.

They believe (and some campus studies confirm this) that girls welcome reasonable restrictions. A few girls have expressed themselves as appreciating the stand their parents have taken in refusing to approve senior keys for them. Besides, having rules makes it simple to get home on time, thus preventing arguments with dates, who, under an extended-hours plan, may have other ideas.

Also, there are parents who feel that under liberalized hours temptations are created which need not be. On arriving at college, a girl may have standards which she thinks she believes in, only to become more and more confused as she is subjected to group pressure. Confronted with the opportunity to stay out all night, she may begin to wonder what really is right and may find herself further away than ever from being able to exercise mature judgment. Such parents believe it is the university's responsibility to keep a firm hand on things as the young person struggles toward maturity.

Those in favor of more freedom come back with the thought that if young people are treated as responsible adults they will act accordingly. If they are trusted by parents and others, they will respond with trust. They feel that young people mature and grow with privileges and that the purpose of college is to give impetus to growing-up as well as to getting an education. They deplore what they consider a trend to prolong adolescence. They point out that extension of hours works both ways; once the novelty of senior keys has worn off, many girls set earlier hours for themselves rather than later, come in before they would have on regular university curfew. This they regard as self-discipline at its best.

Some living units say they notice that the new policy has helped develop responsibility in the leadership. Freedom with responsibility is the key word, and the thought is that the senior year is the time to introduce this. When a girl graduates from college, she is on her own, and the year before she gets out is the best trial time for her to regulate her own hours without sacrificing the benefits of organized, supervised housing.

But, as one student newspaper editorialized, what the opponents of more liberal hours are really worried about is sex, though no one wants to admit it.

These opponents ask: Where can you go that's respectable in the wee hours of the night? They suspect that many who follow the letter of the law regarding their senior

CAMPUS HIGHLIGHTS

Two members of Δ Π -Tulsa, are typical of the many Kappas being honored in the 1966 Mid-Winter issue of The Key for their membership in Mortar Board and other service and honorary organizations. Sally Smith (left) is vice-president of Mortar Board. Her other activities include being co-editor of the college yearbook, an officer in Angel Flight, vice-president of the Student Senate, and Most Outstanding Junior Girl on campus. Cherie Jo Perrault (right) is secretary of Mortar Board, treasurer of Angel Flight, and president of her chapter. Both girls were named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities last fall.

Kappas Contribute to Medical Research

Sally Shipman with Epsilon house director Mrs. Mary Lou Huffman.

Nebby Barr gives blood while Lambda Province Director of Chapters watches.

Jean Jones, with Jacob Lohr, senior medical student and Infectious Disease Study Fellow.

From Jacob A. Lohr, of the School of Medicine at the University of North Carolina, THE KEY has learned of an unusual project at the University of North Carolina. Members of E Γ have volunteered their services for a year to aid doctors doing a study of respiratory disease in college students.

Each month the girls' throats are cultured for organisms, and every two months blood is drawn from them for antibody studies. In addition, they keep a day-to-day record of any symptoms of respiratory illness.

The purpose behind this project is to determine what sort of organisms are causing student respiratory illnesses. However, this knowledge alone would be insignificant without simultaneous studies of healthy students (in this case, the Kappas) in order to see what organisms reside in the healthy respiratory tract.

The study is being conducted by the Infectious Disease Laboratory of the Department of Pediatrics of the School of Medicine at the University of North Carolina.

roundup of chapter news

ABROAD

Word has come of many Kappas who are either studying abroad or have recently returned from classes on foreign campuses. The Editor hopes this column may become a regular exchange of information and thoughts about the differences in the American and foreign campus. She asks that THE KEY be kept informed of the names and addresses of members "abroad" so that this column may serve also as an address book for the actives on foreign soil. If friendships are fostered with Kappas found during your study months write THE KEY.

Katherine Johnson and Jean Simmons, both I-DePauw, are studying at DePauw's campus in Freiburg, Germany this year. Last year Martha Marsden and Patricia Beadles were there. . . .

Sandy Hadley, I-DePauw, is studying independently in Mexico as is Mickey Laury, also I-DePauw. . . . Virginia Swain, I A-Middlebury, is working for her master's at Middlebury's Graduate School of French in Paris. . . . Lois Brady, I E-Pittsburgh, studied abroad last summer on a University of Pittsburgh Nationality Classrooms scholarship. While in Europe she studied art in Paris, France, Florence and near Salzburg. . . . and at least half of them from the United States. At Oxford you live in the college that you attend, so I had a private room, bath and sitting room in Exeter: built in 1314. She also reported an interesting custom at the college. The dining hall, designed in the 17th century, is where the students, tutors and deans have their meals. "The deans sit at high tables above the students, and in the course of each school session each student is invited to eat with the deans at the high table." She also mentioned that the students have a varied social life. Each dean entertains his students with a party or reception and the entire group was the guest of the rector (head of the college) at a formal reception. Nancy attended classes in British literature, history, politics and art, from 1870 to the present. There were two papers, no examinations and very little homework. She feels that students who attend Oxford must have the desire to learn for the student is on his own. . . . Mary McCaslin, Δ T-Southern California, is to study in Florence this spring. . . .

Prudence frugs at White House

A summer in the White House was a challenge presented to Prudence Mahaffey, B Ξ-Texas, as she officially punched in as secretary to W. Marvin Watson, special assistant to President Johnson. Prudence also spent the previous summer on Capitol Hill in the office of Congressman Wright Patman and in the State Department.

The weeks between June 5 and August 27 exploded into a whirl of new and memorable experiences, for Prudence worked, met the Astronauts McDivitt and White, did the 'frug' at Luci's party, brought the Christy Minstrels home with her, saw Oliver, went to the British Embassy in a long dress, canoed down the Potomac at sunset, ate barbecue with Senator Yarborough, saw Shady Grove's Funny Thing Happened on the Way To the Forum, Aida, Madame Butterfly, got an invitation to London for Christmas, attended the White House Festival of the Arts to see cuttings from Glass Menagerie, and Death of a Salesman, saw The Rose Tattoo at Olney; picnicked at Great Falls, Maryland, sat on the roof and watched the sun set over the city, climbed creaky stairs to a tiny theater over an insurance company to watch the Sartre's No Exit, hid behind a tree in the Rose Garden to watch the swearing in of 'Bozo McKee, Leroy Collins, John Gardner, Ambassador Lodge, and several others, watched numerous bill signings (this was certainly a record summer), spent a weekend in New York seeing Subject Was Roses, The Owl and the Pussycat, The Four Seasons, The Copa, and the Supremes, the Staten Island Ferry, two art museums and Central Park, rode home many times in the White House limousine, called John Chancellor, Ambassador Goldberg, and Leonard Marks to remind them of appointments with the President, chatted with the Vice-President almost every time he came in the office, cried to Maurice Chevalier at the Shoreham when he sang, Oh, Yes, I Remember It Well, attended a small tea given by Mrs. Johnson for the Barcelona Tuna, watched the President play baseball with a two year old baby—Courtney Lynda Valenti, . . . and climaxed the summer with a ride home on Air Force One.

keys are at the same time morally abusing the trust extended to them. For this reason they believe that no matter how sincerely rules are set up, they are just not effective and actually, as times wears on, may be ignored, even by leadership in housing units, so that no-hours becomes exactly that, with no-questions asked.

They also point out: Come the night of a big dance—all senior keys are in use. For any good purpose? They fear not. Even if the original purpose in staying out all night is innocent, the whole procedure can only open the door to other problems.

Particularly in schools where supervision is almost nil, all sort of shenanigans turn up: senior keys become in effect house keys; keys are lost, loaned or duplicated; underclassmen go on double dates with seniors and come in late with them. Although schools believe only a small number of students abuse the privileges, opponents believe that misuses are just not reported so that actually there is no deterrent on conduct at all.

No deterrent, that is, except the girl's own character, reply those on the other side of the fence, who believe that a girl's moral standards will be set by the time she is a senior and if they are not, whether she has a house key or not isn't going to make any difference. Anyway, they say, immoral acts can be (and are) committed before 1 or 2 A.M. as well as later. A girl without proper standards is the one who is probably already breaking rules in the schools with curfews. They continue by saying that you can't legislate morality, no matter how you try.

As for the universities, they suggest that under senior keys, with its check on violations, it is easier to spot the girls with problems who need guidance and help. This they do and then try to help them.

Finally a senior comments: No hours does not mean no morals. I use my key, but this does not change my standards.

In all this, which side is right? The comments go on and on as the question remains the same: Was Cinderella lucky to have a fairy godmother to set a curfew, or would Cinderella be better off, key in hand, today?

“... the greatest of all sororities”

Epsilon Zeta Chapter at the Florida State University is happy to share this letter written to one of their pledges by her father just after she had been pinned with the Sigma in Delta pin.

“Hi Darling,

“I know you must be the happiest and proudest of all. The congratulations are, of course, to you in being a pledge of the very greatest of all sororities, but then again, congratulations to all those wonderful Kappa gals for their selection, as I know that not only for the present, but for life, you will make them proud of their choice.

“The associations and friendships you are about to make will be something you have never experienced before. This is not just the girl across the street, another roommate, or a school playmate. This is a bond that will live from this moment forward. Some of these feelings you already know—as you opened your bid, as you were escorted to the house, and, especially, when you said the Creed. The greatest and most sincere is yet to come. That being the day you are initiated and Kappa Kappa Gamma accepts you as a ‘sister in the bond.’ It couldn't happen to a more wonderful daughter. Just one more thing in your life that I can be extremely proud of.

My love to you,

Daddy”

do occasionally voice an opinion. "The Greeks are 'cold,'" they say. Or one girl said they are "calculating politicians." In my opinion they are people who have had a taste of the game of getting ahead and can use resourceful and timely policies.

I lived in an independent house for a semester so I am speaking from experience. Closeness and enthusiasm are just not there. Everyone seems to be going in sixty-seven different directions. Organizing functions is hard. When someone pledges a sorority, interest and enthusiasm are pledged also. Pledging begins with a purpose and this purpose is to be carried out. An independent house is a place to live; a sorority is a place to grow. A place to grow to face life.

By means of Interfraternity Council and Panhellenic a strong system can be formed. Their interest in organization and the furthering of strong interfraternity relations makes the system as a whole firm. New chapters are founded every year. How can it be said that a system is dying or is outdated when more and more people are becoming interested in it? How can such a system fail to be important? It cannot. It is a very worthwhile system and one which enhances college life. To be sure, it's great to be a Greek!

This book can be your financial Declaration of Independence

Who says women are incapable of handling their own financial affairs?

Gustave Simons, nationally recognized legal and financial authority, proves that women are definitely capable . . . once they are shown the way. "What Every Woman Doesn't Know," now in its fifth printing, enumerates the questions most women ask themselves . . . and provides the simple answers in a clear and entertaining manner.

HERE ARE SOME OF THE QUESTIONS:

- "How can I get the most insurance coverage for the least money?"
- "If I get a job, what are the risks, advantages, disadvantages?"
- "What kind of investments are best for a teacher, a librarian, a woman in the retail trades?"
- "What are the disadvantages of a wife named sole trustee for her husband's estate?"
- "What legal traps lie in store for women with respect to community property?"
- "How should I plan a career after years away from the business world?"

WHAT EVERY WOMAN DOESN'T KNOW by Gustave Simons

"The book delves into dozens of phases of finance, and the chapters on keeping records and banking alone make this book valuable to every woman."

—The Clubwoman (Federation of Women's Clubs)

"Canny advice for career women, wives, widows and divorcees on careers, investments, insurance, taxes, wills and so on."

—The Wall Street Journal

"A blessing for any and all women who need to understand business procedures and ways and means of handling finances . . . clear, uncomplicated, nontechnical."

—MARGARET RUDKIN, Pepperidge Farm
